Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The third week of camp started off with a BANG as this was the day that we celebrated the Fourth of July. Regular activities were held in the morning, and in the afternoon the Traditional Track Meet was held and the Green-Grey Captains were busy getting their members lined up for the different events. In the Junior Section, point winners were: Greens-Jimmy Reichenbach, Rick Kahn, Van Martin, Mark Hildebrandt, Ron Schorer, Tim Washburn, John Kelsch, Robbie Quinn, Nick Williamson, Ron Scherer, and Billy Bielby. The Grey point winners in the Junior Section were: Dan Scherer, Dave

Vineyard, Dobbin Dudley, Bill Otto, Dave Logie, Bobbie Moore, Paul Czarnanski, Brian Sayles. In this Section, the Greens won 62-57. In the Prep Section, the Greens also won, by a score of 78-62. The point winners for the Prep Greens were: Dave Peters, Bill Silver, Mike Cooper, Jim Case, Bob Cooper, Bruce Blumberg, Skip Sales, Phil Hayes, Bill Hickenlooper, Hugh Broder, Steve Strain, Bob Friesz, Chester Claudon, The Prep Grey winners were: Chuck Little, Fritz Poll, Chuck Gardella, Bob Weber, Roger Reichenbach, Greg Sayles, Barry Hull, George Lackey, William, Doug Elliott, Dave Livingston, Jack Borden. Mike

Earl, Rick Belsford, Ian Hamilton, Bob Smith, and John Jeliff. The Senior Grey winners were: Randy Tufts (with three firsts), Rick Gillett, Tighe Magnuson, Scott Cooper, Mark Vineyard, "Gib" Bushnell, Fred Schultz, Robin Holderman, David Oberhelman, Maurice Clark, Steve Armstrong, Stuart Waterson, Chris Hunkon. This is the day that Joe and Lew, our genial cooks, put on a real feast down by the shoreline. A fire is built down along the shore and the beef is slowly roasted on the "split". The relish trays were really works of art, done by Lew, and the thick cuts of beef in sandwiches were really something. Seconds and thirds and even fourths in some cases were given the boys. The menu consisted of Roast Beef Sandwiches (thick), relishes, Spaghetti, punch, and ice cream. After the meal feast was time for challenges between the cabins. At nine o'clock we all gathered on the shore down by the dock, and boys brought pillows and blankets so that they could watch the Annual Fireworks Display that has become a tradition here at Camp Charlevoix. After a song fest, led by John Gillette and Randy Hillman, the fireworks were shot off. It was a beautiful moonlight night, the lake calm, and several boats were anchored out in the bay. We see our display, and you could hear voices from across the bay from folks gathered along the shore. We are always happy to share this event with those friends around the lake and across from us on the Pointe. To close off the evening, each boy was given a box of 12 sparklers to use, and it is a glorious sight from out on the dock to look back and see 200 sparklers all lighted at once. The boys really enjoy this. It was a tired but happy group of campers that went to their cabins about ten forty-five after a most glorious Fourth.

We slept late on Tuesday morning, with breakfast at 9:15, and boys were still talking about the fireworks of the night before. Several trips to camp, with Cabin 9, Jay Helt, counselor, taking a riding trip. These boys were: Hugh Broder, Bobby Weber, Mark Herschede, Tom Smith, Roger Reichenbach, Bill Hickenlooper, and Chester Claudon. Mark Taylor, took his boys from cabin 8 on a hike over to Susan Lake and they stayed overnight. These boys were: Chuck Little, Jimmy Case, Bob Friesz, Steve Strain, David Peters, and Greg Sayles. Cabin 10, Grant Washburn's cabin, took a truck trip down to Young's State Park. These boys were: Bill Silver, Dan Noel, Barry Hull, Mike Cooper, Chip Ironside and Fred Poll. In the afternoon, our Intermediate Softball Team went down the lake to Camt, Sea Gull for a game, and our boys lost 17-2. Though we did lose, the boys had a lot of fun. Rusty Smith was the coach and the boys on the team were: Mike Zahn, Chuck Gardella, Phil Sheridan, Seth Taylor, Gary Fitchey, Bill Streator, Bruce Blumberg, Gary Blumberg, Dave Peters, Stuart Strain, and Steve Orr. In the evening the Juniors had a soccer game with the Greens winning, bringing the score at this time up to Greys-12, Greens-6. The Greens have taken the last six points and are making a remarkable comeback.

Wednesday morning came bright, warm, and sunny, another great day for camping. Cabin 11, Tom Kennedy, counselor, went on a horseback overnight. These boys were: George Lackey, Bill Carey, Skip Sales, Bruce Blumberg, Phil Hayes, Bob Lehnhard, and Chris Bushnell. Two of our Junior Cabins left over an overnight down at Young's State Park. Cabin 3, with Erv Krug as counselor, and Cabin 4 with Roger Back as counselor and Rusty Smith as Assistant, left camp in the afternoon by truck. The boys on this trip were: Tim Washburn, Rick Kahn, Dobbin Dudley, Dan Schorer, David Logie, David Vineyard, Mark Hildebrandt, Van Martin, David Williamson, John Kelsch, Bobby Moore, and Paul Czarnanski. We were hosts to the Senior Ball Team from Camp Sea Gull, and our boys won 30-14, with Doug Laing getting THREE HOME RUNS, one a Grand Slam home run. It was a very fine group of boys and men that Sea Gull sent over here and we enjoyed the afternoon a great deal. In the evening, the entire camp met in the Bigwan to see the color movie "Buccanner" with Charlton Heston. The boys enjoyed it.

Excitement was mounting for the Carnival on Saturday and though Thursday was a regular camp day, boys were making plans for their booths for Saturday's big day. On Thursday, Cabin 1 and 2, our smallest boys in camp, took a day trip to Charlevoix Beach. The men on the trip were: Dick Plank, Russ Washburn, Rick Hill, David Williamson, Tomkinson and Steve Powell. The boys were Nick Williamson, Jimmy Huddleston, Brad Mast, Billy Polaseky, Robbie Quinn, Jeff Windsor, Ron Scherer, Leon Szewalek, Billy Bielby, Jimmy Reichenbach, Billy Otto, and Brian Sayles. Cabin 12, with Charlie Sullivan as counselor, took a day canoe trip down the Jordan River, these boys being: Ken Mabbatt, Keith Smith, Colin Hamilton, Vernon Holderman, Steve Donovan, Scott Strawbridge, and Mark Chappuis. We sent our tennis team over to the Belvedere to play their team. Marc Taylor took the following boys: Seth Taylor, John Schallie, Dave Henderson, Phil Sheridan, Doug Laing, George Steinhart and John Martin. We lost the match 5 to 2. The boys put up a good fight, several of the matches going to three sets. This competition is very good for the boys, and they all enjoyed it very much. Each year, the boys elect a cabin representative who is on the Camper Council which decides where the chapel fund, the Carnival proceeds, and the Concession at the Rotary proceeds, are to go. This all goes to charity and the boys discuss suitable outlets within the cabin group and then report to the Council. The boys on the council from their respective cabins are: Jeff Windsor, Bryan Sayles, Tim Washburn, Van Martin, Jim Case, Hugh Broder, Barry Hull, Bob Lehnhard, Storny Holderman, Steve Orr, Gary Fitchey, John Thomas, Stuart Strain, Mark Holderman, Phil Salvatore, Dave Oberhelman, George Bushnell, and Randy Tufts. This is a great honor for these boys. In the evening, the Senior Section had a Green-Grey Soccer game which the Greys won, making the score at this time GREYS-13-GREENS-6.

On Friday the regular activities were held and boys were getting more excited about Carnival day.

Saturday dawned beautiful as a warm, sunny day and everyone was spending the morning getting ready for the Carnival. All morning boys were busy setting up the booths. The Smith's cabin was the center of all activity with Ruby having all things such as thumb tacks, scotch tape, crepe paper, prizes, tickets, etc., all lined up in boxes and ready for the cabins. The porch of the clubhouse was the sign painting department. Ruby never saw such activity going on. Boys were bappy and at three o'clock the CARNIVAL was started off with a belt. We had many visitors, and everyone had a great time. At five o'clock the event was over and the cabin having the most original booth was Cabin 3, Erv Krug and Steve Wardrop as counselors. This was the Snake Race. These little fellows in this cabin were: Tim Washburn, Rick Kahn, John Kelsch, Dan Scherer, David Logie, and David Vineyard. The cabin taking in the most tickets was Cabin 4, Roger Beck and Rusty Smith as Counselors. These boys were: Mark Hildebrandt, Van Martin, David Williamson, Dobbin Dudley, Bobby Moore, and Paul Czarnanski. These two cabins were awarded a watermelon as a prize. It was one of the finest Carnivals we have ever had and much of the credit should go to Bob Perry and his Committee. Ruby and Bob had it on. It was cleaned up, and the camp more looked its beautiful self. In the evening the entire camp saw the movie "Cheaper By the Dozen" with Clifton Webb and they had many loud laughs during the picture.

Sunday was another warm and sunny day. This whole week-end was perfect weather. We had many visitors at our Chapel Service in the woods. Jim Reiboser, Counselor for our older boys, was the speaker and gave us much to think about on "Brotherhood and Dependability". After dinner, the Camp Council met and decided upon the charities to which we will send our chapel collections this summer. All the cabin groups had discussed this fully. In the afternoon, the first MILE SWIM of the year was held and as it was Green-Grey competition, the boys were anxious to try for this honor. The teams having the most finish received the points in Green-Grey Competition. Tom Kennedy, Head of water-front, had boats stationed every hundred yards along the mile course, and it was a great sight to see all these boys swimming at one time. Forty-five boys accomplished this feat, and Mark Hildebrandt was the only Junior. The fastest times were: John Schallie, Randy Tufts, Phil Sheridan, Dick Edison, Others to finish were: Tommy Smith, Chris Claudon, Bill Silver, George Lackey, Skip Sales, Bruce Blumberg, Bob Lehnhard, Chris Bushnell, Keith Smilie, Colin Hamilton, Storny Holderman, Scott Strawbridge, Mark Chappuis, Brian Ingersoll, Kim Kuehn, Brian Ingersoll, Mike Korchmar, Steve Orr, Carl Levellyn, Gary Fitchey, (came in 5th). Still others: Jimmy Chalat, Dave Porter, Bard Dielman, Bill Streator, Chris Hunkon, Seth Taylor, Dave Fox, Karl Bowman, J. B. Smith, Fred Schultz, Peter Poll, Scott Cooper, Phil Salvatore, Tighe Magnuson, Bob Smith, Robin Holderman, Mike Fish, Mark Holderman, Steve Armstrong, Dave Oberhelman, Doug Elliott, Jack Borden, Mike Earl, Jim Kuehn, G. Bushnell, Stuart Waterson, Ian Hamilton, Dave Livingston, Maurice Clark, Scott Porter. CONGRATULATIONS TO THESE BOYS. In the evening, Vespers were held in the Indian Church at Greensky Hill. This is a little Indian Camp Grounds about a mile from here that is an Indian Church, Cemetery, and they have services there every Sunday morning. Bill Townsend, Director of

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fochtman and family of Elmhurst, Ill., visited recently with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Angus L. Fochtman, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Daltazar Ngayan left recently enroute to Groton, Conn. where he will attend U. S. Coast Guard Electronics School. They plan to visit friends in Detroit enroute east.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Supernaw and daughters, Martha and Marie, arrived Sunday to spend four days with his father, Frank Supernaw and Mrs. Supernaw with other relatives. They stopped here enroute home from a trip to Isle Royale.

William Seese and daughter, Patsy, left Tuesday for Royal Oak where they will attend funeral services for his stepfather, Charles Schwartz, who died unexpectedly Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Osborn had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Robb Hake of Schenectady, N.Y., who has spent several days here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Currie and family arrived from San Diego to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Young.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Allard had as guests her niece, Mrs. Richard Heidema and four children of Wyoming and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nickelson of Grand Rapids.

Activities, took the boys over in two groups, and Dick Wright, our genial tutor, gave the history of Greensky Hill and told the boys all about the area. Jim Reiboser played the organ for two hymns and this is one Vesper Service that the boys will never forget. It was most impressive and the boys hung onto every word that was said.

We are sorry that many of our boys will be leaving after one more week of camp, and we hope that they will return next year. O, yes, the Greens won two points, the Greys one point in the Mile Swim. Score now - Greys-16 Greens-11.

Please God, Help Us!

In every man's life there is a moment when he is inadequate to the forces he faces. At such a time only his moral integrity will sustain him.

Those who have based their lives on their own strength inevitably will face the time and the place when that strength is insufficient to the necessity of the moment. They will crumble unless they know that they are never alone... that there is a power that can and will help them, no matter how terrible the times.

The man who has learned to rely on God can draw from this source of never-failing power and with resurgent strength face his future, unafraid.

FASTBALL LEAGUE
In winning three games during the week, American Mold appears to have wrapped up the first round title. Their 6-0 record is going to be next to impossible to top, especially when their nearest foe, Lake Construction, already has lost two contests. Mold has only Olesons and Lake Construction standing between them and a perfect 8-0 first round record.

The Merchants drew praise from local fans for their fine week of play. They upset Lake Construction and with any luck, would have done the same to Mold. In the extra inning Mold game excitement reigned. In Mold's first inning Ken Balch and Bob Hitt homered to account for three runs and Mold appeared to be off and running. The Merchants scrapped for one run in the fourth only to see Ken Boss triple and score for Mold in the 5th. Joe Battle, Ed Kulik, and Skip Durrer hung together singles around an error for three Merchants runs in the sixth and a 4-4 game. Norm Helms and Jack Ingalls combined for a tally in the eighth and when Mold's first two men went out it appeared the Merchants were "in". Ken Balch, however, lifted a towering fly ball that the right fielder dropped with his back against the fence and Balch scored to tie the game and set the stage for Mold heroes in the ninth. Nate Boss bunted safely, Dave Smith legged out an infield hit. Then Des Milligan sent the large crowd and the winning run home with a line shot into the left field corner. The tension-packed contest was crisscrossed full of outstanding plays and close decisions. Order had to be restored several times.

The Merchants did catch the Lake Construction nine napping, and promptly woke them up with a 5-2 jolting. Losing pitcher Ted Potter allowed only two hits, but one was a key double by Norm Helms. Jack Ingalls pitched a tight three hitter with Rick Grunich's double the only extra base hit.

The USAF and Sonny Wright pushed Mold to the limit before falling 5-1. Nate Boss was four outs away from pitching a perfect game for Mold. A misque allowed the servicemen their first base runner in the sixth. In the seventh after two hits, Ken Balch and Dave Smith each had two hits for the winners while Fritz Puffpuff had two for the losers.

JUNIOR LEAGUE
A & W turned the tables on league leading Freedman, and dealt the Artcraft nine their first loss by a 6-4 score. Three sixth inning runs won it for the Root Beer Boys. Al Lusk pitched a three hitter for the win.

Barnard stepped into the winner's spotlight for the first time with a convincing 7-1 win over inconsistent Jerry's Golf. Gary Crain belted a neat one-hitter, with Dan McKenzie's single and the only base hit.

Earlier in the week Freedman bombed Barnard 13-5. Bruce Livingston and Al Seese led the winners assault, while Gary Crain had a home run in a losing cause.

PEANUT LEAGUE
The Tigers handled the young Dodgers in easy fashion winning 10-4. Bill Carey had a Tiger home run. Don Ward had a double and single for the Dodgers.

The Lions wasted little time in disposing the Astros blasting them 14-1. Kraag Lieberman had two Lion home runs. The Astros got untracked to defeat the Pirates 12-8. Pirate Ned Henley had a home run, but hitting honors went to Cub Paul Fiedorek who had a triple, double, and single. The Cards rang up a early lead on the Braves only to see it dwindle down to nearly nothing. The Braves rallied for four seventh inning runs and had the winning run on base when the Cardinals put a stop to things. Bob Deyoung had two Card hits, with several others chipping in with key run-producing safeties.

BLOOPER LEAGUE
In a spirited contest between Novak's Insurance and the Consumer Orphans, it took a late inning home run by Bill Carey to give Novak's the runs they needed to post a narrow 9-8 win. Earlier teammates Bill Lusk and Don Carey hammered round-trippers but, it took wasn't until the late innings that the typing and winning markers were scored. Wilkins, McNamara, and Lewis all contributed two hits apiece to the losers attack.

Ken's Dodge Service ripped Boyne City, scoring in every inning and posted a 20-4 win. Eldie Potter put on a hitting exhibition, smashing a home run, two triples and a double.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE
Paul Reed came from behind to post an impressive 11-3 win over Smith's Texaco Girls. Cell Doan had three straight hits for the winners. Sue Crain had two for the losers. Edwards had little trouble from the Dairy Queens winning 10-4. Mary Ingall's homered for Edwards.

Church Camp In Ellsworth

The Ped-Pad camp is in full swing. All of the scheduled weeks of camping have been filled. The bicycles and canoes will receive hundreds of hours of outdoor traveling. The counselor who will lead Ped-Pad is Dennis Elchenger. He is a graduate of Capital University and plans to enter the Seminary this Fall. He is a resident of Detroit.

The Lutheran Church of East Jordan is sponsoring this program for boys, with visions of having a girls program next year. A second person has been selected to help Dennis. His assistant's name is, Steve Benton, a graduate from Wayne State University.

Susan Freedman left Sunday for Grand Rapids where she joined a group of 18 western Michigan students for a trip to Southern France where they will study at Villard de Lans for the next five weeks as members of the Foreign Language League. They will also tour southern Europe and visit Geneva, Switzerland, for several days during the stay there. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Freedman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wood and son, Bradley, returned home last Thursday from Phoenix, Ariz., where they were called by the unexpected death of her mother, Mrs. A. D. McClain, on June 23. Mrs. McClain was well known here, having visited here many times.

ELLSWORTH NEWS

ROY STAUDENMEYER
LU 8-2499

Once again Charley Bennet comes to us with a fish story. Charley spends many hours on the lake and to the fish he must seem like a floating monolith. He claims that his favorite fishing spots are not living up to their normal number of fish. Charley is trying a new method and with success, but it constitutes exercise and Charley is one that does not wish to go overboard on this system. This new approach has helped to increase the number of fish he has caught. The present number of fish that has hit his hooks for this season is, 700. . . If must be the smoke from Charley's cigar that drifts into the fish eyes and he accidentally bumps into the hook. . .

THE FROST that hit this area July 8th did considerable damage to cultivated crops. Hit the hardest were corn, beans, and pickles. Larger acreages of damage were in corn, and it will be a week or so before it is known if the plant will survive. One farmer said, many of us would never think of shooting crabs or take part in other gambling games but his farming game is one of the largest legal gambling systems in the world.

Everyone enjoyed the arrangement of blue canterbury bells and white lilies in church Sunday morning from the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson.

Louis Edwards from our Iron-ton Jiffy Market, and sixteen Charlevoix Boy Scouts, spent last week in Preston, Ontario, Canada as guests of a Boy Scout Troop there. They camped out two days and were guests in the homes of their Boy Scouts and they also enjoyed one day visiting Niagara Falls. In two weeks the Preston Boy Scouts will be guests here of Mr. Edwards and his group. What a rewarding experience this all must be for each of them.

Wasn't it nice having our postmaster Roy Meyers on the front page last week? But we are all feeling sad about losing our local postoffice. It will take some time getting accustomed to a new way of mail service. We all extend our appreciation to Roy for his thirty one years of faithful service in our community and he has our best wishes in his future plans.

Talk of the Town

Historymobile Due Here Aug. 3-5

MR. AND MRS. HARRY BLUM on the deck of their 83-foot yacht Jonathon III in the Charlevoix Harbor.

A museum-on-wheels, the Michigan Historical Commission's new historymobile will be in Charlevoix Aug. 3-5. The historymobile will be in East Park for three days "to remind citizens of their Michigan heritage." Visiting hours will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

VALUED AT more than $50,000, the historymobile has been developed through the cooperation of Michigan businesses and industries, who contributed all the equipment and supplies.

The unique historymobile was invited to Charlevoix by the Chamber of Commerce, Dickens Study Club and Shakespeare Study Club.

A colorful diorama, prepared by the Exhibits Museum of the University of Michigan, begins the exhibit. The scene illustrates Michigan's first hunters killing a mastodon.

NEXT THE Kalamazoo Public Museum's display tells of the French era; and of the explorers, missionaries, and the fur trade.

The British era, 1660-1796, is summed up in the Mackinac Island State Park Commission's display, illustrating the construction of early British forts, and indicating the location of all British forts in Michigan.

Michigan Becomes American is the theme of the next display, prepared by the Michigan Historical Commission Museum. The exhibit highlights the American occupancy of Michigan in 1796 and our part in the War of 1812. Featured is the sword used by General Lewis Cass during that war.

A display prepared by the Detroit Historical Museum illustrates the territorial period when Michigan was acquired from the Indians through a series of treaties.

THE ROLE OF the Erie Canal and the early lake steamers to bring the settlers to Michigan is shown in the exhibit by the Grand Rapids Public Museum.

The Dearborn Historical Museum's display deals with Michigan statehood. Included is a bronze statue of Stevens T. Mason, our first governor.

The Cranbrook Institute of Science exhibit illustrates the story of the development of our state's mineral wealth.

The development of shipping on the Great Lakes is depicted in the display of the Dossin Great Lakes Museum. Highlighted is the pen used by President Eisenhower to sign the St. Lawrence Seaway bill.

NEXT IS the story of railroad development, illustrated with models and maps by the Detroit Historical Museum. This is followed by one which portrays Michigan's role in the Civil War. It features typical weapons and equipment, together with a map showing where our regiments originated. This display was prepared by the Fort Wayne Military Museum.

The colorful white pine era in our history is illustrated in a series of hand-tinted photographs. Featured is the original patent model for the great logging wheels which were produced in Manistee. The display was prepared by the Michigan Historical Commission Museum in cooperation with Hartwick Pine State Park and Manistee County Historical Museum.

The development of agriculture in Michigan is shown through the use of several scale model farm buildings and agricultural equipment in the display installed by the Michigan State University Museum. Early Michigan Industries is the topic for the second display prepared by the Grand Rapids Public Museum.

IT IS FOLLOWED by one depicting the development of the automobile industry and our highway system, installed by the Henry Ford Museum. Military items, an early radio, and model of a Ford Tri-Motor are among the items used by the Dearborn.

Warren Shadko Coast Guard Officer Grad

Coast Guard Lieutenant Warren J. Shadko, son of Gregory A. Shadko of 318 Meech St., Charlevoix, has graduated from the Senior Officers Course at the Coast Guard Reserve Training Center in Yorktown, Va. Upon completion of the two-week course, his annual active duty for training, he returned to his local Coast Guard Reserve unit.

Historical Museum to illustrate the story of World War I, the Roaring 20's, and the Depression.

The Arsenal of Democracy is the theme of the next display, prepared by the Michigan Historical Commission Museum. The exhibit stresses Michigan's home front efforts as well as military activity. The final display, which highlights major accomplishments since World War II, was prepared by the Michigan State University Museum.

Mrs. Robert Greidenstein and children, Linda and Rena, of Boyne City visited several days last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gill.

Ernest Sundling returned to Monte Sereno, Calif., after spending 10 days here with Mrs. Sundling and their two daughters who will remain for the summer.

Know Your Newspaper Better

Dear Editor: Now This Is What I Think!

Did you ever write a letter to the editor?

It's fun to see yourself in print. But actually, you're not writing to only the editor. If he prints your letter—and he probably will—you are really writing to all the thousands of readers of this newspaper. That's a substantial body of readers, but don't let that scare you... write as if you were talking to just one of them.

What Do You Write About?

Perhaps you are really mad at the editor and want to tell him off on some opinion he has voiced. Perhaps you can't contain yourself any longer on some important local issue. Perhaps you just like to sound off now and then on topics of current interest. Whatever you choose, the "letters to the editor" column is your opportunity to speak your opinions.

We Welcome Good Letters

In writing them, please follow the rules printed at the top of the letters column. These rules ask that you keep your letters reasonable in length, reasonable in tone... free of defamatory matter. Remember, the editor must "bail down" your letter if too long, and will take out statements that are libelous... even though the letter has your name printed underneath.

Plenty of Topics

It's really fun to write to the editor. We don't recommend that you become a "chronic" letter writer, but every now and then we'll be glad to hear from you... taxes, highways, elections, the legislature, streets, parks, schools, city government, accidents, safety, business... scores of things to write about!

WILD TURKEYS ON ISLAND -- Beaver Islanders are talking about an archery hunting season for these birds.

FRED ANNAND displays wild turkey eggs he took from an abandoned nest in a field that was being mowed near St. James, Beaver Island, last week. The adult turkeys had quit the nest when mowing started and did not return. Annand and Archie LaFreniere are trying to hatch the eggs in an improvised incubator. Annand is a Lansing, Mich., private investigator who summers on the island.

Outdoor Rambling

Beaver Island may have the distinction of offering most exotic hunting anywhere in Michigan if islanders can convince the state they're on the right track.

Can you imagine the drama and color that would be generated by an archery hunt for wild turkeys?

ARCHERS DECKED out in their stalking clothes are a colorful lot. Add to this the rainbow hues of a wild turkey and nature's colorful autumn pageant.

For drama we conjure of our image of American Indians hunting turkeys with bows and arrows for the Pilgrims first Thanksgiving. We also have the stealth that archers will need to get within range of a turkey and the subtle use of turkey calls.

If this doesn't add up to fodder for the national outdoor magazines nothing does. But is this only dreaming? It won't be if Archie LaFreniere and other island sportsmen can talk the state into letting them have a crack at making it a reality.

SEVERAL YEARS ago island sportsmen planted a few pen-raised wild turkeys from Pennsylvania. Today Archie estimates the flock at "well over 100" and growing every year. "They look real big, strong and healthy," he remarks. Islanders suspect the turkeys are feeding on juniper berries, which are abundant even in the worst of winters. "If they are, I think we have it made," Archie said.

Here's what Archie has in mind: Open a limited season--by special permit only--for archers. This would make it possible to control the number of birds killed so that the flock is not endangered.

STATE GAME biologist

would have to make a thorough study of the flock to determine how many permits should be issued. The department would then issue the permits at a drawing.

State game chief Harry Ruhl is said to be reluctant to recommend the archery turkey hunt for fear it would set a precedent that could put the Conservation Dept. on the spot in other areas.

Department game biologists who have studied the island turkey flock are thought to feel the hunt is biologically practical.

Islanders, however, don't appear to be pressing Ruhl to change his mind. They are hoping that by slowly building up evidence in favor of the hunt they can change his mind.

AS SOON AS warmer weather invades the island the wild turkeys will begin their mating ritual. The distinctive calls of gobblers will be heard as far as a mile away just before sunrise on mild, calm days.

Adult toms will strut their stuff to collect harems of from four to six hens. Each hen will lay 10-12 eggs sometime in May and hatch them in June. Up to half of the young poults will die by next fall. Those that survive will weigh 8-12 pounds by November.

A full grown (two years) gobbler weighs 15-20 pounds. Hens weigh 10-12 pounds.

COMPARED WITH the domestic type, the wild turkey has a smaller, more pointed head, a more slender body, and longer legs which give it a streamlined rather than plumpish look. Its tail feathers are tipped with dark brown, compared to the white tipping on domestic turkeys. The wild bird has a darker body, and at some distance or in deep shade, will appear black. Its body plumage also has a metallic iridescence lacking in the barnyard variety.

In sunlight, wild turkeys are a walking rainbow, with feathers reflecting various shades of red, bronze, blue, purple, green and brown.

Look Now for Corn Diseases

By ED REBMAN
Extension Director
BOYNE CITY--July is the time to look in your fields for the new corn virus disease.

Corn dwarf mosaic didn't reach Michigan last year but farmers should be on the lookout for this new corn disease. Faint yellow streaking of leaves, followed by reddish purple coloring and stunting of plants is a signal that the disease may have hit your farm. Contact the Charlevoix County Extension Service if you have suspicious plants in your field and they will be checked.

Michigan State University plant disease experts are making every effort to keep the disease from crossing into Michigan this year.

Virus-resistant inbreds of Michigan corn varieties may be available for planting in 1966. Few, if any, 1965 seeds have such resistance from the disease which could pose a real threat to the State's corn crop.

Joseph Olsen Awarded Albion Scholarship

Joseph A. Olsen, a 1965 Charlevoix High School honor graduate, is one of ten young men to receive Albion College Webster Scholarships.

Olsen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Olsen, Charlevoix. He will enter Albion College this September.

Webster Scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholarship, citizenship and activities. They vary in amount from $200 up, depending on the student's financial need.

The scholarships were established by the late William C. Webster, Albion college graduate of 1887.

Don't delay any longer! Change now to natural Gas heat!

The odds are 95 out of 100 that a simple unit like this can change your present furnace to Gas.

It's a conversion unit. And in about 4 hours it can be installed in your furnace so that your present furnace heats with Gas. There are very few exceptions where a unit like this can't be installed. Act now! Make this winter the most comfortable one of your life. And save money while you're being comfortable. Gas cuts fuel bills up to one-third. Remember. It only takes about 4 hours to install a conversion unit. Don't delay. Do it now. Call your heating contractor or Michigan Consolidated at 347-8701 in Petoskey.

We're All For It

AFTER MEETING Ironton's retiring postmaster Roy Meyers last week we had one regret: we wished we'd met him earlier.

If an editorial writer can get by with an understatement, let it be said Roy's philosophy that all young men between the ages of 21 and 31 shouldn't have to work appeals to us.

IT ALSO APPEALED to Henry David Thoreau, who wrote that we spend the "best part of one's life earning money in order to enjoy a questionable liberty during the least valuable part of it."

Thoreau, however, wasn't as practical as Ironton's postmaster.

While Thoreau rebelled at all civil authority and failed to give us a realistic formula for loafing during the fruit of our youth, Roy has come up with an answer.

Roy proposes the government subsidize the expenses of persons between 21 and 31 years old. This, as we all know, is the age when we could get the most mileage out of our retirement years.

THEN WHEN WE reached 65, if there was any pep left, we could work at reimbursing the government for what it spent on us during our youthful days of doing nothing.

Those who are immediately inclined to debunk Roy's proposal should take into consideration that government seems capable of doing everything else for us. Why not this?

The cynics in the crowd will of course point out that most of us would be so lazy by the time we were 31 we never would learn to be productive citizens. Consequently we would never earn enough to pay back in taxes what we had already received from the government.

The trouble with this point is that it is probably right.

REGARDLESS, IF Roy ever wants to run for President we'll back him. Dreamers don't come along every day. When one does it's shameful to pooh-poo him.

And here's hoping Roy enjoys every minute of his much postponed retirement. Unfortunately, while he's doing nothing the rest of us will have to continue our lives of quiet desperation.

A Big Job On His Hands

OUR CONGRATULATIONS to Ellsworth's new school superintendent Nelson Spoelman. Though we can't claim Spoelman as a close friend, our contacts with him lead us to believe he will do a commendable job of carrying on the fine work of former superintendent Jerry Albright.

A casual reader on finding that Ellsworth public schools have an enrollment of about 300 might be inclined to surmise that there isn't much to Spoelman's new job.

IF YOU'LL EXCUSE our English, they couldn't be wrong. Keeping the relatively large Charlevoix school district bottoms down might almost appear tame compared to the problems facing Spoelman.

While Charlevoix Public Schools has its headaches from time to time, there is no question that it's enrollment and tax base are healthy and that the district will continue to operate.

The very existence of the Ellsworth district is in question. Informed observers frankly admit (but seldom publicly) that Ellsworth cannot afford to operate a complete education system.

Ellsworth already has one of the highest school tax rates in this part of the State. Further, educators agree that even at its high tax rate the district is not providing as well-rounded an education as does the Charlevoix district and others.

The strongest argument for keeping the Ellsworth Community School District intact is that without a school district a small town's identity eventually becomes lost.

WITH THIS WE can only sympathize. We, too, feel part of the fiber is going out of rural Michigan with the departure of small, impractical, school districts.

However, we remain stumped for a solution. Money talks, and for some reason today's children simply must have all the frills it can buy in education.

Spoelman, if he is going to preserve the Ellsworth Community School District, has a battle on his hands that has been lost just about everywhere it has been fought. We, again, wish him the best of luck.

Do We Need Nightsticks?

WE READ IN THE big city papers that teenagers and the "college crowd" are getting out of hand throughout the nation. Horrors, but it seems that in some summer resort areas they have openly challenged police with violence.

Then the real shock comes: We find they defy our local policemen to catch them hot-rodding and hold beer-drinking brawls on our public beaches. Even more ghastly several policemen have had eggs and fruit thrown at their homes in obvious contempt for civil authority.

THOUGH THE Courier numbers Police Chief Joseph Smith and Sheriff Glenn Rose as its friends, we can no longer refrain from making an issue of these shocking incidents. We want something done.

It is obvious to us that Smith and Rose are not to be blamed. They are doing everything humanly possible with the resources given them by the political bodies that are in control.

Yet something has to be wrong when punk kids feel they have the right to sass a policeman. . . no matter who he is.

The crux of Charlevoix's problem evidently is not in Charlevoix. It is nationwide.

IS THE GREAT Society, with its promises of everything for nothing, breeding irresponsibility? Some say so.

Is our infatuation with producing "well-rounded" high school and college graduates taking the purpose out of young peoples' lives?

The Courier doesn't know. Like everyone else, we only have theories.

But we do know that it should stop in Charlevoix. If bringing it to a halt requires more policemen with heavy night sticks then that's the way we vote.

Two Couriers A Week

TWO DAYS AGO, Monday, July 12, the Courier published its first "Pictorial Playtime" edition. This, as far as we can determine, is the first time in Charlevoix's history that the town has had a bi-weekly newspaper. It also makes Charlevoix the only community of its size in the state with a newspaper that is published more than once a week.

Furthermore, we doubt there is a newspaper covering such a small community that is devoted so completely to local news. You will find that both the Monday edition and Wednesday (today's) edition of the Courier are filled with local news.

WE ARE STRIVING to make the Monday edition of the Courier as outstanding as the regular Wednesday edition, which last year was judged the finest weekly newspaper in northern Michigan by the Michigan Press Assn.

The Monday edition will be devoted solely to reporting news and advertising of specific interest to our summer visitors. The Wednesday edition will remain devoted to our year-round community.

If you have a message (advertising or news) for either our summer or year-round residents, remember the Courier is uniquely geared to deliver it.

odds

Been wondering about mail situation recently? I have for I depend on the mails for a lot of things other than the friendly letter I just mailed to my friend in Modjes, Wash., . . . and right now I want to register a complaint regarding it. . . . Our honorable postmaster, Dan Genett, says I'm screaming without reason. . . . But it's like this. . . . We got our mail into Charlevoix once a day now. . . . about 8 a.m. every day but Sunday. . . . And the mail leaves Charlevoix once each day. . . . with a deadline of approximately 5 p.m. . . . So if you've hopes of getting anything on its way any earlier than that you're just what known as H--- out of luck. . . .

And if you're lucky, the mail will be sorted and you'll get it the day it comes in. . . . But if there's a big load you'll get it at the regular time the following day. . . . I'm kidding. You watch the postmarks and see how long it takes. . . . Like five days to get a letter from New York City to 208 Nichols st. in Charlevoix. . . .

I have nothing against our own postoffice regarding this situation. . . . After all, they don't make the rules. . . . they simply live by them. . . . as they do by the motto of the U.S. Postal Service which reads thusly: "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds" . . . but you notice it doesn't say anything about the swiftness with which the mails will travel from one point to another. . . . like five days from New York to Charlevoix, first class, that is. . . . Wonder how much time a package would have taken? . . . And remember to get your mail to the P.O. before 5 p.m. or it will be bogged down right in Charlevoix until 5 p.m. 24 hours later.

And while it's getting harder and harder to get a letter out or in, it's getting easier to get passengers in and out. . . . especially over the weekend during the summer months. . . . Noticed in a Detroit paper that there is to be a summer air commuter service to area resorts including Charlevoix, departing from Detroit City Airport at 8:30 p.m. with stops at various resorts including Belle Isle and Harbor Springs. . . . The return flight on Sunday will depart here at 6 a.m. and stopovers at the above mentioned places, arrive in Detroit at 8:30 p.m. Not bad. . . . and it gives the commuter a full two days here.

AND SPEAKING of area resorts, Charlevoix was one of three northern Michigan resorts that got a mention in Time magazine's special story on "The Best Summer Resorts" . . . Summer in the U.S.A. under the magazine's heading of Modern Living. . . . It told of the old resorts, then the New England resorts and then, under a sub-heading "Up in Michigan" . . . "In days gone by, the rich of Chicago, Detroit and the rest of the Midwest solved their vacation problem simply by going to New England. But then they discovered some treasures of their own closer at hand, notably the northern tip of Michigan's lower peninsula, which jutted out between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron. The result was resorts like Charlevoix, Westport and Harbor Point. Often they are patterned after classic New England counterparts. They are family oriented, many elaborately unostentatious, and no effort is made to attract outsiders. . . . through sponsored families from as far away as St. Louis do not count as outsiders. Two of the choicest spots in the area are closely held, closely clubby resorts, both of which make an expensive fetish of informality. . . . Undoubtedly, leading Harbor Point and Debarate, a tiny village on the Canadian mainland across Lake Huron from Michigan rated special paragraphs. . . . and Harbor Point even rated a picture. . . .

And I'll bet my bottom dollar that everyone's wondering which of the two resorts warrant the description "closely held, closely clubby resorts; both of which make an expensive fetish of informality" . . . Remember, that description is the magazine's, not mine. . . . Wanna know what my guesses are? . . .

CHARLEVOIX County's doing OK in the beauty department this year, don't you think? Boyne City's Linda Hale was named National Cherry Queen, quite an honor for our county. . . . and isn't she a lovely, lovely queen with her blonde hair and blue eyes. . . . I'm sure she'll do well by us and by all northern Michigan. . . .

MISSED anything around the harbor recently? Come now, I'm sure you've noticed that the Sundew's been gone for weeks for the first time in its regular visit at the shipyards. . . . and it should be home by now if all went well. . . .

Detroit Meets Mr. Q

In Detroit last week the Free Press sent a reporter to interview a man whom Charlevoixians have long been proud to call a friend -- I. T. Quarnstrom (Mr. Q).

The Free Press found Mr. Q so interesting it ended up making him the feature story of its new "Detroit" magazine. The color picture on the cover of the flashy new magazine was devoted to the story Mr. Q and how he is rebuilding the fabulous Whittier Hotel.

MR. Q'S CHARLEVOIX operations may be considerably more humble (Water's Edge Resort and American Mold), but they certainly have had more impact on our community. Many credit Mr. Q with opening the door for the industrial development that has kept Charlevoix families working year-round. By opening the Mold plant here more than a dozen years ago he was the first major industrialist to express such confidence in Charlevoix. Others followed and now our economy is better than ever before.

Of course, Mr. Q wouldn't have located the Mold plant here if he didn't think it would pay off; but his closest associates tell us his final decision was made because he "fell in love with Charlevoix."

To say the least, Charlevoix long ago fell in love with Mr. Q.

After reading the following Free Press story Detroit has probably done the same.

By Jean Shorley
Free Press Staff Writer

The grass courtyard at the Whittier Hotel had long gone to dandelions, and it occurred to I. T. Quarnstrom, who lived in apartment 804, that if the fountain were ever to splash again, he'd have to buy the place and turn on the faucets. So he did. And now the fountain is bubbling.

He bought, 21 months ago and for a bit less than $3 million, an 800-room luxury complex comprising two eight-story units built in 1923 and a 15-story section added in 1928; the whole thing tarnished by years of neglect and said to be losing $25,000 a month. And he got, in the package, four decades of East Side Detroit nostalgia. The Whittier, from 1923 on, played it half beer, half champagne. A balance of well-bred permanence, genteel and transient; of debutante parties, dowry bridge and brass band; of theater greats and those still dreaming where Cornelia Otis Skinner asks for a room over the park so she can watch the kids play baseball; where Mae West, in cream satin, showed a transfixed newspaper photographer her method for firming the bosom with cocoa butter; the scene of sedate Thanksgiving family dinners and racing-day bedlam; with kitchens available upstairs and marble pillars downstairs.

Quarnstrom, an industrial millionaire, made no study of urban renewal prospects or East Jefferson traffic before buying the Whittier. He wanted the hotel in 1959 but waited until 1963. He sought no counsel, read no books on inn-keeping. He just listened to inner voices. "I more or less play everything by ear," he said. "I bought it because I wanted it. I got it at a very good price and the location is the best. I never thought there was too much wrong with Detroit."

The eight-acre, at 415 Burns Drive slope from East Jefferson to the Detroit River, provides the classic of state seats for Belle Isle and the Gold Cup Race, which inspired the Whittier's famous Gold Cup Room.

Across Burns, opposite the circular entrance, is Detroit's Memorial Park, a tranquil, uncluttered sweep of meadow with three picturesque apple trees worn shiny by ten thousand city mariners, and the newly risen Jeffersonian Apartments.

STROLLING ALONG a downtown street one noon in August, 1963, Mr. Q (as almost everybody calls him) matter-of-factly told his public relations man, a holdover from the former Whittier regime, about his plans for a swimming pool, roof restaurant, banquet hall, rose garden, serpentine brick wall, aluminum window sash, automatic elevators and other $885-frosted items. About $2 million worth he said.

"That's wonderful," Mr. Quarnstrom, said Max Gurman, drowning in hope, but not believing (he recalled later) a word of it. But sure enough. There we were in mid-May, 1965 -- Mr. Q, Max and I -- sitting at a poolside table in the cafe courtyard, eating Maurice salads and talking about how, when the elevator extensions are completed and the glass-walled Sky Room opened, people will dance above the table tops, looking up the river toward Lake St. Clair, down the river to the city's heart, across to Canada, and across the other way to Indian Village and to the site where Mr. Q made his first million.

The aluminum window frame, 1,521 in all -- are in; the serpentine brick face wiggles around a parking lot enlarged to 250 cars; the Gold Cup Room is newly gilded; the Crystal Room, flashing 36,000 Yugoslavian prisms and floored in teak wood, is open; the Coach Room is flourishing at the dinner hour; and at the end of a long scarlet carpeted hallway, you can buy a papaya massage or a Swedish sauna bath.

It is noisy beside Mr. Q's $125,000 pool, what with the fountain, the luncheon guests and the cash register. Mr. Q said, "I have a sound expert coming in from California." He teapots leak, and as he watched a pool or Orange Pekoe forming on the table, he appeared to be making a mental note.

"I want everything right," he said. "I could never understand the phrase good enough. I cannot accept compromise. A thing is either right and good or wrong. Teapots should not leak."

In 21 months, he said, Whittier business increased 100 percent. When a 10 percent rate increase went into effect for residents, many of whom had lived at the hotel for years.

I.T. Quarnstrom

Charlevoix's Friend

some left, most stayed. Half the Whittier's guests are permanent, some spending $1,000 a month for their river-view apartments.

A salesman coming into town overnight can get a single room for from $11 to $18; and chances are he'll sit on a chair handpicked by Mr. Q in Chicago. "I am not much of an interior decorator," Mr. Q said, "but my secretary is."

It is a strange new world for Quarnstrom and one he clings to since his wife, Daley, whom he married on May 15, 1932, died last fall. His first 41 years in Detroit were as an industrialist; he is the man credited with "propelling the arrival of the plastics age."

From a $15-a-month tool shop at St. Paul and Van Dyke, just a few blocks from the Whittier, he shaped the Detroit Mold Engineering Corp., a firm doing almost $9 million a year when he sold it to Vol-Shan Industries, Inc., of Los Angeles, in 1961.

He came to Detroit in 1924 from Borlange, Sweden, where his father was superintendent in a paper mill. He and his brother, Arthur, descended from "generations of mechanics," both became inventors; Arthur, who lives in Sweden, sold his patents for paper mill machinery to the Germans before World War II. "One foreign language was required in Swedish schools," Quarnstrom said. "I took German and went to the United States; Arthur took English and went to Germany." He took English at night school in Detroit, working days in a machine shop.

Swedish winters were much like those in Charlevoix, Mich., the town where Quarnstrom relaxes, moors his 50-foot sailing ketch, "My Dream," and runs a small summer resort, "Water's Edge."

When the bus stopped stopping in Charlevoix and Quarnstrom and his hunting friends and guests had no easy way to get there, he bought an airplane, a twin-engine Grumman Amphibian. Then he bought a Beech Super 18 and opened Quair Ways -- "the airline to anywhere." He bought two more airplanes for the Detroit City Airport stable and the charter business is booming; but that is another story.

Quarnstrom was manufacturing snow chains in Sweden when he decided to join two friends who had come to Detroit and fared well.

He began the Quarnstrom Tool Co. because he couldn't find a job. "I had $40 left after paying deposits to the telephone and light companies," he said. He thrived. "After 1938, I never laid a man off for lack of work."

The firm, on whose board he still serves, supplies 80 percent of the molds which form thousands of plastic products and component parts used around the world.

In 1940, Quarnstrom set about standardizing injection - molding and die - casting machines, a gigantic job. He found a score of base sizes that would fit 80 percent of the machines. The company expanded into Charlevoix, Mich., Clemens, Hillside, N.J., Youngwood, Pa., and Germany.

HE SOLD OUT in 1961, although retaining the presidency of the company until November, 1964. He said, "If I were 15 years younger, I'd tackle the standardization of size of steel bar, plate and rods." Instead he bought a hotel and began an airline.

At 65, he is gentle, courteous, restless, witty, good-humored. "I don't like stuffy people," he said. When a waitress forgot his tomato juice, he waited 10 minutes before reminding her. When she dumped his water glass, he helped her mop up.

"I don't like room service," he said, "so I make my own breakfast. It's very simple, you open a box of cornflakes, squeeze two oranges and put on a pot of coffee."

After his wife died, he began having dinner "downstairs," a Manhattan first, with no cherries. "The drinks have been good here since the thirties," he said. "We used to come over from Van Dyke."

He likes good filet mignon and to make certain the kitchen knew what he classified as good filet mignon he sent several back during the first months. "The roof has gone off a couple of times down there," he said, "but generally I'm not taking part in the daily operation."

He is involved in every detail of structural and interior change. The Whittier corridors are being de-gingerbreaded, starting with his floor, so he can see how it goes as he walks back and forth. He likes off-white walls and envisions a hotel in which the room clerk will offer guests a choice of several kinds of period rooms -- early American, provincial, contemporary -- within each price range.

His goal is a hotel "where people can move into in the fall and not go out until the ice cracks." He needs a house dentist. He already has a doctor, a barber, a beauty shop, a food store, a health club, clothing shops, a newspaper stand where they sell umbrellas, a stamp machine, and the papaya massages.

Since everybody on Detroit's east side has some memory of the Whittier -- in days of glory or of decline -- Mr. Q is given a lot of advice. There are those, agitated at the white-and-black squares he chose for the first-floor pool corridor; and a number who threaten violence if the touches of cool marble, the high, arched windows, the fountains and particularly the old-worldish Pompeian Room are altered.

"I like the old things," he said. "We kept the bricks and pillars and fountains in the pool area. We're working on the courtyard fountain now; I had it running once." Among the nation's major hotel owners, Quarnstrom is a completely different species. He is the only owner of a major Detroit hotel who lives in the city; and possibly the only owner anywhere who lived in a hotel for eight years before buying it; and still lives in the same room.

His wife, Daley, was a woman of imagination, creativity and vitality. She wrote a book about a trip to Europe, a series of gentle essays which her husband proudly shares.

Of anticipation, realization and remembrance, she wrote, "Anticipation is the greatest. It is the cup I alone can fill." Mr. Q is also a great anticipator. Having parlayed $40 into many millions, he is shooting high again. "I'd like to be the finest hotel in America -- if I live long enough," he said. He wants to do it himself, by ear, having fun.

Walking the scarlet carpet, which he personally chose, he looked in at the vast, empty ballroom. The tables were set up for a sales meeting, with astrays on white table cloths and a projector and screen in place. Overhead were the great, swagged Yugoslavian chandeliers, 8,000 crystals in the larger, 4,000 in the smaller. Airborne trees of light.

It is still beer and champagne at the Whittier; but the bubbles rise higher than the foam.

ADDING MORE TO THE pile of litter left by beach parties on North Point beach parties on North Point beach are these teenagers who received the cleanup job as part of a court sentence from Justice John Connolly.

Bald Eagle Doomed If Trend Continues

On the 20th of June of 1962, the Continental Congress of the 13 colonies decreed the design for the Great Seal of the United States. For ages, an eagle had been considered a token of strength. Thus "the distinctly American white-headed or bald eagle" became the emblem of a new nation.

To some future Congress of the now 50 states, however, may fall the task of selecting a new symbol of freedom for the Great Seal. For the bald eagle appears headed on a one-way flight to oblivion. And nowhere is this plight more graphic than in Michigan.

ITEM--TWENTY years ago, there were 12 nesting pairs of bald eagles in the southern Lower Peninsula, along Saginaw Bay, at the St. Clair Flats, in Monroe and Allegan counties. By last summer, just one pair remained, on Otter Creek near Monroe. Last fall, one of these two surviving birds was shot.

Item--There were, in 1963, a total of 61 active eagle eyries in Michigan. The outcome is known for 78 nests. Only 23 were successful, and only 31 eaglets were reared.

Item--Bald eagle reproduction near the Great Lakes is nearly nonexistent.

Item--In the past three years, eight bald eagles are known to have been shot in Michigan. Three are still alive but crippled. In the same period, 15 other eagles were found dead of unknown causes, and two more were killed by cars.

TOTAL EXTINCTION? That's unlikely, for there will be bald eagles in the wilderness of Alaska long after the last of its kind has vanished from below the Canadian border. But it is also probable that your grandchildren or their children will never know this majestic winged hunter except in textbooks and in museums. Results of a most recent census spearheaded by the National Audubon Society show that only about 550 breeding pairs of bald eagles remain in this country, not including Hawaii and Alaska. Largest concentrations of active nests are in Florida (190 last year), Michigan (81), Wisconsin (64), and Minnesota (40).

People and progress have played a major role in the decline of the bald eagle. The bald eagle has been protected by federal law since 1940, but it is still being shot in large numbers. There are other known problems. A nest near Houghton Lake was cut down because it was too near a freeway. Resort developments have ousted eagles from ancestral haunts.

These, however, are questions which conservationists can grasp, and sometimes answer, and perhaps do something about. In the Great Lakes states, Michigan included, the U. S. Forest Service forbids cutting and road construction in a buffer zone surrounding eagle nests on its lands. And tall trees--potential nest sites or roosts--are being saved from the chainsaw.

BUT THE ultimate destiny of the national bird may be determined by today's intangibles, those factors little known or little understood or only suspected. What effect has pollution and, perhaps, botulism as well, had on the health of the bald eagle? And what, really, is the role of pesticides in this great bird's decline?

The remaining six agencies will receive the same amount granted this last year. They are the Retarded Children's Assn., $1,500; Community Nurse Emergency Fund, $200; Charlevoix Hospital, $1,000; Mt. McSaba Recreation Corp., $800; City of Charlevoix Recreation Dept., $800; Charlevoix Service Organization, $250.

THE BUDGET was approved by the entire Community Chest Board of Directors, of which Don Anders is chairman.

Members of the Budget Committee, besides Lachman, are Bill Peck of Ironton and Annabelle Cunningham.

Lachman said the chest will be able to hold the 1965 campaign goal under $13,000 because the Community Chest has a $1,000 surplus from last year's campaign.

The Port of Detroit links Michigan to 175 ports on every continent in the world, with over 700 sailings each year through the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Schweigert Has Say

considering that insufficient votes were available to the Democrats in the Senate to override a gubernatorial veto. We of the minority, then, were able to function truly as a loyal opposition to the end that all spending, taxing, and social legislation was held within the realm of reasonableness. Evidence of this fact becomes clear upon examination of voting records on all major bills, which for the most part passed with bi-partisan support.

"I, personally, was gratified that five bills bearing my name as the lead sponsor passed. These were:

"1. SB 132 - which increases the State matching grant to each of the four regional tourist associations from $35,000 to $40,000 per year. These funds may be used only for advertising purposes to attract visitors.

"2. SB 241 - which implements the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act. Michigan will realize in excess of $100 million over the next 25 years, and the funds will be used to provide park and recreational facilities.

"3. SB 360 - which places townships on a par with other municipalities in providing low-cost public housing for senior citizens.

"4. SB 361 - which puts administration of Aid to the Disabled in line with Federal requirements so as to enable Michigan to receive its fair share of Federal grants.

"5. SB 368 - which allows cities and villages fronting on the Great Lakes to exercise concurrent jurisdiction over water users. This is a water safety measure.

"ALSO, I personally assisted the passage of bills sponsored by northern Representatives. Some of these were of minor nature involving land transfers and the like. Perhaps the most important one will allow community colleges functioning within local school districts to construct self-liquidating dormitories."

pany would not give the co-operatives a long enough term contract guaranteeing permanently low cost.

"Consumers," Parsons said, "could raise the rate at the end of a three year contract."

According to Parsons, Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative's rate is also variable, depending on the cost of generating and transmitting power.

"The government," Parsons said, "would not approve a loan if Consumers' rate was safe and justified and reasonable. The plan (at Advance) would never have been built if Consumers could have provided reasonable, long-term rates. . . . And we certainly wouldn't build the addition."

STEINBRECHER and Campbell said Consumers and the cooperatives negotiated for more than a year in efforts to agree on a contract. None of the Consumers' proposals provided the flexibility and economies which would be realized by additions to the cooperatives' generating facilities," Steinbrecher said.

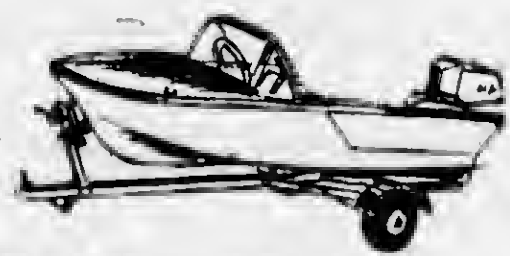

Steinbrecher said, "the present loans will permit the construction of facilities providing savings in wholesale power costs of over $4 million in the first ten years operating as compared to the purchase of supplemental power."

Steinbrecher did not provide figures requested by the Courier comparing the cost that homeowners pay for electricity to Consumers and to the cooperatives.

The most fabulous weekend in northern Michigan's year-round schedule of tourist events--the VENETIAN FESTIVAL--comes to a spectacular close this Saturday evening (July 24) in Charlevoix with a massive fireworks display glittering on Round Lake. Featuring variety shows, children's events, boat races and many, many beautiful girls, the Venetian Festival attracts tens-of-thousands of spectators every year. Many have been coming back for years. If you're here this weekend you, too, will want to make the Venetian Festival an every-year highlight of your family's vacation.

The Charlevoix Coast Guard Station

Always On Guard

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix--the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Millard, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions.

Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating, and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and

Walloon Lake. Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams to the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May. Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyer City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nynne Hollies, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan; resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

BEAUTIFUL PUBLIC BEACHES—such as this one on Lake Michigan—are part of the reason Charlevoix is one of northland's finest summer playgrounds. The City maintains three public beaches, one on Lake Michigan and two on Lake Charlevoix. Lifeguards are on duty each every day. If you seek more secluded beaches there are miles of semi-wild, public shoreline between South Point and Fisherman's Island on Lake Michigan.

SUMMER VISITORS will find stimulating vacation fun awaits them every Sunday at the Charlevoix Rifle and Gun Club. Public trap and skeet shooting is conducted every Sunday from 1 p.m. until about 4 p.m. The cost per-round (25 clay pigeons) ranges from $2.50 up. If you left your shotgun at home chances are you can borrow one at the club. The club is located on US-31 about five miles north of town on the east side of the highway. Don't forget, Mom and the kids will enjoy watching. Refreshments are served in the club house.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Albo, is a pleasant, scenic afternoon drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. The hatchery's location reminds one of the Smokey Mountains. The hatchery is the newest and largest on the Great Lakes. It will produce about 6,000,000 lake trout a year for restocking the big lakes.

The Ironton Ferry

Short Escape

The Ironton Ferry takes its passengers for a short visit into a world where there can be no hurry. There's just no way to speed up the ferry in its short chug-chug across the neck of the South Arm.

Even if you don't especially want to go where the ferry takes you it's worth the 35¢ fare just to briefly know you've escaped all the pressures that make people rush through life.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the camp ground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets. Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the World is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay. For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of

Nature and the conveniences of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake. Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

WHEN THIS bell at the Ironton School first called citizens to meetings in the Township Hall James K. Polk was President of the United States and American soldiers were fighting in Mexico. That was in 1848. The bell has been serving Ironton ever since. In 1883 it was moved from the Ironton Iron Works to the then new school. When the present school was constructed in 1963 the community could not part with its bell. It still calls the kids in from recess and lunch.

Greensky Church Part of State's Indian History

Here in the 1840's the Chippewa Indian missionary, Peter Greensky, established a Protestant mission in an area where legend says Indian chiefs once held their councils. New trees have been planted in an arrangement similar to that of the trees that made up the original council circle. Mission services first were held in a rude building of boughs and bark. In the 1850's the Indians built the present church. It is a fine example of the old log style construction with hand-hewn timbers and notched corners. Windows, doors and much of the lumber were brought by canoe from Traverse City to Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) and then carried two miles to this site. Methodist services for the Indian congregation have been held here regularly to the present.

Charlevoix's Modern Hospital...With Scenic View

Hospital Ready to Serve You

The Charlevoix Hospital offers several bonuses for summer visitors and year-round residents. These come in the form of the therapeutic view of Lake Michigan and a congenial staff. The hospital is one of the best equipped in northern Michigan and boasts a staff of outstanding doctors and technicians. Vacationers need have no fears of emergencies while enjoying their leisure days in Charlevoix. The generous gifts and support of summer residents have made it possible for Charlevoix to have this fine medical facility.

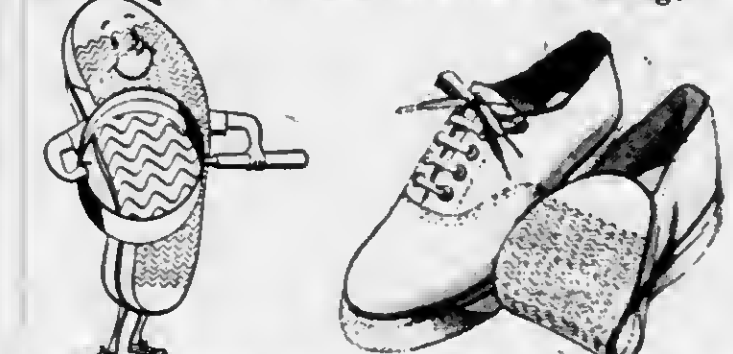

Our Living Heritage

Greensky Hill Indian Methodist Church welcomes summer visitors. The rustic log chapel in its quiet hilltop setting promises quiet moments of meditation for all who seek escape. Services are held every Sunday morning at 9:30. The mission was founded in the 1840's by Peter Greensky, an Indian missionary. It has been recognized as a valuable historical site by the Michigan Historical Commission. The church and historic marker are located on old US-31 north of town, overlooking Susan Lake. Your best bet is to ask at your motel or a service station or restaurant for directions.

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL

Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable log boats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailers and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery was pressed into service in the early 1900's to keep a constant population of lake trout in Lake Michigan. When the sea lamprey wiped out the lake trout the Charlevoix hatchery stood alone in the battle to restock the lake. With completion of the Jordan River National Fish Hatchery this year, the Charlevoix hatchery has found itself playing a lesser role. The hatchery is located at the Lake Michigan end of the Pine River channel.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE -- is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

NOT EVEN VENICE has anything that surpasses the Venetian Festival's after-dark boat parade at 9:15 p.m. Saturday. The colorfully decorated and lighted boats put on a dramatic spectacle as they slowly circle through Round Lake. This year's boat parade is expected to be the biggest ever, with several entries from the Grand Traverse Yacht Club and Harbor Springs area. The massive fireworks display concludes the Festival after the boats finish their parade. All of this, and more, is centered on Round Lake, where tens-of-thousands can see it.

THOUSANDS GATHER EVERY year for the beauty and excitement of Charlevoix's Venetian Festival. The center of activity is here in East Park.

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter-million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Sharon Wood, Mike Allen and Hy Heaton.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

(so they can't block your gas line!)

What does the American FINAL/FILTER really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasolines pick up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER blocks out contaminants right at the pump nozzle. If you use your car on the job (and even if you don't) you stay out of trouble when you "fill'er up filtered" with American, Regular or American Super-Premium.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation. Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Island, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James has each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

Venetian Festival

Yesteryear's Beauty Will Shine Again at Festival

A Venetian Festival Queen is forever a Queen. This statement will be proven Friday and Saturday when 12 former Venetian Festival Queens are scheduled to make their first repeat appearance.

OF THE 12 queens who have agreed to return for this year's festival, only six still live in Charlevoix. Their year's of reign date from 1947 through 1964.

The former Venetian Queens will be the feature attraction at Friday evening's variety show, 7-9 p.m.

Those who are expected to participate, the year they were Queen and their married names are:

Sally Miller, 1947, now Mrs. James Anderson of Niles, Mich.

NANCY KIPKE, 1949, now Mrs. Don Bambach, Holland, Mich.
Ann Gill, 1950, now Mrs. Fritz Puttuff of Charlevoix.
Joan Ward, 1951, now Mrs. Harry Goldberg of Grand Rapids.

Joyce Cunningham, 1955, now Mrs. Deano Davenport of Chatsworth, Calif.
Mary Case, 1956, now Mrs. Bradley Martheos of Grand Rapids.

LORRAINE HEISE, 1961, now Mrs. Larry Warner of Charlevoix.

Linda Neff, 1962, of Charlevoix.

Marcee Wallace, 1964, of Charlevoix.

REAR ADMIRAL Willard J. Smith, Commandant of the Ninth Coast Guard District, which includes all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is expected to participate in Venetian Festival activities. Adm. Smith is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

THE GIANT VENETIAN Festival street parade--Saturday at 1:30 p.m.--will feature the State award-winning Charlevoix High School band, Scottsville Clown Band, Kincheloe Air Force Drill Team, Drum and Bugle Corps, Honor Guards, Navy missile float, beautiful girls and honored guests. The parade starts at the high school and comes down Bridge St. to Park Ave.

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY, shaking hands with woman at last year's Venetian Festival, will be back again for this year's Festival. On the governor's right is Mrs. Romney. The highlight of Romney's visit will be his crowning of Venetian Queen Dianne Dyksterhouse at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

WORK is progressing on the Lexalite Plant on the Lake Michigan shore adjacent to the Big Rock nuclear power plant. The plant is expected to be completed by mid-August.

Lexalite Loan
OK Is Expected

Federal government approval is expected very shortly of a Small Business Administration loan for almost $100,000 on the Lexalite plant, according to John Michael, attorney for the Charlevoix Development Corp.

The building is already under construction on the Lake Michigan shore, adjacent to the Big Rock nuclear power plant.

Michael said heavy plastic molding machinery will be moved into the plant about Aug. 1 and the facility should be completed about mid-August.

The plant is being constructed by the Charlevoix Development Corp., and will be leased to Lexalite. According to terms of the agreement, Lexalite will own the property outright in 15 years.

At present, Lexalite has office space in Detroit but is without manufacturing facilities.

Michael said a nucleus of from five to seven employees will begin operations at the site this summer. The plant is expected to employ about 100 workers in the next year or 18 months, he added.

Lexalite will manufacture plastic fixtures for the lighting industry, Michael said, including plastic street light globes, and plastic housings for electrical fixtures.

He added that the Small Business Administration appears extremely interested in the project, and the prospects for the development of a small industrial park in the area.

Michael said Lexalite is an ideal industry for the area, since it is a noiseless, smokeless, and extremely clean operation.

The Charlevoix Development Corp. is a non-profit corporation designed to bring new industry into the area. Construction funds are supplied interest-free, to be repaid over a period of years by the lessee.

Hoskins Manufacturing Co. and American Mold are two industries which have been attracted to the area under similar conditions.

Couple Jailed
After Upsetting
Baby Carriage

A man and wife were each sentenced to 30 days in Charlevoix County Jail on charges of being drunk and disorderly after upsetting a baby buggy with two youngsters in it on Clinton Street Sunday night. Jailed and fined $20 each and $5 court costs were Alex McSawney, 53, and his wife Catherine, 31, of 309 W. Garfield.

They were arrested by city police and sheriff's deputies after they tipped over the baby buggy, spilling their two daughters onto the pavement. The girls, one-year-old and two, and a half years old, are being cared for by their grandmother.

County Treasurer Resigns

Miss Lillie Flanders, Charlevoix County treasurer since 1934, has announced her retirement, effective Aug. 31.

Under state law, a successor to fill the remaining three and one-half years of her unexpired term will be named by County Clerk Pete Bulow, Prosecutor Harvey Varnum, and Probate Judge John Makel.

Bulow says the new treasurer will not be named until after Aug. 1 when Judge Makel returns from convention in Traverse City.

He added that the sooner a successor can be named the better, so that the new treasurer can work a few weeks with Miss Flanders and learn office procedure.

So far, only one applicant for the job has been received, according to Bulow.

He is Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence F. Rabach, 47, the owner of Rabach's Sales and Service.

In his application Rabach said he considered himself qualified for the job because of his long experience in township government.

Rabach not only has served as township supervisor for 10 years, but also has been chairman of the finance and equalization committees and a member of the auditing committee.

He was chairman of the building grounds committee during construction of the new county building.

Born in Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Rabach moved to Charlevoix in 1937 and shortly after joined the Coast Guard, he served in the Guard throughout World War II and was discharged in 1946 as a chief machinist's mate.

Rabach is married and has one daughter and two grandchildren.

Miss Annabelle Cunningham, former deputy county treasurer who has been city treasurer since 1960, says she has not given any thought to applying for the job.

Retiree Notes Land Changes

Miss Flanders at post, she has occupied since 1934.

"We used to have to check through five books to get the same information we now keep on one small card," she said. She said the system has proved invaluable in accommodating the area's booming real estate business.

A native of Ironon, Miss Flanders has been a resident of Charlevoix County all her life.

She recalls her father was friends with George Hemingway, the author's father, and visiting the Hemingways' fine plantation on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix.

"The Hemingways used to give us our Christmas trees," she said.

Miss Flanders, who lives at 301 Mason, has no specific plans for her retirement, although she and her companion, Mrs. Birdie Gleason, are talking about a trip through Michigan, with possible stops in Ohio and Indiana.

Summing up her four-decade-plus in the treasurer's office, Miss Flanders says it has been "plain, hard work, but I've enjoyed it. I hope I've made a few friends."

Pollution Funds Sought

Charlevoix Mayor E. D. Hawley says he hopes to include a $75,000 appropriation in the 1966-67 budget for toilet and shower facilities at the yacht basin as a step toward curbing pollution of Round Lake.

The money would be matched by the State Waterways Commission, which has a policy of going halves with communities on pollution control projects.

Hawley said the announced budget proposal by no means indicates that the city is abandoning its fight to get the state to pay all -- or more than half -- of the proposed facility.

"We don't have any money planned through next fall, but we realize that something must be done," Hawley said.

State Health Dept. sanitarian John Reynolds claims the chief source of pollution in Round Lake is human wastes coming into the lake from pleasure craft. The State Health Dept. has asked people not to swim in Round Lake, because of possible contamination.

Hawley said the combined $150,000 appropriation also will be used to improve facilities at the north end of the yacht basin, allowing for easier access to the new sanitary facilities building.

At present, the only shore-side sanitary facilities available

Gov. Romney To Crown
Venetian Festival Queen

Michigan's chief executive focuses the State's attention on Charlevoix this weekend.

Gov. George Romney will crown Venetian Festival Queen Dianne Dyksterhouse at 8 p.m. Saturday on the bandstand in East Park. The governor's brief address and coronation of Miss Dyksterhouse will usher in the final dramatic moments of the festival -- the colorful boat parade and fireworks on Round Lake.

THE VENETIAN Festival -- Charlevoix's largest annual tourist event -- starts at 7 p.m. Friday with a variety show and parade of former Venetian Queens. At 9 p.m. Queen Dianne and her court of ten Charlevoix High School girls will be introduced.

Former Venetian Queens who are expected to participate in the Friday evening pageant, the date they were Queen and their married names, are:

Nancy Kipke, 1947, now Mrs. James Anderson of Niles, Mich.

Nancy Kipke, 1949, now Mrs. Don Bambach, Holland, Mich.

Ann Gill, 1950, now Mrs. Fritz Puffpaff of Charlevoix.

Joan Ward, 1951, now Mrs. Harry Goldberg of Grand Rapids.

Joyce Cunningham, 1955, now Mrs. Doreen Davenport of Chateaufort, Calif.

Mary Case, 1956, now Mrs. Bradley Marthene of Grand Rapids.

Lorraine Helse, 1961, now Mrs. Larry Warner of Charlevoix.

Linda Neff, 1962, of Charlevoix.

Marcelle Wallace, 1964, of Charlevoix.

THE VARIETY show will feature the Movers Combo; Billy Gokee, vocalist; Patti Tallman, vocalist; The Firehouse Five; Commemorative Combo; Patsy Gray, vocalist; Frankie Huysbrechts, The Nightwalkers; Bert Arsonault, pianist; The Chips, and Scottsville Clown Band.

These entertainment groups are expected to appear on the program both Friday and Saturday evenings.

Saturday morning the Festival's busy program gets underway at 10 with the Doll and Pet Parade. This annual classic, the Chamber of Commerce reports, has become one of the Festival's most popular features. It presents colorfully costumed children with their pets and dolls in a sort of style show review.

Mrs. Robert Biggs is Doll and Pet Parade chairman. Judges are Mrs. Donald Sheets, Alan Bevan and Mrs. Byron Wright.

At 1:30 p.m. Saturday the street parade comes down Bridge St. from the High School, passing through town and ending at the bridge.

In addition to local floats the parade will feature military units, bands and a special Winter Carnival float. Parade judges are Cdr. W. E. Cawley, Bill Supernaw and J. M. Ewing.

THE FIRST annual "kids" boat races get off to a furious start on Round Lake at 2:30 p.m. Anyone willing to row or paddle a boat or canoe can enter.

The Traverse City Coast Guard air station will stage an air-sea rescue demonstration in Round Lake at 2:45.

The Festival's second variety show swings into action at 8:30 p.m. Saturday in East Park.

At 8 p.m. the spotlight turns to Gov. Romney and Queen

Dianne. Dianne's coronation will be followed by a parade of visiting Michigan guest queens from other communities. Fifteen visiting queens are expected to participate.

THE FESTIVAL draws to a climax at 9 p.m. with the boat parade. Boats prepared as lighted floats will circle Round Lake. This year, for the first time, the boats will be decorated on the left side so they are visible to the Belvedere Club. Boat parade judges are Lt. Cdr. Dale Foster, CWO James Seld and Major Alvin Aronovsky.

The final feature of the Festival is a fireworks display over the lake following the boat parade. The fireworks are shot from Old Island.

Though not a scheduled part of the Festival program, motorcycle races will be held for visitors Sunday from 1-4 p.m. on the Burgess Rd., three miles off US-31. Cyclists from Canada and other parts of Michigan will compete with local riders for trophies.

Consumers Reveal Rates

Consumers Power Co. and Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative continue this week to debate the merits of federally subsidized power companies versus private industry.

Arthur E. Steinbrecher, manager of the cooperative at Advance, charged Consumers with using "meaningless" comparisons to make it appear private industry can supply rural users with electricity cheaper than the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) assisted companies.

CONSUMERS prepared figures, at the Courier's request, showing the comparison of rates paid by families getting electricity from Consumers and those supplied by the cooperative.

Steinbrecher was first asked by the Courier to furnish the public with these figures. He did not do so.

The comparison of billings to families shows that Consumers' households pay approximately $36 to $14 less a year for the same amount of electricity.

The average United States family used 4,877 kilowatts of electricity in 1964. At this rate a home supplied by Consumers would pay $119.73 for power a year, $9.96 a month and 2.56-cent per kilowatt.

THIS COMPARES TO $156.28 a year from Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Co., Boyne City; $134.10 a year from Cherryland Electric Coop, Traverse City; $154.48 a year from Presque Isle Electric Coop, Onaway.

Compared to Consumers' $2.56 - cents per - kilowatt charge, Top O' Michigan charges $3.34-cents, Cherryland 2.87 - cents and Presque Isle 3.30-cents.

Consumers' minimum monthly charge is $1.40 a month; Top O' Michigan's is $2.50; Cherryland's is $2.50 and Presque Isle's is $3.

Consumers officials pointed out their firm supplies power to Charlevoix area rural users -- including the Ironon area -- and others in Boyne City and East Jordan.

CONSUMERS strings lines to sparsely populated areas at rates that compare favorably to those charged by the Coop's, the company pointed out.

Steinbrecher said that Consumers' Vice President B. G. Campbell, apparently sought to discredit the rural electrification program because rural systems receive loans at two percent interest. (2% was equal to or greater than CLEARING OF LAND has started on South Point for Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s $20 million facility. This clearing through the trees makes way for the conveyor leading to the dock and pier from which cement will be loaded onto ships. The plant, dock and quarry are expected to be operating by mid-1967.

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The fourth week of camp started off with the long canoe trip. The canoe trip was driven down to Gaylord where they put in the Au Sable River for a trip on this famous river. Bob Perry, the canoe instructor, and counselor, Dick Wallerson and C.I.T. George Steinhardt. The boys on this trip were: David Washburn, David Oberhelman, Jack Borden, Phillip Salvador, George Bushnell, Jim Kuehn, Mike Earl, Stuart Waterson, Kim Kuehn, Stuart Strain, Bill Sullivan, Bryan Ingersoll, and Ian Hamilton. In the afternoon, the long three day horse trip left camp with the cowboys in command. Roger Beck, Larry Hathaway, Don Strutz, Don Flandt, and C.I.T. Dave Hoyt and Robbie Pliskin were on this trip along with the following boys: Jim Henderson, Jim Martindale, Bob Smith, Robin Holderman, Rick Gillett, Tighe Magnuson, Steve Armstrong, Freddie Schultz, Bill Streater, Bard Dielman, Gary Blumberg, Mike Zahn, Doug Chapuis, Bruce Blumberg, Chip Ironside, George Lackey, Roger Reichenbach, Bob Weber, Bill Hickenlooper, Van Merlin, Bobby Moore, Mark Hillbrandt. The team, Liver and Onions, were pulling the hay wagon with the gear, and it was quite a sight as they left camp. Tuesday was a beautiful day until the rains came to postpone the sailing trip. It rained very, very hard, and as we needed it, no one complained. In the evening, the camp saw the movie "The Delicate Delinquent" with Jerry Lewis. The boys enjoyed this as it was a very funny movie.

On Wednesday, the sailors were all ready to skip out about noon, and as the day was bright, sunny and warm, it was a great day for them to take off. The sailing instructors on this trip were: Ace Hoyt, John Deane, Chuck Sullivan, John Richardson, John Rott, and C.I.T. Tom Case. The boys sailing away were Jeff Gill, Cary Fitchey, Scott Strawbridge, Steve Orr, Seth Taylor, John Schable, Karl Bowman, John Jelliff, Dave Livingston, Dave Henderson, Dave Fox, Craig Owen, Peter Poll, Maurice Clark, Bill Streater, Phil Sheridan, Mike Fish, Skip Sales, Hugh Broder, and Chuck Gardella.

On Wednesday evening the event the boys all look forward to was held, this is Capture the Counselor, during the day the camp was plastered with drawings of counselors with prices on their heads. The drawings were done by Steve Upham and drew many laughs from both staff and campers. After supper, the counselors take to the woods, and the campers go out to find them. The Green-Grey teams capturing the most dollar value get the points. After an hour of hunting, and many counselors caught, the Greens won two points and the Greys won two points. A tie event, it was great fun, and the boys like it very much.

On Thursday, the three Senior Cabins and the C.I.T.'s were all agog as this was the night that they were to go to a dance being given by Camp Chicka-Mi. This is a girls' event. The boys were all very excited. The results of these fights were: Jimmy Huddleston, Indianapolis, beat Bob Elkins, Petoskey; Ron Ureel, Grosse Pointe, won over Mark Herchade, Cincinnati; Chuck Gardella, Grosse Pointe, won over Bill Earle, Birmingham; Martin Curdes, Ft. Wayne, beat Mark Sterling, Wadsworth, Ohio; Doug Bacon, Flint, beat Doug Hildenbrand, Logansport, Ind.; Bob Phillip, Birmingham, won over Louie Curdes, Ft. Wayne; Scott Vell, Grosse Pointe, won over Ricky Kah, Huntington Woods; Bob Boomer, Grosse Pointe beat Mark Bennett, Garden City, Mich.; Dave Pliskin, Akron, beat Craig Gillispie, River Forest, Ill.; Tom Duke, Farmington, won over Dave Williamson, New York; Alan Johnson, Lansing and Doug Ladney, Grosse Pointe, were tied. Bob Scherer, Grosse Pointe, beat David Calvin, Akron; Sandy Klotz, Birmingham, won over Phil Smith, Dayton; Tom Crammer, Toledo, won over Keith Smilie, Ann Arbor; Phil Hayes, Dayton, beat Mark Vell, Grosse Pointe; Joe Caskey, Grosse Pointe, beat Steve Fries, Cleveland; Dave Townsend, Lynn, Ind., beat Nickie Williamson, New York; Jim Case, Columbus, beat Jay Postle, Petoskey; Steve Armstrong, Cleveland, beat Dave Oberhelman, Cincinnati; and in the final match of the evening, Len Olson beat Bobin Dudley of Lansing, Mich. The evening closed with the camp standing, facing the West and singing "Tape". It was the close of a great day, one in which new friendships were being started.

On Sunday morning, we had several parents visit us at our chapel service, at which our beloved tutor, Dick Wright, was the speaker. He gave one of the finest chapel talks we have ever had, taking as his subject "Look At Thyself". It was most changing, and each boy must have been deep in thought. The visiting parents were very complimentary to Mr. Wright. In the afternoon, the physical exams and swim tests were given to the new boys. It was a glorious sunny day, so that the entire camp had a waterfront afternoon.

Sunday evening, the entire camp held Vespers down along the shore by the flagpole, and camp up near Levering. The cars pulled away about 6:30 after supper and from all reports, and from the number of letters going from here in that direction, we are sure that our boys had a terrific time.

On Friday we had a regular day here at camp with the boys taking the evening to pack to go home the next day. It was a sad evening, as friendships were being halted, and boys were sad at leaving. Both staff and boys were feeling a little low as the morning was to be a time of parting.

Saturday was a great day at home, with over two hundred sets of parents visiting the camp, either to take their son home, or to bring their son for the second four week period. It was a wonderful day as everything was organized well, and there was no rush, no hubbub at all, and everyone had a fine time visiting and meeting friends. Boys were excited, and the incoming boys were most anxious to meet their counselors and their new cabin-mates. We had many boys enroll for the 1966 season, and the number stood at TWENTY-FIVE on Saturday evening. This gives us a good start to the first day who get the trip to historic Mackinac Island as being one of the first enrolled. This trip is always a highlight of any season.

In the evening, the traditional first night pillow fight were held. Boys love these pillow fights and though it is a noisy affair, it is a great mixer as boys are introduced by name and city or town. The results of these fights were: Jimmy Huddleston, Indianapolis, beat Bob Elkins, Petoskey; Ron Ureel, Grosse Pointe, won over Mark Herchade, Cincinnati; Chuck Gardella, Grosse Pointe, won over Bill Earle, Birmingham; Martin Curdes, Ft. Wayne, beat Mark Sterling, Wadsworth, Ohio; Doug Bacon, Flint, beat Doug Hildenbrand, Logansport, Ind.; Bob Phillip, Birmingham, won over Louie Curdes, Ft. Wayne; Scott Vell, Grosse Pointe, won over Ricky Kah, Huntington Woods; Bob Boomer, Grosse Pointe beat Mark Bennett, Garden City, Mich.; Dave Pliskin, Akron, beat Craig Gillispie, River Forest, Ill.; Tom Duke, Farmington, won over Dave Williamson, New York; Alan Johnson, Lansing and Doug Ladney, Grosse Pointe, were tied. Bob Scherer, Grosse Pointe, beat David Calvin, Akron; Sandy Klotz, Birmingham, won over Phil Smith, Dayton; Tom Crammer, Toledo, won over Keith Smilie, Ann Arbor; Phil Hayes, Dayton, beat Mark Vell, Grosse Pointe; Joe Caskey, Grosse Pointe, beat Steve Fries, Cleveland; Dave Townsend, Lynn, Ind., beat Nickie Williamson, New York; Jim Case, Columbus, beat Jay Postle, Petoskey; Steve Armstrong, Cleveland, beat Dave Oberhelman, Cincinnati; and in the final match of the evening, Len Olson beat Bobin Dudley of Lansing, Mich. Talk of the Town

Mrs. Andrew Gallagher of St. James received word that her son-in-law, Lt. Comm. W.H. Wilmont of the U.S. Coast Guard at San Francisco has been promoted to Commander.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Chens of South San Gabriel, California, and his mother, Mrs. Olive Cheney of Los Angeles, California are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Novotny, Jr., Mr. Cheney and Mrs. Novotny are Cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd King returned to Detroit after 10 days with his mother, Mrs. Florence King. Mr. and Mrs. Jack King and two sons of Madison Heights and Mr. and Mrs. Richard King and son of Royal Oak visited their grandmother, Mrs. Florence King.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Smith and baby of Rapid City, S.D., are spending his Airlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Smith and family.

Mrs. Bruce Orvis and son, Joseph of Flint arrived at the Mortimer Orvis home Monday to take their son Gary home. He has been with his grandparents three weeks.

Joseph Haney of Lansing called on Mr. and Mrs. Orvis the past week. He is visiting his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Lillak Sr. of East Jordan and is Mrs. Orvis, brother-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sharrow and son of Warren, Mich. visited his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dixon over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett and family of Muskegon are spending a week with his mother, Mrs. Alvin T. Bennett.

Mrs. Ralph Carter and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ian McLean of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., visited Sunday with friends here. Mrs. Carter is the niece of the late Mrs. Russell E. Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis had as their weekend guests his mother, Mrs. Antoinette Dennis and his sister, Mrs. Denlee Wroble and daughter, all of Cicero, Ill.

M/Sgt. and Mrs. James Williams and family, former local residents, visited from Saturday until Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. William Fochtman. They plan to visit briefly in Rockford, Ill., before returning to Fort Lewis, Wash., where he is stationed with the U.S. Army. They had been in the east where they had visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Williams at Grouton, Conn., where he is stationed with the U. S. Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Jedwin and two sons of Flint visited last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heise.

As it was a beautiful sunset, the boys really like it. Ace Hoyt and a group of counselors led some songs, and Tom Kennedy, Waterfront director, told a story.

Here we are in the fifth week of camp, and the summer is "flying by". More next week... O, yes, it was a pleasure to have had Ken's mother, Mrs. Edith L. Smith from Detroit, as our guest this week. She spent several hours mending and sewing on boys' and counselors' rips and tears. It was a great help to have had her here.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Tollas and three children were in Ann Arbor recently for the wedding of her brother, Jules L. Hanslovsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hanslovsky, and Glenda Simpkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Simpkins of Milan. All were members of the wedding party; Dr. Tollas served as groomsmen, Mrs. Tollas as soloist, Debra as flower girl, David as ringbearer and Daniel as junior usher.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willis were called to Warren early this week by the unexpected death Monday of her brother, Ralph Burns, 82, a former resident who had lived in southern Michigan for the past 30 years. They plan to return after funeral services are held.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gradel of Fort Wayne, Ind., visited J.M. Foster and friends while on a northern Michigan vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mieras and daughter, Marty, were in Ann Arbor several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bergmann are on a week's vacation trip through the Upper Peninsula. Their son, Allan, is spending the time in Ellsworth with his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Donaldson.

EARL O. LYONS, right, receives his certificate of retirement from Charlevoix Coast Guard Group executive officer James Seidl. Lyons, 40, retires Aug. 1 after 20 years service, two of it with the Army in Europe during World War II. A boatswain's mate-first class, Lyons has served for the past two years as officer-in-charge of Spectacle Reef light in Lake Huron off Cheboygan, which is seen in the insert in upper left. The light is part of the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group, commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Millard. Lyons will make his home in Indianapolis, Ind., with his wife and five children. Replacing him on Spectacle Reef is BM1 James V. Haley whose family lives in Charlevoix.

The Art of Living

The Way You Live

is a TV picture of your ideals. Living is the finest of all the fine arts. Far better to know how to live, than to know how to paint, sing, write or sculpture. Is your soul nourished by God's word at church on Sunday, or is it starved on the Sunday newspaper, the golf course or a fishing trip? You can't drift into the art of good living...you must think about it. As one thinks in his heart so is he. Every man should think soberly. Let him that thinks he stands, take heed lest he fall. Whatever things are honorable, just, pure, of good report...think on these things. You have but one life to live...live it wisely. You can't live without God, the Bible, prayer, the church. These are the palette and brush in the art of right living. Go to your church and you will find them.

Outdoor Rambling

Because this is the last of this now-and-again series of commentary on the outdoors please be tolerant if it rambles all over the North American continent.

I've been itching for a long time to put the facts on the line for those sportsmen who feel Charlevoix County and surrounding area ranks somewhat below other regions of the continent as an outdoor-man's haven. And because I won't be here to debate the consequences of this column I might's well say it now.

HAVING FISHED, hunted, explored and hiked in country that is as remote and wild as any man who will read this I feel somewhat qualified to pass judgement on the subject. Sections of the far north -- from the Arctic Ocean south -- were once the column's haunts in its quest to avoid being a victim of civilization. My rods and gun have probed areas where it is doubtful any man -- of any color -- ever fished or hunted before. Such areas have produced lake trout by the dozens and pike by the boatful.

Literally hundreds of opportunities to shoot bear (blacks and browns), moose, caribou, sheep and goats have been passed by; usually because there was no hunger and the shooting was so easy it wasn't sport.

There was a summer afternoon along a stream above the Arctic Circle when a wolf pack was caught in the open on a gravel bar. The semi-automatic rifle cracked until the over-size clip ran dry. Several wolves lay dead or dying on the gravel. Not since that afternoon have I had the blood-lust to kill a wild creature.

SO NOW LET'S leave the true far north and come south a ways to that region of central Canada that is so popular with many local sportsmen.

There is no denying the grand scenery and semi-seclusion of these Canadian wilds. Nor can you dismiss the fact some people return from them with nice catches of trout and pike and quite frequently a moose. However, it is not uncommon to have them return with stories of failure.

There are several reasons for this. The most important being that their guides and outfitters have knowledge of, and access to, a very limited area. Consequently this area is heavily fished and hunted. The second major cause for failure is that Nature was against them or they were stumble bums. . . . A second rate outdoorsman is just that whether he's fishing a virgin lake teeming with trout or the Detroit River, and there are days when even the wildest fish will not bite.

STAN LIEVENSE poses with a 3 1/2 pound bass taken from a local lake. Limit catches of nice bass and pike are available to any Charlevoix area sportsmen who will take the time to learn where they are and how to catch them.

This tends to prove that if a man really wants the finest sport he will journey to a section of Alaska or Canada that is not regularly served by established guides and outfitters. But few men have the mettle or training to cope with such wilds; and even fewer can afford to.

SO -- AND THE point of this final episode is that -- if you have to settle for something less than the best you'll get a lot more for your time and money by concentrating on Charlevoix County.

In a year-and-a-half it is possible to get familiar enough with our lakes so that you seldom end up skunked. . . . and sometimes wind up with fishing that is nearly on a par with Alaska. The hunting may not be quite as good, but I can't think of one savvy hunter who didn't get his venison last year if he worked for it.

The short journey to Beaver Island puts you in some of the finest bass, brook trout and pike fishing in North America. For the island hunter partridge, deer and rabbits are so plentiful that even veteran game biologists rave about it. But let's stick to the mainland.

We'll start with smallmouth bass. I can remember afternoons and evenings when during an hour or so of fishing on Lake Charlevoix I landed more than a dozen smallmouths. Last year I couldn't catch a one. The problem was I hadn't put enough effort into finding them and learning how to catch them.

NEXT HOW ABOUT pike? There are a half-dozen, or more, small lakes within a few minutes drive of Charlevoix where pike are so thick and savage they need thinning out for the good of the lake. But, again, first you must get acquainted with the lake and study the technique for catching them. Though most of these fish will run small, they put up a mean battle. Three weeks ago I was fishing with Irv Frost Jr. when he hooked a three - pound northern that leaped straight up, completely clear of the water. A fish that puts on such a show is always worth catching.

And what about bigmouth bass? After many hours of unproductive exploring last summer I have finally found at least three lakes where it is hard not to catch at least a couple nice largemouths every evening. Last week Stan Lievense and I were fishing one of these lakes. After nailing his first bigmouth Stan was flabbergasted, he enthusiastically admitted he had never seen largemouths fight so hard. And, remember, Stan is one of Michigan's most knowledgeable fisheries biologists and sport fishing nuts. Because Stan persisted in his desire to explore the lake it wasn't a very productive evening, but I did lose one giant that grabbed a 3/8-ounce jitterbug and parted four-pound-test line like water.

Unfortunately, the dulcet chapter in our local fishing story is about trout. There's simply no denying the trout fishing's second rate by just about all standards. There is a bright note in this chapter, though: The trout are coming back in Lake Charlevoix -- it will take three or four more years to prove it -- and less than ten years there should be respectable lake trout fishing around the Beaver Islands. For those who insist on trout fishing Walloon Lake and Torch Lake aren't far away and they produce some beauts. If you're a stream fly fisherman some of the finest sport in the world is less than two-hours drive east of us.

WHICH GETS US to hunting. I often hear people squawk about the lack of deer. But the fact is Conservation Dept. figures show there are probably more deer than ever before. And I recall opening morning last year when 16-year-old Johnny Gibson got his deer in the first hour only a few yards behind the back door at Idle Acres and I had another buck in my sights even closer to the house but decided beef tasted better. If this is poor hunting then it's the hunter who is at fault.

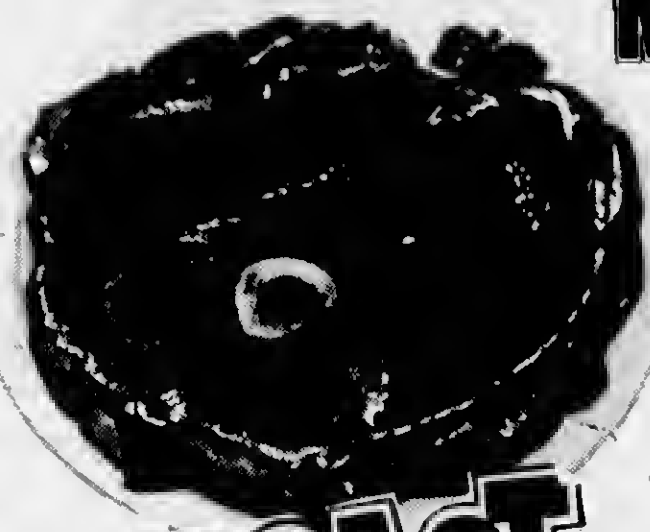

As for things like rabbits and partridge I seldom went out once last year without flushing birds or finding rabbit tracks.

Some of the most challenging sport anywhere is chasing fox with hounds through the snow-bound portions of the county. The only limit to this in our area is the stamina of hunters.

SO NOW, if you've read this far, you may ask why this column is leaving Charlevoix after so much raving about its fine hunting and fishing? The answer is that it will be back to devote fulltime to the outdoors.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. Richard Gallant was honored at a stork shower hosted by Mrs. Harvey Hamilton and Mrs. Creighton Kerr and attended by members of the Community Church of God at Fellowship Hall recently. Twenty guests enjoyed an evening of games and refreshments after which the honoree opened her many gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zettler and three children returned to their home in Lantana, Fla., Monday after spending a week with his sister Mrs. Jean Gallagher and other relatives. They plan to visit relatives in the Detroit area enroute south.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Andalis left recently for Detroit where Mr. Andalis will stay for the present when he leaves early next month for duty aboard a buoy tender at Seward, Alaska. Mrs. Andalis will join him later. He has been station aboard the cutter Sundew for the past three years.

Mrs. A.C. Palmer has returned to her home in Benton Harbor following a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Vincent B. Paolone.

Mr. and Mrs. William Horvath and daughter, Susan, of Ann Arbor visited last week with friends here. Mrs. Horvath is the former Becky Badger, daughter of the late Mrs. Dorothea Badger.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kellogg have returned to Milwaukee following a week's visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Alford. Other guests at the Alford home were John Tabor and four children of Wyoming who spent two days here.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ramsey, N.J., are spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willis. Another daughter, Mrs. Alfred Torrey and two children have returned to Oxford after spending a long weekend with her parents.

Rev. and Mrs. Ellsworth Dykstra, former residents now living in Battle Creek, spent the weekend with friends here. Rev. Dykstra spoke at the Community Reformed church Sunday. Rev. Dykstra is a former pastor of the local church.

Circlin' the Bases

with DEANO

American Mold wrapped up the first round title in the Fast ball division with a seventh-inning come-from-behind victory over luckless Lake Construction. It was as fine a game to watch as there's been played in the local league's history. Pitchers Boss and Potter matched pitch for pitch to the sixth inning. Mold Ken Wojan finally broke the ice with a solo home run to give them a 1-0 lead. Rick Grunch came right back in the bottom of the inning to put the Construction gang ahead with a two run blast near the scoreboard. It appeared that Mold was headed for defeat when the lead off man bounced an infield hopper, but when the dust settled the runner was safe at third and, through the error, Mold was very much in the game. A wild pitch scored the tying run and, after two walks, Don Kowbel led the game with a liner into right to score two and give Mold the game 5-2. It was Lakes third defeat.

In other games the Merchants handed both the USAF and Olesons lopsided defeats. The Air Force fell 18-1 and Olesons 9-1. Gary Stutzman homered in one game and Joe Baillie emerged the hitting hero in the other with three safeties. Lake Construction rattled the fences against the Air Force for a 22-1 win. Ted Potter and Chuck Coleman's three hits were second to Rick Grunch's four for five. Steve Faculak chipped in with a homer.

JUNIOR LEAGUE
Jerry's Gulf evaded their score with Freedmans winning 12-5 and, in doing so, dropped the Artcraft boys into a tie for first place. Terry Blissett pitched four hit ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Criggleton Kerr have as their guests their nephew and niece, Charles and Kay Marley of Fort Wayne, Ind. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Kerr will come for them this weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Seymour had as their weekend guests Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harper III of LaMesa, Calif.

and was given ample hitting support by his teammates who scored in every inning.

Barnard continued on their comeback with a 6-3 win over A & W. Three unearned runs in the Barnard sixth was the difference. Gary Crain hurled a neat two hitter for the win.

PEANUT LEAGUE
In peanut league action, the Pirates, Cards, Braves, and Lions all posted wins. The Cardinals win was the most important and impressive as they defeated the Tigers, handing them their first loss of the year. Going into the game both teams were undefeated and leading their respective divisions. Larry Potter pitched a strong game for the Cards and four fifth inning runs were enough in the 7-4 win.

The Pirates made the most of walks and errors and posted a 11-5 win over the Dodgers. Ned Henley homered for the winners and teammate Carl Swanson hurled a four hitter.

The Braves fifteen runs were too much for the young Astros and the boys in green fell 15-3.

The Lions were on the beam in beating the Braves 10-8 in a slugfest. Bruce McGilton, Herb Schofield, and Kirk Lieberman had two hits apiece for the winners.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE
Edwards and Paul Reed continued to lead the women's league as each posted impressive wins. Paul Reed scored at will in their 23-1 win over the Military wives with Cell Doan and Verna Helms each socking a home run.

Edwards had an easy time with Al's Texaco winning 18-3. They turned a carbon copy in against the Military wives winning 15-1. Georgia Lusk batted out four hits.

BLOOPER LEAGUE
Novaks continued their late inning heroics scoring four runs in their last at bats to edge Boyne City 17-16.

Consumers showed no mercy in drubbing Ken's Dodge Service 11-2.

KIWANIS YOUTH LEAGUE
The Black Sox beat the Green Sox to remain undefeated and in 1st place.

IN THE RACE for the city-balling trophy, figures released for the first time show that Lake Construction hitters dominate the Top Ten. Rick Grunch leads with 11 for 23 and a .478 batting average. Close behind are teammates Ted Potter, Dean Davenport, and Chuck Coleman. The leading hitters and their averages are:

	AB	H	Pct
Grunch-LC	23	11	.478
Coleman-LC	13	6	.461
Potter-LC	22	10	.455
Davenport-LC	20	8	.400

LINEDRIVES... Roster for local all stars meeting Petoskey Bare Construction include Wojan, Boss, Cole, Boss, Balch, and Milligan from American Mold, Potter, Davenport, and Grunch from Lake Construction, Helms, Battle, Ingalls, and Stutzman from the Merchants... Then is a colorful rivalry between Charlevoix and Bare and although records aren't clear as to how the series stands, local fans recall many tense fight struggles between the two teams... Game time is 6:00 p.m. ... Bare's record is now 25-4, One of Best team in the State...

CHARLEVOIX'S NEW MUNICIPAL Airport administrative building is beginning to take shape, but completion is already 21 days behind schedule. It is reported the building won't be ready for use until September, at the earliest. The new facility is costing approximately $30,000, with the State and City each paying half. Charlevoix Lumber Co. is the contractor. Jack Begrow the architect.

Garden Club Honors Hamlins for Yard Care

Mr. and Mrs. Louis (Mike) Hamlin, 813 State St., have been awarded the Charlevoix Garden Club's rotating plaque for overall excellence of landscaping and good grooming of their yard and flowers.

Honorable mention was made of the tidy backyard garden of Mr. and Mrs. Sims Baker, 309 Mason St. Scores of flowers and vegetables presented a harmonious picture of perfect order and beauty, according to Mrs. James Taylor, chairman of the club's plaque committee.

Special mention was made of the hillside at the rear of 406 Park Ave., the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin. The view of this floral display is best seen from Mason Street, made of the tidy backyard garden of Mr. and Mrs. Sims Baker, 309 Mason St. Scores of flowers and vegetables presented a harmonious picture of perfect order and beauty, according to Mrs. James

Gardeners Hear 2 Book Reviews

Two books, "Gardening Without Poison" and "A Garden to Order" were reviewed by Mrs. Darrell Dinwiddie at the July 13 meeting of the Charlevoix Garden Club.

Twenty-eight members were present and plans were made to take part in the Venetian Night boat parade.

Busy Beavers Make Sportsmen Happy

The beaver pond is sometimes thought of simply as being just a home for the beaver, but there is a lot more to it than meets the eye at first glance, according to the Conservation Department.

Michigan's Chippewa Indians, who named the beaver Ahmuk, knew well enough that this big flat-tailed rodent built more than a dam when he made his home along a stream. His dam and its flood created a whole wildlife society, a big plus for hunting and fishing.

FIRST VISITS to beaver ponds cause people to marvel at the dams these big rodents can build, the houses they live in, the trees they cut. But should a trout splash on the pond surface or a duck flush from the flooded timber, visitors often fall to credit the beaver for the presence of other wildlife.

This is not so of trout fishermen. They long ago learned to search out these ponds on cold-water streams where trout like to hole up.

Audubonists have learned that dead, flooded timber in beaver ponds often offers the opportunity to see and study the great blue heron, the black-crowned night heron, tree swallows, woodpeckers, and other birds. Fur trappers know these ponds will yield pelts other than beaver so they make sets for muskrats, mink, otters, weasels, or foxes which frequently travel along pond ice in the winter.

SOME PEOPLE use the beaver pond as a factory for a small industry. Under state permits, they collect and sell giant water beetles, frog eggs, dragon fly larvae, tiny fresh-water shrimp, turtles, and even some of the plants that grow there.

One of the biggest values of beaver ponds is that they produce ducks. This is especially important now because of drought conditions during recent years in the major duck nesting and feeding grounds of this country and Canada.

Ducks that live primarily in forest areas—on beaver ponds, small streams, and rivers—have suffered considerably less than

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shores from Port Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Knudson, from Wauwatosa, Wis. and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Knudson spent the past week on a camping and fishing vacation on White Lake.

Eight members of the local Extension Club attended the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City with Vivian Vance as guest star last Thursday. Those attending were Evelyn Alexander, Ada and Jean Williams, Hilda Crowe, Sandy McClanathan, Helen and Bonnie Miner and Edna Howe.

The Sprague Gardner cottage, the summer home of the late Florence Sprague, on the hill back of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson was destroyed by fire, caused by lightning striking the utility pole next to it during the storm last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Robert Wilson reported it to the East Jordan Fire Department immediately. They soon arrived and worked with local helpers several hours. The house and contents were listed as a complete loss. The garage next to it was saved. Cookies and hot coffee was given the firemen from the Curtis Mower family. At the time, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ashman of Indianapolis were guests in the house, but had gone that morning for a day's trip to Mackinac Island. Therefore their personal belongings were also destroyed. They were guests that night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price.

Toll Decreases Water Death

Michigan's water deaths this year through July 15 reached 136 in 218 accidents, decreases of eight and 43 respectively compared with the same period in 1964, according to provisional figures reported by the State Police.

In addition, 97 persons have been injured. Forty-five of the accidents were property damage only.

Of the 110 drownings of which official reports have been received, 18 were boat operators, 23 were boat passengers, 36 were swimmers or waders, 1 was a skin diver, 13 fell through ice and 19 fell from a bridge, bank, dock, pier or in some other manner.

A SLOWLY TROLLED spoon was the undoing of this 12-pound pike caught by Elwyn Deyo, right, of Adrian, who was fishing in Nowland Lake, where he and his family are vacationing at Hidden Valley Resort. Admiring dad's fish are Billie Deyo, 11, and Curtis Deyo.

Young Charlevoix men interested in a fine career

Coast Guard Wants Local Applicants

Congressman Raymond F. Cleveland (D., 11th District, Michigan) announced today that the annual competition for entrance to the U.S. Coast Guard Academy will commence with the Dec. 4, 1965 administration of the College Entrance Examination Board Tests. These examinations will be given in over 3,000 test centers.

Cleveland emphasized the opportunity offers qualified young men who choose this four-year course which leads to a commission as a career officer in America's oldest continuous seagoing Armed Service and a Bachelor of Science degree.

"Appointments are made on a competitive basis; there are no separate quotas for States or Districts and no special categories," he said. "I urge all qualified young men who are interested in this worthwhile profession to write for details and applications as soon as possible to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut 06320."

A CANDIDATE for the next competition for the Coast Guard Academy must be single, must have reached his seventeenth birthday by July 1, 1966 and must be in excellent physical condition.

A high school diploma is the minimum educational requirement, although high school seniors assured of being graduated by June 30, 1966 are eligible to enter the competition if they will have at least 15 credits by that time. All applicants must have three units of English, two in Algebra and one in Plane Geometry by graduation.

should not overlook the present opportunity to become a Michigan State Police trooper. Sgt. Jack Brouard, commander of the Petoskey State Police post, contends.

A new recruiting drive is now under way to enroll 200 additional troopers authorized by the legislature upon the recommendation of Governor Romney.

TO SPEED UP the examination process, 18 officers have been assigned as special recruiters to conduct field physical tests and, through the cooperation of the state civil service commission, supervise the written tests.

Young men between 21 and 29 years of age, married or single, five feet 10 inches in height with weight in proportion, and with a high school education or its equivalent are eligible to apply.

For full information and application blanks they should go to any State Police post or write to the civil service commission in Lansing.

"This is a wonderful career," Sgt. Brouard said. "The pay is good and now even better with a new increase. In addition, there is a subsistence allowance, two paid annual vacations, paid sick leave, free uniforms, five-day week and a fine pension plan which permits the officer to retire at the end of only 25 years of service with a pension of half pay that also protects the wife."

"BEST OF ALL, this is an interesting and challenging career that never becomes monotonous. Troopers are respected and looked up to and they also have the satisfying feeling that they are performing a needed and valuable public service."

"Every young man should examine this opportunity."

No other state has as many college and university faculty members abroad on educational missions as Michigan.

Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s billings to customers dipped slightly, but net profit per share was up 15¢ for the first six months of 1965, El-lery Sedgwick Jr., president, reported to shareholders.

Billings, Medusa's statement of income for the second quarter of 1965 shows, were down approximately $300,000 from the same period last year. Total billings for the month period this year were $17,226,000 this year.

HOWEVER, THE net profit per share for the six months was 69¢, compared to 54¢ for the same period last year.

The picture for the second quarter, ending June 30, was even brighter. Billings for the quarter totaled $12,661,000, compared to $12,354,000 last year. Profit per share was 72¢ for the quarter, up 16¢ over the second quarter of 1964.

"Net price realization again declined moderately over the period but we achieved a higher gross profit per barrel by reason of lower costs at some of our plants combined with a higher rate of operation," Sedgwick told stockholders.

Medusa, Sedgwick revealed, is currently negotiating with unions representing its hourly employees. He predicted there will not be a strike. Sedgwick also said other cement companies have settled for the most costly wage and benefit agreements in their history.

THIS PIER WILL EXTEND more than 300 feet into the harbor at St. James, Beaver Island, when Phil Gregg gets it completed next year. Gregg plans to open a marina, complete with slips, storage and other services. The pier is located where the Beaver Island Lumber Co.'s ships once docked. More than 800 old pilings (on left), which remain from the Lumber Co.'s days, will have been pulled out when the marina is finished. It will be the only complete marina on Beaver Island. One of longest fish tugs to ever operate on Lake Michigan, the Annabelle, is sunk only a few feet from the pilings.

To own a plane and know how to fly it can be helpful for a man to visit his family while they are away from home. Mrs. Betty Taylor and children from Saginaw, are staying at their Ellsworth residence. They are not on vacation, Betty is redecorating; in the house and the children are planning on picking cherries. Mr. Edward "A" Taylor with his plane, flew Laura Hutzler from Saginaw to Charlevoix so she could visit her friends in Ellsworth and all his family. That trip was on Tuesday, then Friday of the same week all flew from the city to spend a weekend with the six other Taylors and friends.

Last week 4H members attended 4H Club Week at East Lansing. The members, all from Counties in Michigan began their session on July 13. These from Antrim County were, Yvonne Matchett, Charlevoix; Mary Lou Kralic and Linda Scott of East Jordan; Robert Kitchen, Elmira; Doris Sandeen and Darlene Rice, Mancelona; and Mercedes Mathers who is on the State Planning Committee. While attending Club Week Yvonne met Nuttie Suzuki the little gal who was the IFYE that stayed at the home of the Richard Wielands.

Another couple in Ellsworth are singing their praises of being Grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hastings daughter, Margaret gave birth to a son July 16. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Newhouse live in New Hampshire, where Tom is stationed at Pease Air Force Base at New Castle.

A WEDDING Shower was given for Marlene Wynsma, Friday evening July 16. A lunch was served and enjoyed by all but the most enjoyment for the group came when they played several games. I was not told who the winners were. Marlene received many useful household gifts from her many friends. Fifty women attended the shower at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church basement.

Mr. Siebe Vanhouten had a misfortune last Sunday July 11. While leaving church he stumbled on a rubber mat and fell. The result from the fall was a broken arm, four inches below the shoulder. Siebe will have his arm in a cast for three months. Maybe you haven't thought of this Siebe, Gert will have to tie your shoe laces.

JOHN TILLOTSON was admitted to Traverse City Oshpatic Hospital Monday July 12. The doctors had John in the operating room Thursday morning for observation of his lungs and an x-ray. Hurry home John, these cherries are getting ripe.

THE PHEASANT rooster who was making his home on my property was killed Friday evening. He was a cocky fellow, when he strutted across the road motorists would wait for him but the last driver didn't. By the way, he left a large family. His prilliance will be missed.

MR. AND MRS. Bernie Boss are enjoying the reunion of the Gerrit Klooster children. Jack, Bernice and Ann, Ivan, Ann and Gail Mittag came from Azusa, California, to surprise their friends. Jack and Linda Klooster and John and Bernice Veenbear all of Grand Rapids,

Shocking Admission

AVERAGE HUMAN imagination simply cannot cope with the idea that Lake Michigan could become polluted. The mere possibility is too staggering for anyone but a radical extremist to believe. Here are so many miles and hundreds-of-tons of unmoistened water that it simply cannot be contaminated, except possibly in a small, limited area. This is what common sense tells us.

BUT COMMON sense has let us down. Or we have let it down.

Lake Michigan is polluted. Not "could be" or "possibly," it is!

If we are to admit this the admission is shocking, revolting and frightening. So we must be shocked, revolted and frightened.

Not that this most beautiful of the Inland Seas is a basin of filth... such as Lake Erie has become.

DICK LYONS, skipper of the freighter Mackinac Islander, puts the degree of pollution pretty much in its proper perspective. Dick says 20 years ago -- when he left Lake Erie's already fouled shores for the northern Lakes -- the Public Health Service felt it was pretty much safe for seamen to take drinking water directly from the upper lakes in most deep-water areas away from shore.

Now the Public Health Service is reported to be advising seamen to chlorinate all water from the lake. Not that they're sure all water is carrying diseases at all times. But at one time and another the water has been at least mildly contaminated.

Chances are you can get away with drinking water direct from the lake with no ill effect. In fact, most of us can vouch for this being true.

But still you're taking a chance that you didn't have to take 20 years ago. And to whet your thirst from the southern sector of the lake would be foolhardy.

TWENTY YEARS ago, Lyons recalls, there were even times when Round Lake water was reasonably safe for drinking. Now drinking from Round Lake would be gambling with odds that surely would have made the signers of our Declaration of Independence discard their pens.

It's good to see a full-blooded man of the lakes like Dick Lyons mad about pollution. Eyes that have searched the horizons of the World's oceans and seas tell you that those who foul the waters of the upper lakes cut deeper into the being of the man than the privations endured as an independent ship's master.

BUY WHY, SOMEONE has to ask, aren't others angry. When will they act?

They can act. Right now there are steps that can and should be taken by those of us in Charlevoix to reverse creeping pollution. They may seem like expensive measures at the moment, but in another 20 years they will be immeasurably more costly.

It's Your Electric Bill

DEBATE BETWEEN the Federal Gov't's Rural Electrification Administration (REA) and the privately-owned, but partially government-controlled, Consumers Power Co. is providing stimulating summer reading.

Consumers, in essence, is charging that by giving the cooperative electric generating plant at Advance a $6 million low-interest-rate loan the government is subsidizing a service -- at taxpayers' expense -- that could have been provided by private industry. Furthermore, Consumers points out the homeowner (taxpayer) would even pay less for his electricity if it was provided by the company.

This is pretty potent stuff.

BUT WHAT'S ON the other side? The cooperative contends that Consumers failed to offer it a contract that provided the desired "flexibility and economies." Or that would be "responsive to the needs of the rural systems." By taking the loan and adding to its generating and transmission facilities the cooperative says it will

If this is doubted read the big city papers and find out what the government estimates it will cost to halt pollution of southern Lake Huron, the Detroit River and Lake Erie.

It's too late for them. Not so for us. We can still preserve the heritage we are defiling.

THE FIRST STEP that must be taken is for the City of Charlevoix to take forceful measures to halt use of all boat toilets in Round Lake. If the City cannot in good conscience spend local taxpayers money to build adequate toilet facilities then a less pleasant, but necessary, move is in line.

Let the Council, in September, pass an ordinance requiring that all boat toilets be sealed when they enter the Pine River channel.

This could result in public and private boat facilities in the harbor being empty during the summer of 1966. But we doubt it. If City leaders will do a more aggressive job of working with the Waterways Commission we suspect more realistic financial support will be coming to help pay for needed toilet facilities.

Some businessmen may scream that this is too extreme a measure. If they do, ask them to ponder how much louder their sons will want to holler in 1990 when boaters shun the harbor because it is a quagmire of filth.

THE SECOND step the City should take is to improve the sewage treatment plant and system. This, too, will be costly. Should the day come when our northwest winds carry the choking odor of absolute pollution into the windows of proud summer homes at the Belvedere Club the money that wasn't spent in 1966 will seem absurdly slight.

Step three should be taken by the County Board of Supervisors. The Board must enact a stringent, no-loopholes, sanitary code that will make it possible to close all homes, cottages and others that have septic tank effluent ultimately finding its way into the lake.

This ordinance must be backed by adequate funds to employ fulltime technicians to police it and then enforce it in court.

Fourth, the State must step up its activities to police and halt industrial and municipal pollution.

IN THE MAJORITY of cases these are steps most people already assume are being taken. However, due to lack of financial, moral or political support they are not.

Let us remember no mortal could create the Great Lakes. And though mortals may kill their cleanliness and beauty, no mortal will resurrect them. So why can't we call off the carnage before it is fatal?

Save over $4 million in ten years in "wholesale power costs."

The Courier, and householders (taxpayers), need not be concerned about "wholesale power costs." What we're interested in is what it costs to buy electricity for our families.

If, as it appears, Consumers can keep the lights and appliances operating in rural homes for less than the cooperative, our sense of fair play says given the business to Consumers.

Next we are duly bound to be bored by listening to the time-worn argument that rural areas would never have received electricity if it weren't for the co-ops. With this we agree. And for it we salute the government. But so what?

If the day has come when private industry can, and will, serve us better than the co-ops then let's get taxpayers off the hook.

Government, as we recall from some dim and nearly erased chapter, is meant to provide services capitalism cannot or will not.

ends

Charlevoixans have a faculty for turning up in the most unusual places and participating in some of the most interesting jobs.

One of the latest to find herself in this position is our own Mrs. William Ratigan who is spending the summer in Tallahassee, Fla., where Dr. Ratigan is serving as visiting professor in the field of guidance and counseling at Florida State University.

Never one to be idle, she's participating as a volunteer in Operation: Head Start in a public school on the outskirts of the Florida city where she helps orient 33 negro pre-schoolers to classroom and extracurricular activities.

Tho' the youngsters all come from culturally deprived backgrounds, she writes that they are beautifully dressed by their mothers, showing that they come from loving homes and parents.

At first most of the children were shy and many cried or whimpered for several days; some had no knowledge of what pencils or crayons were for; others, who seemed all eyes, would look at an ordinary playground ball as if it were a mystery beyond comprehension.

By the end of the first week, the children were all veterans of school life, accustomed to group singing, group play-ground activities, art work and coloring, and, not least of all, the in-between snacks and treats and the wholesome school lunch.

In line with her talents as an author of three books for young people, Mrs. Ratigan's math assignment is that of "story lady." As a result of this experience she is compiling a repertoire of stories so that other members of the Head Start staff may use the material to entertain and instruct these children who will enter the first grade this September.

CHARLEVOIX WAS saddened last week with the news of the death of one of its oldest summer residents, Mrs. S.J. Strauss. She had many friends among the townspeople who will miss her "always young" outlook on things.

SOME PEOPLE must live a world inhabited with black cats, unseen ladders that they unwittingly walk under along with every other thing that smokes of bad luck. Mrs. Charlie Hesse apparently is one of these unfortunate people for less than three weeks ago she fractured her right wrist and hand and last week, in an effort to protect the injured arm, lost her balance and fell against a railing, this time fracturing her upper left arm.

I'm asking you, how much more bad luck can anyone person have. Sure hope that some four leaf clovers and a few good luck charms will replace those omens of misfortune that seem to be haunting her.

WE HAD SOME mighty cool nights not long ago but who ever thought it got cold enough to frost anything. It did. Art Osborn was telling me that he saw a number of fields that had been nipped by the frost while enroute to Gaylord.

Charlie Stevens, out south of town, had parts of tomato plants touched by the cold which did its damage not in the low spots where you'd expect it to hit but sort of on a "hit and miss" basis.

Raising crops is one-shed deal in this climate and when one gets damaged for some reason, farmers are just sunk. So hope the damage wasn't too bad.

COMMERCIAL FISHING WAS A MAJOR INDUSTRY UNTIL MID 1940'S

OLD CHARLEVOIX FROM LAKE MICHIGAN

An Editor Doesn't Get His Home on a Glacier

I was once possessed with the notion that if someone ever stuffed my fishing tackle box with $100,000 bills I would build a home at 10,000 feet on a glacier in the mountains of the Alaska Range.

This, to my thinking, was the ultimate place to live. There the vulgar joys and comfort of civilized reality cannot intrude. No pseudoism is tolerated in really big mountains.

NONE BUT A LUNATIC, you say, would have such ambitions. But then you have never sought the answer you someday learn belongs to no living mortal in the wild subarctic mountains. There is no other world like it, except, possibly, the endlessness of the Arctic Slope.

This column's decision to leave Charlevoix to join Congressman Ray Cleveland's staff in Washington D.C. brought back memories of those mountains that once kept me out of the clutches of mankind's terrifying scramble for stature. Debating whether to accept Cleveland's invitation to prowl the nation's capital revived those same instincts that make a man leave a comfortable camp to test the mountains. Lolling in the backyard at Idle Acres, enjoying a cool Lake Michigan June breeze, such as Washington will never be favored with, made the thought of pulling up stakes for the big city seem as undesirable as leaving a warm tent for the torture of high slopes.

BUT AS WITH the mountains, the same lure that always won then was again the victor. In Charlevoix there are no longer many surprises; most things are pretty much routine. In contrast is the appeal of the unknown that waits in a job that is completely different from anything this column has ever tackled.

Allice pointed out there would be days upon days when I would cuss myself as I recalled the peaceful contentment of watching purple finches on the bird feeder and listening to the bounds cross a snow-capped hill after chasing them on snowshoes for half a day.

BUT THE CURSE IS to strong to bow to the truth of such an argument. Robert Service once wrote a couple of lines which when pulled out of context, diagnose this fateful weakness some of us suffer from:

"They're always tired of the things that are."

"And they want the strange and new."

"...And each forgets... It's the steady, quiet plodding ones."

"Who win in the lifelong race."

Dick Lyons knows these lines. He also knows the truth of them.

All of this mumbo jumbo isn't to say there hasn't been change and challenge in Charlevoix. There has been, and still is.

CHARLEVOIX IS THE MOST fortunate small community this column has ever studied.

The city has the most dedicated and selfless elected officials I have encountered in some ten years of community newspapering. These men sometimes make mistakes, and they are often inadequately informed due to conditions beyond their control, but when the big picture is put together there is no questioning they are doing an unsurpassed job for Charlevoix. Why?

Because they love Charlevoix.

There are problems to be faced--pollution, planning, slums, and others. And they will be faced and solved. Perhaps not as rapidly or efficiently as some would like, but the record shows Charlevoix will preserve its grand heritage.

Unfortunately, I am going to be so brash as to bluntly predict Charlevoix will rue the day it failed to gain control of Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s property on South Point. Such a forecast is not in the public interest. Financially the company's development will directly or indirectly benefit the majority of Courier readers. But the day will come when the loose ends of township government will not be able to cope with a situation that inevitably must develop. Charlevoix will survive this quiet crisis and continue to be the kind of community you fall head over heels in love with.

REAPPORTIONMENT of the County Board of Supervisors is also inevitable. If the cause of representative government is to be served, the threat here is that the absurdity of the one-man-one-vote edict will prevail. This is just as unfair as the present extreme where land area far and away outranks people.

Charlevoix County's Republican party organization received a slight reprieve--and the Democratic party a setback--when George LaBlance was ousted last year as Democratic county boss. However, having watched the same sort of cycle in Wayne County, I fear that ultimately the Democratic party will gain just about as absolute control as the Republicans are now losing. Why? Simply because the Democrats have learned that the secret of political success is to boldly present new ideas and candidates that can meet the needs of a changing community. It is no longer good enough to simply offer candidates whose qualifications are that they have "been honest servants of the people for decades," or photographs that "were good enough for your parents."

If Republicans will begin recruiting this new kind of candidate and daring ideas they have an even chance of at least coming out of the traces with a genuine two-party system in the county. But this may be asking for Utopia.

There are many matters that will bear watching in the new few months and years.

If you were to dig back into the dusty files of old Couriers you would have no doubt Charlevoix is in the midst of its most exciting and challenging era. As this column has, you would come to the conclusion it will meet the challenge with progress and pride.

And since the Sheppard clan expects to return to Idle Acres as soon as little Craig is old enough to handle a fishing rod, we hope above all else Charlevoix remains beautiful. If it doesn't what sense will your desperation and mine make?

Beaver Island Escape from Desperation

ROMANCE, the legends and lore of the big lakes and some of Michigan's most colorful history are combined on Beaver Island with the exotic lure of an island hideaway and retreat from the tension and pressures of the mainland. These ingredients, plus the Midwest's finest hunting and fishing, are attracting thousands of vacationers to Beaver Island. Built in 1853--during Mormon King Strang's reign--the Beaver Head Light, above, charms many visitors who make the scenic trip to the south end of the island.

SUMMER VISITORS will find stimulating vacation fun awaits them every Sunday at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club. Public trap and skeet shooting is conducted every Sunday from 1 p.m. until about 4 p.m. The cost per-round (25 clay pigeons) ranges from $2.50 up. If you left your shotgun at home chances are you can borrow one at the club. The club is located on US-31 about five miles north of town on the east side of the highway. Don't forget, Mom and the kids will enjoy watching. Refreshments are served in the club house.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating, and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and

Walloon lake. Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May. Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smetania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nym Holtes, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan, resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

Always On Guard

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix--the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Murrain, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions.

Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

Here's Where & How to Fish

If there is a better cure than fishing for that hauntingly tense feeling that the mob is stalking you with its big city noises and impatience it must be fishing in the Charlevoix area.

Oh sure, there are places in North America with better fishing. But darn few. Some of the country's most incurable anglers rate Lake Charlevoix and the Beaver Island area among the finest small-mouth bass fishing grounds in the U.S.

YET THERE IS MORE than the promise that fish are available for the catching to recommend Charlevoix as a choice fishing area. You mustn't overlook the unsurpassed drama of our clean water, cool air, big hardwood and birch trees and quiet mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But where to go and how to do it?

If you're after smallmouth bass or perch try Lake Charlevoix. The South Arm is generally good.

Your best choice of lures for Lake Charlevoix bass will be Jig - A - Do streamers in brown, white and yellow colors. Others this column can vouch for are small (quarter-ounce) darvies in red-and-white and pearl colors, Jig-A-Do crawlers, number-two size spinners, Super Dupers, Flatfish and Heddon's Cobra. (Worms are also reputed to catch fish.) You can buy any, or all, of these lures at Staley's Hardware and other local stores.

FOR SPECIFIC TIPS on where the current Lake Charlevoix hotspots are ask Clare Staley at his hardware, Irv Drost at Irv's Cocktail Lounge, Bernie Ward at Ward's Boat Livery, or Mearle Scott in Ironton.

BIG BASS SUCH as those on this stringer come from Lake Charlevoix.

You can fish Lake Charlevoix from a boat or with waders. There are many areas of the South Arm that can be waded. Sometimes they produce nice bass during mid-day, but evening or morning is usually best. If you're fishing from a boat try casting or trolling right off the edge of bullrushes or boulder-strewn areas.

Throw your lure into likely looking areas. When it hits the water let it sink and remain still for a few seconds; you will often get a strike the minute you finally move it. If there is no strike retrieve it a few feet and then let it sink and rest again before moving it.

If you want to do some exploring try the nearby shoreline of Lake Michigan. Once again, you can wade or use a boat. The same lures and techniques as used on Lake Charlevoix will stand you in good stead.

IF SMALLER lakes are your forte look at a map and pick one of the many directly south of town in Charlevoix County or Antrim County. Though few of them have public access sites, you can usually talk a property owner into letting you trespass. He may even have boats to rent.

You will probably be amazed to find you have to share these tightly fished lakes with only one or two other boats; and sometimes you'll be all alone.

Here's a list of ten smaller lakes worth trying.

- Lake 26 (Lake Marion), for pike, bass and panfish.
- Nowland Lake, for pike, bass and panfish.
- Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and musky.
- Susan Lake, for small pike.
- Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.
- Walloon Lake, for trout, pike, bass, panfish.
- West Twin Lake for bass and pike.
- St. Clair Lake (in Ellsworth), for bass, panfish and even an occasional trout.
- Ellsworth Lake, for bass, pike, and maybe a musky.
- Toad Lake (south of Ellsworth) for pike, bass and panfish.

ALL OF THESE lakes have the fish in them that are mentioned . . . that's guaranteed by this writer. Catching them is up to you. Try using the same lures recommended for Lake Charlevoix. Arbogast's new weedless flitterbugs, Hula Poppers and Hawaiian Wig-glers are also productive numbers.

You can find your way to these lakes by asking for maps of Charlevoix and Antrim County, which are available at most motels, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Courier.

If you taste runs more to stream fishing for trout, try the Jordan River south of East Jordan, or the Maple River near Pellston. The Bear River between Walloon Lake and Petoskey also has trout, but is hard to fish. The same holds true with the Boyne River.

There are also any number of small, bushy streams with good populations of trout (and usually mosquitoes).

THIS CAMPSITE is in the State Forest campground on the east shore of Beaver Island about eight miles from St. James. The spacious campground offers water and toilet facilities, plus a boat launching ramp and fine beach.

ST. JAMES, BEAVER ISLAND harbor is right at the end of the pier as the motor ship Beaver Island prepares to dock after its trip over from Charlevoix. The ferry boat makes two trips daily during the summer. Regular trips are also made during the spring and fall to accommodate fishermen and bunters.

Art Fair Record Predicted

By FRANK MARTIN
Entries in the Waterfront Fair are well ahead of last year and if the trend continues it will be the biggest fair in its seven-year history, Mrs. Jack Rader reports.

She was talking of entries in the seventh annual Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsmen scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 14. The site of the one-day event will be East Park in the heart of the city's business district.

DEADLINE FOR entries in the fair, which is open to all artists and craftsmen who do original work, is August 2. The caliber of entries is improving annually with more and more people who have received recognition in the arts and crafts seeking this opportunity to exhibit their works, Mrs. Rader said.

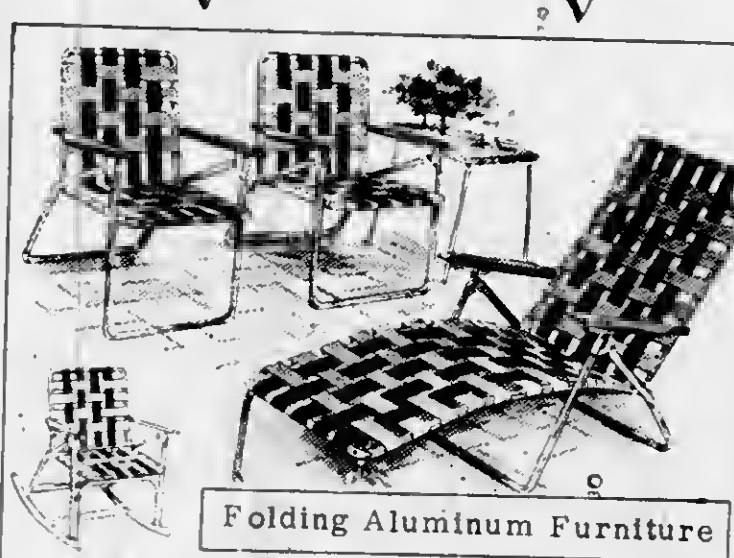

The ARTmobile which was visited by almost 3,000 visitors to the Fair last year, will return again this season with an exhibit of "Three Centuries of French Painting". Mrs. Rader has announced. The return of this popular feature was made possible through arrangements with the Founders Society of the Detroit Institute of Art.

AMONG THE paintings to be on exhibit will be Rousseau's "Landscape" and Corot's "La Vallée De LaSalle". The new attitude toward landscape will be found in both of these famous works of art. In the 1840's, Theodore Rousseau, Millet and Diaz de la Pena settled in Barbizon, in the Forest of Fontainebleau, devoting themselves to direct, unpretentious portrayal of the rural scene. "Landscape" is a sketch painted on-the-spot in the open air, a new practice which eventually led to the brilliant canvases of the Impressionists.

Last year, it will be remembered, the Detroit Institute of Art collection featured "American Heritage--People and Places".

ENTRY BLANKS for this outstanding Fair may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce which sponsors the event.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the camp ground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets.

Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the world is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay.

For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of

Nature and the conveniences of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake.

Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

WHEN THIS bell at the Ironton School first called citizens to meetings in the Township Hall James K. Palk was President of the United States and American soldiers were fighting in Mexico.

That was in 1848. The bell has been serving Ironton ever since.

In 1883 it was moved from the Ironton Iron Works to the then new school. When the present school was constructed in 1963 the community could not part with its bell. It still calls the kids in from recess and lunch.

GREENSKY HILL MISSION
Here in the 1840's the Chippewa Indian missionary, Peter Greensky, established a Protestant mission in an area where legend says Indian chiefs once held their councils. New trees have been planted in an arrangement similar to that of the trees that made up the original council circle. Mission services first were held in a rude building of boughs and bark. In the 1850's the Indians built the present church. It is a fine example of the old log style construction with hand-hewn timbers and notched corners. Windows, doors, and much of the lumber were brought by canoe from Traverse City to Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) and then carried two miles to this site. Methodist services for the Indian congregation have been held here regularly to the present.

Charlevoix's Modern Hospital...With Scenic View

Hospital Ready to Serve You

The Charlevoix Hospital offers several bonuses for summer visitors and year-round residents. These come in the form of the therapeutic view of Lake Michigan and a congenial staff.

The hospital is one of the best equipped in northern Michigan and boasts a staff of outstanding doctors and technicians. Vacationers need have no fears of emergencies while enjoying their leisure days in Charlevoix.

The generous gifts and support of summer residents have made it possible for Charlevoix to have this fine medical facility.

Our Living Heritage

Greensky Hill Indian Methodist Church welcomes summer visitors. The rustic log chapel in its quiet hilltop setting promises quiet moments of meditation for all who seek escape. Services are held every Sunday morning at 9:30.

The mission was founded in the 1840's by Peter Greensky, an Indian missionary. It has been recognized as a valuable historical site by the Michigan Historical Commission.

The church and historic marker are located about 3 miles north of town, overlooking Susan Lake. Your best bet is to ask at your motel or a service station or restaurant for directions.

SERVING SUMMER VISITORS FOR 15 YEARS

THERE'S FUN, culture and beauty at Charlevoix's annual Waterfront Arts Fair. The Fair attracts some of the Midwest's top artists, who display and sell their work. The Fair this year is Aug. 14. Details are available from the Chamber of Commerce.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable longboats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailers and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

COLONY CORALS

Parallelopore (DEV.)--Left, belongs to the Stromatopora, an ancient group of extinct coral-like marine organisms which built laminated irregular limey masses on coral reefs.

Hexagonaria (DEV.) Right and below, are six "Petoskey stones" (type of Tetracoral).

Side view. Above, note younger colony developed on top.

Polished specimen, below. The reason for "hex" in the generic name is apparent.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery was pressed into service in the early 1900's to keep a constant population of lake trout in Lake Michigan. When the sea lamprey wiped out the lake trout the Charlevoix hatchery stood alone in the battle to restock the lake. With completion of the Jordan River National Fish Hatchery this year, the Charlevoix hatchery has found itself playing a lesser role. The hatchery is located at the Lake Michigan end of the Pine River channel.

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

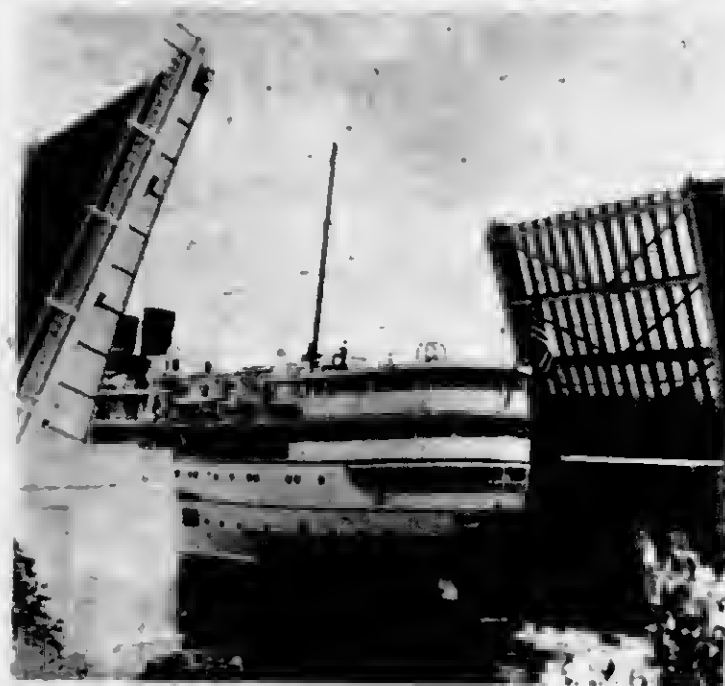

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Sharon Wood, Mike Allen and Hy Heaton.

Hello There.

It takes years to build a forest. Fire can tear it down in minutes. Be careful with fire in the forest.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Nothing can take the press out of Lee-Prest slacks

Not that it's on his mind right now. And it needn't be. Those Lee-Prest Leesures can't help but stay crisp and neat. No matter what you put them through. They have a new permanent press. So the crease stays in. The wrinkles stay out. Permanently. And that's without ironing. No touch-ups, either. They're made from Lee's special blend of 50% polyester and 50% combed cotton. For wash and wear...with conviction.

Incidentally, that permanent press is the only change we've made in Leesures. They still have that leaf, honest look...smart, tailored fit. New Lee-Prest Leesures. Test their permanent press yourself. It isn't necessary, but it's a great way to spend an evening.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation. Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Island, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts, rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James Bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good smallmouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James Bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard. Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

Art Gallery Expands

R & R ROBINSON, INC. of Petoskey, Michigan and Naples, Florida are announcing the opening of a newly enlarged and more extensive art gallery at their Bay View Road location. The recently completed structure will afford the Robinsons space comparable to that in their Naples gallery and will be devoted entirely to works of fine art and significant and important objects of art of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

In discussing the new addition Richard Robinson said, "This expansion of our northern facility has been made necessary by the large number of recent acquisitions made during our annual trip abroad this spring. We saw so many beautiful and exciting things that we simply could not resist them. All of these oils, collages and paintings in mixed media are by contemporary Italians and our opinion they are not only of exceptional quality but they are a welcome and positive relief from the plethora of 'top' and 'pop' trash which has been thrust on a buying public hungry for art-in-any - form'. We are finding a growing resistance to this sort of thing and there is a real demand for more realistic work that people can actually enjoy." Impressionism and semi-abstract realism is rapidly coming into its own again and all of our purchases were made with this very definitely in mind. With the large group of canvases already in the gallery collection the new works give us a full, broad spectrum of art which we feel will have a great appeal to not only our regular collectors and patrons but to newly interested persons as well. It is an exciting collection."

"The new paintings are by Donati, Marino, Marra, Kolligian, Castagnari, ALO', Giannotti, Vagnoli, Becciolotti and other young Italians. The gallery collection also includes recent canvases by our regular group of Americans: Segalman, Hill, Spiker and a West Coast artist, Jack H. Baker. There is a select number of oils by painters of the New Madrid School and signed lithographs by artists of the School of Paris and several series of etchings by Library of Congress print-maker Polly Hill. To enumerate or catalogue the entire list requires too much space but in this exhibit there is something which will appeal to almost all potential buyers of art."

Within the past year the Robinson Gallery has placed works of art in the important U.S. collections of the J. Walter Thompson Co., The Hoover Foundation and the Harry Bradley collection. The Robinson Gallery is open daily except Sunday.

BEAVER ISLAND--If there is any other haven on earth that resembles the natural beauty and unique environment of this Emerald Isle in northern Lake Michigan, its discoverers are keeping its whereabouts a secret. It seems unlikely anyone could keep such a secret. Judging from the thousands of visitors who are flocking to Beaver Island it would seem almost impossible to keep others from learning about such a paradise--if another did exist.

WHAT MAKES Beaver Island so enticingly different? There are many reasons. Perhaps the most important is that it is an island. People are always attracted by out-of-the-way places that hold a promise of mystery.

However, if that's all there was to it, few, if any, would return. So why do hundreds come back, many of them building comfortable vacation homes on the island? Probably the biggest single reason people fall in love with the island and can't shake its grip on them is that it is another world. A world so far removed from that of the hurry and desperation of the mainland that it infects people with a sense of living in another era.

OH, SURE, there are good roads on the island, there are cars, and even a modern airfield with a 2,800 foot and 3,500 foot runway.

But when you start driving down these roads it soon dawns on you that speed and haste make absolutely no sense. After all, nothing can possibly get away from you if you move at a snail's pace.

There is also the romance of history and still unprobed legends that draw visitors to the islands.

The era of Mormon King Strang still has not revealed all of its secrets to modern historians. And while people are focusing attention on King Strang they are often ignoring the fact that the earliest Great Lakes explorers must have made landfalls on the islands.

REMAINS of cabins, barns and small communities on Garden Island and High Island as well as Beaver Island remain from early colonization days, when the Mormon and Irish population numbered more than 2,000. At one time there were two post offices on Beaver Island and one each on High and Garden. Today High and Garden are without a single resident.

Sitting on a remote beach one's imagination transports them back to days when whole families had their dreams tied up along these shores.

Another major factor that keeps people returning to the islands is the people. Few others are as warm, helpful and content. Beaver Islanders seem to know they have found the nearest thing to Utopia available to mortals. It's hard -- if not impossible -- not to be jealous of them.

The Islanders also offer other bonuses. Accommodations and services for island visitors are on a par with just about any on the mainland. This has required large investments and financial risks on the part of Islanders, but they have found the gamble worthwhile.

Chlorinators Would Treat Raw Sewage, Keep Harbor Clean

A Charlevoix marina owner claims a simple mechanical device attached to boat toilets will largely eliminate the pollution problem that exists in Round Lake.

D. D. Walker, owner of Walker Marine Agency, Inc., 313 Belvedere, says the device is called a chlorinator and costs $30. It pulverizes sewage and paper and mixes it with a chlorine disinfectant before discharging it from the boat.

Meanwhile suggestions and support on a movement to clean up Round Lake have come from city and district officials.

John Reynolds, in charge of environmental health for the district, says he would support a village ordinance, or even state legislation, which would require boaters to use the device.

1. Equip their boats with a device such as a chlorinator which would treat raw sewage before it is emptied into the harbor, or

2. Equip their boats with holding tanks which would be emptied into the city sewage disposal system or into Lake Michigan a "safe" distance from shore. He said he was not sure what the state would consider a safe distance.

Reynolds said he also would favor any move by the city to insure adequate sanitary facilities—including toilets and showers—in the harbor area.

Last week, Mayor E. D. Hawley said he planned to ask for $75,000 in the 1966-67 city budget for construction of such facilities in the dock area.

The sum would be matched by the state Waterways Commission which has a policy of going halves with communities on pollution control projects.

City Attorney John Michael said he foresees no difficulty in drawing up a city ordinance which would require boaters to carry their own sewage treatment plants, since the harbor does lie within City limits and the chief of police has dual responsibilities as harbor master.

He said sometime ago he suggested to the council that the state Health Department be asked to run tests on the degree of pollution of Round Lake, but that no action was taken.

Reynolds, on the other hand, said he believes such a survey would only cost money. "We already know that raw sewage is being dumped into the harbor by yachts and that pollution is taking place," he said.

He added that such a survey as Michael proposes ideally would take place over a period of ten days, with water samples taken from different parts of the lake.

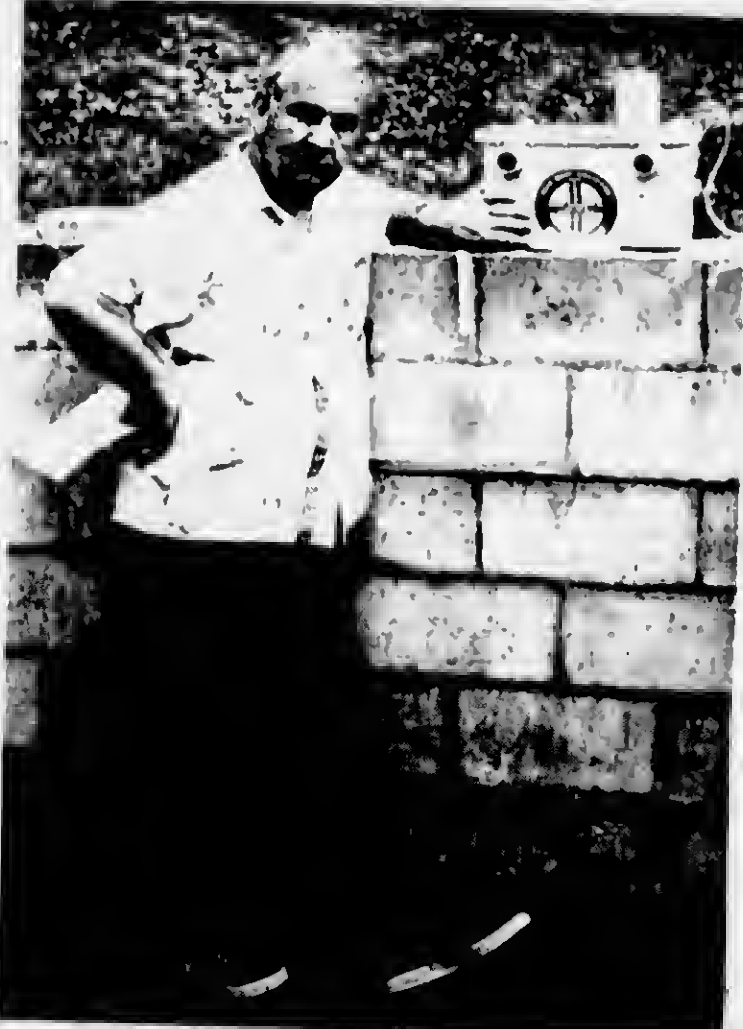

A conservative cost estimate for such a survey would be about $500, if marina owners would provide free transportation to test areas.

Reynolds said although Michigan has set up no minimum standards for chlorinators, he said the use of such devices would be a step in the right direction.

He emphasized, however, that chlorine treatment of sewage takes care of bacteria contamination only, and would not be effective against virus. The 111er disease hepatitis, which has been linked to Round Lake contamination, is caused by a virus, he said.

Marina owner Walker took exception with a Courier editorial which recommended sealing the heads of yachts docked at the harbor when in-

POLLUTION ANSWER? Marina owner D. D. Walker shows model of chlorinator which he believes will help solve pollution problem in Round Lake. The chlorinator pulverizes raw sewage and treats it chemically before discharging it from lake craft. This unit costs $90. Local health and government officials are beginning to recognize danger of untreated sewage being dumped into Charlevoix Harbor by yachts.

Consumers, City Will Share Poles

City councilmen agreed Monday night to share utility poles with Consumers Power Co. along a route from the Charlevoix substation to Medusa property.

The council also approved a proposed change in the route the lines will take.

Originally, the poles were to be placed along Ferry to Eaton, to May, to Garfield. Now the route lies from Stover to May, to Garfield, and out to Medusa.

The poles will be from 75 to 80 feet high, with Consumers high power lines riding near the top and the city's lines 20 feet lower.

B. D. Hilly and Gerrit Elombas, representing Consumers, said when the line is done Medusa will be supplied with 138,000 volts of electricity and Charlevoix will have an extra 46,000 volts.

Councilman Robert Gill expressed concern over the city's liability if a city line-man accidentally did something to shut off power to Me-dusa.

Hilly said that within his knowledge, Consumers has not been sued within the past five years for failure to provide power to a major consumer.

Furthermore, he said, the city's lines will be lower and there will be no reason for a city repairman even to get near Consumers' lines.

Councilman Jerome Whitley raised a question of lights on the poles, since they are so high and the area is relatively close to the airport.

City superintendent Jim Taylor said the plan had been approved by federal and state aeronautical officials.

Under the agreement, Consumers will furnish the labor to change the circuits and the city will pay only for cross arms and other materials needed to move city lines.

Hilly said some of the power carried on the lines will come from the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant and the remainder from Consumers' integrated power system.

Convention Hotel Planned on Dixon

Plans for a $1.5 million convention hotel in Charlevoix that may rise as high as nine stories were bared Monday night at the city council meeting by attorney Henry Hogan of Birmingham, Mich.

To be located at the site of the present Holiday Beach Hotel at the foot of W. Dixon St., the hotel will have 100 rooms for guests, ample accommodations for conventions, and indoor parking facilities.

Hogan said he plans to have the structure completed to three years, giving Charlevoix a 200-room hotel complex in the Dixon - Michigan Ave. area.

The plans came to light when Hogan appeared before the council to ask either for approval of a renewal of his liquor license for the Deck cocktail lounge located in the present Holiday Beach Hotel, or for approval of a new liquor license if one is granted by the state.

Hogan said he has had a staff of four, plus a five-man band, hired since July 1 at the Deck but has not been able to open because the license had been allowed to lapse over a period of two years.

He said he was told definitely last Thursday by state Liquor Control Commissioner Don Leonard that his license is "dead" and that he will either have it renewed by the state or a new one issued. In either case, council approval is needed.

The Council voted three-to-two to permit the mayor and city clerk to approve such a request if and when it is forthcoming from the state before the next council meeting.

The action will allow Hogan to open the Deck immediately after the license is granted, rather than wait for the next council meeting with the tourist season growing short.

Hogan's planned hotel on Dixon is the second such development mapped in the last few years. The property was acquired by the Great Northwestern Land Development Corp. in hopes of building a resort hotel with a $750,000 Area Redevelopment Administration loan. The loan fell through, however, and Hogan acquired the property in the name of The Anchorage, Inc., of which he is the sole stockholder.

He said the city's approval of the Medusa cement plant on the lake south of town almost caused him to scuttle his plans, but that he has decided to go ahead with the hotel. He said he would like to begin tearing down the Holliday Beach Hotel this fall, if he is allowed to move the liquor license to another structure on the property.

If not, the Deck will probably be open one more season before demolition starts. Hogan, who is a member of the law firm Emery, Parsons, Bahr, Tennet and Hogan in Detroit and a partner of The Birmingham Eccentric, told the council he first acquired HIGHLIGHT of the Venetian Festival Saturday night was the crowning of Diane Dyksterhouse as Festival Queen. Doing the honors is Gov. George Romney who flew to Charlevoix from his summer home on Mackinac Island for the occasion. The governor hailed the festival as a time for family get-togethers and said Charlevoix should be jealous of its heritage of clear, cool water.

Chamber of Commerce To Weigh Longer Festival

The 1965 Venetian Festival is history, and observers of the 34 previous festivals are calling it only a qualified success.

The main criticism is that there were no activities scheduled Sunday for the thousands of visitors the festival attracted to town.

On the other hand, very few vacationers had arrived early enough Friday evening to take in the talent show and introduction of former queens at East Park.

Archie Dayton, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce says he definitely will bring up the matter of extending the festival into Sunday at the next meeting of the chamber's board of governors Aug. 3.

Dayton said that although he is not familiar with past festivals, he understood the crowd at East Park for the variety shows was bigger than ever and he said he had had many compliments on the street parade.

There was considerable criticism of the boat parade, with most observers agreeing there were far too few boats, compared with other years.

The festival got under way Friday afternoon with the opening of booths along Bridge Street. Everything was available from candied apples and cherry pie to souvenirs and sun hats.

Shortly before dark, the first phase of a two-night Variety Show began, MC'd by Bob Humphries. Talent included such outstanding local groups as "The Sno - Belt Chorus," a Barbershop group from Boyne City, "The Nightwalkers," an instrumental combo from Petoskey, and Al Breeze, pianist at Grey Gables.

Other groups were "The Movers," a local rock 'n' roll quartet, "The Tonals" from the Hotel Dillworth in Boyne City, and "The Tribesmen," an Indian combo from South Haven.

Soloists included Patti Tallman, Del Terrell, Casey Lynn, and little Billy Gokee. Bert

Plant Site Grows In Land Juggle

City council agreed Monday night to sell an additional 41 feet of city property on Petoskey Road to R. M. Dyksterhouse for construction of a machinery manufacturing plant.

Dyksterhouse acquired 179 feet from the city in June, but has decided he needs more property. The new owner has agreed to build a 6,000 - square - foot manufacturing plant on the property in the next year.

To secure the property, the city turned over a road easement to Dyksterhouse, and picked up an additional 24 feet from the Carey Oil Co., a section of which will be designated as a road.

The cost of the property purchased from Carey was $30 a foot and will be borne by Dyksterhouse, bringing the cost of the additional property to $3,180.

Aug. 2 Deadline For Fair Entries

Deadline for entries in the seventh annual Waterfront Fair for Artists and Crafts-men has been set for Aug. 2, Mrs. Jack Rader, chairman of the Fair committee, has reminded potential entries.

Because of the recent influx of entries, which has placed the number far ahead of this time last year, the deadline has been set ahead, Mrs. Rader added.

At the same time she announced that the ARTmobile, which last year attracted just under 3,000 visitors in one day, will again visit the local Fair, this time with an exhibit featuring "Three Centuries of French Art."

The return of this popular feature was made possible through arrangement with the Founders Society of the Detroit Institute of Art.

Among the paintings to be on exhibit will be Rousseau's "Landscape" and Corot's "La Vallée De La Salle."

The new attitude toward landscape will be found in both of these famous works. In the 1840's, Theodore Rousseau, Millet and Diaz de la Pena settled in Barbizon, the Forest of Fontainebleau, devoting themselves to depicting unadorned portrayal of the real scene. "Landscape" is a sketch painted on-the-spot in the open air, a new practice which eventually led to the brilliant canvasses of the Impressionists.

Entry blanks for the Fair may be obtained at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

THIS LANDMARK on the shore at the foot of W. Dixon St. will disappear from the Charlevoix skyline to make way for a nine-story, 100 room hotel which promises to put Charlevoix on the road to becoming a convention town. Henry Hogan, Birmingham lawyer, publisher, and land developer, revealed his plans Monday night at the city council meeting. Demolition of the Holiday Beach Hotel above may begin as early as this fall.

New Skipper For Sundew

New skipper of the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Sundew, berthed in Charlevoix Harbor, is Lt. Cmdr. Dale R. Foster, of Cleveland, a veteran of 18 years in the service.

Foster succeeds Lt. Cmdr. Paul T. Anderson who has been assigned to the Ninth Coast Guard District Office in Cleveland.

Anderson has been skipper of the Sundew for the past year, after serving as its executive officer from Aug. 1962 until Aug. 1964.

A native of Storm Lake, Iowa, Foster enlisted in the Coast Guard in 1945 and received his boat training at Alameda, Calif.

Assignments have taken him from the Coast Guard Training Station at Groton, Conn. to Seattle, Wash., where he served aboard the cutter Klamath. Later he was assigned to the Captain of the Post Office in Seattle and to the Office of the Admiral of the 13th Coast Guard District at Seattle.

He attended Officer's Candidate School at the U.S.C.G. Academy at New London, Conn.

Foster left service once, in 1946, to attend Buena Vista College in Storm Lake, but he re-enlisted in 1948.

After receiving his commission in 1956 he was assigned to the USCGC Morris at San Pedro, Calif., and later joined the staff of the Commander of the 2nd Coast Guard District at St. Louis, Mo. He served at the Tupelo station at Toledo before moving to Cleveland.

Foster expects to be joined here this weekend by his wife, Barbara, and children Rene, Dale, Kevin, Melaine and Holly Ann. They will live at 405 E. Dixon.

Deputy Clerk Post Vacant

The city council took no action Monday night to find a new deputy city clerk.

There has been no deputy since the death of Herb Campbell last spring. City Clerk Hugh Meyne who has been filling in also has left the job.

Children Attend 'Mary Poppins'

Tickets to "Mary Poppins" were given to children at the Retarded School Center by David Fowler of the Medicine Chest drugstore in Petoskey.

Before the show, the children and their parents roamed the grounds of the school.

The youngsters were driven to Petoskey by Mrs. Robert Bergman and Mrs. William Morrison of East Jordan.

On Monday, the children attended the circus in Petoskey. Tickets were donated by the Petoskey State Police Post.

AF Vet Plans Home in Oscoda

M/Sgt. Stanley Evers, son of Mrs. Hazel Evers of Hayes Township, has retired from the U.S. Air Force after 23 years.

Evers, who has been stationed at the Elmendorf Air Force Base at Anchorage, Alaska, was mustered out at McChord AFB at Seattle.

M/Sgt. and Mrs. Evers began their retirement with a two-week visit with his mother. They will leave Wednesday for Oscoda to visit Mrs. Evers' mother and other relatives. They plan to settle eventually in Oscoda.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Steel had as their weekend guests Mr. and Mrs. Jack Klosser and family of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Charles Coleman and Mrs. Harrison Warner were in Grand Rapids Sunday to attend the 25th wedding anniversary open house for their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Bambach.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Beaudoin and family spent the Venetian weekend at their Pine Point cottage.

Peter Phillips who is stationed at Norfolk, Va., with the U.S. Navy is spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Phillips.

Sheriff Glenn E. Rose and marine deputy, Basil Crawford of East Jordan, were in Lansing last Wednesday to attend a Marine Safety meeting.

Mrs. Harvey Campbell had as her guests recently her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Philip Jones of Ann Arbor and their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Steven Hansen and two children of Selfridge Air Force Base, where he is stationed with the U.S. Air Force. While here they were joined by Dr. Hansen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hansen of Cincinnati who spent several days with them.

There are over 9 million teenagers in U.S. secondary schools—an increase of over 43% in the past decade. Last year, local advertisers invested 58% more dollars in newspaper advertising during the fall back-to-school months.

Lakes Cargo Shipments Reported Up

A grand total of 50,784,938 net tons of iron ore, coal and grain was shipped over the Great Lakes this year by July 1. Oliver T. Burnham, vice president and secretary of the Lake Carriers' Association, reports. This is the largest movement for the period in five years and compares to 50,777,063 tons moved in the 1964 period.

June shipments of the three commodities amounted to 20,745,848 tons, also a five-year high, compared to 19,242,162 tons in 1964.

Iron ore cargoes for the month totaled 10,163,842 gross tons, almost a million tons ahead of last year; coal shipments added up to 6,934,999 net tons, an increase of almost 600,000 tons, to set an eight-year record, while grain dipped to 2,427,346 tons from 2,621,493 tons in 1964. Only 7.8% of the grain was moved in U.S. vessels.

News of the death of a former resident, Kenneth Widdifield, at Los Angeles July 17 has been received here.

A native of Charlevoix and the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Widdifield, Mr. Widdifield was a member of the editorial staff of "Life" magazine from its inception until the early 1950's when he retired and moved to Los Angeles.

Funeral was held Thursday at Forest Lawn cemetery in Los Angeles.

Water consumption in the United States is the key to the American standard of living, reports the National Wildlife Federation. A large paper mill requires 50 million gallons of water per day. It takes 18 barrels of water to produce a barrel of oil, 25 gallons of water to produce a gallon of aviation gas, 250 tons of water to make a ton of steel. That is why the Federation has selected water pollution control as the theme for the 1965 National Wildlife Week observance, March 14-20.

The primary purpose of a newspaper is to bring you the news and enable you to keep that news with you as long as you wish to.

Crackdown Continues On Litter

"There ought to be a law," is a frequent remark heard when a person sees a particularly offensive case of littering along our highways or beaches.

Officials of Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc., are always quick to point out that there is a law against littering. It was enacted by the Michigan legislature and put into effect in October of 1963.

SINCE THAT time an increasing number of arrests are being made by State and Charlevoix Sheriff's deputies for littering offenses. Michigan State Police records alone indicate that during 1964 a total of 359 persons were arrested for littering.

Fines for a particular offense go as high as $100, at the discretion of the courts, but also result in the offender cleaning up a given area along a highway or beach when the judge thinks it appropriate.

Local and state law enforcement officials indicate they need more support from the general public in apprehending litterbugs. They point out that an officer cannot possibly see all violations, and that in some cases there are witnesses who simply "do not want to become involved."

Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc., currently being coordinated through the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, points out that we all are already involved in the June of $750,000 a year for clean-up costs in Michigan. "A coordinated enforcement effort by the police and the private citizen can help to save this money for more worthwhile projects, such as beautification projects, or other positive programs," said KMB officials.

Leonard Burns to Receive M.A.

Leonard K. Burns of Charlevoix will receive his master's degree from Northern Michigan University at Marquette at commencement exercises July 30.

A total of 198 bachelors and masters degrees will be conferred by Dr. Edgar L. Harden, president. Commencement speaker is Dr. Paul Frederick Sharp, Chancellor of the University of North Carolina.

Frosh Oriented

Sharon Sugdeo of Charlevoix has attended freshman orientation at Western Michigan University. Sharon will be one of 4,000 freshmen starting classes in late August.

This summer, we can make the living even easier.

Because now natural gas service is available to many summer homes in the Cheboygan area. That means you can enjoy the convenience of gas for cooking. For heating, hot water, and drying clothes. For getting rid of garbage and trash. For lighting your lawn. And even for air conditioning.

When you have natural gas service, you can say good-bye to bottled gas cylinders, fuel storage tanks, and delivery trucks. And you never have to wonder whether you have enough fuel on hand. Gas will always be there to serve you. Always be there to bring city convenience to your summer home. And you can have this service for as little as $21.00 per year minimum bill.

Sound good? Then give us a call or stop in to make arrangements for natural gas service at your summer home. We're at 216 Petoskey St., Petoskey, phone 347-8701 (if it's a toll call, call collect). Ask about our Seasonal General Service Rate. It will save you plenty on fuel bills. Making that easy living even more enjoyable.

Clouds Fail To Dim Sparkle of City Band

There were no stars, and the moon failed to put in appearance, but the Charlevoix City Band provided enough sparkle for even the most discerning critics at the third weekly band concert in East Park.

Upwards of 600 vacationers and townspeople turned out to hear the hour-long program by local and visiting musicians under the baton of director Clarence Odmark.

The rain, which had been threatening most of the evening, held off until most members of the audience had folded up their blankets and gone home.

Two numbers with Spanish overtones were particularly well received. They were "Commandante" by Guentzel, a stately almost processional march, considerably slower than a footstep march. The other was "Fantasia on Lady of Spain" by Evans-Hunsberger, a number that conjured up illusions of dark-eyed señoritas and clicking castanets.

Most ambitious offering of the evening was "Military Symphony in F" by Francois Gossel, a sandwich of fast and slow musical moods.

Also well received was a band arrangement of the popular choral number "Cool Water" by Bob Nolan. The selection was particularly appropriate for a band concert above the gently rippling waters of Round Lake.

Evelyn Peters, a graduate of Charlevoix High School was guest trumpet soloist for the evening in "Sottoquy for Trumpet" by Morrissey. Miss Peters' trumpet on the warm summer air reminded one of the best of Bert Kampfert, and this reviewer wondered what misty overtones Miss Peters' trumpet solo would convey to listeners on the other side of the lake.

Only disappointment of the evening was Tschakowsky's "Waltz from Eugene Onegin" which was somewhat strident and heavy-footed compared to some of his more popular compositions.

Odmark said the occasion was a rare one for the band, since four visiting band directors were among the musicians. In addition to Miss Peters, who will begin teaching instrumental music at Clarkston, Mich., in September, other band directors present were Dwight Smith, director at Lansing Eastern;

UPWARDS of 600 music lovers turned out on the grassy slopes of East Park July 21 to hear the third weekly band concert under the direction of Clarence Odmark. The concerts are a regular feature on Charlevoix's summer recreation schedule. Musicians from many surrounding communities also take part in the program.

Jack Brewster, director at Manassas who will be moving to Millington in September, and Herb Parrott, director of the Boyne City Band.

"It was sort of a busman's holiday for Herb," Odmark said. "He should have had a concert of his own, but a carnival was going on in town so he came up here to join us for the evening. We were glad to have him."

Odmark is director of the Charlevoix High School Band during the school year and also directs a year-round adult band in the area. In the summer his ranks of musicians are augmented by college students home for summer vacation, talented high school youngsters, and visiting musicians.

At the concert July 21, musicians were present from Petoskey, Boyne City, East Jordan, and Sault Ste. Marie.

Update Insurance, Farmers Are Told

By Ed Robman
Extension Director

BOYNE CITY -- Many farmers hit by early summer storms thought they had more and better windstorm coverage than their policies revealed. The result was big losses at a critical time of the year in their farming operation.

Farmers and livestock feeders should carefully analyze their insurance and compare with their inventory of equipment, buildings and livestock.

MICHIGAN Cooperative Extension Service workers who assisted farmers in the tornado stricken areas in southern Michigan found too many with too little coverage.

The question always arises: How much insurance should I have?

Extension agents advise that livestock on feed should be insured progressively. If insured at the cost value, this is not near the actual value as the animals near market weight. Many experienced feeders increase the insurance as the animals mature after starting at the purchase price.

Some farmers made additions to building without increasing coverage. Many found they had a much bigger investment than the original structure.

What is the value? The extension agent believes the present value or what it would cost as a replacement or the smaller of these two figures is the best one to use in insurance.

Many farmers would find it valuable to call their insurance agent and spend some time going over the buildings, equipment, machinery and livestock and updating their insurance against fire, tornado and other damage.

Peace Corps Placement Test Slated Aug. 14

An opportunity for Charlevoix area residents to offer their abilities to the Peace Corps will come at 9 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 14, at the Traverse City test center, located in the main post office.

The Peace Corps Placement Test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language. No one passes or fails and you can't study for it.

If, for example, test scores indicate limited language-learning ability, the Corps tries to place the applicant in an English speaking area. The Peace Corps application is the most important indicator of suitability for Peace Corps service, according to Charles Caldwell, the program's public information officer.

Test applicants should plan on about an hour and a half at the testing center. Those wishing to take a French or Spanish achievement test should plan on spending an additional hour.

European Teens At Interlochen

INTERLOCHEN -- Six European teenagers are literally playing their way through two music-filled months at Interlochen's National Music Camp -- thanks to Michigan Gov. George Romney.

The six were selected to receive scholarships Governor Romney handed out during his 10-day "Operation Europe" trip abroad this spring, a trip with 50 Michigan businessmen to promote the state. THE INTERLOCHEN scholarships were presented as gifts from Michigan and financed by the Mott, Kresge, Selman and Kellogg foundations.

The students chosen by the various countries were violinist Nina Martin, 18, of London; cellist Maurice Senn, 18, of Geneva; flutist Viviane Pasman, 18, of Brussels; violinist Johan Dronkers, 16, of Elb Egen, Holland; flutist Andreas Blau, 18, of Berlin; and cellist Ina Joost, 15, of Hiltzacker, Germany.

Lutheran Women Plan Fete Around Philippine Theme

Food and entertainment from the Philippine Islands will highlight a supper social of the Deborah Circle of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Bethan Lutheran Church 7 p.m. July 30.

A film on the Lutheran mission in the Philippine Islands, "God and the 7,000 Emeralds" will be shown.

THE MENU will include South Sea Island Style chicken, melon balls and coconut ice cream.

Chairmen are Mrs. Francis Ballentine, Mrs. Ron Sixberry and Mrs. Jerome Kimble. All members of the congregation are invited to the supper in the church basement.

The Deborah Circle expects to purchase a motion picture sound projector with gift stamps. Anyone interested in helping should call the church office, LI 7-3446.

All Lutheran women in the area are invited to attend the next circle meeting, 10 a.m. Aug. 11, in the church basement. The discussion, "Personally Commissioned to Christ's Army," will be led by Mrs. Donald Venske.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Polderdyk, daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Baker and daughter, Kristy, of Grand Rapids visited Mrs. Polderdyk's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Allard.

Miss Nancy and Mary Harper of Detroit visited their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Allard.

Jesus said, "Because you are lukewarm, and neither cold or hot, I will spew you out of my mouth," Rev. 3:16. If that's your bracket you better start getting up some temperature about life's values ... home, children, school, church, God, right and wrong.

If Jesus died to save you, can't you do some living for Him? Do you believe, "Life is real, life is earnest and the grave is not its goal; dust thou art, to dust returnest, was not spoken of the soul"? Are you lukewarm? Why not get hot for God? Put righteousness first.

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The fifth week of camp started off in high gear as the new boys were anxious to get started in the activities and those boys here for the full season were anxious to show them around. In the evening, the Prep Section had a "Capture the Flag" game, and the Greens picked up a point by being the winners.

Tuesday was another great summer day, warm, sunny, bright and we had two trips leave camp. Cabin 19, with Larry McMillan as counselor, took a horse back trip over to Bay Shore. These boys were Steve Arnington, David Oberhelman, Roy Feldman, Ross Dicken, Ross Hillis, Robert Katz, Andy Zack, and Chuck Osborn. Cabin 20, with Bob Perry as counselor, took his boys on a canoe trip down the Jordan River. These boys were Jack Borden, Mike Earl, Jim Kuehn, Bill Smith, Frank Klotz, Paul Kirwin, Rick Bruner, and Woody Roe.

On Wednesday, more trips left camp. Cabin 18, with Larry McMillan as counselor, took a sailing trip to Young's State Park. These boys were Phillip Salvador, Jim Oakley, Joe Hawk, Peter Calvin, David Peterson, Rick Rankin, Joe Caskey, and Steve Fried.

In the afternoon, John Richardson took his boys on a canoe trip down the Jordan River. The boys, Horatio Earle, Keith Olson, Eric Peterson, David Bauer, Bob Wiseheart, Chuck Wischert, Greg Plasecki, and Chris Hutton. This was election day at camp with new leaders (in some cases) being chosen for Green-Grey competition. The Junior Greys chose Bob Moore, Port Huron, as captain and Marly Roy, Grosse Pointe, Lieutenant, and Bob Booner, Grosse Pointe, as Lieutenant. The Prep Greys chose Chip Little, Grosse Pointe, as Lieutenant, and Phil Hayes, Dayton, as the other Lieutenant. The Intermediate Greys chose new Lieutenants, Jimmy Chalatz, Detroit, and Bill Lamberti, Bay City. The Intermediate Greys picked Lieutenants Kim Kuehn, Princeton, New Jersey, and Chuck Herrington, Bad Axe. The Senior Greys picked Lieutenant Steve Arnington, Cleveland, and John Amberg, Grand Rapids was chosen by for the Senior Greens. In the evening, as it looked like rain, we had a movie, "Tarzan and The Lost Safari". The boys really enjoyed this.

On Thursday, more trips left camp with Bob Daker taking his boys on a canoe trip down the Jordan River. His boys were Jimmy Chalatz, Mark Sterling, Scott Eckhold, Bill Kirwin, Marty Curdes, Chuck Herrington, Andy Case, John Thomas and Mike Kelly. The sailboats were taken down to Young's State Park, headed by John Rotz, counselor. Making the trip were David Washburn, Kim Kuehn, Ben Hudson, Allan Johnson, Bart Sickinger, Bill Lambert, Peter Oakley and Doug Ladney. In the evening, Paul Gach, camp photographer from Grosse Pointe, arrived to take the cabin pictures with the new second four weeks in them.

Friday morning found the campers all dressed in their official camp uniforms, white t-shirts and Camp Charlevoix "T" shirts, ready to have their pictures taken. This is always an exciting time as these pictures are great reminders next winter of summer fun at Camp Charlevoix. After pictures were taken, two trips left camp. By the way, it has occurred to me that I never mention these trips as ever returning to camp. Rest assured that they do. Chuck Sullivan, of the sailing department took his boys on a sailing trip (naturally) and these boys were Ken Mabbatt, Keith Smith, Gus Gluck, Chuck Limback, Jim Kerr, and Tom Cranmer. Cabin 11, with Tom Kennedy as counselor, took his boys on a canoe trip down the Jordan River. These boys were: George Lackey, Bill Carey, Skip Sales, Phil Hayes, Dave Scherer, Dick Prather, Steve Amberg, and Mark Veil. They enjoyed the trip very much, especially popping corn at the camp-site. In the evening, the Juniors had a gold hunt, and the Junior Greys collected the most gold, thereby getting another point for their side, the score being at this point, Greys-20, Greens-16. The Greys 12 point margin at the start of the season is gradually dwindling.

Saturday was a glorious day, sunny, hot, and an ideal day for camping. Regular activities were held. In the evening, we had a skit night in the "Big-wam" and several good skills were given. Cabin 1, our smallest boys in camp, came up with the best skit of the evening which was directed by Russ Washburn, their assistant counselor. The boys in this were Nicky Williamson, Jimmy Huddeson, Brad Mast, Billy Polasky, Bobby Quinn, and Robert Elkins.

On Sunday morning in the outdoor chapel, Ken gave the sermon on "Cheating", giving the boys and staff much food for thought. In the afternoon, the Track Meet was held with the Greens and the Greys anxious to pick up points. In the Junior Greys, the following boys won points: Ricki Kahn, Mark Hildenbrandt, Jeff Postle, Tom Souter, Doug Bacon, Robbie Quinn, Brad Mast, Dave Williamson, Tim Washburn, Stacy Gelken, Tom Duke, and Van Martin. The Junior Grey winners were Terry Mast, Dobbin Dudley, Leonard Olson, Marty Roy, Bob Moore, John Dannecker, Mark Bennett, David Herrington, Billy Polasky, Robert Boomer, Greg Frappier, Robert Elkins. The Greens won in this section. The Prep Green winners were Louis Curdes, Dick Skaff, Dan Noel, Hugh Broder, Curt Bon-sib, Mark Veil, Bill Earl, Bill Silver, Phil Hayes, Skip Sales, Tim Ewing, Bill Hickenlooper, Scott Korlen, Jeff Wright, and Bill Ricker, and the Greens won in this section. The Prep Grey winners were Chuck Gardella, Barry Hull, Chip Little, Steve Amberg, Mark Herschede, Bob Phillips, Randy Peterson, Bob Weber, George Boomer, Tom Fern-strum, Bill Carey, Dave Scherer, George Lackey, Tom Kirwin. In the Intermediate Section, the Greys walked away with the point. The winning Greys were helped by these boys as points-getters: Alan Johnson, Mike Kelly, Chris Hutton, Andy Case, Sawyer Earle, Woody Boydell, Bart Sickinger, Kim Kuehn, Eric Peterson, Chuck Lim-bach, Gus Gluck, Chuck Herrington, Dave Washburn, and John Park. The losing Greys had these boys win points: Jim Chalatz, John Worcester, Doug Ladney, Peter Oakley, Keith Olson, Greg Plasecki, Tom Cranmer, Gary Hill, Ken Mabbatt, Bob Scherer, Ben Hudson, Marty Curdes, Mike Souter, and Bill Kirwin. The Senior meet was very close, the Greens winning, 55-52. The Green winners were Andy Zack, Bob Katz, Joe Caskey, Rick Rankin, Ian Hamilton, Peter Calvin, Paul Kirwin, Larry Wescott, Jay Hogan, Mark Kranz, Dave Pliskih, Jack Borden, Phil Salvador, Chuck Osborn, Roy Feldman, John Amberg. The losing Grey team had these boys win points: Craig Gillespie, Ed Kohl, Jim Oakley, Joe Hawk, Jim Grodin, Sandy Klotz, Jeff Hillis.

Council Proceedings

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Hawley presiding. Aldermen present: Whitley, Fochtman, Gill, Hoffmann, Neff, and Terrill. The Minutes of the June 28, 1965 meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing, and as recorded on the Council Minutes Book.

RESOLUTION

Alderman Hoffmann offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, seconded by Alderman Terrill:

WHEREAS, it is recognized that the parking of vehicles on Highway U.S. 31 within the city limits of the city of Charlevoix interferes with and tends to disrupt the normal flow of moving traffic, and WHEREAS, such parking on Highway U.S. 31 within the city limits of the city of Charlevoix is a safety hazard and therefore injurious to the public:

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved, that from and after twelve noon of the twenty-sixth day of July 1965, the parking of any type of vehicle on Highway U.S. 31 shall be prohibited within the following designated areas:

(a) From Dixon Avenue north to the end of the wide, curved section, being the northerly city limit just beyond Mercer Blvd.

(b) From Antrim Street south to Carpenter Avenue.

Adopted by the following yeas and nays: YEAS: Alderman Gill, Neff, Whitley, Hoffmann, Terrill and Fochtman. NAYS: None. ABSENT: None.

Moved by Alderman Gill and supported by Alderman Fochtman that the bid of R. G. Moeller Company in the amount of $12,300.00 for a Diesel - operated Trojan, model No. 124, front-end loader be accepted. The tires to be 12 ply rather than 8 ply as per bid specifications.

Motion adopted by the following yeas and nays: YEAS: Alderman Whitley, Fochtman, Gill, Hoffmann, Neff, and Terrill. NAYS: None. ABSENT: None.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $44,832.31, find them correct and recommend they be allowed. Moved by Alderman Fochtman and supported by Alderman Gill that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. Motion adopted by the following yeas and nays: YEAS: Alderman Whitley, Fochtman, Gill, Hoffmann, Neff and Terrill. NAYS: None. ABSENT: None.

American Mold wrapped up the first round title in the Fastball league with an easy 18-1 win over Olesons. The win gave Mold a perfect 8-0 record and put the pressure on the other league teams in the upcoming second round. Lake Construction and the Merchants appear to be the only teams that have a chance to halt the Mold express. Lake Construction lost twice to Mold in the first round, losing heartbreakers in the late innings. The merchants are capable of beating anyone, especially when their pitching is "on". Mold has to be favored to cop the second round title, but Lake Construction and the Merchants should both have a definite shot as to who wins it.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Jerry's Gulf and Freedman ended the first round dead-end will be Thursday at 7:15. Jerry's won a thriller from hardluck A & W 12-11 with three unearned runs in the bottom of the seventh to the Freedmans for the title. In the slugfest it appeared that A & W had the game when they scored two to break a tie in their half of the seventh. However, the boys from Jerry's came back with three on two errors, a walk, and Dan McKenzie's single to win the squeaker.

PEANUT LEAGUE

The Peanut league is not played in rounds but there will be a playoff at the season's end with the winner from the Red division meeting the champ of the White loop for the city championship. The schedule calls for all teams in one loop to play the other teams in their division once. In games during the week the Lions edged the Dodgers 7-6. Bruce Weislik had two base hits for the Lions, but Dodger Nick Palone took hitting honors with a home run and a double.

The Tigers blasted the Astros 13-2 scoring in every inning but one. Tim Carey of the Tigers put on a hitting display with a homer, triple, and a single.

The Cards, playing excellent ball, cut the Cubs down by a 8-0 score. Paul Fiedorek's first inning single was the only hit that Card Larry Potter allowed and his teammates backed him up at bat and in the field. Carl and Carlos Novak each knocked in two runs with a double and a triple.

The Braves needed nine innings before edging the determined Pirates 7-6. Rick Turner doubled home Roger Crain with the winning run.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE

In a brilliant contest between the two top teams in the Women's League, Edna handed Paul-Reed their first loss, edging them 3-2 in extra innings. Paul-Reed scored two first inning runs on Bev Sladek's base hit, but Edwards came back with home on George Lusk's single and an error. It remained 2-1 until the bottom of the final inning when with two outs Pat Scheck and Georgia Lusk combined base hits for a tying merker. Paul-Reed threatened in the over-time, but were unable to score. With one out Mary Ingalls singled and scored on Candy Wood's line double to give Edwards the narrow victory.

In another well played contest the Dairy Queens edged Texaco 4-3. Connie Smith led the winners with two hits while Sue Crain cracked a homer for the losers.

BLOOPER LEAGUE

Novak's Insurance continued undefeated winning over Ken's Dodge 11-7. Sluggers Bob Bliggs and Bill Lusk both ailed the crowd with long triples and home runs.

Boys continued with their run of late inning bad luck as they lost to determined Consumers 13-12. Boyne scored four times in their last at bats to tie the game and then Cooper capped it all by hitting his second home run of the game to give Consumers the game.

KIWANIS YOUTH LEAGUE

The Red Sox were big news as they came to life to win their first game of the year and in doing so knocked the Black Sox out of first place and handed them their first loss of the campaign. The score was 26-18.

The Green Sox scored at will in their game with the Red Sox winning 29-17.

ALL-STAR GAME

Bare Construction left little doubt in the minds of the huge Venetian crowd as to why they have won 30 of 34 games this year and are a threat to repeat as the Class C State Champions in the upcoming state tournaments. They won a double header from the local All star squad by 12-3 and 4-3 scores. In the first game they put on a tremendous hitting exhibition collecting twelve hits and making the most of several of the local's mental and physical errors. The only bright spot was Ken Wojan's long home run and Gary Stutman's two hits.

In the second game a more determined team took the field and appeared to have the game won 1-0 going into the final inning. Pitcher Ted Potter had been brilliant in allowing but one hit. Doug Phil connected with a fast ball with one out and his long blast tied the game 1-1 and sent it in to extra innings. Bare scored two after two were out when an error set up Bob Klooster's bouncing single that just eluded the infielders. Norm Helms excited the crowd with a two run single in the local's half of the inning, but with the winning run at the plate, Bare got off on the jam and preserved the win.

POLICE AND SHERIFF'S deputies are investigating a case of vandalism at Charlevoix Airport Saturday night. A single engine airplane owned by Edward "Al" Taylor of Ellsworth was badly damaged when someone tried to force open the plexiglass and aluminum cockpit. It also looked as if someone had walked on the wing.

The White division Peanut League stars humbled the Red division with a convincing 8-1 win. Six second inning runs made it easy for the sharp fielding Whites. Paul Fiedorek's two hits led the winners while Kraag Lieberman had two for the losers.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lippold and son, Mark, of Lombard, Ill., are expected here this weekend as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burns.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hooper had as their Venetian weekend guests their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hooper and daughter, Julie, and their niece, Christine, all of Middleville. On Saturday they were joined by Mr. Hooper's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Hooper of Boyne City.

Mrs. Clyde Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oleksy, Arthur Osborn and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Murphy of East Jordan were in Mackinac City Sunday where they attended a dinner honoring U. S. Representative Raymond Clevenger and Postmaster General John A. Gronouski.

Mrs. Leonard Burns and her daughter, Mrs. Michael Raeck of North Riverside, Ill., plan to go to Marquette Friday to attend the graduation of their son and brother, Larry Burns, from Northern Michigan University. He is to receive his Master's Degree. Mrs. Burns and their children who are presently at Marinette, Wis., will join them there. They will go to Oconto Falls, Wis., where he has accepted a teaching position.

Jewell Gillespie was an overnight visitor in Charlevoix this past week.

Recent guests this past week at the home of Captain and Mrs. Lawrence McDonough were their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Larry McDonough of Grand Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Royce and their son Robert also of Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hefflin returned here last week to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Gallagher of Milwaukee are visiting the island.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Sundenburgh this past week were Joe's great nieces Karin and Barbara Martin both of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Catherine Nelson of Grand Haven is visiting Mrs. Ruth Colby.

Mrs. James (Margaret Ann) Plennmeus and Isabel LaFreniere are visiting their mother Mrs. Elizabeth LaFreniere and their sister Mrs. Archie Minor.

Mrs. Mary Gallit has as guests at her home her daughter Mrs. Kenny (Mary Ruth) Robbins and two children of Mr. Clements. Mr. Robbins brought them here last weekend and returned home. Also visiting here are her grandchildren Kathy, Ellen and Frankie Licavoli of Detroit.

Mrs. Emil Pischner of Charlevoix was an overnight visitor with relatives and friends.

Pam White of Muskegon is visiting her mother Mrs. Clifford White.

Mr. and Mrs. Don O'Brien of Oak Park, Ill., are visiting Mrs. Rae McDonough and her son Joe.

Mrs. Margaret Hanley of Milan is here for a visit. Bob Delaney of Grand Rapids is here for a couple of weeks.

Ben O'Donnell went to Saginaw Veterans Hospital the past week. A Navy plane flew him there.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wyman and their grandson of Detroit visited here this past week. She is the former Anna Palmer, sister to Judy and Clarence Palmer.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Gillespie is her sister-in-law Mrs. Bobby O'Donnell and three daughters of Chicago.

Nelson Pike of Muskegon visited relatives here this past weekend.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bert McDonough is their daughter Mrs. Bernard (Madonna) McCafferty and family. Bernard brought them here last weekend and returned to Chicago.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Rubberg this weekend is her brother and sister-in-law, Doctor and Mrs. Charlie McCann of Beulah.

Doctor and Mrs. Peter Sorenson and guests of Greenville are at the Sorenson home.

Visiting Colleen Nackerman this weekend is Jack Volk. Other guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nackerman, are their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dick (Ellen) Verdun and family of Madison Heights, Mich.

Annual homecoming dinner will take place August 8th (second Sunday in August) with a hot roast beef dinner starting at one until three in the parish hall. There will be fancy booths, a parade at 4 o'clock and a dance in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Roy have as guests their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Wyatt and family of Bloomfield Hills.

Norman (Speck) Gillespie is now a patient at Veterans Hospital in Detroit.

The second weekend of August, as it has for many years, will be homecoming time at St. James, Beaver Island, as natives of the Emerald Isle, their descendants and friends return for the annual homecoming and August dinner.

Sponsored by Holy Cross Church, the dinner, one of the highlights of the weekend, will be held at the parish hall and will feature roast beef.

Following the dinner, visitors and island residents alike will gather in the business district for the annual parade that will include a number of original floats.

A dance at the parish hall with live music will conclude the island's big weekend celebration.

Mrs. John Connaghan is president of the sponsoring organization; Mrs. Joseph McDonough is vice president;

Mrs. Lawrence McDonough, secretary and Mrs. Elizabeth LaFreniere, treasurer. The Rev. Louis Wren O.F.M. (Conv.)

RABBIT RECIPE

For a party of four, you need two rabbits, preferably three, cleaned out and cut up. After removing the pieces from salt water, dry them thoroughly on paper towels and shake them in a sack containing cracker crumbs or flour, plus salt and pepper. They should be braised until golden brown in an open pressure cooker. Then add a quarter cup of wine and quarter cup of water, two cans of mushroom soup, a couple of sliced onions, a dash of Tabasco sauce, a dash of Worcestershire sauce, and teaspoon of salt. A little garlic and a bay leaf or two may be added. A couple of strips of bacon over the top completes the preparation. Close the cooker and cook for 20 to 25 minutes. The pressure depends on the kind of a cooker you use, but it should be about the same as you might use for chicken.

Newspapers collect food, clothing, and money for the needy; they teach youngsters how to swim; they clamor for better schools, more hospitals and less civil waste.

CAMERA CAPTURES

FRIDAY EVENING at East Park a sizeable crowd gathered for the first of two variety shows scheduled during the Venetian Festival. Entertainment

CROWDS ALSO elbowed their way along Bridge Street in the park area to shop at the sidewalk booths sponsored by church and civic groups. One of the most popular stands sold freshly made candied apples. At another, festival goers were invited to try to throw rubber rings around the necks of live ducks.

TWEEDLE DUM and Tweedle Dee costumes won first prize in the children's dress-up contest for Mark Anderson and Jim Fowler, both four years old. The fellows found their costumes pretty stuffy on a warm day.

PROVIDING excitement Saturday afternoon was this air-sea rescue enacted by members of the Coast Guard Air Station at Traverse City. The 'copter lowered a basket to a swimmer in Round Lake, then raised him into the belly of the hovering aircraft. The rotors stirred up sizeable waves on the lake.

WINNER in the pet parade was Michelle Ranae Robinson, 4, whose dog, Queenie, drew a flower cart. Along for the ride was Queenie's pup, Nippy. Tiny Michelle had a rough time keeping her two animal charges in line.

NAVY RECRUITERS from Traverse City took second place in the Industrial Classification with this float in the street parade. WAVE recruiters flanked a gigantic intercontinental ballistic missile. First prize in this category was taken by Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

BICYCLING in a cardboard box isn't the steadiest occupation in the world, but it's one way of getting around town. Several decorated bicycles appeared in the parade.

THIS PRECISION drill team from Kincheloe Air Force Base kept parade watchers entertained as they maneuvered back and forth on Bridge Street. The marchers carried M-1 rifles and did the manual of arms and complicated drill formations.

CHILL BREEZES off Lake Michigan and Round Lake made many festival goers glad they brought blankets along. Here Linda Farrell, 5, and Sheila Farrell, 10, snuggle up.

LEADING the parade was Guy Boss, chairman of the Venetian Festival last year. His much-decorated horse was a favorite with youngsters, who liked to pet him.

GOP COUNTY CHAIRMAN Art Speltz chats with Gov. George Romney after the Governor's arrival at Charlevoix Airport to take part in Venetian Festival activities.

THIS PONY WITH the flowing mane was an object of envy for many young observers along the parade route. Most of the horsemen were well equipped with riding gear.

MICHIGAN Gov. George Romney made a special trip to Charlevoix by air to crown Diane Dyksterhouse queen of Venetian Festival activities.

ADDITIONAL thousands were on hand Saturday afternoon when a colorful street parade marched from the hill on South Bridge Street to the Sundew dock. In addition to local entries, the parade attracted floats and marching units from as far away as Preston, Ont.

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD Susan Marie Arsenault was disappointed to find she was too old to enter her pet goat Heidi in the animal parade. But Heidi was too busy worrying about all those dogs to feel left out.

BEAUTY QUEENS from all over Michigan took part in festivities. Here, Chairman Mrs. Ed Linse and MC Bob Humphries ask the contest winners how they would act if faced with certain personal, social, and romantic problems. The answers were invariably well stated.

THIS EXOTIC Oriental doll helped win first place honors in the doll contest for Jerlean Marie Mosey. Jerlean, 9 years old, wore a Japanese kimono similar to the doll's. Contestants all received a box of cracker-lack.

THE SCOTTVILLE Clown Band also provided plenty of entertainment Saturday afternoon. Not only did members march in the parade, but their antics kept things moving at the waterfront and downtown most of the day.

GAILY DECORATED like a heroine from the Arabian Nights, this young lady had excellent control of her prancing steed in spite of the heavy attire.

THE FIREHOUSE FIVE from Petoskey rendered some of the finest Dixieland Jazz heard around these parts in many a moon. They played from the back of this ancient fire wagon, which stayed in town most of the day.

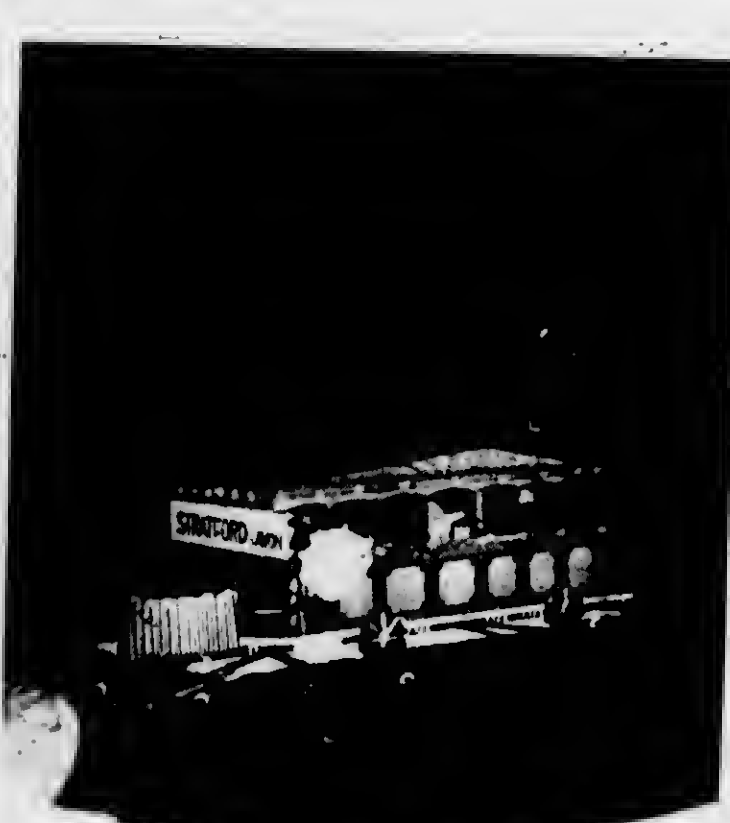

SEA SCOUTS raked in a pile of money letting festival goers work off aggressions on this ancient jalopy. For a price, patrons could take a few swings with a six-pound sledge hammer.

PINK GARTERS were the uniform of the day as the Scottville Clown Band strutted up Bridge Street. Although their costumes were strange, they offered plain good music.

CHARLEVOIX'S famous hanging flower baskets provided the theme for this 2nd place float in the boat parade Saturday night. This entry was sponsored by the Garden Club, as are the actual baskets.

FIRST PLACE winner in the boat parade was this trolley car sponsored by the Shakespeare Club. The car was labeled "Stratford" and colorful parasols twirled from the windows.

Wynsma-Drenth Rites Repeated at Ellsworth

Two hundred guests witnessed the wedding of Martine Wynsma to Chester Wayne Drenth at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church July 23 at 8 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wynsma and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit George Drenth.

The double ring rite was performed by candlelight by the Rev. Vernon Guertink, amid a setting of white gladiolus and yellow pompons.

Miss Wynsma wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over tulle with a fitted bodice accented by a sabrina neckline, elbow sleeves and a self-rose. Silk embroidery adorned the bell skirt.

She selected a capote of silk organza flower petals with pearl accents held in place by imported English illusion in the new bouffant length.

Miss Wynsma was assisted by maid of honor Lynda Organek and bridesmaids Sandy Alward, of East Jordan, and Jantee Wynsma, the bride's sister.

The attendants wore tridescent green sateen length evening dresses with matching veils and single yellow roses.

Flower girl was Nancy Lunn Wynsma, another of the bride's sisters. She wore a dress of the same tridescent green, only with a full skirt, and carried a miniature bouquet. Ring bearer was Randy Wynsma of Grand Rapids, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wynsma.

Best man was Tom Organek-Bill Alward of East Jordan was groomsmen and Gary Drenth, the bridegroom's brother, was junior groomsmen. Eugene Drenth and Richard Heeres were ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ortolowski and daughter, Peggy of Birmingham, Michigan, spent a week with his mother and sister, Mrs. Louis Ortolowski and Mrs. C. D. Gelken.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors.

A graduate of Ellsworth High School and Davenport College of Business, the new Mrs. Drenth is employed by Prudential Insurance Co. in Grand Rapids. The groom also is a graduate of Ellsworth High School and works for VanStedum Heating Co. in Jenison.

The young couple will make their home at 2737 Donna Ave., in Grandville.

County Bank Is Thanked by New York Firm

One of the nation's largest banks last week sent a plaque to Charlevoix County State Bank President Robert Bridge.

The Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York, N.Y., sent the plaque to commemorate the 75th year the Charlevoix County State Bank has had a commercial account with it.

THE ACCOUNT with the New York financial firm was opened in 1890 by the local bank's president, John Nicholas, Bridge said.

Bridge said it is the oldest active account the Charlevoix County State Bank has.

Once again that song is heard, "Wedding Bells are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine." This time it was Chet Drenth, Marlene Wynsma has had the rope in her hands for quite some time. When she corraled Chet, all that there was for her to do was to tie him up.

The Ellsworth Chamber of Commerce Secretary reported on the "Ellsworth Day" receipts. This is the first year the venture showed a profit for the C of C.

A suggestion was made to have a letter sent to the Radio station in Petoskey and ask if it would be possible for them to increase their power so the Ellsworth people could receive their broadcast after 6:00 p.m.

The Directors had such discussion on a proposed new boat dock on the East side of the lake below the park. As the talk progressed it seemed to be the consensus of the group that funds could be available. More information on this project is needed. Several people in Ellsworth are playing a game of checkers. The George Kulpers are moving to the city. The Gertrude Rubingha purchased the Kulpers residence so they would have a place to live because they sold their farm to Louis and Ethel Jablonsky. Ethel is Maynard Alward's sister.

Seibe VanHouten had to have his broken arm operated on. John Tiltson has returned home after a two week (vacation) in the hospital.

The Atwood Reformed Church will have installation services for the new minister. Rev. Ronald VanderWort will be installed July 29 at 8:00 p.m.

The Ellsworth - Alwood Christian Reformed Church Ladies Aid will have a Swiss Steak supper July 29 starting at 5 o'clock at the Ellsworth Community Hall. Serving will continue until 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Madill of Calgary, Alb., Canada, spent the past week with his aunt, Miss

Small Business Workshop Set

A workshop for prospective or new small business owners will be conducted at Northwestern Michigan College on Thursday, Aug. 19, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The workshop is sponsored by the Small Business Administration in cooperation with the Michigan State University Continuing Education Center in Traverse City. There is no charge.

The workshop is designed to teach basic principles which can be applied to all kinds of businesses, and to develop a better understanding of the managerial job necessary to properly start a business and operate it successfully.

Interested persons should write to the Small Business Administration, 1200 Book Building, 1249 Washington Blvd., Detroit, or contact the MSU Continuing Education Center, College Drive, Traverse City (WI 6-7496) for reservations.

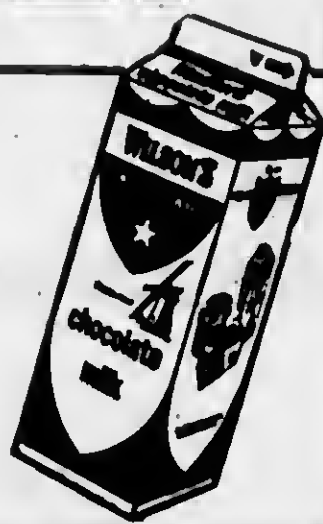

Mayme Ortolowski of the Blue Post Inn. They also visited other relatives.

Word has been received that Mrs. Margaret Bacot fell and is now at room 318, St. Mary's Hospital, Grand Rapids. A card would help to cheer her at this time.

By Mrs. Ross Alexander
L1 7-2037

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Defoe have returned to their home in Lansing after enjoying several weeks in their cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Bert VanLente from St. Joseph, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. L. Miner from Midland, and Mrs. Adella Strachan from Yucapa, California, are guests at the home of Mrs. Pauline Camfield.

Wasn't it nice having a full house in church Sunday morning? So many of our summer friends were also with us. The choral special, "Whispering Hope," sung as a duet, by June Ballard and Evelyn Alexander was very well done, and much enjoyed by everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cox from Danville, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Schutte from Rose City, Michigan, have been guests the past several days of Roy and Minnie Meyers. Also, William Sharpa and Mr. Cune Sharpa from Buckley, Ill., cousins of Mrs. Meyers, have been their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lynk-lip Sr. and daughter, Mary Alice, also Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynk-lip and family from Detroit are spending several days at their cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Batten, from Hickory Lake and William Batten from Noyseville, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crowe and son from Wayne, Michigan are guests several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Crowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Orvis are spending this week with Sam's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Orvis. Mrs. Betty Cooper and children from Traverse City are also guests.

Frank and Marilyn Bastian from Grand Rapids are guests this weekend at the home of Wayne and Sally Saunders. "Merle Scott reports that the State Conservation Department planted 15,000 trout in our lake near the ferry last week. We hope they will have a chance to grow and develop as it has been many years that we have had good trout fishing, so sit back "Mr. and Mrs. Fisherian," and dream a little longer.

David Harrison from Middletown, Ohio, is spending two weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price. Jack Roberts from Detroit is spending this weekend with his mother, Mrs. Ruth Roberts, who is spending the summer in their farm home known to us older residents as the E. Lewis farm.

Frank Kroupka from East Lansing spent several days at the William Vanderwall home last week.

George and Kathryn Neebbs from Davidson have returned and are spending several days in the latter's old home. Received a letter from Mrs. Helen O'Neil, a former resident and teacher in Charlevoix and a local cottage owner, who is now head of Home Economics in the High School in Elmhurst, Ill. She says she is enjoying several weeks vacation at Wallua Beach, Lihue, Kauai, Hawaii. Her son, Edward, is working as an engineer in Alliance, Ohio this summer and will return to Purdue University this fall to work on his P.H.D. He is a graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Another Venetian Festival in Charlevoix is over, and never saw so many people on Bridge Street, who had turned out for the annual "boat parade." Only to be disappointed in so few making an effort toward its success. We all realize it means a great deal of work with expense, but it really is rewarding when so many old and new friends come each year to enjoy it. Our many thanks and appreciation to those who did participate. So, next year in place of having a "sidewalk parade," let us live up to its name, "A Venetian Festival". Like we had twenty years ago.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. William Pasche and sons have arrived from Charlotte to spend a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Warner.

Jennifer and Stacy Smith of Newark, Calif., who have been visiting their grandparents, Mrs. Mary Smith, left recently for Detroit with their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Steudel and son, Peter, who came for them. They will spend the remainder of the summer with them.

Mrs. Gene Warren and two sons arrived Sunday from Phoenix, Ariz., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Davenport. Mr. Warren will join them later.

OFF IN A CLOUD of dust were these motorecyclists at the Sun-N-Sno Riders' scrambles Sunday afternoon at the Pete Winnick farm between Petoskey and Charlevoix. The scrambles topped off a full weekend of Venetian Festival activities. Club President Jim Peterson says there will probably be one more scramble before the season is over. More than 1,000 adult tickets were sold at $1 each.

Nothing can take the press out of Lee-Prest slacks

Not that it's on his mind right now. And it needn't be. Those Lee-Prest Leasures can't help but stay crisp and neat. No matter what you put them through. They have a new permanent press. So the crease stays in. The wrinkles stay out. Permanently. And that's without ironing. No touch-ups, either. They're made from Lee's special blend of 50% polyester and 50% combed cotton. For wash and wear... with conviction.

Incidentally, that permanent press is the only change we've made in Leasures. They still have that lean, honest look... smart, tailored fit. New Lee-Prest Leasures. Test their permanent press yourself. It isn't necessary, but it's a great way to spend an evening.

Sports Keep All Ages Busy

Excluding the nearly 500 men, women and children who are enjoying the City of Charlevoix Recreation Dept. summer softball program, another 300 persons--young and old--are taking lessons in tennis, golf and swimming.

Dean Davenport, program director, reports participation in the free instruction classes is setting new records again this year.

DON NOWLAND, a 1965 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, is giving 36 people lessons in tennis. The classes are held three times a week on the elementary school courts.

Fifty adults and youngsters have signed up for golf lessons. These are given by Davenport three times a week at the high school football field.

Another 200 are taking swimming lessons from Kathy Seidl and Joel Arvilla. Swimming classes are broken down into seven skill levels, from non-swimming through advanced swimmers. Davenport will also teach a course in elementary diving.

Later in the summer the recreation department will stage a two-day track and field meet and two-day city swimming championships.

IN ADDITION to these programs, the recreation department is responsible for the city's three public beaches and the shuffle board courts in East Park and at the Lake Michigan Beach.

Davenport says participation in these activities is also up compared to other years.

Talk Town

Mrs. Melvin Reneud and son, Jeff, of Grosse Ile, spent last week with relatives here. Mr. Reneud came for them and remained for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Evans and three daughters are expected to arrive Saturday from Kalamazoo for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Leroy Allers.

GOLF STUDENTS swing into it as they follow the lead of their instructor, and Charlevoix Recreation Dept. director, Deano Davenport (back to camera). Fifty people--young and old--are taking golf lessons three days a week as part of the summer program.

THESE STUDENTS learn to help each other under the guidance of instructor Joel Arvilla during swimming classes at Depot Beach.

THIS YOUNG student keeps his eye on the ball as his club closes the distance during City Recreation Dept. lessons.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

How does a new editor go about saying he's glad to be here, he likes your town, and he hopes he does a good job? My name is Bob Clock, which sort of explains the column title. How "wise" these columns prove to be only time will tell. I was born in Detroit but for the past four years have been teaching school in a town called Holly (pop. 3,200) about 15 miles south of Flint. It's a nice little place. Five lakes within village limits. Lots of panfish. Church suppers. Sidewalk bazaars. Town had a wing-ding centennial celebration in June.

I enjoyed teaching in Holly, but my undergrad work was in journalism at Michigan State, and when 15 years of post-graduate employment are tallied up, journalism remains my first love. So I'm back to the newspaper business.

Some facets of the work in Charlevoix are entirely new to me. This is the first news job I've ever handled where I also double as photographer--and right now I'm wondering about a very suspicious shutter adjustment I discovered after shooting unmet pictures of the parade.

This also is my first experience with offset printing. Offset is a relatively new kind of graphic reproduction which eliminates the need for linotype machines, Ludlows, and other "hot metal" equipment. Instead, our pages are pasted up, photographed, and photoengravings are made. These engravings are affixed to a series of Goss rotary offset presses.

"Offset" means that instead of printing directly from the engraved plates, the image is first transferred to a rubber roller and then to paper. The result, as any page of the Courier will attest, are excellent. And it all helps make this job new and exciting.

Now some personal information. I am married to a girl named Judy who used to be the Holly speech correctionist. We have a 14-month-old daughter, Kathleen. Sometimes strangers call her "Big Blue" because of a huge pair of azure eyes which she doesn't seem to be growing into very fast.

"We couldn't find a place to rent, so we bought." That's a phrase I've heard more than once since coming to Charlevoix and it's exactly what happened. The place we are buying was formerly owned by the Charles Wielengas at 207 E. Dixon. It's a big place--six bedrooms, three and one-half baths, etc. The former owners used to put up skiers on weekends and since Judy and I both enjoy the slopes, we wouldn't think of turning away any of our own ilk.

At present Judy is still packing our gear in Holly for the long trek north. A native of Muskegon, she can't wait to get back to the Lake and go to sleep nights to the mournful serenade of foghorns.

Complicating our eventual transplantation from Holly to Charlevoix are six pups which our terrier Ginny obligingly presented to us four weeks ago. They're still too young to leave their mother, but can you imagine driving 250 miles with seven dogs, a wife, a baby, and assorted luggage--in a Volkswagen?

What does a newcomer think of Charlevoix? Naturally I am egot with so much sky, water, and wilderness. At least two problems here seem very remote: the population explosion and the water shortage. Standing at The Bridge and looking either east or west, it is hard to imagine that New York City actually is firing restaurants for offering customers a glass of drinking water, unless they ask for it. Here we ought to fine 'em if they don't.

So much clear, fresh air also comes as a pleasant surprise to someone more familiar with the heavier atmosphere of Michigan's southern counties. And even when the fog comes in, there are misty vistas in every direction that remind one of the best in beer advertising. Yes, I think we're going to like Charlevoix very much.

I noticed both at the band concert and during the Venetian Festival that an unusual amount of rubbish is being fed to the trout in our little East Park pool. It's mostly pop corn and candy wrappers, but it still doesn't look good.

Furthermore, you never can tell what may happen. I saw one boy feeding pop corn to a trout all during the band concert. Unfortunately, pop corn has a way of swelling when it gets wet, and before the last number that nimble little brook trout had turned into a sluggish old sewer carp. A similar incident occurred Friday night during the Varsity Show. This time a trout swallowed a cotton candy cone and turned into a gar pike. So watch it, kids. If those fish get hold of a licorice stick, they may become lampricide.

Fred Hyers has returned to Torrington, Conn., following a visit last week with his step-mother, Mrs. Charles Hyers and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor has as their weekend guests his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Taylor and family of Jackson.

Mrs. Charles Hyers had as her weekend guests her grandson-in-law and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Melin and two children of Muskegon. They were joined later by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Sitzema of Muskegon, who came for the funeral service of Henry Erher in Boyne City and then came here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Etienne, Sr., have had as their guests his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Etienne and family of Wilmette, Ill., who came Friday for a visit.

Lake Pollution Shocks Readers

To the Editor: What a shock to see, the day of our arrival here, your lead story entitled "Health Dept. Admits Pollution." Such a welcome to this lovely area. It seems inconceivable to us, of New England origin, that the developers of this region were allowed to put sewage into the beautiful lake here. And those hateful people whose boats have no chemical toilets. Next summer we are going to New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens East Lansing

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Warner had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller of Chicago.

Charges Unkept

DEAR EDITOR: This letter is to complain about how the cemetery looked. I don't mean to say anything about the flowers. But how unkept the grass was. I felt utterly ashamed of it and hoped everyone else who saw it on Memorial Day felt the same way I did and also my family did.

Ever since I can remember the grass at the cemetery was cut and neat especially on such a day as Memorial Day is, but this year the grass was at least three inches high and waving in the breeze.

I hope whoever is caring for it now will start. It is a shame to let it go on looking like it did.

Atwood

Mrs. Henry Burns
Phone LO 6-2344

The Atwood Farm Bureau meeting was held on Tuesday evening July 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Tyrrell at the Bay.

The outdoor meeting was called to order by Chairman Mrs. Peter Burns.

Minutes were read by Mrs. M. Tyrrell, County Board Minutes by Leslie Kidney and Package report by Mrs. Art DeVries.

Discussion leader Milford Tyrrell gave a interesting lecture on "Price Bargaining."

There will be no meeting in August. The September meeting will be held at the Art DeVries home.

A barbecue lunch was served to 18 guests present by the hostess Mrs. Tyrrell assisted by Mrs. Peter Burns.

On Saturday evening July 17 a birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art DeVries and sons Bernie and John DeVries of California, who is home on a two weeks vacation honoring the Birthdays of Mrs. DeVries and son Bernie and Mrs. Minert Veenstra of Charlevoix and the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Minert Veenstra.

The relatives and friends were: Mr. and Mrs. Silas Doctor and children Vangle and St. Jr., Mrs. Jerry Aardema, Mr. and Mrs. John Torgie and son Stan, Mr. and Mrs. Minert Veenstra and son Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Boss and children of Charlevoix, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thoreson, Mrs. Ralph Van Houten, Miss Pearl Coggins and Russ Northrop.

A very enjoyable evening was spent and John showed beautiful pictures of California and his trip to Mexico. Delicious refreshments were served by the ladies and hostess Mrs. DeVries.

Rev. and Mrs. Alvin VanderGriend and daughter Leslie returned to their home Friday evening after spending a five week vacation visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Coe DeVries and other relatives in California and his parents the VanderGriend family in Washington.

On returning to the parsonage they were surprised that the congregation had a grocery shower for them and at 8 o'clock the whole congregation met in the Church basement for Family Nite planned by the Consistory and Wives.

Marion Sitzema Vice Pres.

The Consistory opened the program by singing hymns and led in devotions and prayer.

The Primary Sunday school classes favored us with four beautiful songs. Mrs. Rink DeVries directed the group and Theola Veenstra accompanied at the piano.

Martin Elzinga read a reading composed by Mrs. Henry Elzinga about the VanderGriend's "trip to California and Washington" which was very interesting and caused many laughs.

Beautiful slides of the Rose Bowl Parade and other interesting places of California were shown by Ed Drenth, as well as pictures of their trip to California when Dave Drenth and Bernie DeVries accompanied him last winter.

A solo was sung by Mrs. Larry Kayner "Jesus Wonderful Lord" accompanied by Mrs. Andy Veenstra at the piano.

Mr. Sitzema presented the VanderGriend's with a couple of gifts from the congregation.

Rev. and Mrs. VanderGriend thanked everyone for the gifts and the pastor gave a few closing remarks. Refreshments were served by the consistory and their wives during the social hour.

A very nice time was enjoyed by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alkema and family arrived at the home of her cousin Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Hoeksema and family Sunday afternoon where they are spending a few days vacation. They also are visiting at the homes of her uncle Jacob Hoeksema and Alfred Hoeksema family and other relatives and friends before going further north. They left for Mackinaw Thursday to spend a couple of days enroute to their home in Grand Rapids.

Mr. Ralph Van Houten and Miss Pearl Coggins of Holland were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burns and Mr. and Mrs. Art DeVries Saturday evening and on Sunday morning were lunch guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. West Veenstra and family also they visited at the Tom Vandersilk. Bert Veenstra and Henry Elzinga's homes Sunday afternoon. They went on a sightseeing trip to Beaver Island Friday and returned to Charlevoix Saturday. On Monday they left for their home.

John H. DeVries and his mother Mrs. Art DeVries visited their cousin Mr. and Mrs. Allen Elzinga and family of Vanderbilt on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Art DeVries and two sons John and Bernie were Sunday morning lunch guests at the home of her aunt Mrs. Gertrude Elzinga.

John H. DeVries was a supper guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Brock of Traverse City Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gort and two children of Grand Rapids were weekend visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Wey and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wiersema and four sons of Jensen arrived at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Veenstra Saturday evening for a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter VanderSlik and 3 children and Richie Swanson were Sunday evening visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Elzinga and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Beck and daughter Charlotte were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burns. They also took care of her mother Mrs. Kate Berens Sunday evening while Mr. and Mrs. Burns visited at the Wesley Veenstra home.

Don Van Huizen of Grand Rapids called on his aunt Kate Berens Friday morning and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wiltsie took care of her sister Kate Friday evening.

Mrs. Roger Wassink and children of Grand Rapids are spending some time with her mother Mrs. Jennie Smith.

Mrs. Michael Heecker and daughter, Karen of North Riverside, Ill., are spending two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Leonard Burns. Mr. Raeker brought them and will return for them and remain for a weekend visit.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Scherschmidt and two daughters have returned to Battle Creek after spending the weekend with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. H. E. Paddock. While here they joined their first family gathering in more than three years. Others who were here were Dr. and Mrs. Roger Postmus and two children of Ann Arbor, Mr. and Mrs. Vane Smith and two children of Potteryville who are spending the summer here and Douglas Smith who is here after spending two years in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Vanderveer and two children returned to St. Joseph after spending the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Left.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Peterse and two children of Southfield are spending 10 days with their respective parents, Mrs. Floyd Brown and Mr. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Winnick.

Norman Ketchman has arrived here from Morgan City, La., to join Mrs. Ketchman and family who have been visiting their mothers, Mrs. Richard Hull and Mr. Hull and Mrs. Lyle Miles and Mr. Miles and Mr. Ketchman's grandmother, Mrs. Marie McCall.

Cindy Ouderkerk, Connie Drost and Donna Martin left Sunday to spend five days at Lost Valley Camp near Gaylord. Connie's father Cecil Drost, took them to camp and will return for them Friday.

Don Heise of Detroit spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Lavern Heise.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Editorial Page

Wednesday, July 28, 1965, Page 15

What's the Hurry?

WE NOTE WITH A feeling of alarm and even a sense of humor that the tempo has completely changed on Charlevoix streets since mid-June.

No longer do we drive with a casual, almost aimless, feeling of well being. Our trust that the other driver will look out for us has been replaced by near desperation.

TODAY WHEN we cross or pull onto US-31 from a sidestreet we do it like a cornered bobcat seeking to avoid the hounds. A half-hearted glance up and down the street and then slow start isn't good enough. A couple of quick, but sure glances, both north and south are needed and then a heavy foot on the accelerator as we dart into a precious hole in the almost endless line of cars.

A left turn onto Park, Clinton, Mason or Antrim streets from Bridge St. is a gamble worthy of any man of daring. As we watch oncoming cars we appraise their drivers, wondering if we can bluff them into stopping to let us turn.

And on our usually quiet residential streets 10 or 15 mph is no longer good enough. If we submit to such lazy pace we soon find three or four cars behind us with their drivers impatiently demanding we move out of the road.

Our Thanks to Deano and City

AGAIN THIS SUMMER we marvel at the City's recreation program that is offering organized sport and instruction to more than 600 persons, and facilities for golf and swimming to thousands more.

In a city of slightly less than 3,000 population this is an almost unbelievable program. Look at it: Softball for approximately 50 adults and youngsters (male and female); Golf instruction for 50 students; Tennis lessons for 35 persons; Swimming instruction for 200 more. And this doesn't include the uncounted thousands who enjoy the public beaches, golf course and shuffleboard courts.

County Building Rumors

ANNOUNCEMENT THAT Lillis Flanders is retiring after more than four decades in the County Treasurer's office has long been anticipated by observers of the county political scene.

The actual move, however, revived speculation that other resignations will follow before the current four-year term is completed for county officers elected last November.

THE PLOT ALLEGED here, if we are to give it credence, is that incumbent Republicans who have served for better than a quarter-century will step aside during mid-term to allow their party to select a replacement who can win election in 1968, hence perpetuating the party's control of the County Building.

This is not a new tactic. It has been used on the State and Federal level since our nation started practicing politics.

There may be nothing to this speculation in the case of Miss Flanders and Charlevoix County Republicans. Under no circumstances should such rumors be allowed to blemish Miss Flanders' 43 years of untainted public service to Charlevoix County.

Unfortunately, there is no denying the possibility that this speculation may be

Their Notoriety is Their Doing

THE COURIER HAS been severely criticized in some corners for printing names and pictures of youths ordered to clean up litter on the Mt. McSaubia beach. Post-Midnight telephone threats have been received by the Courier editor.

Usually we ignore such reaction to our printing community news that is uncomfortable to some readers. However, this time it seems proper to make an issue of the matter.

HEAPING BLAME ON the Courier be-

The happy children we used to watch playing near the street on the sidewalk and in front yards are no longer there. It seems their mothers have taken the precaution of hiding them from the glistening chrome invaders.

When we leave the city limits and turn onto our favorite country road we relax for a moment, sure that we have escaped the raging horde. But not for long. Soon a car zooms by us. The another. And another. What, we ask, is the sense of driving so fast if they are up here to enjoy the scenery we can't get enough of on a year-round basis.

Then, too, there are moments when we have to chuckle to ourselves. When we get in a long line waiting for the bridge to close we see downstate and out-of-state drivers cursing in their frustration at being held up for a couple of minutes. And just where were they going in such a hurry? To get away from the rush of the big city, of course.

And what do you know, as this editorial was being written Courier bookkeeper Hilda Gibson called us away from our typewriter to run to the corner of State and Clinton streets. Sure enough, two cars had failed to compromise. Fortunately, no one was hurt. But the chrome won't glitter quite as brilliantly.

OF COURSE, IN the final accounting the City Council must receive credit for the program. Without Mayor E. D. Hawley and the Council's financial backing there would be no recreation program.

Then, too, it should be duly recorded that without Deano Davenport's ability and character the City's money wouldn't buy half as much recreation. So here is another bonus Charlevoix receives because those who have once known it never manage to say goodbye. We hope Deano's love for Charlevoix the Beautiful will keep him coming back summers for a long time to run our truly outstanding recreation program.

well founded. Obviously by 1968 Miss Flanders and at least one other county official would be extremely old to seek re-election. So it seems reasonable Republicans are politically savvy enough to realize their best chance of keeping the GOP in these offices is to have someone on the ballot in 1968 who at least has the appearance of an incumbent -- even though only through earlier appointment.

SUCH A CANDIDATE certainly has a better chance of beating a Democrat than a Republican who is equally without experience.

Last November's election returns left no doubt there is growing Democrat strength in the county. Democrat leaders have openly stated they expect 1968 to be the first real confrontation on the county level to break the years of Republican domination.

We are not here pulling for 1968 candidates of either party. But we would like to see them vie for the public's favor without either having an under-the-table advantage before the polls open.

As we have said, we hope there is no truth in this speculation. If no more resignations follow before the 1968 elections we'll be able to dismiss our fears.

cause unruly children got themselves in trouble hardly seems worthy of Charlevoixians -- young or old. As in most matters of this type, it was not the newspaper that was captured by police staging a disorderly party. Nor was it the Sheriff or courts.

The lesson here is that if citizens keep their noses clean and behave as they would expect their neighbors to they will not earn such notoriety.

Last Tuesday, July 20, was quite an occasion for Robert Stafford for the date marked his 93rd birthday anniversary. . . . I think I am quite right in saying that he is the community's oldest native-born resident. . . . He was born at Norwood seven years less than a century ago and recalls a great deal of this community's early history. . . . He's a man who still enjoys good health. . . . and no one enjoys a good gabfest anymore than he does. . . . Let's hope he has many more birthdays. . . .

Things just won't seem the same. . . . now that Mrs. George Glados, who's been a familiar face and name on Bridge St. for the past 65 years, has decided to call it a day. . . . She came to 218 Bridge St. as a bride and through the years joined her husband, the beloved George Glados, with the operation of the Sugar Bowl which changed, in their lifetime, from an old-fashioned ice cream parlor where George made all his own ice cream and candles to a restaurant which has been operated, since 1960, by Jim Aispaugh. . . . After the store was leased as an eating place, Mrs. Glados continued to operate her popcorn shop in the little spot between the Sugar Bowl and the theatre. . . .

Just recently she decided to dispose of the property for it has become too much for her to care for, now that she's alone, so she's given it to the shop. . . . But 218 Bridge St. will continue to be home to this gracious lady. . . . But kids of many generations will miss her and her popcorn. . . . and the youngsters of tomorrow will be deprived of the privilege of knowing her. . . .

Many of us were surprised recently at the announcement that Miss Lillis Flanders had decided to retire as county treasurer. . . . Things will be different around the county building for almost as long as I can remember. She has been associated with county government. . . . After all, she went into that office directly out of high school in 1922. . . . quite a span of years. . . . and what changes. . . . On July 15 I happened to be talking with our county clerk, Foster R. 'Pete' Bulow about Lillis' announcement. . . . That day happened to be the 30th anniversary of his appointment to his present post. . . . That's a long time to hold down an office. . . . especially one as demanding as his. . . . Certainly both are dedicated officials whose like is fast disappearing. . . .

Happened to be down at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station one day last week when the station's 30 foot motor launch was being loaded with gear for the light stations in northern Lake Michigan. . . . Noticed a large carton tied with twine aboard the craft but didn't think much of it till one of the crewmen mentioned something about Grey Reef's snake. . . . I thought I had misunderstood until Chief Pryzniski opened the box and, sure enough, there was a snake. . . . the most awful looking thing. . . . which turned out to be a water snake some four feet in length. . . . Seems the crew of the light station found him on the crib after a recent storm. . . . but he'd certainly had quite a swim to get there for the light is miles from any Terra Firma. . . .

No wonder its discovery gave them quite a jolt. . . . The weather this summer has been a topic of conversation most every place. . . . One of the most unusual aspects of it has been the atmosphere, especially over the lake, which has made it possible to see the outline of the Fox Islands as tho' they were 10 instead of more than 26 miles to the west. . . .

Don't know if you noticed it or not but the same conditions existed at sundown last Tuesday night when the silhouette of Beaver Island stood out against the sky splashed with shades of pink and rose and lavender with a bit of blue tossed in for contrast. . . . and as it became darker, there was the light at Beaver Head on the south end of the island, some 22 miles to the northwest, blinking away like mad. . . . I'd never seen it before and couldn't believe my eyes at first. . . . But several people verified it so it wasn't an illusion on my part. . . . It always amazes me that Beaver Island lies as far south as it does. . . . I've seen it from the air and know that it does. . . . but the harbor at St. James, on the northeast end of the island, is some 32 miles away and that's what one usually thinks of when someone mentions Beaver Island. . . .

Wouldn't you love to see the Great Lakes area from outer space as our astronauts see it? . . . What a sight it must be. . . .

Heard a lot about this new state recently from another source. . . . Stan Evers and his wife, Ellen, just back from a second tour of duty with the Air Force in this land of the midnight sun. . . . They sure you've heard stories of the Gold Rush days. . . . These two, after several years in

They Prefer Summer With a Deck Underfoot

VIRTUALLY every slip in the harbor was filled with yachts well in advance of the Venetian Festival weekend.

Who are the white-capped and bare-footed wanderers who inhabit Charlevoix's Round Lake waterfront from late May through August?

A spot check of several yachts docked in the harbor July 21 revealed they are pretty much ordinary people who prefer to spend their summer vacations playing the blue waters of northern Michigan rather than tying themselves down to a cottage or traveling miles over blistering pavements to distant resorts.

One of the surprising facts uncovered by the Courier's reporter is that the yachtsmen docked at Charlevoix are not all millionaires or members of the fleet-footed "Jet set." To a man, the sailors interviewed are working people with regular jobs to return to and tasks to perform when their summer holidays are over.

Some of them are well off, to be sure, but they give the impression that they got that way through their own grit and determination.

Perhaps typical of the "Ulysses" in port last Wednesday was Ray Malski, owner of an auto repair business in Grand Rapids.

Malski, his wife, and four children came to Charlevoix July 19 in order to get a berth for the Venetian Festival activities at East Park and on the lake. Malski said he came early because other years he had come just before the festival and it had been unable to find a place to dock his 30-foot Chris Craft.

The Malskis keep their boat, the Lazy Daze, at Holland and make the run up to Charlevoix in about 12 hours. They usually make stops at Pentwater and Frankfort.

They also have made side trips to Beaver Island and Mackinac Island since coming to Charlevoix.

"We'd like to take a trip over the Wisconsin shore sometime if we ever get up the nerve," Malski commented.

The Malski youngsters enjoyed dockside life in Charlevoix. Eddie, 9, a fisherman, was delighted to find the rock bass biting right in the slip.

Another southwest Michigan couple who enjoyed their vacation at Charlevoix harbor were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bommerschelm of Kalamazoo.

The trip up wasn't so pleasant, however, since the encountered bad weather, hit a log and had to be towed into port for repairs.

Normally, Bommerschelm makes the trip in three days at a leisurely pace, but this time it took eight.

Bommerschelm, who works for an electroplating company in Kalamazoo, was accompanied by his wife, Marion, who says she "loves to visit Charlevoix." This is the family's fifth season as sailors.

While here, the Bommerschelm took side trips to Boyne City and enjoyed swimming at Horton Bay.

Skipper of a 40-foot Chris Craft docked at Charlevoix last week was Keith Danhauser of East Detroit.

Danhauser's boat, the Rhea Ann V, is named for his wife and is the fifth Chris Craft the family has owned. The yacht has spacious living and dining quarters, two double cabins, two baths, and will sleep up to eight, using fold-away foam sofa beds in the living area.

The family, including daughters Karen, 16, and Diane, 14, had been in port ten days and intended to stay through the Venetian Festival.

"This is one of the nicest harbors I've ever been in, and I've been all the Great Lakes harbors," Danhauser said. "Our girls particularly like all the shore-side activities taking place in Charlevoix."

Danhauser, who is in the insurance and finance business in Detroit, said it is unusual to find such a well-stocked business district so handy to the boat dock.

The Danhausers' home dockage is at the Jefferson Beach Marina in St. Clair Shores. He said they made the trip up in easy stages, taking part in a yacht club rendezvous at Sandiac and making stops at Presque Isle and Mackinac Island before coming to Charlevoix.

Like other boaters, the Danhausers expressed concern over the possibility of pollution in Round Lake and hoped that something will be done to correct the problem.

As skiers, the Danhausers are familiar with the Charlevoix area, having spent many ski holidays at nearby resorts. After their first summer visit, however, they are considering making Charlevoix their year-round vacation headquarters.

James and Dorothy Duggan of Dearborn docked in Charlevoix late Tuesday night, and were anxious to get out and have a look at the city when the Courier reporter paid a call.

The Duggans keep their 30-foot craft at Memorial Park Marina in Detroit and reached Charlevoix by a circuitous route which took them through the north channel of Georgian Bay. They made stops at Port Huron, Mich., Kincardine, Tobemore, Kilarney, and Little Current, Ont., and Drummond Island, Mich.

At Mackinac City they bid goodbye to their 20-year-old son, Mike, who had to return to Dearborn to report to his draft board. Still on board was son Richard, 17, who will be leaving shortly to return to his job as a guide at Greenfield Village.

The Duggans had a couple of unusual travelers along for the ride--a dog named Sam and a cat named Horace. Both animals are excellent travelers, the Duggans report.

Duggan is employed by the Kelsey Hayes Co. of Romulus, Mich. A little closer to home was the family of Harry L. Eaton of Traverse City. Eaton and his wife Lucille, have been in Charlevoix harbor 10 days aboard their 26-foot Chris Craft, Sea Skiff. The nine-year-old Cal-Jon has taken the Eatons through many of the waters of the northern Great Lakes.

MR. AND MRS. Keith Danhauser and daughters Diane (left) and Karen of East Detroit fell in love with Charlevoix harbor.

UP FROM Traverse City were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eaton. Their daughter, Mrs. Gail Slack and grandchildren Timmy and Sherri Lou came up to spend the night.

THE JAMES Duggans of Dearborn arrived at Charlevoix after following a meandering route through the Canadian waters of Georgian Bay.

BUSINESS trips back to Lansing have interfered with the Warren Pruims' vacation in Charlevoix this summer. With them is son Chip, 17.

proved dockside toilets for boaters are provided.

"Such a law would be practically impossible to enforce," he said, predicting that yachters would rather break the seal than walk 100 yards to a public toilet in the middle of the night.

Walker said that Wisconsin already has made chlorinators mandatory for all boats operating in the state's inland waters.

One device Walker intends to experiment with on his own boat measures 7 by 7 by 14 inches and could be fitted conveniently to any marine toilet, either in the head proper or in an adjoining locker or storage area.

Operated by a 6, 12, 24, 32, or 110 volt electrical motor the device goes into operation as soon as a toilet is flushed. Waster matter is pulverized, as in a garbage disposal unit, and a measured amount of a chlorine solution is syphoned into the pulverizing chamber. The entire operation takes from 30 to 45 seconds, destroying 99.95 percent of all bacteria, according to the claims of one eastern manufacturer.

Hotel

Property in Charlevoix four years ago when he bought a run-down mansion at the Chicago Club.

In the past year, Hogan has expanded his holdings here, acquiring about $185,000 worth of property. Included are the Birkland Bldg. at the corner of Park and Bridge, the IOOF Bldg. located to the left - Kay shop and the Geiken Bldg. one door south.

Hogan said he eventually hopes to turn the three buildings into a shopping arcade, although extensive refurbishing will have to be done to the Birkland Bldg. which is presently being burned out in the late '20s. He also has acquired the Gill Bldg. across the street and the Curtis Bldg. where the Liquor Control Commission office is located.

He said he intends to buy up more property in Charlevoix when it becomes available at prices within his reach.

He noted that rejuvenation of northern resort towns often must be completed by outside money, pointing out what Jack Davis has done in Petoskey and Harbor Springs by acting "like a burr under the saddle."

"I'd like to be the burr in Charlevoix," he said.

Hogan's only other commercial property holding is a grocery warehouse in Indiana which he is in the process of selling.

He said he and an assistant have conducted an informal survey to determine just what corporations like General Motors and Dow Chemical look for in a convention town.

"One thing they don't want," he said, "is a place where there is a lot of night life down town. That's why I think Charlevoix will be an ideal convention city."

He said the hotel probably will have some indoor parking because the lack of off-street parking in the area. It probably also will have a revolving dining room, a feature planned by the former developers. There will be special dining facilities for skiers on one of the lower levels.

Hogan says he has a mortgage source to finance $1 million of the cost, with the balance will be borne by private investors.

"I would like to see them come from Charlevoix," he added.

He said the number of in-

Arsenault played several selections on the piano.

Mrs. Ed Linse introduced former queens of the Venetian Festival. They were:

1949, Nancy Klyke (Mrs. Don Bamback) of Holland.

1950, Ann Gill (Mrs. Fritz Puffpauf) of Charlevoix.

1951, Joan Ward (Mrs. Harry Goldberg) of Southeast Grand Rapids.

1960, Carla Riley (Mrs. Gary Spencer) of Charlevoix.

1961, Lorraine Heise (Mrs. Larry Warner) of Charlevoix.

1962, Linda Neff of Charlevoix.

1963, Sharon Russell of Charlevoix.

1964, Marcee Wallace, of Charlevoix.

Saturday night, Mrs. Linse also introduced 18 1965 queens from various parts of the state. They included Linda Hall of Boyne City, National Cherry Queen and 1965 National Winter Queen; Kathy Stanton of Vermontville, Vermontville Maple Sugar Queen; Gail Frielink of Lawrence, Miss Blanche Time and Miss Lawrence; Gail Blittke of Cheboygan, Cheboygan Winter Queen and Sturgeon Chiversee Queen; Bonnie Ackley of Hart, Miss Oceana County; Kathy Cabitch of Kalkaska, Kalkaska County Queen; Marcie Brown of East Jordan, Jordan Valley Festival Queen; Pat Derry of Rogers City, Miss Limestone City; and Mary Ann Hornbacher of Bay City, Sugar Queen.

Others were Gaylyn Irwin of Alpena, Miss Alpena; Dolly Luft of Traverse City, Miss Traverse City; Mercedes Mathers of Central Lake, Miss Central Lake; Lois Person of Torch Lake, Miss Upper Torch Lake Assn.; Darlene Rink of Port Hope, Michigan Honey Queen; Patsy Robinson of Boyne City, Miss Boyne City; Gloria Schepperty of Manelona, Bass Festival Queen; and Connie Wolf of Gaylord Alpine Festival Queen.

Also introduced was Michelle Robinson of Charlevoix, Little Miss of 1965.

Saturday morning at the park, contests for pets, costumes and dolls were held.

Winners in the pet contest were (1st) Michelle Ranae Robinson, 4, with her dogs Queenie and Nippy; (2nd) Scott Carlson, 6, and Mark Hosmer, 8, with their pet rabbit Snopie; and (3rd) Esther Dhasleer, 9, and Leslie Dhasleer, 6, with their pet hen, Henrietta.

First prize in the costume contest was won by Mark Anderson, 4, and Jim Fowler, 4, who were dressed like Tweedle Dum and Tweedle Dee. Second prize in the costume contest went to Michelle Warner and Randy Whitley, who were dressed like Indian Chief Harley Volk and his princess Chemonagou. Best woman in Ottawa, 3rd prize went to Donzelle Kane, who dressed as an Indian.

In the doll contest, Jerlean Marie Mosey, 9, took first place with an Oriental doll; second place was captured by Carin Cain, 8, with her Emmet Kelly doll; and third place went to tiny Lynne De Moor and her baby doll.

One of the highpoints of the festival early Saturday afternoon was an air-sea rescue performed by members of the Coast Guard Station at Traverse City. A potential drowning victim in Round Lake was reached by helicopter, a basket was lowered, the swimmer crawled aboard and was lifted into the aircraft.

Several boat races also were held Saturday afternoon on Round Lake. Canoe race winners were (1st) Danny Hackmiller and Bill Williams; (2nd) David Maris and Gordy Solomon; and (3rd) Donald Slader and George Bradbury.

A swim race was won by Pam Rups, followed by Bill Stockland and Christy Hamilton.

Prizes also went to the most attractive floats in the street parade. Among Chamber of Commerce entries, Elk Rapids came in first, followed by Central Lake, East Jordan and Bellair.

In the antique car classification, first prize was won by Floyd Brown (1916 Dodge) second Walter Hoffman (1930 Hudson), third Harvey Varman (1930 Gray), and fourth Dave Patrie (1931 Ford).

Decorated bike prizes went to Debbie Smith and Lilly Gallagher, first; Sally Aronovsky, second; and Julie Clapp and Nancy Clark, third.

Special first place awards went to the Kinchloe Drill Team, the Scottville Clown Band, The Firehouse Five and the U. S. Coast Guard.

Among civic floats as such, prizes went to the Upper Torch Lake Assn. and the Petoskey Winter Sports Club.

Guy Smith won a first among private floats, with Mary and Joseph De Garvara coming in second.

In the industrial category, Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. placed first and the U. S. Navy recruiting office second.

Commercial floats placed in this order: Polly-Kay Shop, Boyne Auto Supply, Grey Gables Cocktail Lounge and Dairy Queen.

Adult prizes for horse grooming and handling went to Betty Boss (1st); Charlene Pierce (2nd) and Guy Bost (3rd). Children's horse prizes were taken by Betty Novotny (1st), Terry Mel (2nd), the Howard Campbell children (3rd) and Mike Mol, (4th).

In the festival's boat decorating contest, first prize went among civic groups went to the Shakespeare Club for its trolley car motif. Second was captured by the Garden Club, with its floating replica of the club's own hanging flower baskets. Third prize was taken by the Dickens Study Club for its Christmas Carol float.

Among individuals, first place was won by Thomas Hawley for his Mother Goose theme, second by John Ochs for his tugboat "Little Toot"; and third by Ed Hawley for his "Rogue".

Judging the boat decorations were Lt. Comdr. Dale Foster of the U. S. Coast Guard; Maj. Alvin Aronovsky, U. S. Air Force executive officer at the radar base; and CWO Jamee Seld, U.S. Coast Guard executive at Group Charlevoix.

Following the boat parade, a spectacular display of fireworks lighted the far reaches of Round Lake.

Sunday's activities were limited to a motorcycle scramble which hadn't actually been listed with Festival events.

Sponsored by the Sun - N - Sno Riders of Emmet and Charlevoix, the group held its first scramble at the farm of Pete Winnick on Burgess Rd. between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

More than 1,000 adult tickets were sold, according to the promoters, and children were admitted free.

President Jim Peterson of Petoskey says the group now had 42 members, although it was organized only a year ago.

A 4 1/2 mile track was laid out on 20 acres of rolling land on the Winnick bean farm and events were scheduled for every weight motorcycle.

Winnick was so happy with the results of the afternoon he says he thinks he'll begin work this fall on a dragstrip on his property.

FUN IN THE SUN is Charlevoix's stock in trade for summer visitors. Three sunlit beaches like the one above attract visitors from all parts of the country. During the busiest hours, the beaches are patrolled by life guards. Picnic grounds also are available near most swimming areas for family get-togethers. Many visitors are amazed at the number of sunny summer days enjoyed in Charlevoix. The exhilarating air makes for strenuous activity -- and good sleeping.

Poet Writes for Boys

Mrs. Evelyn A. Butler, 901 State St., never had any sons of her own, but she has five grandsons and thinks she knows how little boys feel about such things as getting up early in the morning to go fishing with grandpa.

Mrs. Butler was born in Rapid City and trained as a teacher at Ypsilanti College. She has been writing poetry ever since she was a little girl, and has had two poems included in the anthology "Poetry Broadcast."

Mrs. Butler says she is interested in children's poetry and plans to write a book of poems for children. She says "Ideals" magazine is interested in using some of her poems in a special children's edition planned for next year.

Mrs. Butler has three daughters, Ruth (Mrs. Allen Hanson) of Petoskey, Joyce (Mrs. Paul Miller) of Armada, and Sharon (Mrs. Dale Lyons) of Clare.

She is proud of the fact that Ruth and Joyce were valedictorian and salutatorian respectively of the Charlevoix

High School graduating class of 1947.

She is equally proud of the fact that Sharon is a nurse in Clare.

Mrs. Butler taught three years at Big Beaver, just north of Detroit. She gave up teaching to become Mrs. Percy Butler and moved back north. In addition to her five grandsons who provide the inspiration for many of her recent poems, the Butlers have three granddaughters.

THESE WHOPPING big bass were caught last week off Pine Point in Lake Charlevoix by Bill Meyer of Charlevoix, left, and George Hamaty of Hastings, a vacationer. Meyer says the heaviest of the fish weighs four pounds. Creels full of fish like these has kept Hamaty coming back to Charlevoix for the last three years.

I LOVE TO GO FISHING WITH GRANDPA

By Evelyn A. Butler

I love to go fishing with Grandpa,
We're up at the break of day,
We have a snack in the kitchen,
Then silently steal away.

He tells me all the tricks of trade,
A good fisherman ever knew,
And I look at him with eager eyes,
I believe them all as true.

I put my bait on my hook alone,
Because my Grandpa did,
I squirm a little at first,
But I mustn't act like a kid.

He gets the first fish on his line,
But it's so tiny and small,
We laugh as it drops in the water,
We even see it fall.

I get the next fish on my line,
I lift up my pole with a jerk,
And I really land a big beauty,
Grandpa lifts his head with a perk.

I get lots more fish than Grandpa,
As we are homeward bound,
It gives me such a happy feeling,
I beat him by many a pound.

I can almost taste the fish,
In Grandpa's frying pan,
It's so much to go fishing,
And really be a Man.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Alba, is a pleasant, scenic afternoon drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. The hatchery's location reminds one of the Smokey Mountains. The hatchery is the newest and largest on the Great Lakes. It will produce about 6,000,000 lake trout a year for restocking the big lakes.

The Ironton Ferry

Short Escape

The Ironton Ferry takes its passengers for a short visit into a world where there can be no hurry. There's just no way to speed up the ferry in its short chug-chug across the neck of the South Arm.

Even if you don't especially want to go where the ferry takes you it's worth the 35¢ fare just to briefly know you've escaped all the pressures that make people rush through life. The Ferry crosses the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at scenic Ironton, about 7 miles southeast of Charlevoix on M-66.

Here's Where & How to Fish

If there is a better cure than fishing for that hauntingly tense feeling that the mob is stalking you with its big city noises and impatience it must be fishing in the Charlevoix area.

Oh sure, there are places in North America with better fishing. But darn few. Some of the country's most incurable anglers rate Lake Charlevoix and the Beaver Island area among the finest small-mouth bass fishing grounds in the U.S.

YET THERE IS MORE than the promise that fish are available for the catching to recommend Charlevoix as a choice fishing area. You mustn't overlook the unsurpassed drama of our clean water, cool air, big hardwood and birch trees and quiet mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But where to go and how to do it? If you're after smallmouth bass or perch try Lake Charlevoix. The South Arm is generally good.

Your best choice of lures for Lake Charlevoix bass will be Jig-A-Do streamers in brown, white and yellow colors. Others this column can vouch for are small (quarter-ounce) dardevils in red-and-white and pearl colors, Jig-A-Do crawlers, number-two size spinners, Super Dupers, Flatfish and Heddon's Cobra. (Worms are also reputed to catch fish.) You can buy any, or all, of these lures at Staley's Hardware and other local stores.

BIG BASS SUCH as those on this stringer come from Lake Charlevoix.

FOR SPECIFIC TIPS on where the current Lake Charlevoix hotspots are ask Clare

Staley at his hardware.

You can find your way to these lakes by asking for maps of Charlevoix and Antrim County, which are available at most motels, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Courier.

If you taste runs more to stream fishing for trout, try the Jordan River south of East Jordan, or the Maple River near Pellston. The Bear River between Walloon Lake and Petoskey also has trout, but is hard to fish. The same holds true with the Boyne River.

There are also a number of small, hushy streams with good populations of trout (and usually mosquitoes).

IF SMALLER lakes are your forte look at a map and pick one of the many directly south of town in Charlevoix County or Antrim County. Though few of them have public access sites, you can usually talk a property owner into letting you trespass... He may even have boats to rent.

You will probably be amazed to find you have to share these lightly fished lakes with only one or two other boats; and sometimes you'll be all alone.

Here's a list of ten smaller lakes worth trying.
 --Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass and panfish.
 --Nowland Lake, for pike, bass and panfish.
 --Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and musky.
 --Susan Lake, for small pike.
 --Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.
 --Walloon Lake, for trout, pike, bass, panfish.
 --West Twin Lake for bass and pike.
 --St. Clair Lake (in Ellsworth), for bass, panfish and even an occasional trout.
 --Ellsworth Lake, for bass, pike, and maybe a musky.
 --Toad Lake (south of Ellsworth) for pike, bass and panfish.

ALL OF THESE lakes have the fish in them that are mentioned... that's guaranteed by this writer. Catching them is up to you. Try using the same lures recommended for Lake Charlevoix. Arbogast's new weedless Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers and Hawaiian Wig-glers are also productive numbers.

NATURE PUTS ON ever-changing drama for campers at Bell's Bay. Wide vistas of water, beach and rugged forests, seen here, are only part of the view. Deer are frequent visitors.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the campground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets.

Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the World is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay.

For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of

Nature and the conveniences of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake.

Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

WHEN THIS bell at the Ironton School first called citizens to meetings in the Township Hall James K. Polk was President of the United States and American soldiers were fighting in Mexico.

That was in 1848.

The bell has been serving Ironton ever since.

In 1883 it was moved from the Ironton Iron Works to the then new school. When the present school was constructed in 1963 the community could not part with its bell. It still calls the kids in from recess and lunch.

Greensky Church Part of State's Indian History

GREENSKY HILL MISSION
Here in the 1840's the Chippewa Indian missionary, Peter Greensky, established a Protestant mission in an area where legend says Indian chiefs once held their councils. New trees have been planted in an arrangement similar to that of the trees that made up the original council circle. Mission services first were held in a rude building of boughs and bark. In the 1850's the Indians built the present church. It is a fine example of the old log style construction with hand-hewn timbers and notched corners. Windows, doors and much of the lumber were brought by canoe from Traverse City, to Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) and then carried two miles to this site. Methodist services for the Indian congregation have been held here regularly to the present.

Our Living Heritage

Greensky Hill Indian Methodist Church welcomes summer visitors. The rustic log chapel in its quiet hilltop setting promises quiet moments of meditation for all who seek escape. Services are held every Sunday morning at 9:30.

The mission was founded in the 1840's by Peter Greensky, an Indian missionary. It has been recognized as a valuable historical site by the Michigan Historical Commission.

The church and historic marker are located on old US-31 north of town, overlooking Susan Lake. Your best bet is to ask at your motel or a service station or restaurant for directions.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable longboats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creeks full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Worldly Audience

Consumers PowerCo.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers PowerCo. advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Sharon Wood, Mike Allen and Hy Heatoo.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Nothing can take the press out of Lee-Prést slacks

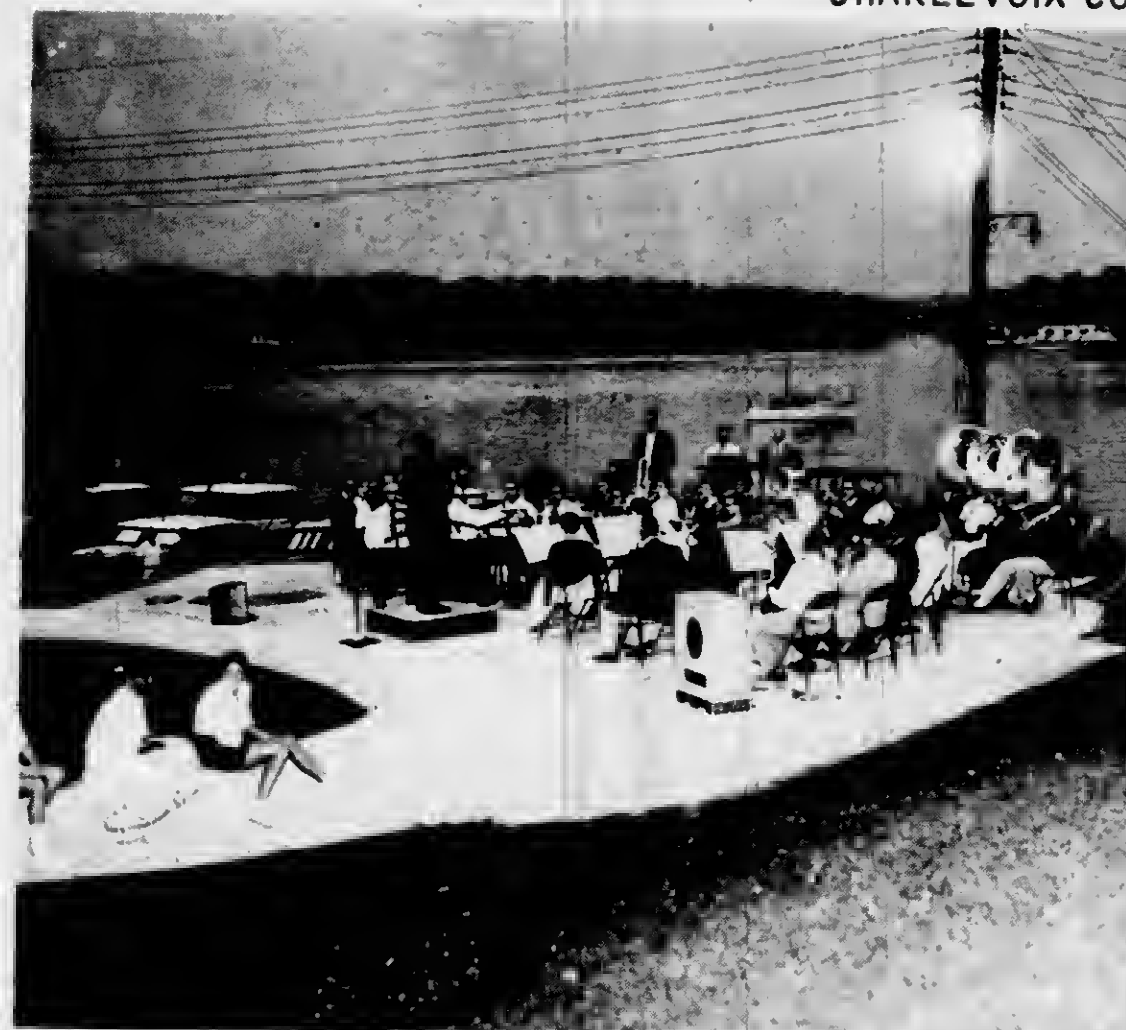

Not that it's on his mind right now. And it needn't be. Those Lee-Prést Leesures can't help but stay crisp and neat. No matter what you put them through. They have a new permanent press. So the crease stays in. The wrinkles stay out. Permanently. And that's without ironing. No touch-ups, either. They're made from Lee's special blend of 50% polyester and 50% combed cotton. For wash and wear...with conviction.

Incidentally, that permanent press is the only change we've made in Leesures. They still have that lean, honest look...smart, tailored fit. New Lee-Prést Leesures. Test their permanent press yourself. It isn't necessary, but it's a great way to spend an evening.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation. Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their care to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James Bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and jake fishing in the bays and ports of Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James Harbor.

The island's lake water, south and north of the fishing area, is of the highest quality. The island is virtually a "fisherman's paradise" with excellent fishing all around the island.

lands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James Bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half-dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from that time, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. James Strang, a Russian entomologist, is the only one of its kind on the island. Another one on the island is the tomb of Dr. James Strang, a Russian entomologist, is the only one of its kind on the island.

Library Welcomes Vacationers

EARLY BIRDS at the Charlevoix Free Library last week were Mrs. Jane Solomon and son Charles, 2, of Huntington Woods, Mich. The library on State at Clinton St. is open from 1:30 to 5 Monday through Wednesday and from 10 a.m. until noon Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

Young Charles started his vacation in Charlevoix by falling out of a window and breaking his arm. With other activities curtailed, Charles enjoyed regular trips to the library with his mother.

Charlevoix Offers Many Holiday Activities

The Charlevoix Free Library above is one of many facilities the city has to offer vacationers.

Shuffleboard courts are available in East Park and there are bathing beaches both on Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan.

Every Wednesday evening, weather permitting, there is a band concert in the park, presented by the Charlevoix Band under the direction of Clarence Odmark.

Unlike most communities where band concerts are cancelled only by rain, Charlevoix musicians also must take wind conditions into consideration.

This was one of the factors which caused cancellation of the July 28 concert.

Boating, of course, is a favorite pastime in the clear waters around Charlevoix. Many power boats are available for rent to those who don't have their own.

Shopping in town is another activity which most visitors enjoy. The city has numerous stores well stocked with attractive merchandise.

Advertising in newspapers is news. It is information about merchandise, services or ideas and inventions of people who pay to have such news published so that the consumer "may know."

Isn't she cute! This is Lori Kondziela who was loving the water at Walloon Lake. The life preserver is almost as big as she is.

New Pier for Beavers

THIS PIER WILL EXTEND more than 300 feet into the harbor of St. James, Beaver Island, when Phil Gregg gets it completed next year. Gregg plans to open a morino, complete with slips, storage and other services. The pier is located where the Beaver Island Lumber Co.'s ships once docked. More than 800 old pilings (on the left), which remain from the Lumber Co.'s days, will have been pulled out when the morino is finished. It will be the only complete morino on Beaver Island. One of longest fish tugs to ever operate on Lake Michigan, the Annabelle, is sunk only a few feet from the pilings.

STAN LIEVENSE poses with a 3½ pound bass taken from a local lake. Limit catches of nice bass and pike are available to any Charlevoix area sportsmen who will take the time to learn where they are and how to catch them.

Commercial Fishing Is Still Going Strong

Charlevoix was started as a commercial fishing community, and fishing still plays an important part in its business life.

Visitors may be interested in watching the fishing boats depart from the John Cross dock off Belvedere St. on Round Lake every morning between 5:40 and 6 o'clock. The boats, the Jackie-C I and the Jackie-C II, return each evening between 5:30 and 6 o'clock laden with whitefish, chubs, and perch.

Kenneth Krulik, who works at the fish house, reports that no lake trout are coming in yet, although plantings have been made in the area. The fishing boats drop gill nets, which can be seen drying on the huge windlasses near the dock. Cross' boats ply the waters around Beaver Island and Grand Traverse Bay.

Don't forget... every litter bit hurts

Fish Photos

Stan Lievense is only one of the many local fishermen who are reporting excellent catches of bass and pike in the waters around Charlevoix. If you have an exceptionally good catch, stop in at the Courier office. We'd like to take a picture or two of the ones that didn't get away.

LexaLite Loan Wins Approval

The LexaLite Co. is one step nearer actual production this week, thanks to federal government approval of a Small Business Administration loan to Charlevoix Development Corp.

The loan was announced simultaneously last week by Sens. Patrick V. McNamara and Philip A. Hart (Mich.) in Washington, D. C.

To be repaid over a period of 15 years, the $100,000 will be used to finance construction and buy property for LexaLite Corporation's plastic molding plant on Lake Michigan just east of Big Rock Point power plant.

THE COMPANY will make plastic fixtures for the lighting industry, including globes and refractors.

LexaLite is believed to be one of the northernmost industrial installations to use electricity as the sole source of heat, light, and power.

The plant provides room for from eight to 10 major pieces of plastic injection and blow molding press equipment. There also is room for warehousing, finishing, annealing, and decorating.

Adjacent offices provides not only for necessary administrative space, but also will house marketing and engineering departments.

The firm already has plans to expand to 80,000 square feet.

The Courier Speaks Up

With this issue, the Charlevoix Courier begins a new series of promotional advertisements concerning things which we in the newspaper business often think about but seldom get a chance to discuss in print.

You will find the first advertisement in this series of 23 on Pg. 11.

The messages have been prepared by Prof. Wilbur Peterson, head of the Bureau of Media Service in the University of Iowa's School of Journalism.

We hope you will enjoy perusing them as much as we have.

Famed Italian Sculpture
May Be Seen at Fair

With a record number of entries in the seventh annual Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsman assured, interest is turning to other phases of this popular summer event in Charlevoix. The fair will be held Saturday, Aug. 14 in East Park.

Of particular interest is a piece of bronze sculpture entitled "Artist and Model" by Italy's famed Giacomo Manzù, which is being loaned for exhibit at the fair by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cummings of Chicago and the Anchorage on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix.

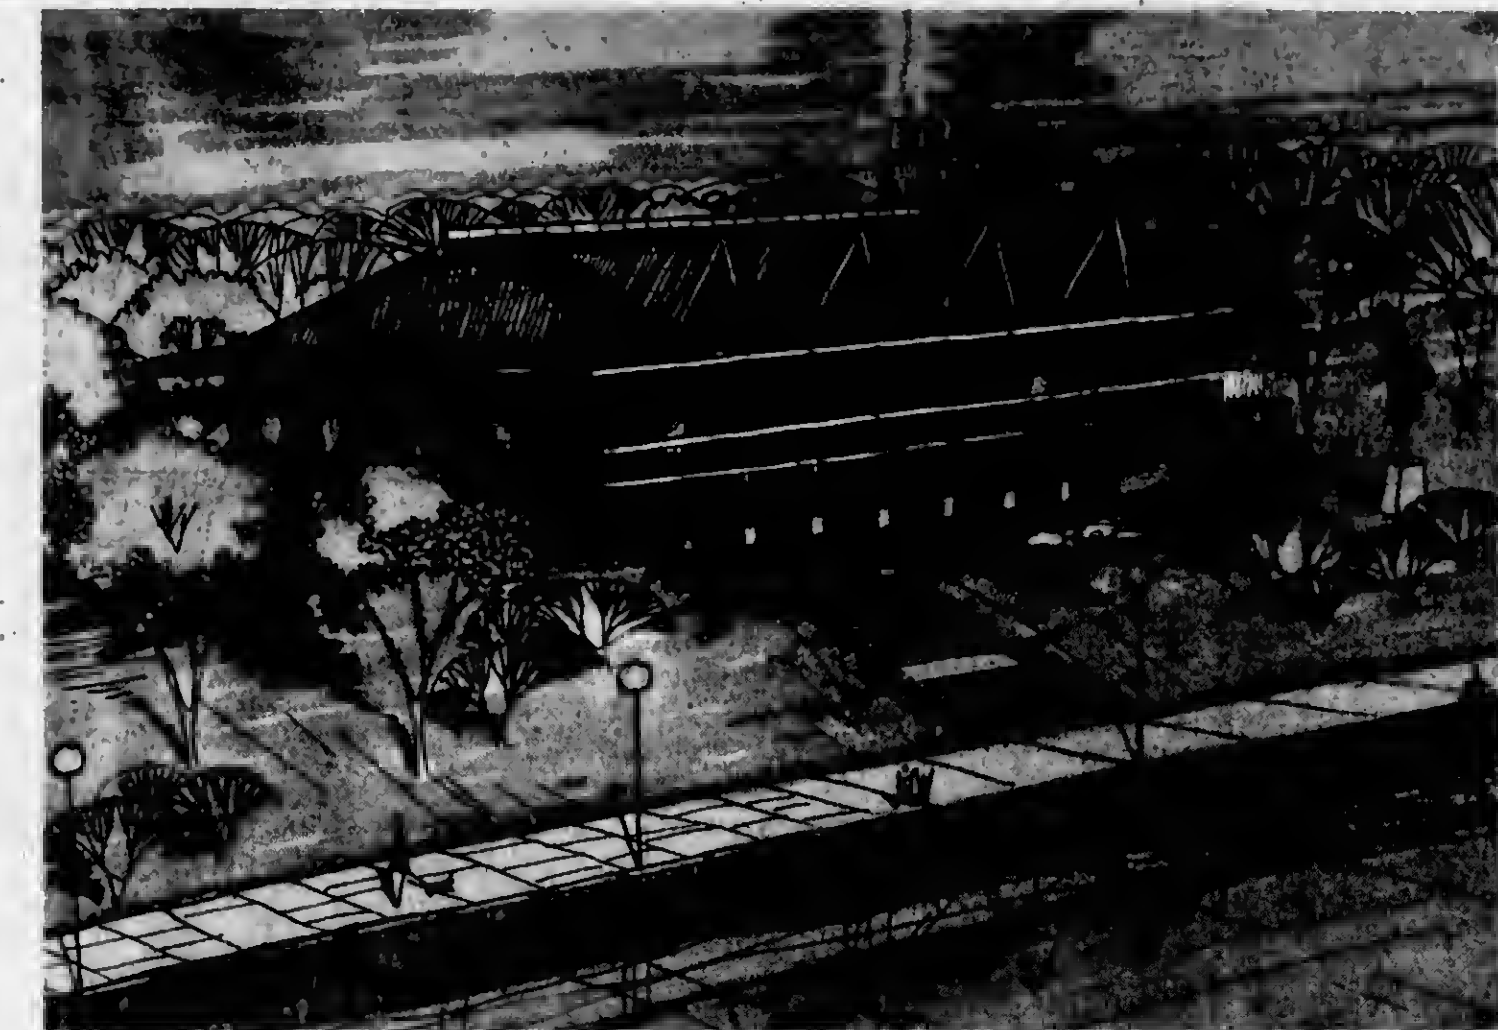

FOR SEVERAL years the Cummings, internationally recognized collectors of art, have loaned pieces from their private collection so that art lovers in northern Michigan and visitors to the area might share their keen interest in art. This year, for the first time, they are loaning their prized Manzu.

The renowned Italian sculptor recently completed bronze panels for St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome known as the "Doors of Death" and bronze plaques at Palazzo d'Italia.

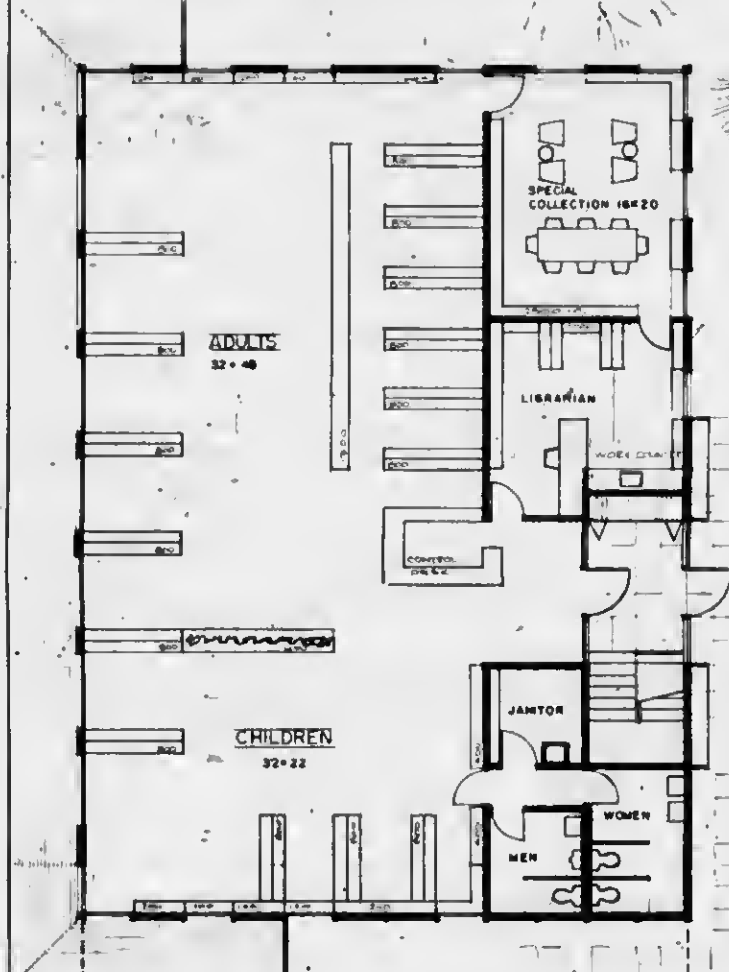

MICHIGAN residents who have visited the new Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. office at the foot of Woodward Avenue in Detroit have seen another of Manzu's statues before the new structure, a nude water nymph.

Another feature of the fair will be an Artmobile with paintings depicting "Three Centuries of French Painting" being brought here through arrangements with the Founders Society of the Detroit Institute of Art.

AS THE deadline for entries passed Monday, more than 120 artists and craftsmen from throughout the Midwest had entered Charlevoix's Water-

Draftsmen Visualize
Library on Channel

Plans for a new library for the city of Charlevoix have been submitted to the Library Board by Begrow & Brown, architects.

The firm estimates the cost of the building they propose would be $116,640, most of which would be paid by the federal government under its aid to libraries program.

Suggested site is one block north of the present library on Pine River Channel. The project would involve acquisition of some private property along the channel.

THE FIRM estimates that it would cost $23,440 to make needed improvements to the present library at State and Clinton Streets.

After receiving the estimate, the local board of education made application for federal aid to help with the repair work. Because of the age and condition of the building, however, the State Library Board urged the local board to consider a new building rather than to repair the old.

Under present plans, if approval for federal aid is granted, the new site and building completely furnished will cost the school district one third of its total price. The other two-thirds will be paid through federal aid to libraries.

OF THE TOTAL $116,640 price, $38,880 will be paid by the school district.

Historymobile
Open to Public
In East Park

The Michigan Historical Commission's new Historymobile will be on display in East Park through Aug. 5. Valued at more than $50,000, the Historymobile has been developed entirely through the cooperation of numerous Michigan businesses and industries which contributed all the equipment and supplies.

The display, which is set up in an over-sized house trailer, depicts the history of Michigan from the early days of the French explorers and the Indians through 1965.

Particular attention is paid to the role of industry and agriculture in the state's economy, with emphasis on the part Michigan played in World War I and II.

The Historymobile is being sent to communities throughout the state free of charge. It is visiting Charlevoix on request of the Chamber of Commerce, the Dickens Study Club and the Shakespeare Study Club.

The traveling exhibit is open from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Draft Eyes
Childless
Husbands

Local Selective Service Board 15 has been asked to review the records of all 18 to 26-year-old married men without children, with an eye toward calling them up for physical examinations in the near future.

The request came on the heels of President Johnson's announcement last week that the nation's draft call was being doubled to meet the needs of the Vietnam crisis.

Mrs. Frank Bourgoin, clerk of the local board, said the state Selective Service office also has boosted from 10 to 18 the number of men who will report for physicals in September.

SHE SAID the instruction came from Col. Arthur Holmes, director of the State Selective Service office.

Mrs. Bourgoin said that so far the local board has not received word of any increase in the September draft call, although she expects Charlevoix's normal quota of three will be doubled in October.

At present, the local board is calling up only unmarried 20 year olds who are not school exempt.

Nationally, President Johnson said monthly draft calls will be more than doubled, from 17,000 men to 35,000 to help increase U.S. forces in Vietnam from 75,000 to 125,000 troops.

APPARENTLY he has ruled out, at least for the present, (Continued on back page)

Mother of 3 Appointed
New County Treasurer

Charlevoix County's new treasurer is a diminutive brunette and the mother of three school-age children.

She is Mrs. Anah (A as in Apple) Potter, of 810 Bridge St., Charlevoix.

Mrs. Potter was selected for the job by Probate Judge John Makel, Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varnum, and County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow to fill the unexpired term of Miss Lillis M. Flanders, who has announced her retirement effective Aug. 31.

Miss Flanders' term has about three and one-half years yet to run.

A FORMER deputy county treasurer, Mrs. Potter resigned in May to take a job with the Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Co.

She says that when the vacancy in the treasurer's office appeared, she applied for the job "because I enjoyed the work while I was there very much."

ROBERT BRIDGE
1894-1965

Shops Close During Funeral
For Mr. Bridge

Funeral for Robert Bridge, 71, banker, civic leader, insurance broker, and former mayor of Charlevoix was held July 31 from the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen of the Congregational Church officiated and burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Most business places in the city closed during the hours of his funeral out of respect for a man who was at the helm of dozens of civic improvement projects during his lifetime.

The funeral originally was scheduled for 11 a.m., but was postponed when it was learned that Mr. Bridge's son, Sgt. Eugene Bridge, was en route from Vietnam and would be home within a matter of hours.

MR. BRIDGE, president of Charlevoix County State Bank, apparently suffered a heart attack early July 28 while carrying luggage from his house to his car. He had intended to drive his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Virginia Bridge, to the Traverse City airport for a flight to Virginia when he collapsed and died on the front lawn of his home at 200 E. Dixon Ave.

Mr. Bridge was born in Whitewater, Wis., Jan. 26, 1894 and moved to Charlevoix 65 years ago as a boy.

During World War I he was in the Navy, receiving his discharge in September, 1921, as a seaman second class.

After the war, young Bridge followed his father's footsteps into the banking business. Albert F. Bridge was president of the Charlevoix County Bank and hired his son as a teller.

On Feb. 8, 1924, a fire virtually reduced the bank to rubble. A scrapbook kept by the bank indicates that on Feb. 9, young Bridge already was making plans for a new building, and by Feb. 21 architects were on the job.

On June 28 of that year, "the bank of the corner" was dedicated.

Accidents Plague County

One person was killed and six others were injured, four seriously, in motor vehicle accidents in Charlevoix County this week.

Victim of fatal motorcycle crash was Charles E. Myers, 22, of Osseo, Mich.

Myers, a bus boy at Boyne Mt. Lodge, was killed instantly early Sunday when his 1965 Honda crashed through a fence on a dead end road. Myers was thrown from the vehicle and struck his head on a billboard. The accident occurred where Deer Lake Road meets M-75.

A HEAD-ON collision at the entrance to Big Rock Point power plant July 28 totally destroyed these two automobiles and injured six persons, four seriously. The accident occurred when a northbound car swerved left to avoid running into a third auto which apparently had slowed down to make a left turn into the plant.

THE ACCIDENT probably happened between 4:30 and 5 a.m., although the youth's body was not discovered until after 6 a.m. by passing motorists.

The body was taken to the Myers' home in Hillsdale for burial.

Myers is the fourth traffic victim in Charlevoix County this year.

The injury accident occurred July 28 at the entrance to the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant and resulted in a reckless driving charge against Mrs. Cecil W. Wilhoit of Bloomington, Ill., according to sheriff's deputies.

Officers say Mrs. Wilhoit apparently swerved left in an effort to avoid hitting a car which had slowed down in front of her to turn left into the power plant.

THE WILHOIT car collided head-on with a southbound vehicle driven by Mrs. Carolyn Mary Payne of Hart, Mich.

Mrs. Payne and a passenger in her car, Mrs. Anna Schaner, also of Hart, were treated at Charlevoix and removed to Hart Hospital. Their husbands, Vern Payne, and Peter Schaner, were treated and released.

Mrs. Wilhoit and a passenger in her car, Mrs. Genevieve Hatfield, also of Bloomington, are reported in good condition at Charlevoix Hos-

Mrs. Elmer Houck of Riverdale visited her cousin, Mrs. Lena Cook this week.

Fashion Show Funds Help Equip Hospital

Proceeds from a fashion show Aug. 4 at the Weather-vane Inn will be used to purchase diagnostic equipment for Charlevoix Hospital, according to Mrs. Donald DeMoore, who is in charge of tickets and reservations.

Sponsored by the Women's Guild of the hospital, the show will feature back-to-school clothes for children.

Meg is modeling a red plaid winter cotton with hand smocking and a white collar. Amy's costume is a school favorite—a navy jersey jumper, worn with a navy and white striped turtle neck shirt.

These and many other fashions from the Polly Kay shop will be shown at the fashion-luncheon beginning at 12:30 p.m.

The motto of the British royal arms, "Dieu et mon droit," is a reminder of the time when Englishmen spoke French. French became the language of the royal court and the courts of justice after the Normans conquered England in 1066. The motto means "God and my right."

"Do you want a menu?" I've been asked that question a dozen times or more in Charlevoix restaurants since I've been hatching it, waiting for my family to pull up stakes in Holly and move north.

Of course I want a menu. I'm hungry. I want to see what the restaurant has to offer, or else I wouldn't be there.

NEEDLESS to say, there are obvious exceptions--the regular customer, for example, who has been coming in every morning for 53 years and orders a cup of coffee and a couple of slinkers. But these girls don't know me from Adam. Except for that wrinkled brow, I might be another tourist.

By and large, the summer restaurant customer in Charlevoix is an out-of-towner. He's on a holiday and would like to enjoy a pleasant meal if possible.

THE QUESTION "Do you want a menu?" seems to imply that there isn't very much on the menu anyway, and it might be a good idea just to order a hamburger and get out.

The waitress who asks "Do you want a menu?" is violating one of the cardinal rules of sound business; namely, telling the customer know what merchandise is on sale. The hamburger customer may end up buying a T-Bone steak or a pork chop dinner once he has looked at the bill of fare.

And waitresses should remember, the bigger the order, the bigger the tip. They have a stake in this business, too.

IT COULD be that these girls are just trying to make conversation. I wouldn't know. If so, I'd rather have them say something positive like, "Here's your ice water" or "May I fill up your cup?" or "I'd like to recommend the sauerbraten."

The only thing that bothers me about my return to the newspaper business is the accident beat. The sickening squeal of tires, the awesome crash of metal and glass, the urgent whine of police and ambulance sirens -- it's the same old story over and over repeated too many times each week on the highways around Charlevoix.

A case in point is the head-on collision which occurred Wednesday morning at the entrance to the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant, injuring six people. The accident occurred on a wide sweep of curving highway, with no real visibility problem.

One car apparently was attempting to pull into the power plant drive from the south and bumped engine blocks with one coming from the north.

Six vacations were wrecked totally, along with two relatively new automobiles.

IT'S DIFFICULT to pinpoint blame. Perhaps speed entered into it. A moment's inattention. Some distraction along that scenic route. An error in judgement. It could have been one of a dozen things.

But the aftermath is always the same. The sickening sirens, the curious crowd, the ambulances, the wreckers hauling away the debris, the woman with a bandage on her head who keeps asking, "What happened? What happened?"

A discouraging number of accidents seem to take place along the Charlevoix-Petoskey road. The distance is 16 miles, and can be covered in 15 minutes at 60 m.p.h.--all too short a time to steal an occasional glimpse at that big show-off, Lake Michigan, or the rugged headlands north of Little Traverse Bay.

One problem along this particular stretch of road, as with most Michigan shore roads, is curves. Get hung up behind a slow moving camper or trailer and you might not find a place to pass for five miles or more.

I THINK the best advice is just to relax -- a little -- and enjoy the trip. Cut your speed to 40 and you'll have 25 minutes to take in some of the most soul-satisfying scenery in North America.

I've been boning up on the history of the area since I've been in Charlevoix, and was surprised to learn that the island of Big Beaver was a going concern, civilization-wise, long before there was much settlement of any kind on the mainland.

THE ISLAND, of course, was the domain of Mormon King James Jesse Strang who attracted followers from all over the country following the assassination in 1844 of Joseph Smith, founder of the Mormon Church.

Milo M. Qualie in his book "The Kingdom of Saint James" fixes the population of Big Beaver island in 1854 at 2,608 souls, compared to a population of 4,706 in all of Charlevoix county. And most of the mainlanders were Indians.

According to Qualie, the celebrated "Battle of Pine River" at the present site of Charlevoix occurred in 1853 when Strang and his followers visited the fishing settlement here to round up jurors for the circuit court, then meeting on Beaver Island.

STRANG MADE his plea and was about to leave when the settlers opened fire point-blank. The prophet and his followers fled in open boats, with the mainlanders in hot pursuit. The Mormons sought refuge on the bark Morgan where their wounds were treated and where they were allowed to stay until nightfall.

Qualie didn't say so, but this is probably the most violent protests on record to a summons for jury duty in the annals of American government.

THE AUTHOR does say that the mainlanders' objection to Strang's government stemmed not so much from the practice of plural marriage or Strang's authoritarian rule as it did from Strang's insistence on enforcing laws which prohibited the selling of liquor to Indians. Bootlegging, even then, was a profitable business in the north Michigan woods.

No Fatalities On Freeways Over Holiday

The State Highway Department Traffic Division reports that Michigan Motorists traveled nearly 50 million miles on interstate freeways over the July 4 weekend, without a single fatality.

Although the traffic death rate nationally on interstate highways for the weekend was 3.2 per 100 million vehicle miles, 37 other states besides Michigan reported no interstate route fatalities.

On other state trunklines, the traffic fatality rate for the weekend was near the national average of 6.8 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles traveled.

State highway director Howard E. Hill says one of the big problems his department is trying to combat is the driver who drives the wrong way on a freeway.

The department has completed installation of 1,200 signs at freeway interchanges, the first step in a $4 million program to improve safety control on state highways.

Of Opa Locka, Fla., joined them Thursday and Mrs. Henry G. of Chicago on Monday.

HEAR THESE WORDS

from an old Guide Book It says we are travelers on the way And since we pass this way but once, we want good directions
Through the centuries, long lines of tall, serious thinking men have cried, "Which way shall I take?"
Well, here is a man who found it Then won't you hear the challenge? It says that, ultimately men want the rewards of one who walks a straight and narrow path but few there be that earn them. It speaks to all,
"Keep My Commandments," but few there be that keep them
No one questions the beauty of this book's directions. Its commands come with all the authority of Heaven and earth from God to man to you Centuries of human experience declare its words to be true Your own soul recognizes the importance of its teachings Then why not accept its challenge? Make all this a personal matter.
Straighten up your life. Use religious ethics in your business dealings and start going to church to prove you mean it!

You In The Church
The Church is You

THE TREBLESIRES Trio from Anderson (Indiana) College will appear at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix Tuesday, Aug. 10 in a program of hymns, gospel songs and special numbers. Left to right are Kathy Wetkowski, St. Joseph, Mich.; Ann Thomas and Faye Wiseman, Winchester, Ky.; and Joy Wolfskill, Temple, Pa. The program begins at 7:30 p.m. A get-acquainted hour for the young people of the church will be held after the service.

Reader Finds Fault With Guard Picture Rev. Taylor Celebrates First Mass

Dear Editor,
Less than a year ago you printed a letter I wrote to you commending you on your fine newspaper. Now I would like to voice a much different opinion of you as an editor. I have never seen so much partiality shown to different Coast Guard units within one town as you have shown.

The very latest incident was the last straw as far as I'm concerned. To me it was not only disgusting, but a showing of ignorance. I refer to the picture of the new Sunday captain obviously shaking hands with the former captain, Lt. Cmdr. Paul T. Anderson. Due to the fact the picture was cropped, I could be wrong. However, just moving back here from Grand Haven which is the official Coast Guard town U.S.A., I know that this is the usual procedure.

In any event, why wasn't there ever a going away picture which is also the usual procedure of Lt. Cmdr. Paul T. Anderson? I'm sure he never gave it a thought after considering the source but I know for a fact that there are so many of his friends including prominent townspeople who voiced the opinion it was very strange.

Of course, I am in no way connected with either the Sunday, the lifeboat station, or the group office but anyone who can read can see how you have in the past always played up the job of the station and down the job of the Sunday.

Although popularity isn't an important factor in this issue I would be willing to wager that any C. G. enlisted man or officer would put Lt. Cmdr. Anderson at the top of the list as not only an outstanding officer but as a very fine person. What higher tribute could there be to any man than to have the respect and admiration of your fellow workers. He was the senior officer of all the C. G. units in Charlevoix even though gentleman as he is he'd be the last one to blow his own horn. Of course, it wouldn't be necessary anyway because all of his kind deeds speak for themselves.

Perhaps if you wrote to Mr. A. W. McCall editor of the Grand Haven Tribune, who happens to be a very fine person, he could give you a lesson on how to print a fair and unbiased opinion not only on service personnel but on everything you write.

Name withheld by request.

Rev. Brian Taylor, O.F.M. Conv., son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Taylor of Lansing, formerly of Charlevoix, celebrated his first Solemn Mass at Holy Cross Roman Catholic church in Lansing Sunday, Aug. 1.

Assisting Rev. Taylor at the Solemn Mass were his brothers, Friar Rene Taylor of Our Lady of Mercy Seminary - College as sub-deacon, and Timothy and Daniel as acolytes.

Members of the parish, relatives and friends attended the Mass at 11 a.m. Dinner was served in the parish hall for 250 people. Reception at Holy Cross auditorium was from 3 to 5 p.m., followed by a solemn benediction at 5 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gibson of Charlevoix were in Lansing for the Mass.

Attending Rev. Taylor's ordination in Rome last winter were his parents and his sister, Sister Mary Timothy of Brest, France.

Mr. Taylor formerly was manager of the Charlevoix Kroger store.

Litterbugs Are Giving Michigan a Bad Name

Michigan appears headed for a record tourist summer but state tourist industry leaders are warning that visitors may receive a bad impression of the state because of litter along highways and in other public places.

Recent action by the Michigan Tourist Council reaffirmed a long-standing Council policy that enforcement officials should be urged to consider maximum penalties for persons caught littering.

State law provides for up to $100 in fines and many local courts impose "clean-up" sentences requiring offenders to pick up all litter in a given area or for a specific time.

The Council pointed out that throughout the state motorists are never more than a few minutes drive from litter barrels. These are located at all freeway rest areas, in all state and county parks and at some 1,800 picnic table sites along state highways.

In addition most service stations and roadside restaurants provide litter receptacles. Many service stations also provide free litter bags for cars.

The problem of roadside litter costs state and local units of government hundreds of thousands of dollars that should be spent on other highway maintenance.

Danger in the form of cuts from broken glass and tin littering beaches and on lake and stream bottoms is an increasing hazard.

Persons who have suggestions for dealing with the problem of throw away containers and litter in general are asked to write to the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building. All suggestions will be carefully reviewed and those which have merit will be directed through the proper channels for action, the Council said.

Correct Numbering Up to Boat Owners

LANSING--Michigan's vast armada of motorboat owners were reminded that their boats have to be numbered in the correct fashion or face possible action from the Coast Guard if they travel in the Great Lakes or connected waterways.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said that federal regulations are "quite explicit" that boat registration be separated from numbers by either hyphens or equivalent space, like this: MC-1234-AA or MC 1234 AA. Never MC1234AA.

HARE REMINDED owners that each is responsible for registering his boat and seeing to it that it is properly numbered.

"The numbering system pertains to motorboats in all Michigan waters, whether they are federally patrolled or not," Hare explained. Michigan, like many other states, has the Coast Guard numbering system for boats.

"ALL NUMBERS must be at least three inches high. They must be bold, numbered from left to right and painted or attached on each side of the hull of the boat to make them distinctly visible and legible. They should be of contrasting color to the hull and as high above the water line as possible.

Hare said there are more than 500,000 motorboat owners in Michigan.

Obituarie

Mrs. Julianna Lakies

Funeral for Mrs. Julianna Lakies, 80, was held Aug. 2 at the Winchester Funeral Home, with burial in Fairview Cemetery, Mancelona. The Rev. R. L. Seizinger of Bethany Lutheran Church officiated.

Mrs. Lakies died July 30 at the Grandvue Medical Center in East Jordan after a lingering illness. Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Denzel, Mrs. Lakies was born Nov. 8, 1885 in Cadillac. She married the late Edward Lakies in Cadillac in 1902. She moved to Charlevoix County from Flint 22 years ago and was a member of Bethany Lutheran Church and the Luther Ladies Guild, Rebecca Chapter.

Mrs. Lakies is survived by three sons, Arthur of Cadillac, Evert of Tustin, and Gerald of Charlevoix; and four daughters, Mrs. Joseph Ogden of Battle Creek, Mrs. Harold Pearl, Mrs. Marguerite Mason, and Mrs. Ella Ingalls, all of Charlevoix.

She also is survived by two brothers, George Denzel of Cadillac and Carl Denzel of Manton; a sister, Mrs. Herb Miller of Cadillac, 20 grandchildren and 36 great-grandchildren.

Chill Breezes Cancel Concert

Cold weather and high winds forced cancellation of last Wednesday's band concert, according to Clarence Odmark, band director.

Odmark said he regretted the cancellation, but it would have been impossible even to keep the music on the stands the way the wind was blowing.

He said the decision whether or not to cancel a performance must be made about 7:15 on the night of the concert, and consideration must be made for the players and equipment.

The same concert scheduled for last Wednesday will be presented this Wednesday instead, according to Odmark.

Lost Woman Returns Home

A rural Boyne City woman who was lost five hours in the woods Aug. 2 found her way home by herself although dozens of searchers were in the area.

Mrs. Lewis Archer, 25, wandered into the woods near her home on Thompson Road. Her husband searched for her without success all afternoon, notifying the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office about 6 p.m.

Sheriff's deputies, conservation men, and Citizens Band volunteers from Charlevoix and Boyne City immediately joined the search. Mrs. Archer found her way to a road, and was brought home by a CB volunteer.

Field Day at Eastport

A Firemen's Field Day will be held Thursday Aug. 12 beginning at 11 a.m. in Barnes Park, Eastport, sponsored by the Upper Torch Lake Assn. A children's costume parade will begin at 1 p.m., followed by races and contests of all kinds. Prizes will be awarded.

From 5 to 7 p.m., a barbecued chicken dinner will be served and at 7 o'clock will begin the talent show and awarding of grand prizes.

The Field Day promises to have a carnival atmosphere, with games of skill and chance, a baked goods sale, bazaars, booths, light lunches and soft drinks available along the midway.

Grand prizes include a 12-foot aluminum boat, a six-piece set of decorated cookware, an electric blanket, and a thermos picnic kit.

club's shooting range north of Charlevoix. Parsel shot 16 birds out of a possible 25. Second place went to Ted Malpass who shot 14 out of 25.

Ron Sixberry of the Coast Guard Station took the lead in skeet shooting, nailing 22 out of 25.

Other shooters were Andy Peters, Gary Plumm, Norm Empey, Bud Flower, Dick Nelson, Jim Duree, Dick Farrington, Chet Schrackl, Frank Zednick, Bill Peters, Bob Reed, Peter Klinepell, Art Klinepell, Pam Snyder, John Rosak and Harold Lang.

Range master Bill Peters reports that nearly 100 persons showed up for the shooting, which is held every Sunday beginning at 1:30 p.m. Matches usually are over by 5.

Peters said plenty of guns are available, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

He added that more than 1,000 rounds were fired at the clay birds July 26. The birds are launched from both high and low houses, traveling at a speed of about 60 miles per hour when they leave the ejector.

Ferris Students On Honor Role

Lynette M. Mayne and Carl S. Mitchell, both pre-seniors in the School of Pharmacy at Ferris State College, were named to the Dean's Honor List for academic excellence during the past quarter.

Lynette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mayne and Carl is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mitchell, all of Charlevoix.

Dr. Ardwin J. Doffo said the Charlevoix students were among 550 on the honor role for the last quarter.

To be named to the list, a student must maintain at least a "B" average while carrying a full academic load.

Employers Must Insure Workers

Small companies, individual employers and householders employing domestics are reminded that Sept. 1 is the deadline for taking out proper workmen's compensation coverage, according to Weldon O. Yeager, director of the state Workmen's Compensation Dept.

"All employers hiring one or more people for 35 hours a week for 13 weeks duration during the past year must get workmen's compensation insurance coverage, or be subject to penalties of the law," Yeager said.

"We urge all employers to make arrangements now by contacting their insurance agent," he added. Agricultural employees will not be affected until May 1, 1966, but domestics and other eligible employees should be covered before the Sept. 1 deadline.

FASTBALL LEAGUE
The second round of the fastball league got under way during the week. Lake Construction and American Mold, first round winner, posted impressive wins. The Merchants, after a first game loss to Mold, racked up two lopsided wins.

The Mold blasted the Merchants 11-1 behind the two hit pitching of veteran Nate Boss. A seven run second inning shot the winners out in front to stay. The big blow was a long two run homer by Bob Ritt, Jack Ingalls and Skip Duerr got the only base hits for the Merchants.

Lake Construction needed only five innings to dispose of the USAF, 15-2. Ted Potter allowed only Bob Gantzel's single and batted out three hits himself.

THE MERCHANTS' Bernie Kullik shut out Oleson's 10-0, allowing only two hits while teammate Gary Stutzman put on a power show, smashing two long home runs.

Against the USAF the Merchants coasted to a 15-4 win with Kullik, Joe Battle and John Bleha leading the way with two hits apiece. Tapley's home run led the losers.

LEADING HITTERS
Ted Potter took the lead in the batting race with a fine .520 average. Teammates Rick Grunch and Deano Davenport of Lake Construction rounded out the top three.

JERRY'S Gulf slugged out a 12-9 win over Freedman to take the first round title. The two teams had each ended the regular scheduled tied for first. Four runs in the fifth and sixth innings sealed the win for the champions, although Freedman's kicked up their heels in their final at bats, scoring five times and putting the tying run on base before falling short. Steve Smith had two hits for the winners.

PEANUT LEAGUE
The Braves threw the Red Division title into a rat race with an 8-Supset of the Tigers. The loss knocked the Tigers out of first place. With the game tied 4-4 after seven, Brave Jim Warner homered in the top of the eighth to give the Braves a lead. Tim Carey duplicated the trick to tie it once more. This set the stage for Rick Turner to single home his brother Ron with the winning marker in the Drave ninth inning.

The Lions kept their title hopes alive with a narrow 10-9 win over the Cubs. Bob Etienne's three hits paced the Lions, but Kraag Lieberman singled home the winning run in the seventh.

The Dodgers got into the win column by thumping the young Astros 17-4. Don Ward and Rick Pastore homered for the winners.

The Cards continued undefeated as the beat the Pirates 6-1 to remain atop the White Division.

BLOOPER LEAGUE RESULTS
Novak's Insurance used the same script as always, coming from behind in their final time at bat to score nine times and beat Consumers 12-7. Bill Carey's home run sparked the rally. The win was the sixth straight for the league leaders.

Boyne scored 26 times to bomb Ken's Dodge service. Ken's did stir up the dust with nine last inning runs but fell short 26-16. Gordon Freedman had a home run in a losing cause.

Mrs. Robert Lee Thornton III

Lenore Erber Weds Robert L. Thornton III

Miss Lenore Erber of Charlevoix became the bride of Robert L. Thornton III of Dallas July 31 in the First Congregational Church, Charlevoix.

Two hundred guests witnessed the single-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl J. Erber of Charlevoix. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Thornton Jr. of Dallas.

MISS ERBER wore an ivory peau de sole gown, fashioned in classic lines, with a fitted bodice, empire style, embroidered with seed pearls on Belgian lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white amaranthus with stephanotis and lily.

Mrs. Charles Bellinger was organist and Miss Karen Emens of Rochester, New York, was soloist.

Maid of Honor was Miss Karen Uhrick of Charlevoix who wore a raspberry sleeveless silk shantung gown styled along empire lines. She wore a headpiece of shantung flower, with tulle veil and carried a bouquet to match the bride's, of pink sweetheart roses and lily.

After Aug. 15, they will make their home at 65 Livingston St., Brooklyn, New York. For her traveling costume, Mrs. Erber chose a beige, raw silk, three-piece suit with matching leather gloves and shoes.

THE BRIDE is a graduate of the University of Michigan school of business administration. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. The bridegroom has his bachelors degree from the University of Texas and his masters degree from the University of Michigan. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

He is employed as an executive trainee by the Chemical Bank New York Trust Co.

Mrs. Homer Brady, Mrs. Guy Smith Sr., Mrs. Thomas Swanson and Mrs. Maude Case of Detroit spent three days at Copper Harbor, and report it was a beautiful trip.

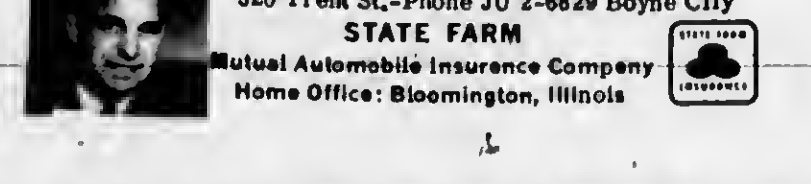

on my last car!

How? Through my State Farm Mutual agent. He helped me get financing through a local cooperating bank. And that low cost bank financing really saves you money! Then I insured the car with State Farm too, and with their low rates I saved even on the insurance! Guess a lot of car owners save like this with State Farm. Say... why don't you call your State Farm agent?

We were all stunned and saddened from the sudden passing of Robert Bridge in Charlevoix last Wednesday morning. Our community extends its sympathy to Mrs. Bridge and family.

Plans are being made for the annual church picnic at Whiting Park in two weeks. For information call Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Saunders or Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith.

Terry Neilson has returned to her school duties in Big Rapids after a weekend with her family, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neilson.

Members of the Williams family enjoyed a family reunion, Saturday evening, at the Glen Williams home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graf from Lansing are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Ted England.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDermott from Jacksonville, Fla., former local residents, are visiting friends and relatives for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec McCready and Mr. and Mrs. John McCready from Detroit are vacationing for two weeks at Wrights Cabins.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Phend, (Dora Neilson) and family have returned to their home in Hamlin, New York, after spending the past week with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neilson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wright from Ann Arbor were guests Sunday at the home of Roy and Minnie Meyers. They are friends of Mrs. J. Rallogh Nelson, who was a summer resident in our community many years. Mrs. Nelson lives in her own home with a companion and is in good health. She will be remembered by many old friends.

Mrs. Jack Arthur Jr. and three children from Hazel Park, are guests at the home of Mrs. J. Arthur Sr. Roland, the latter's grandson, had the misfortune to fall while playing and broke his shoulder Saturday. The Arthurs now own the home of the Clyde Ogden family.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kroll and family have returned home from their two weeks camping trip near Loughton.

We were received this Sunday from Mrs. Steven Chamberlain from Hong Kong, China of the sudden passing from a severe heart attack, of Mr. Chamberlain. They and friends were on a trip around the world, planning on being back at their cottage in Sequana, by Sept. 1. Mr. Chamberlain was 76 years old. Their home is in Glendale, Mo. Our church and community are deeply grieved from this sad news.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jefferson Miller II of Chevy Chase, Md., are the parents of a son born July 28. Summer residents here, they plan to come Aug. 29 for 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald White and son, Leon, are on a vacation trip through Florida. Enroute they took Mr. White's grandfather, Everett Keith, of Grantville, Va., to Detroit where he will spend some time with relatives after having spent two weeks here.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Suomela and two children of Grosse Pointe are spending a month here. While in Charlevoix they are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Uno Suomela and working on their North Point cottage.

Scuba Divers Offered Advice on Staying Alive

If you're taking up skin or scuba diving this summer, be sure to get your feet wet in basic rules of diving safety first.

Before taking the plunge, novice divers should learn these safety principles.

1. Get a physical check-up before even beginning lessons. People with heart or respiratory ailments, ear or sinus conditions, nervousness, or claustrophobia shouldn't dive.

2. Learn the laws of physics governing interaction of air and water pressure. Most serious and fatal accidents occur when divers fail to follow these laws during dives or while returning to the surface and are attacked by the "bends," air embolism, or other diver's diseases.

3. Know how to care for diving equipment and practice its use in shallow water many times under competent instruction before venturing into deep water. Novice divers should never go below 33 feet—where pressure is double that on the surface.

4. Learn in advance all there is to know about the water in which a dive is planned. Find out whether it is inhabited by dangerous marine life and learn every condition of current, tide and surface wind that may be a factor in maintaining a "pattern of safety."

5. Never dive alone. Because accidents usually happen to solo divers, even experts never go below without a "buddy" diver.

Mr. and Mrs. Margaret Howard have gone to Harvey, Ill., for the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Anderson and three children are spending several days with relatives in Minnesota before going to Cleveland to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cooper and two children have arrived here from Chicago to make their home. He will be stationed aboard the U.S.C.-C.C. Sundew.

Miss Nancy Hoffman is on a camping trip to the Smokey Mountains with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bussler, of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. James Henderson and five children of Detroit are visiting with their aunt, Miss Barbara Kysela.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carey and daughters, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Tallas and family, Mr. and Mrs. Max Hosmer and family and the Careys' nephew, Stewart Coleman, are on a 10-day vacation trip around Lake Superior.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. Paul McClure and two children and her guests, Mrs. Clark Gorham and daughter, Kim, have returned to Lansing after spending a week at the Pine Point cottage of Mrs. McClure's mother, Mrs. Ingma Pontious. Mr. McClure and Mr. Gorham joined them Thursday and returned to southern Michigan with them.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Davis had as their recent guests her brother and sister-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Clare Gleason of West Branch who were here Friday and Saturday and Mr. Davis' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson of Rockford who visited here from Sunday until Tuesday.

Mrs. Margery Malone and son, Paul, returned to Lansing Tuesday after spending 10 days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira H. Olney has as their recent guest his daughter, Mrs. Joy Mann of Saginaw who is attending the summer session at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Skeel, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Skeel and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Whitley of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Skeel of Flint attended a Wentzel Family reunion at Jewell, Iowa, on Sunday. The Hubert and Lewis Skeels will be gone two weeks. The others have returned.

We are now booking vacation-home repair and remodeling work for fall and winter. Call now for a "no obligation estimate".

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The sixth week of camp started out with a beautiful sunny, hot day, and the campers well-entrenched into their activities. Mark Taylor took his boys on a sailing trip, the boys being Chip Little, Tom Kirwin, Kirk Kirlin, Jack Postle, Jeff Wright, Jim Case, and Scott Kortan. In the afternoon, Jay Heltz left camp with his boys for a canoe trip down the Jordan River. His boys were Hugh Broder, Bobby Weber, Mark Hirschede, Bitt Hickenlooper, John Cooper, Ron Ureel, Tim Ewing. This was the day to start the "MUGWUMP" again, and you could feel the excitement at the evening meal as the MUGWUMP was hidden and the entire camp took out after dessert to find it. The team finding it has the advantage in running it all week and adding points to their team total. The hunt hadn't been under way five minutes when Mark Bennett found it and immediately gave it to his captain, Jim Kuehn, so the Greys took off to the woods, hid it and were very proud of Mark for being so alert in finding the treasure. Later that evening, the Prep Section had a scavenger hunt, which the Greys also won, bringing the team points at this time up to Greys 22, Greens-19.

Another exciting day as this was Mackinac Island Day when the second group of the early enrolled boys took off for the Island. Bill Townsend, Dick Wallerson and C. L. T. Tom Case were the staff on the trip, getting up at six a.m. getting the boys up, breakfast at six thirty, and leaving camp at seven for a day on this historic Island. The boys on this reward trip were: Gus Gluck, Chuck France, John and Steve Amberg, Tommy Duke, Rick and Chuck Osborn, Robert and David Scherer, Mike Kelly, Woody Roe, Joe Caskey, Rick Rankin, Chuck and David Herrington, Chuck Limbach, Scott Eckhold, George and Bobby Boomer, Keith Smith, Larry Westcott, Brad and Terry Mast.

And what do you think happened? In getting off the island, the boys were boarded on the boat going to St. Ignace instead of Mackinac City. After many telephone calls between St. Ignace and our truck awaiting the boys in Mackinac City, the truck and the boys finally got together. Of course, the boys were delighted with the ride across the bridge "Big Mac", and the staff accompanying the trip came into camp with very red, red faces to be met by signs, maps, compasses, etc. Everyone had a good laugh over it.

ON WEDNESDAY, four of the Junior cabins were taken on overnights. Cabins 2 and 3, Ernie Krug, Steve Wardrop, John Gereau and Steve Powell, took their boys down to Young's State Park. These boys were: Robert D'Avanzo, Bobby Boomer, Pat Haughey, Mark Bennett, Steve Phillip, Thomas Earle, Tim Washburn, Rick Kahn, Gary Hillis, Chuck Harrison, David Herrington, and John Damerker. Later in the day, Cabins 4 and 5 took off for Eastport, a park on Lake Michigan, down towards Traverse City. The men on this trip were Roger Beck, Rusty Smith, Rick Tomkinson, and Lee Fernstrum. The boys on this trip were Mark Hildebrandt, Van Martin, Dobbie Dudley, Robert Moore, Stacy Gelken, Doug Bacon, Leonard Olson, David Williamson, Jeff Postle, Tom Duke, Tom Souter, Terry Mast and Roy Martin.

In the evening, we had the exciting "Capture the Campers." All the boys hide in the woods and the counselors take off in a whoop and a holler to find them. The teams that have the least number of boys caught, get the points. After an hour of hunting and finding, the teams tied, two points each. After this event, the boys saw two movies, one all about the "Daytona Beach Races," and the other about "Detroit."

They enjoyed them very much. Thursday dawned sunny, bright and warm with Cabin one, our smallest boys taking off for a trip to the Fish Hatchery at Oden. These boys were Nicky Williamson, Jimmy Huddleston, Brad Mast, Bobby Elkins, Robbie Quinn, and Billy Polasky. Cabin 14, John Deane's boys took a canoe trip down the Jordan. These boys were: Steve Upham, John Park, Bobby Scherer, Woody Boydell, Bill Bauble, Mik Souter, David Calvin and Rick Eccles. Cabin 10, Grant Washburn's group, hiked over to Susan Lake and spent the evening fishing, and staying overnight, then hiking back in the morning. These boys were Bill Silver, Dan Noel, Barry Hult, Chuck Cardella, Randy Peterson, Bill

THIS UNUSUAL fishing posture was assumed by Harvey Hamilton of Charlevoix one morning last week while fishing for rock bass off the pier. Hamilton was amazed at the size and abundance of suckers which kept nuzzling his bait.

Earle, and George Boomer. On Friday, we had competition with the group at Bayview who were our hosts. Our boys enjoyed traveling to this village just beyond Petoskey, and after the afternoon's competition the score was Bayview-2, Camp Charlevoix-2.

We won the Junior Ball Game and the Senior Archery, while we lost the Senior Ball Game and the Junior Archery. The Archers to make the team were Doug Ladney, Jim Kerr, David Washburn, David Calvin, Tim Ewing, Jim Kuehn, Steve Armstrong, Ross Dickson, Mark Sterling and Bob Scherer. The Junior Ball Team, coached by Rusty Smith, was John Worcester, Chuck Limbach, Dick Skaff, Chuck Gardella, George Boomer, Woody Boydell, Bart Sickinger, Ken Mabbatt, Kim Kuehn, Ben Hudson, Bill Rickler and Jay Postel. The Senior ball team was coached by Paul Daker and his players were John Park, Mark Curdes, Chris Huntton, Keith Olson, Eric Peterson, David Pitskin, Woody Roe, Jack Borden, Mike Kelly, Andy Case, Bob Katz, and Andy Zack. It is always good when the two teams can split the competition.

SATURDAY was a busy day as Cabins 19, 20, and 21, our three cabins of our oldest boys, plus the two cabins of

C. L. T.'s were busy getting ready to be hosts to Camp Chick-A-Mil (a girls' camp) at a dance here in our club house. The C. L. T.'s did a great job of decorating with crepe paper streamers, pine boughs, and Christmas lights. Thirty girls arrived in the evening and the hit of the evening was the combo we have here composed of Mark Taylor, John Gillette and Ace Hoyt with Bill Gross at the drums. In fact, they sounded better than some of the records which were used. The rest of the camp saw several cabins put on skits in the Bigwam, followed by a movie, Jerry Lewis in "The Belkoys." It was an enjoyable evening for everyone concerned.

Sunday morning chapel was held in the Bigwam, as it was misty and dark and not good for an outdoor service. Tom Kennedy, head of the waterfront, was the speaker. In the afternoon, as it was still misty, the four sections met separately for a Quiz Program, testing the boys mentally instead of physically, and after four very exciting matches, the Greens picked up three points while the Greys earned one point, bringing the score to Greys-27, Greens-25. The difference between the two teams is gradually narrowing, and as only one week remains in Green-Grey competition, the excitement is mounting. In the evening, the entire camp met in the clubhouse with Ken leading the group in a rousing songfest. He also told all about the making of the fire-place screen which was made 33 years ago by Owen Frostie and is a beautiful piece of copper-work.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Gatliff and family of Detroit are visiting their mother, Mrs. Kate Connaghan.

showing a covered wagon, with the father driving a team of oxen, and mother and two children seated next to him. By turning out the lights and having a huge fire in the fireplace, one gets a good look at this beautiful work. Dick Wright, our beloved tutor, read a story out of the book "The Making of a Champion" by Norman Vincent Peale. The boys sat engrossed listening to this, as read as only Dick Wright can read. It was a lovely Vesper Service.

WE ALL HOPE that every parent will be here for the closing of camp August 13 and 14. The Rodeo is in the afternoon of the 13th, and we urge parents NOT to come in to camp that Friday morning, or before the Rodeo. Boys will meet their parents at the Rodeo Arena at three o'clock. The Indian Ceremony is that night at 8:30 p.m. and already the beating tom-tom can be heard as the boys are rehearsing their steps.

IT'S SAFEST

You never need to worry about family security when you choose modern oil heat. There are no dangerous leaks to be wary of—since fuel oil is non-explosive. It burns only when properly atomized and mixed with air inside your furnace. It is so safe, you can put out a lighted match by dipping it in oil. There's never any concern either about distant pipe line accidents cutting off your fuel supply in cold weather. Your own oil... in your tank... when you need it... guarantees comfort and security of all.

Greenville Visitor Tells Why She Likes Charlevoix

Dear Editor:
July is the month. Once again the city lay below us. Once again it looked different but beautiful.

As we enter the village from the South the road leads down into a little hollow, in which huddle stores, boats, lakes, and people.

We had come just in time. The bridge was opening ahead of us and we could see a long white yacht going out into the choppy Great Lake known as Lake Michigan.

To the left the Beaver Island was busy loading cars, boats and people for its second trip to the enchanted island of Beavers. It is a larger boat now but the occupants are the same. Everyone is excited about the thirty odd miles ahead and the island which you can't see from the boat for a long time.

For the very young the city is full of surprises. That huge green and white store on the corner has the best candy a child ever had.

What's on at the show? What's new in the shops? These are questions which can only be answered if the people stay for awhile.

Why not stay? The air is fresh and clean, the water looks inviting, and, who knows, maybe after a little practice one might defeat an old buddy in shuffleboard.

Everyone votes yes. We will stay. There is still much to see and much to do in this small town in a hollow—Charlevoix.

I said, "still much to see and much to do," because this is our eighth July spent in the city with three lakes—the beautiful city of Charlevoix with its friendly people and its homey atmosphere. If we didn't enjoy it here we wouldn't return year after year, would we?

WITH ROY

Due to other commitments I will be unable to be editor for Ellsworth in the Charlevoix Courier after September 1st. I have enjoyed my work and want to thank those who have been so helpful in sending me news items. Like most projects people become less interested as time goes by and obtaining material becomes more difficult. Once again it has been a pleasure to serve you.

I understand Willard VanderArk was involved in an auto accident. The occupants of the car only received minor bruises.

The Atwood Reformed Church would like to have you attend a "Swiss Steak Supper" Aug. 10. Serving will start at 5 p.m. The supper will be at the Ellsworth Community Hall.

Robert Bridge

Charlevoixians will reap the benefits of Robert Bridge's long service to the city for a good many years to come.

East Park alone is a fitting memorial to the labors of any man. And it was Robert Bridge in the late 1930's and early 1940's who set a fire under the city to acquire the property on Round Lake which so many tourists and townspeople alike consider the very heart of Charlevoix today.

Mr. Bridge also will be remembered, it is hoped, for some of the far-sighted legislation which was enacted during his tenure as Charlevoix mayor from 1938 until 1946.

A case in point is one city ordinance which now has apparently been forgotten by our law enforcement people. That ordinance -- dated May 9, 1938, one month after Bridge took office -- would make it unlawful for any person "to deposit or discharged or cause to be deposited or discharged in the waters of Charlevoix Harbor, or in any waters within the corporate limits of the city of Charlevoix, any rubbish, garbage, refuse, offal, sewerage, oil, or any other foreign material or substance . . ."

Twenty-seven years ago Mr. Bridge and his forward-looking city council had the courage to come up with a solution to a problem which is very much with us today, namely the pollution of Round Lake.

It is idle to add that if Mr. Bridge's solution had been enforced, the problem would have taken care of itself, years ago.

As a boater, Mr. Bridge knew the pleasures to be derived from manning the tiller of a sleek craft on the crystal waters of his adopted state. Apparently he hoped to keep them that way. As a gesture of remembrance, our city fathers might dust off this particular ordinance, just to see if it still works.

Mr. Bridge probably will be remembered best as a private citizen and a friend. The number of Charlevoixians who benefitted personally from his confidence and trust will never be known.

Nor can we know the number of businesses that were launched, the homes that were built, the professional ventures undertaken with the help and encouragement of the president of "The Bank of the Corner."

What we do know is that the people of Charlevoix -- almost to a man -- have lost a good friend in the death of Robert Bridge.

Frankfort Rewrites History

WE ARE relieved that the State Historical Commission has finally come to a decision on where Father Jacques Marquette died. It is one less thing for us to worry about.

Two of our neighboring communities to the south -- Ludington and Frankfort -- have been going at it hammer and tongs for some time, each claiming the distinction is theirs.

The Historical Commission finally has approved the text of a marker saying that evidence of the 1960's "indicates" that the death site was at the outlet of the Betsie River near Frankfort instead of at Ludington, formerly called the Village of Pere Marquette.

This comes as quite a blow to the people of Ludington who already have erected a huge stainless steel cross on a stone base at the spot where they thought Fr. Marquette died. Some of the money for the marker came from students at Marquette University, named for the famed Jesuit explorer.

Ludington civic leaders are openly irked and call the action of the Historical Commission "premature." They still are not quite convinced they've lost the battle.

The new evidence referred to by the commission came from the probings of Catherine Stebbins of Traverse City, a retired secretary with a lifetime interest in history and a passion for research. She simply took issue with statements that Fr. Marquette died at Ludington, declaring they were not sufficiently documented.

Her own researches took her from Jesuit archives in Quebec to every river mouth on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan from Ludington to Sleeping Bear Point.

She says that no river mouth other than the Betsie at Frankfort fits the gravesite description in early accounts, and that the original names of rivers were transposed by early 19th century map-makers.

Miss Stebbins says Ludington claim lies solely on Indian tradition and the off-hand opinions of Fr. Gabriel Riehard, the Detroit priest who visited the area in 1823.

Our own Pierre Francois Xavier de Charlevoix is credited with being the first bonafide European to discover the gravesite, although he visited the area long after Marquette's remains were removed to St. Ignace by Indians in 1677. Miss Stebbins insists that the stream at Ludington is much too wide to be the one Charlevoix mentions in his description of the site.

What really convinced the Historical Commission was Miss Stebbins' careful scrutiny of early French maps and English attempts to translate them. Official Jesuit records of the time claim the priest died on the banks of the third river south of Sleeping Bear.

Confused by the large scale and scanty detail of the French maps, later map makers assumed that the accounts only referred to major streams.

This is how the 14th river below Sleeping Bear Point -- not the third (the Betsie) came to be named after Marquette, Miss Stebbins says.

We in Charlevoix can be relieved that our namesake was born and died in France, and only visited these waters on his way to the Mississippi. In a way it's fitting that Charlevoix was named after a tourist.

Scouting for Friends

IF THERE IS an expressway toward better understanding among nations, we believe Charlevoix Scouts are on one of the approach ramps.

Twice this summer they have taken part in exchanges with Canadian Scouts from the town of Preston, Ont., about 60 miles north of Toronto and 425 miles from Charlevoix.

Charlevoixians will remember the Canadian Scouts for the snappy addition they made to the Venetian Festival Parade. Their appearance also gave many of us an opportunity to see the new Canadian maple leaf flag.

In June, 16 Charlevoix Scouts, accompanied by Scoutmaster Louis Edwards, Assistant Doug Wilks and Commissioner Don Anders spent a week in Canada as guests of the Preston Troop.

Such an experience should give our youths some idea about our neighbors to the north -- people much like us, but living under a different government, saluting a different flag, and cherishing values which in many ways are more European than American.

Last week the Canadian Scouts followed up their visit to Charlevoix with a joint camping expedition to Camp Greillek near Traverse City with our Troop 11. Saturday they returned to Charlevoix for a dinner at the Methodist Church sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, before returning home.

This is an experiment in international relations which would be worth while continuing.

odds FRAN MARTIN ends

One down and one to go . . . things stand now . . . In other words, the Venetian Festival is behind us and the Waterfront Fair's coming up in another 10 days . . .

And if I may, I'd like to make a comment regarding the Venetian Festival . . . But first, let me say that this is no reflection on those people who worked hard to make it what it was . . . and having worked on this in the past I can appreciate the many long hours they've put in . . . But I think the time has come to look at the whole situation squarely in the face and decide on a new format, on whether or not to continue the affair . . . I can't offer a solution but I do think that it is a crime to put on the kind of Venetian boat parade as visitors to this community saw on July 24 and expect them to want to return . . .

We've all been saying this for several years now . . . so how's about coming up with some new idea or clock the whole thing . . .

Now I'll get off my soapbox and get on with the business of writing this column . . .

I'm not given to daytime TV watching so would have missed one of our former residents on "Pass Word" one day recently if several people hadn't called me . . . I quickly switched the picture box on only to find our own Dick VanRaap-horst trying to hit on the right word . . . Dick, you'll remember, made quite a name for himself at Ohio State as a kicker . . . Good enough to put him on the Chicago Bears where, no doubt, you'll be seeing him in action when the football season opens this fall . . .

Football . . . that's for me . . . So naturally I'll be happy when Friday rolls around and we get a look-see at the first big game of the season . . . The College All-Stars in action in the big charity game from Chicago . . . I know that many of you will be doing the same thing I'll be doing . . . watching that great game . . . the greatest of 'em all . . .

And just a reminder while I think of it . . . One of our visitors here this summer was Charlie Fairbanks, assistant coach at the University of Houston where they've been a building . . . and this year they're hopeful of a pretty fair season . . . Though they had to push their season ahead to do it, Houston will play Tulsa on Sept. 11 to launch the weekly college games on national TV . . . Let's hope our northern stations will carry it . . . Because it would be great to see one of our own in action on the sidelines . . .

And everyday the sports pages are filled with news from the training camps . . . 'Tis a great season, football . . .

But right now we're in the midst of the boating season in northern Michigan where our harbor's been filled with anchoring out nearly every night . . . Jack Ewing was telling me what a beautiful sight it made the other day when the big schooner was anchored off of Brow Marine . . . All this beauty was about the time the sun was coming up . . . but how many people are around to enjoy it . . .

If you've been reading the papers you know that this is the week that Petoskey is paying homage to a native son, Bruce Catton, the well known author . . . I'm wondering how many of you realize that his sister, Miss Lone Catton, once taught in our school system . . . 'way back when . . . But after leaving here she gave up teaching and has, for many years, been associated with the inner workings and administration of the Congregational Church . . . I know she's been many places . . . the last I knew was Boston . . . Both she and her brother have many friends here in this community . . . and, on occasion, have visit here . . .

Though I may be a little late, I'd like to throw a well done to the people who put out this year's souvenir book of Charlevoix the Beautiful . . . It was very well done, had lots of good reading and pictures plus many attractive ads . . . If you haven't your copy, pick one up the next time you're near the Chamber of Commerce . . . You'll find it worth your while . . .

Just happened to notice that it's not only half way through the summer but midway in the softball season . . . I swear there isn't a single thing that attracts any more attention than this program . . . Deano Davenport tells me that there's close to 500 people involved in the program . . . Think how many spectators that will attract . . . when you consider husbands, wives, offspring, fathers, mothers, grandparents plus assorted other relatives . . . No wonder it's such a big hit . . . Combine that with the swimming program and you've hit a mighty lot of people . . .

By the way, what did you think of our visiting Scouts from next door in Canada . . . They certainly added a touch of color to our fine street parade and made an impression on all those who met them . . .

Local Scenes Captivate Newcomer to Charlevoix

A newcomer to town likes to poke around and see what his new community is like. Below you'll find some of the scenes which fascinated the Courier editor his first week in town.

The windlasses at John Cross' boat dock on Round Lake looked like something out of a New England watercolor. The windlasses, of course, are used to dry and repair nets used in commercial fishing.

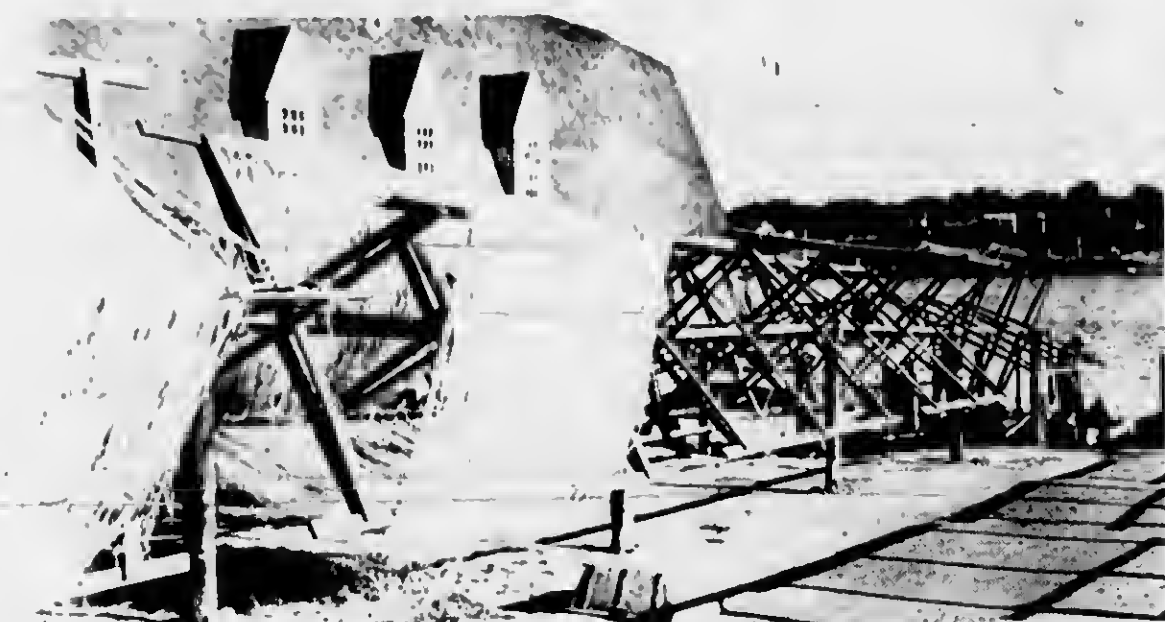

another favorite haunt once the day's work is over. The beach is sandy, with just enough pebbles and small stones in the water to make it interesting. An excellent diving raft is located about 100 feet off shore.

A large supervised swimming area is marked off with floats and the beach is seldom crowded.

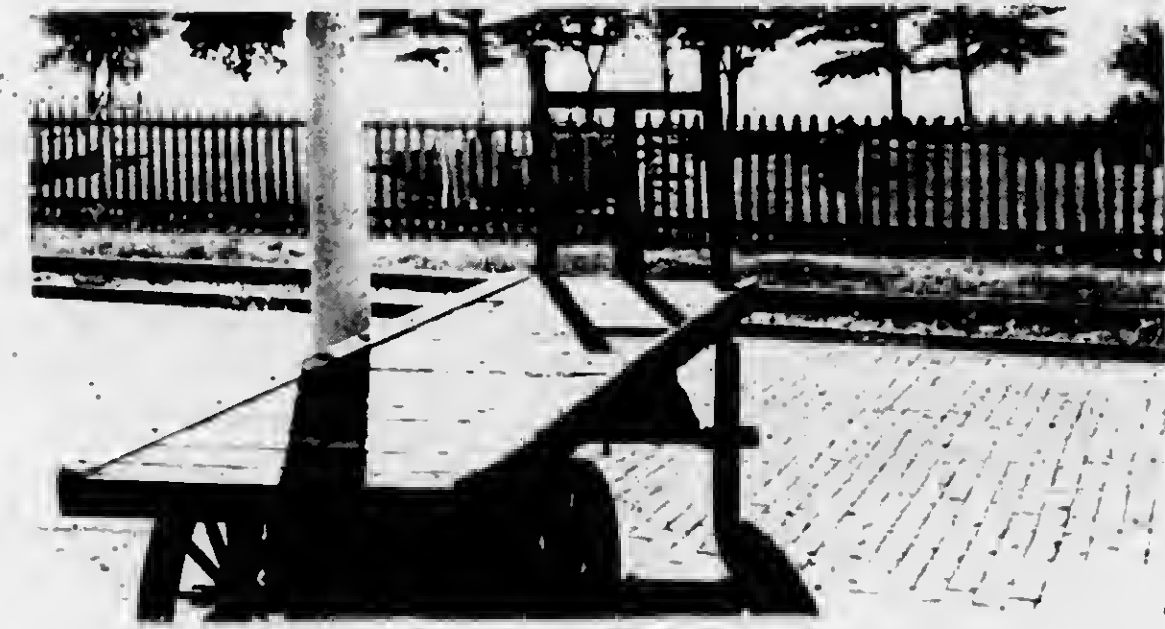

THE SWIVEL railroad bridge across the channel connecting Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix is a popular destination for anglers -- and shutterbugs. The bridge, which pivots in the center of the channel, can be reached by means of a narrow footbridge from the north shore. The railroad bridge is open most of the time, swinging into place only when a train passes through.

TOURISTS who don't mind getting up with the birds can watch the fishing boats, Jackle-C I and Jackle-C II, chug out of port every weekday morning between 5:30 and 6 o'clock. They return loaded with whitefish, chubs, and perch between 4:30 and 5 in the afternoon.

Know Your Newspaper Better

Can You Spell Mxlequatzke?

That's a hard one! But a newspaper encounters names that difficult every day. And there's only one way to make sure the spelling is correct . . . to check . . . and check . . . and sometimes triple-check.

Now Smith Is Easy . . .

. . . but is it Smith or Smythe? It is spelled John or Jon? Is it Nelson or Nelsen . . . or Johnson or Johnston? Names are tricky, even the seemingly easy ones. Yet, hard or easy, a newspaper is expected to have them right.

Hundreds of Names Every Issue

All spelled correctly . . . Hladky, Parseghian, Bjornson, Prybsch, Laderfeld, Prycha . . . an and on. Is it any wonder we make a mistake now and then?

But Accuracy Is the Watchword

We'll do all possible to spell your name correctly . . . and all the others . . . all of the time. That's one of the rules for a reliable newspaper. And we feel that our newspaper is reliable!

vation program this summer when death claimed its president.

THE SECOND near-calamity weathered by the bank was the depression of the 1930's. While the nation floundered on the shallow shoals of a dry economy, Bridge and his co-workers at the bank were determined to remain solvent. Then, in October, 1933, the bank was forced to close.

The management promptly announced that the institution was reorganizing as a state bank. Four months later, the Charlevoix state bank was in business, the only private bank in the nation to successfully reorganize as a state bank.

Ninety-seven per cent of the bank's depositors signed waivers on 50 per cent of their deposits. When the reorganization was completed, the bank made good on 81 per cent of all previous deposits.

"If the people hadn't had confidence in us we wouldn't have made it," Mr. Bridge commented at the time of the bank's 80th birthday celebration last year.

MR. BRIDGE moved up the presidency of the bank in August, 1935, upon the death of his father. In 1938 he was elected to his first term as mayor of Charlevoix, a post he held continuously through April 4, 1946.

While mayor, Mr. Bridge pushed for city acquisition of the property which is now East Park, and his enthusiasm fired the interest of others in the city.

"Whatever he did was in the interest of Charlevoix," commented E. D. Hawley, Mr. Bridge's assistant at the bank and the present mayor of Charlevoix.

Mr. Bridge also enjoyed sailing, and was part owner of the Stoop Rogue with Hawley and Dr. G. B. Saltonstall. The Rogue was one of the vessels entered in the Venetian Festival last weekend.

a call-up of military reserves. The President said: "These steps, like our actions in the past, are carefully measured to do what must be done to bring an end to aggression and a peaceful settlement."

"We do not want an expanding struggle with consequences that no one can perceive, nor will we bluster or bully or flaunt our power. But we will not retreat, for behind our American pledge lies the determination and resources, I believe, of all the American nation."

Library

A SPOKESMAN for the library board says another $16,500 may be available from other sources, which would leave only $12,300 to be raised before December before final approval can be given by the state Library Board.

The finance committee is now working on some way of raising the balance.

State library people say the present site is too small for the planned building, and the library board is investigating the Pine River Channel location.

MRS. POTTER was born in Bellare, Mich., and was graduated from Central Lake High School. She attended the Detroit Business Institute, returning home when she was offered a job as teller in the Charlevoix County State Bank.

She worked for the bank eight years and for the Department of Social Welfare five years. The only other applicants for the job were Clarence F. Rabach and Ruth Ann Curtis.

Mrs. Potter's husband, Et-don, is a TV radio technician at Gill's appliance. Her children, Cheryl, 14, Larry, 11, and James, 8, attend school in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Potter enjoys bowling and golf and is a member of the Community Reformed Church.

Frank Bourgoin To Head 1965 Chest Drive

The Charlevoix Community Chest has announced that Frank Bourgoin will be the 1965 Campaign Chairman. This year's drive begins officially the week of Sept. 13.

Bourgoin served as Commercial Division chairman last year and is a veteran of several years experience as a campaign worker.

The new chairman says promptness in getting the job done will be one of the hallmarks of the 1965 campaign. Goal in the drive is $12,709.

"The drive will have more impact and the response by contributors will be more generous if it is not allowed to drag along for several weeks," Bourgoin said.

He added that enough workers will be enlisted to that no volunteer has a long list of calls to make and all workers will be urged to complete their calls within a one week period.

A thermometer, to be erected in East Park, will report the progress of the campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan W. Wass returned last week from Coventry, Conn., to make their home at North Point. The couple was married recently at Mansfield Center, Conn.

The bride is the former Carolyn Lennon Provost.

Bradley Brown of San Diego, Calif., is spending a week with his father, Floyd Brown, and Mrs. Brown.

Coast Guard Is Celebrating 175th Birthday

Mayor E. D. Hawley has signed a proclamation calling upon the people of Charlevoix to observe the 175th anniversary of the U. S. Coast Guard Aug. 4 "with appropriate ceremonies."

Coast guardsmen from the lifeboat station on Lake Charlevoix plan to mark the occasion with a family picnic Wednesday afternoon at depot park. The station will be on a holiday schedule for the day.

Hawley's proclamation calls attention to the fact that the Coast Guard saves hundreds of lives and millions of dollars in property each year and is the principal agency for promoting marine safety and law enforcement, not only among the merchant marine but also the hundreds of thousands of people who sail for recreation.

He said the Coast Guard keeps itself in a state of constant military readiness to assist in the defense of the country and urged the people of Charlevoix as well as civic organizations to join in the celebration of the Coast Guard's 175th birthday.

Track, Field Meet Slated Aug. 12 and 13

The city track and field meet sponsored by the Recreation Department has been tentatively set for Aug. 12 and 13. This will be the fourth year for the annual event.

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix--the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Millard, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 60 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions.

Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating, and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and

Walloo lake. Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls, only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nye Hollies, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via Highway M-75 is Walloo Lake, one of West Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

Greens Lure Golfers

Manager Keith Carey of the Charlevoix Golf Club on Petoskey Road reports the club is enjoying an excellent season. Carey said the club is 91 day tickets behind last year at this time, but that season tickets sales are head and shoulders above last year.

In 1964, a total of 4,873 season tickets were sold through August 4. This year, some 5,308 had been sold through the same date.

Resident season tickets cost $23 single, $38 double, $43 family and $12 student. Non-resident tickets cost $28 single, $43 double, $48 family and $12 student.

CAREY SAYS the course is in magnificent condition, considering the lack of rain this summer. He attributes this to the careful care given the greens by Walter Henley and his assistants Ron Weislik and Rick Grunch.

Carey says he is expecting a big turnout for the club's annual mixed two-ball tournament Aug. 15 at 4 p.m. Reservations cost $2 and refreshments will be served.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Albo, is a pleasant, scenic afternoon drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. The hatchery's location reminds one of the Smokey Mountains. The hatchery is the newest and largest on the Great Lakes. It will produce about 6,000,000 lake trout a year for restocking the big lakes.

Here's Where & How to Fish

If there is a better cure than fishing for that bawlingly tense feeling that the mob is stalking you with its big city noises and impatience it must be fishing in the Charlevoix area.

Oh sure, there are places in North America with better fishing. But darn few. Some of the country's most incurable anglers rate Lake Charlevoix and the Beaver Island area among the finest small-mouth bass fishing grounds in the U.S.

YET THERE IS MORE than the promise that fish are available for the catching to recommend Charlevoix as a choice fishing area. You mustn't overlook the unsurpassed drama of our clean water, cool air, big hardwood and birch trees and quiet mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But where to go and how to do it?

If you're after smallmouth bass or perch try Lake Charlevoix. The South Arm is generally good.

Your best choice of lures for Lake Charlevoix bass will be Jig - A - Do streamers in brown, white and yellow colors. Others this column can vouch for are small (quarter-ounce) dardevils in red-and-white and pearl colors, Jig-A-Do crawlers, number-two size spinners, Super Dupers, Flatfish and Heddon's Cobra. (Worms are also reputed to catch fish.) You can buy any, or all, of these lures at Staley's Hardware and other local stores.

BIG BASS SUCH as those on this stringer come from Lake Charlevoix.

FOR SPECIFIC TIPS on where the current Lake Charlevoix hotspots are ask Clare

glers are also productive numbers.

You can find your way to these lakes by asking for maps of Charlevoix and Antrim County, which are available at most motels, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Courier.

If you taste runs more to stream fishing for trout, try

the Jordan River south of East Jordan, or the Maple River near Pellston. The Bear River between Walloon Lake and Petoskey also has trout, but is hard to fish. The same holds true with the Boyne River. There are also any number of small, bushy streams with good populations of trout (and usually mosquitoes).

Staley at his hardware, Irv Drost at Irv's Cocktail Lounge, Bernie Ward at Ward's Boat Livery, or Mearle Scott in Ironton.

You can fish Lake Charlevoix from a boat or with waders. There are many areas of the South Arm that can be waded. Sometimes they produce nice bass during mid-day, but evening or morning is usually best. If you're fishing from a boat try casting or trolling right off the edge of bullrushes or boulder strewn areas.

Throw your lure into likely, looking areas. When it hits the water let it sink and remain still for a few seconds; you will often get a strike the minute you finally move it. If there is no strike retrieve it a few feet and then let it sink and rest again before moving it.

If you want to do some exploring, try the nearby shoreline of Lake Michigan. Once again, you can wade or use a boat. The same lures and techniques as used on Lake Charlevoix will stand you in good stead.

IF SMALLER lakes are your forte look at a map and pick one of the many directly south of town in Charlevoix County or Antrim County. Though few of them have public access sites, you can usually talk a property owner into letting you trespass. . . . He may even have boats to rent.

You will probably be amazed to find you have to share these lightly fished lakes with only one or two other boats; and sometimes you'll be all alone.

Here's a list of ten smaller lakes worth trying.

- Lake 26 (Lake Marion), for pike, bass and panfish.
- Nowland Lake, for pike, bass and panfish.
- Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and musky.
- Susan Lake, for small pike.
- Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.
- Walloon Lake, for trout, pike, bass, panfish.
- West Twin Lake for bass and pike.
- St. Clair Lake (in Ellisworth), for bass, panfish and even an occasional trout.
- Ellsworth Lake, for bass, pike, and maybe a musky.
- Toad Lake (south of Ellisworth) for pike, bass and panfish.

ALL OF THESE lakes have the fish in them that are mentioned . . . that's guaranteed by this writer. Catching them is up to you. Try using the same lures recommended for Lake Charlevoix. Arrogant's new weedless Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers and Hawaiian Wig-

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the camp ground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets. Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the World is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay. For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of

Nature and the conveniences of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake. Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

Greensky Church Part of State's Indian History

GREENSKY HILL MISSION
Here in the 1840's the Chippewa Indian missionary, Peter Greensky, established a Protestant mission in an area where legend says Indian chiefs once held their councils. New trees have been planted in an arrangement similar to that of the trees that made up the original council circle. Mission services first were held in a rude building of boughs and bark. In the 1850's the Indians built the present church. It is a fine example of the old log style construction with hand-hewn timbers and notched corners. Windows, doors and much of the lumber were brought by canoe from Traverse City to Lake Charlevoix and then carried two miles to this site. Methodist services for the Indian congregation have been held here regularly to the present.

Charlevoix's Modern Hospital...With Scenic View

Hospital Ready to Serve You

The Charlevoix Hospital offers several bonuses for summer visitors and year-round residents. These come in the form of the therapeutic view of Lake Michigan and a congenial staff. The hospital is one of the best equipped in northern Michigan and boasts a staff of outstanding doctors and technicians. Vacationers need have no fears of emergencies while enjoying their leisure days in Charlevoix. The generous gifts and support of summer residents have made it possible for Charlevoix to have this fine medical facility.

Our Living Heritage

Greensky Hill Indian Methodist Church welcomes summer visitors. The rustic log chapel in its quiet hilltop setting promises quiet moments of meditation for all who seek escape. Services are held every Sunday morning at 9:30. The mission was founded in the 1840's by Peter Greensky, an Indian missionary. It has been recognized as a valuable historical site by the Michigan Historical Commission. The church and historic marker are located on old US-31 north of town, overlooking Susan Lake. Your best bet is to ask at your motel or a service station or restaurant for directions.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and Ausabelong boats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioed Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

Garden Plaque

MR. AND MRS. Edward Olach of Division Street pose in their garden with the plaque awarded them by the Garden Club for the excellent care they have given their garden this summer. The plaque is awarded every two weeks to the resident whose garden shows exceptionally good grooming. Mr. Olach says dry weather this year has complicated the job of raising both flowers and vegetables -- both of which the Olachs seemed to have in profusion.

THIS UNUSUAL fishing posture was assumed by Harvey Hamilton of Charlevoix one morning last week while fishing for rock bass off the pier. Hamilton was amazed at the size and abundance of suckers which kept nuzzling his bait.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE -- is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

"SANDSUCKER" is what the local people call this U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' dredge which visited Charlevoix channel several days last week. Tourists held up by the "Hains" at the bridge called it a lot of other names. The vessel made dozens of passes through the channel, sucking up sand and emptying it in Lake Michigan. The operation takes place every year to keep the channel open for lake shipping.

cans in Europe to hear the sad truth officially. Mrs. Cummings bursts into tears. By the time her husband arrives, everyone in the lobby is crying, including Manzu's chauffeur.

And there's no let up to tears as they drive through Rome on that dreary November night, glued to the car radio, hearing but not believing the tragic reports broadcast from half way around the world--Dallas, Texas.

Tears still glisten on everyone's candle-lit cheeks during that radio - tuned - on dinner party in the Manzu's ancient villa outside Rome on the Old Appian Way.

At this writing, a year and a half later, the "Seated Cardinal" - still Manzu's favorite - is securely planted among the pines and birches at the "Anchorage." And there are times when an observant visitor might swear after a warm summer rain that the absorbed prelate sheds a tear of his own for the soul of a dear departed hero.

Very soon, the collection of Manzu's scattered throughout the "Anchorage" will be increased by two more small bronzes--a "Little Cardinal" and another saucy "Ballerina." To the best of Cummings' knowledge this will make the "Anchorage" at Charlevoix the treasury of the largest Manzu collection in the world.

In cleaning up debris on your lands this spring, make sure your burning site is a safe distance from buildings. If possible, use an incinerator. Otherwise, dig a fire line around your burning area and stand by with a shovel and water can to be combat-ready in case things get out of hand.

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

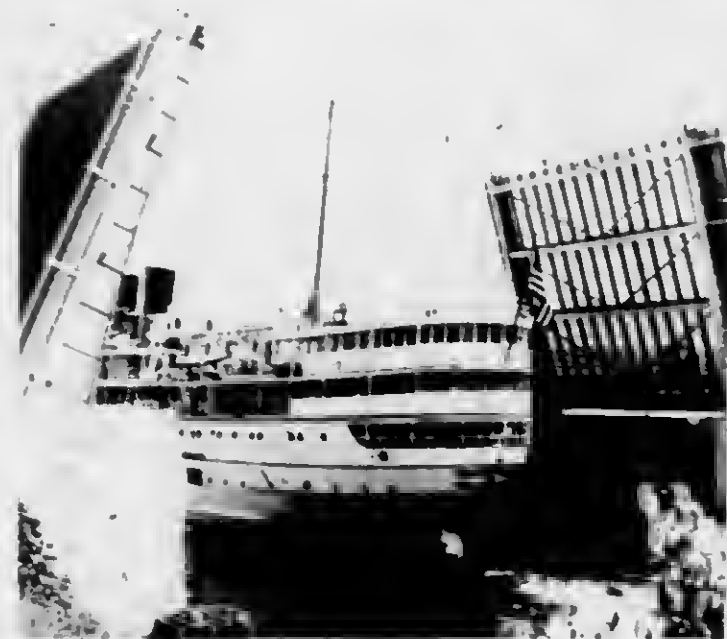

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Sharon Wood, Mike Allen and Ry Heaton.

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Don't Stow Tackle Yet, Anglers Told

The fisherman who puts his tackle away just because dog days have arrived may be missing some of the most exciting sport of the year. That's the message from Dick Kotis, fishing expert from Arbogast.

"The secret of success during dog days," Kotis reveals, "is to go out at night." This advice makes good sense. Many of America's best game fish - largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleyes, brown trout, channel catfish - tend to be nocturnal anyway. And through the heat of the summer, they do nearly all of their feeding after dark and after too many fishermen have gone home.

BUT HOW do you fish after dark? "For bass," replies Kotis, "use surface plugs in the same places you are likely to find bass early in the season."

Cast your topwater lures along shallow shorelines or beside weedbeds. And never neglect to toss your topwater lure around boat docks, piers and pilings. During the hours of darkness this is like playing with dynamite.

Fishing at night is also a pleasant way to "escape." Skiers and speedboaters have retreated to dry land and the waters belong exclusively to fishermen. An angler can relax and light up a pipe. Next thing he knows, a lunker bass will be cawing on the end of this line.

Advertising has brought us many things. Finer cars, better homes, silly fads and wonderful inventions that have made life easier--and longer.

You as a free citizen have the right and, perhaps you will agree, the obligation to read the news--to know what is going on.

HUNDREDS of swimmers flocked to the Lake Michigan Beach August 5 when the temperature climbed into the 80's in Charlevoix. By the same token, downtown streets were virtually deserted as tourists and townspeople alike sought relief from the heat. Complementing the natural beauty of the Lake Michigan beach were quite a number of girls in bikinis.

Tips for Water Safety

Mid-summer is a good time to review safe swimming practices, particularly in an area like Charlevoix which abounds with excellent bathing facilities.

One of the cardinal rules of safe swimming is never to go into the water alone. Make sure you have a pal along to help--or run for help--if you need it.

Another old-time safety precaution which still makes sense is to wait an hour after eating before going into the water. Digesting a meal is strenuous activity, and the stomach demands and gets an increased blood supply after eating.

Exercising muscles also need more blood, and the swimmer who eats and then goes swimming is placing too great a burden on his circulatory system. Cramps are likely to result.

Another wise precaution is to swim only inside those areas marked off as a safe swimming area. This is the area that the guard on duty can effectively oversee. Don't complicate his job by swimming out-of-bounds.

Swimmers also should keep in mind that painful sunburn can result from over-exposure, particularly near water.

where bathers are exposed to the added reflection of the sun's rays. Many a promising vacation has been spoiled by a severe case of sunburn on the first day. Take the sun in easy stages, and you'll take home a suntan to be proud of.

Great fires from little embers grow; be careful with fire in the woods.

Although a person could survive on only 6 pints of water per day, Americans are using at least 150 gallons per day in their homes, reports the National Wildlife Federation. During National Wildlife

Week, March 14-20, the Federation is calling on every citizen to help "FIGHT DIRTY WATER"—and keep America's supply of water clean and usable.

THE CHARLEVOIX Municipal Golf Course, on US-31 at the north city limits, welcomes summer vacationers to enjoy its fairways. For a mere $1.75 golfers can play the par 37, 3,100 yard nine-hole course.

More exports originate in Detroit than in New York City, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce Export Origins Study.

Shuffleboard courts and equipment are available for visitors at East Park—where the boats dock on Round Lake—and at the City's Lake Michigan beach. The East Park courts stay open as late as there are players. Kingpin at the East Park courts is King Saunders.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights, dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation. Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Island, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their care to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts, rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes.

Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area.

The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half-dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when bay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

'Anchorage' Harbors Treasures

By Edith Gilbert

Few modern sailors skimming across the blue surface of Lake Charlevoix are aware of the hidden treasures lying on the northern shore, within easy hailing distance. No yellowed maps are in existence showing where 'X' marks the spot. It's by word of mouth that the cognoscenti make the pilgrimage by car or boat to the Cummings Anchorage. Here friends of friends gaze in rapture at sculptural masterpieces collected over the past several years by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cummings of Chicago and New York.

Placed enchantingly among shadows of pine and birch, towering above carefully tended golden flower beds, stand bronzes by modern sculptors whose work is usually seen in museums; Giacometti, Henry Moore, Manzu, Abbott Pattison, Walter Midener and others.

CALMLY these monumental bronzes gaze back at yachtsmen who moor their boats beside the ANCHORAGE'S spotless white dock; or at fishermen heading toward a privately stocked trout pond; or at skeet shooters on their way for a crack at a round of clay pigeons; or at bikini-clad beauties heading for the sauna, or at lively children splashing in the pool.

It's here, seated by the heated pool this summer; that sweet, vivacious Mrs. Cummings shares the breath-taking events leading to the acquisition of their valuable collection of Manzu sculptures, Italian-born Manzu, winner of the Venice Biennale in 1948, is today recognized as one of the two greatest, classic, living sculptors. The other is Marino Marini.

One of Manzu's pieces entitled, "The Artist and his Model" will be on loan at this year's exhibit of artists and craftsmen at the Charlevoix Waterfront Fair, Saturday, Aug. 14.

When Mrs. Cummings first eyed a photograph in Time of Giacomo Manzu's "Standing Cardinal," she never dreamed she'd be the last of only four people in the whole world to pose for this renowned sculptor who swears he'll do no more portraits! Previous models are Pope John XXIII, Tchelivtchu, the painter; Nathan Cummings, industrialist.

ALL SHE HAD in mind at this time was to arouse her collector husband's enthusiasm for this sensitive sculptor's work. How she succeeded may best be told by this little anecdote.

Lunching in Rome at the posh apartment of Italian banker, Luigi Capadonna, Marie-Teresa, his wife, turns to their guests and inquires, "What would you like to do now?"

Quick as a flash Mr. Cummings replies, "Take me to Manzu."

Murmuring gently something about Manzu being a very shy, quiet man, Luigi pours another cup of espresso while Marie-Teresa places a few significant telephone calls.

And soon the little group is ringing Manzu's doorbell.

German-born Inge, his former, once slender model and mother of his two children, greets them warmly and says, "Follow me!" Hopping into her Mercedes Benz, she races through narrow, crowded streets filled with Sunday traffic to one of Manzu's three foundries.

Here they're astounded to see three standing cardinals, two in bronze and one in marble, draped in burlap.

"We want this one," they cry gleefully.

"I'm sorry that belongs to someone," Inge replies.

"We'll take that one," they're all taken, Inge apologizes.

THEN THEY spy a delightful portrait of Inge finished in a glowing gold patina. "That one belongs to me," Inge laughs and points to a "Standing Ballerina" and to another smaller composition, "The Artist and his Model," which are available.

And the Cummings settle for their first two Manzu's! Before leaving the foundry, however, Inge leads the small group into a back room where she shows them the large figure of a "Seated Cardinal," completely enveloped by his bronze cloak, one is still able to discern the subtle hint of body form -- relaxed shoulders, hips firmly planted on a seat, knees outstretched -- beneath the bell-like shape.

"How beautiful!" cries Mrs. Cummings. "May we have this one?"

"I'm sorry," replies Inge, "This is my husband's favorite; but please, come now back to the apartment and meet the master."

Another mad dash through

Rome to Manzu's apartment where they meet the soft-spoken artist, a short, heavy-set man of 56. Born into a large, desperately poor family in Bergamo, near Milan, Manzu recalls getting his first job--and his first anatomy lesson--during the flu epidemic in World War I, when as a youngster he helped load corpses into wooden coffins.

BUT TALK (in French) soon turns to more pleasant and practical matters, to portraits, patinas and patronage of the arts. The next result? The following year, both Mr. and Mrs. Cummings spend a busy week sitting for their portraits in two hour sessions on alternate days.

All preliminary sessions begin with Manzu wheeling out a table on which he's prepared clay on his armature. He works quickly, with both hands, and as most accomplished sculptors, his touch is in his thumbs. He never bothers to wet his clay from the traditional bowl of water; it's handier to wet his thumbs with his tongue. So what, if he swallows an unrecorded amount of clay along with his daily consumption of pasta?

And no one cares that he smears clay across his mouth or his face, either.

Although Manzu urges Mrs. Cummings to feel free to talk, even get up and walk about the room while he works, she nevertheless sits very erect, very still.

At the end of the second day, she confides to her husband that although the portrait is in her opinion quite marvelous, it doesn't look like her--but rather like a Manzu interpretation of a beautiful Renouir likeness.

THAT EVENING at a large dinner party in George's Restaurant given by the Cummings in honor of Manzu, the sculptor turns to his model and confesses, "I did your portrait all wrong! It doesn't look a bit like you. In my studio you sat so stiff, and tonight I see you gay, vivacious--so alive!"

And then he sighs, "Ah, but it's the eyes that are so very difficult, so mysterious. These are eyes with an introspective look, and laughter behind them!"

After the statues are completed, approved and cast, the time comes for breaking the original clay model.

On this fateful evening, Nov. 22, 1963, the Manzus are giving a dinner party in honor of the Cummings.

While waiting in the lobby for her husband, Mrs. Cummings notices a great burst of excitement behind the concierges desk.

Someone shouts, "Your President has been shot!"

"He's not dead--he's going to live," someone else cries.

Contradictory and false rumors sweep through the hotel lobby.

"He's dead!" from a well-dressed American gentleman.

"How do you know?" everyone asks.

"I'm from the State Department. It's official."

Come to the Fair

Watercolors, drawings, wood carvings, sculpture, oils, ceramics, jewelry or art in various other media will be found at the seventh annual Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsmen to be held in East Park Aug. 14.

Mrs. Jack Rader, general chairman, reports that of the entries received to date, one third are amateurs, one-third professional and one-third teachers thus giving a well-rounded exhibit of the arts.

Among the exhibitors whose entries are already in are Charles Culver, head of the Watercolor Department at the Society of Arts in Crafts, Michigan's leading painter of watercolors who is represented in many museums and private collections; Walter Midener, associate director of the Society of Arts and Crafts in Detroit, where he heads the sculpture department, whose commissions include the Detroit Main Library, as well as the private collections of Benson Ford, Nathan Cummings and many others; Roy Peterson of Plymouth, who has a Master's Degree from the University of Wisconsin and whose ceramics have been exhibited at Milwaukee, Chicago and Detroit Art Institutes, the Smithsonian Traveling Show and many others.

Others include the nationally known ceramist, Clyde E. Burt of Melrose, Ohio, who is represented in many permanent collections, the Cranbrook Museum of Art, Detroit Institute of Art, Toledo Museum of Art, the South Bend Center, American Art Clay Co. collection, and the G. R. Crocker Collection, Syracuse, N.Y.

Also represented will be J. R. Schauble, assistant professor of art at Ferris State College who has studied at the Chicago Art Institute and the University of Florence and whose works are represented in the Crosby Memorial Library Collection in Spokane, Wash., and many private collections; Roseanna Tendler Worth of Ann Arbor, who has exhibited her jewelry and ceramics throughout the state and in the east. And Robert Engle, assistant professor of Fine Arts at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, whose ceramics and fine bells have brought him a great deal of recognition, including a Great Lakes College Assn. and Ford Foundation study and travel grant to Japan which he plans to use next year.

These are only a few of the many outstanding artists whose original creations will be seen at the Waterfront Fair Aug. 14.

With ground cover dangerous and debris burners in full swing, April 15 Michigan's most explosive month for forest fires. In 1964, nearly 13,000 acres burned in that month, compared with only 5,000 during the 11 other months.

Variety Is Hallmark Of Waterfront Fair

Charlevoix's seventh annual Waterfront Fair promises to have a great variety of arts and crafts than ever before according to Mrs. Jack Rader, general chairman, who said that several new items would be exhibited for the first time. "Just when we think we've had just about everything that might be considered an art or a craft, something new turns up," she said. By way of explanation, she added that a stained glass window, fuses of laminated glass, batiks, copper sculpture, wooden signs and oils on velvet were among arts and crafts being exhibited at the Waterfront Fair for the first time.

IN ADDITION there will be many old favorites including wheelthrown pottery, ceramics, jewelry, stained glass, serigraphs, wheel thrown stoneware, weaving, water color place mats, hand decorated stationary and various types of sculpture. There will also be ceramic wind bells, stoneware, lapidary, wood carving, pastel portraits, jewelry, laminated glass, silver smithing, ink painting as well as the popular oils and pastels. "Many favorites will be returning," she added. "There have been some artists and craftsmen who have returned (Continued on back page)

New Chest Chairman Emphasizes Speed

Charlevoix's 1965 Community Chest drive will get under way Sept. 13, "and we should have everything wrapped up by the end of the month," according to Frank Bourgoin, campaign chairman. Bourgoin, veterans' counselor for Charlevoix County, emphasizes the importance of speed in getting the job done. He thinks that people are more apt to be generous if they are faced with a deadline. A short collection period also will keep the drive from losing its impetus, Bourgoin believes.

Goal in the 1965 drive is $12,709, to be allocated among 13 health and community services. Following is a breakdown of the agencies and their individual grants: Charlevoix Community Nurse-$1,800; Community Nurse-General Fund, $200; Seniors Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America $1,725; Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council, $1,612; Charlevoix Association for Retarded Children, $1,500; Charlevoix Hospital, $1,000; and Charlevoix City Recreation Program, $800. Others are the Mt. McSaubia Recreation Program, $500; Michigan Children's Aid, Northwestern Branch, $500; Charlevoix Service Organization, $250; American Red Cross, Charlevoix County Chapter, $400; Michigan United Fund (38 state and national agencies) $2,014. Campaign and administrative expenses will come to $800 and $1,000 will be added to the fund from surplus.

Bourgoin said an advanced gifts campaign already is under way, with letters being mailed to all special gifts contributors. An advance campaign is also (Continued on back page)

Cemetery Survey Ordered

The City Council Monday night asked Superintendent James Taylor to make a comprehensive study of the Charlevoix Cemetery to determine how many lots are left and when the city will have to acquire more burial property. The request came after Mr. Alberts, a representative of the state Highway Department's real estate division, appeared before the council to ask the council for two and one-half acres of cemetery property for re-routing of M-66.

ALBERTS said the state probably will start eminent domain proceedings to acquire the property if the city fails to act.

Earlier a committee headed by Councilman Det. Terrell was formed to investigate the acquisition of new property adjacent to the cemetery to replace the land needed by the highway department. Terrell said the only land available is a platted tract of 15 to 18 acres owned by Vern Matthews. He said Matthews is asking $1,000 an acre for the land, and wants to dispose of the entire parcel at one time.

The Council then asked Taylor to come up with a cemetery survey to determine when the present location will be completely filled.

IN OTHER Council action, members approved a proposal granting Medusa Portland Cement Co. a railroad right-of-way 50 feet wide and about a mile long into its South Point property. The proposal passed, pending the approval of City Attorney John Michael who was ill.

Councilmen Robert Gitt and Det. Terrell abstained from voting. The Council also decided to (Continued on back page)

Boy's Sight Saved After Spear Injury

Doctors at University Hospital in Ann Arbor have managed to save the sight of Ronald Crandall, 17, who received a serious injury last week when a home-made spear gun arrow punctured the cavity between his nose and his eye.

The son of Charlevoix police officer Ronald Crandall, the youth was rushed to Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey Aug. 5.

Doctors there hurried him to University Hospital in Ann Arbor, where the boy was treated and released Aug. 8.

"The doctors down there said it was a miracle he didn't suffer some eye damage," his father said.

The boy's father said the spear, equipped with blunted barbs, was sticking in the ground and pierced the boy's face when he bent over to pick up an object.

The spear was one Ronald had made for spearfishing, Crandall said.

Apparently Ronald did suffer some nerve damage, because there is a loss of sensation in his cheek, but doctors told the family it is nothing to worry about.

Ronald is a member of the Charlevoix High School football squad and is a senior in the class of 1966.

His mother operates Esme's Grill on U.S. 31, where the accident took place.

Medusa Plans to Dig Slip

Because of pressure from local residents and other considerations, Medusa Portland Cement Co. has scrapped its plans to build a huge loading dock into Lake Michigan at South Point.

Instead, a 425-foot slip will be dredged into the shoreline, if the Michigan Conservation Commission gives its approval.

Worth Loomis, vice president in charge of administration for the Cleveland firm, said a number of factors entered into the decision to dredge a slip rather than build a dock.

"THERE was quite a bit of opposition to the dock locally," he said, "and the price of dredging started to come down. Then we discovered that the shoreline near the plants is not solid rock as we had supposed and can be dipped - dredged rather than excavated."

The slip also has the added advantage of bringing ships closer to the plant proper, minimizing the transport distance of incoming or out-going materials.

The slip will cut across the present shore road, but Loomis says he doesn't know what plans will be made to carry traffic around the plant.

THE PROPOSED dock, which was supposed to be equipped with conveyors for loading and unloading slips, now becomes no more than a breakwater protecting the entrance to the 100-foot-wide slip.

The 640-foot pier will be topped off with a steel catwalk. The last two sections will be the bulks of sunken freighters loaded with rocks. The bulks themselves will rise four and one-half feet above the present water level, with the rockfill rising another eight feet.

The state Conservation Commission will decide at its next meeting Aug. 12 in Iron River whether to give its stamp of approval to the revised docking blueprints.

IN VIEW of the fact the Commission has cooperated in other Medusa proposals, Loomis says he does not anticipate any snags in securing approval this time, "unless they're political."

After approval, Loomis said the next step would be to award dredging contracts. Loomis hopes to have the docking facilities completed as soon as possible, so that equipment for the plant can be shipped by water rather than overland.

Wisconsin Law Cuts Pollution

Since April 1, all boilers on the inland waters of Wisconsin have been subject to a law which absolutely prohibits them from emptying human wastes into the inland waters of the state, according to Harold D. Hettrick, acting assistant chief warden.

Hettrick said the basic law went into effect in 1959, but that certain portions of the Mississippi River, the Wisconsin River and Lake Winnebago were exempt until this spring.

The Courtier asked the Wisconsin Conservation Department for information about the law after John Reynolds, in charge of environmental health for Charlevoix County, said he has no doubt the waters of Round Lake are unsafe for swimming because of the raw sewage being emptied by yachts and other craft.

THERE ARE two parts to the Wisconsin law. The first requires boaters to equip each head with a "macerating, grinding or homogenizing device" which will reduce the size of solids passing through it. The device is to be automatically operated each time a head is flushed.

The device apparently is something like the chlorinator recommended by D. D. Walker of Charlevoix for boats operating in Round Lake. Wisconsin law, however, does not require that effluent be chlorinated, merely pulverized.

The second part of the law requires that each boat with a head be equipped with a holding tank large enough to receive the waste from the maximum number of persons aboard during a 16-hour period.

The tank is to be equipped with a warning light which flashes on when the tank is three-quarters full. The waste (Continued on back page)

Postcard Marks 175th Birthday Of Coast Guard

The first postcard commemorating the 175th anniversary of the United States Coast Guard sold at the Charlevoix Post Office went to David Radatz, BMT, assigned to the Charlevoix Station.

Postmaster Dan W. Genett handled the sale personally. The first day issue was stamped at Newburyport, Mass., Aug. 4. The cards were sold nationwide Aug. 5.

The 4-cent card features a red and white striped flag on a blue background. The seal of the United States and the crest of the Coast Guard are superimposed on the flag.

Forty million of the cards will be printed by offset photo lithography, the Post Office Department announces.

Radatz, a nine-year Coast Guard veteran, bought the first card, then picked up a bundle of them for his buddies back at the station.

Hartland Speer, En. C. assumed command of the Charlevoix Coast Guard station in a brief ceremony Aug. 6.

He relieved Edwin Pyrzynski, BMCM, who has returned to Cheboygan for his third stint aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Mackinaw.

A native of Seattle, Wash., Speer has been in the Coast Guard for 15 years, the last 12 months at the Charlevoix Station. HE ALSO has served as officer in charge of the Presque Isle Light.

Duty aboard the icebreaker Northwind took him to the South Pole in 1956 and 1957 when the ship took part in Operation Deep Freeze.

Speer also has served aboard the buoy tender Planetree out of Honolulu and the destroyer escort Falgout.

The Speers, who live on Burns Street in Charlevoix, have two sons, Kevin, 7, and Kerry, 5.

Pyrzynski had been in charge of the Charlevoix station since September, 1963. A 23-year-Coast Guard veteran, Pyrzynski served aboard the Mackinaw from 1946 to 1949 and from 1953 to 1956.

From 1956 to 1959 he was stationed at Hancock, Mich., in the Upper Peninsula and from 1959 to 1962 was aboard the White Lupine at Ogdensburg, N.Y.

Pyrzynski's family has lived in Cheboygan during his latest tour in Charlevoix, so the chief is looking forward to a reduction in his commuting time.

The Pyrzynskis have three children, Suzette, 17, Toni, 13, and Henry, 13. The change of command ceremony simply involved the reading of re-assignment orders to men of the station.

Festival to Run Sunday

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors agreed informally Aug. 3 that next year's Venetian Festival will be held on Saturday and Sunday, rather than Friday and Saturday as it was this year.

The change not only will give more visitors a chance to take part in the festivities, but also will give local boat owners more time to decorate their craft for the boat parade Sunday evening.

This year's boat parade came in for most criticism, mainly because there were only ten entries.

"If the boat parade leaves a bad taste in people's mouths, that's all they'll remember," commented Jack Mol.

ROBERT MILES suggested that an effort be made to get more people interested in the parade, particularly camps in the area. It was also suggested that a letter be sent to Belvedere Club members early in the season asking them to participate.

Miles also proposed that some of the money spent on fireworks be earmarked for the boat parade.

Robert Lieberman proposed that in future festivals, the chamber make every effort to tap all the resources available, rather than expecting a few people to do all the work.

He said perhaps an open letter to residents asking them to offer themselves might turn the trick.

He added there are plenty of artistic young adults and retired people in the area who would be glad to assist in the festival if given an opportunity.

Lieberman also suggested that Charlevoix promote the festival more vigorously in Boyne City and East Jordan.

JACK MOL suggested that next year, one board member be appointed to serve on each committee in order to provide better liaison with the Chamber of Commerce.

Aside from the boat parade, other areas coming in for criticism were a shortage of dining facilities for visitors, too few booths, and a delay in cleaning up East Park Sunday.

Most of the members reported a wealth of favorable comment about the street parade.

Attending the meeting were C. C. Director Archie Dayton, Robert Lieberman, Ronald Peterson, Tom Loebe, Ken Empey, Jack Mol and Robert Miles.

WET WEATHER is a boon to the Charlevoix Golf Club which put up a valiant fight to keep the greens in top condition during the dry days of July.

Circlin' the Bases

with DEANO

For defending champion, American Mold, it was a disastrous week, but for the fans' interest and that of the other league teams, it was an exciting one. Both Lake Construction and Olesons posted upset wins over the first round champions. For Lake Construction it wasn't too much of a surprise, for the construction gang was figured to be a contender for league honors. But for the youthful Olesons it came as quite a feat. Olesons had not actually won a league game in competition all year. They had posted a win by virtue of a forfeit in the first round. After four and a half innings Mold led 2-1 thanks to Ken Balch's home run. However, then the boys in green came to life.

An error, a hit batsman, singles by Dennis Warner and Ron Puffpuff, plus some shoddy Mold fielding, and alert Oleson baserunning all combined to give Olesons five runs. Mold gamely came back with two markers in the bottom of the seventh and had the bases loaded when Olesons got the third out on a tag play at the plate.

Earlier Lake Construction ended a long series of frustration by happily downing Mold 8-3. Mold had turned back Lake Construction in four of their last five meetings, always winning either in extra innings or by one run margins. This time it was different as Lake scored five times in the fifth on key base hits by Dwight Boss, Bill Marmie, Nick DeYoung, and Ted Potter. Potter allowed only a first inning single to Harv Cole. Hank Klooster's home run added two insurance runs in the sixth.

Lake Construction earlier in the week had won a high scoring affair with Olesons 16-1. Construction smashed the ball all over the park running up twelve hits, two each by Potter, McBride, and Davenport, and three by Steve Faculak. Rich Heeris had two for the losers.

In the all-important contest between first place Lake and second place Merchants the rain won as the contest had to be halted in the third with Lake Construction holding a 1-0 lead. It will be replayed at a later date.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Freedmans got their second round little bid off on the right foot with a 7-6 win over first round champion Jerry's Gulf. Three runs in the bottom of the seventh did the trick. Alf came on walks.

Barnard evened their record (1-1) for the round with a convincing 15-5 win over A & W (0-1). Four hits by Straw and two by Crain helped the winners coast to the victory. Tom Webb's two safeties led the losers.

PEANUT LEAGUE

The big news in the Peanut circuit was the Lions thrashing the Tigers 10-0 to take a one game lead in their divisional fight for the title. Vic Kantola and Kraag Lieberman each homered while Peter Hooper collected the only Tiger hit.

The Dodgers got a scare from the winless Astros but came out the winner by a 12-10 count. Mike Lord had a home run and double for the winners. Reedy and Joe Jones did the heavy hitting for the Astros but it wasn't enough.

The Pirates came close to upsetting the Cards and stopping their season long unbeaten streak but fell short 4-3. Larry Potter's home run and Bob DeYoung's triple back to back spelled the difference for the Cardinals. Ned Henley's double was the only extra base hit for the losers.

In perhaps the most flawless contest played in the peanut league's history the Braves scored a seventh inning run to edge the Cubs 1-0. Rick Turner singled home Bob Crain, who had walked. Mike Crain's single was the only Cub hit off the servings of Jim Warner.

The Charlevoix Golf Club is ringing up a record year, according to manager Keith Carey.

He attributes it to the fact that more people than ever before are taking to the greens for relaxation.

Although the club is about 30 day tickets behind last year at this time, the number of season memberships has jumped from 4,873 to 5,308. From May through Aug. 6, the cash register rang up a total of $11,271. The comparable figure for last year was $9,964.

CAREY also is proud of the way the greens withstood the exceptionally dry summer, up to last weekend. He attributes their excellent condition to the hard work of greenskeeper Walter Henley, who celebrates his 30th birthday in October, and Henley's assistants, Ron Welshik and Rick Grunch.

City golf tournaments are drawing to a close, with two flights already completed. In the 16 to 19 age bracket, Warren Belding beat Barry Hilligan on the 19th hole. In the Senior Flight (men over 60) Buck Dillefsen defeated George Drigget 2 to 1.

In upcoming rounds of the championship flight, Glen Hens is paired against Wallace and Jack Suprenant against Bob Livingston.

In the 15 and under classification, Jack Bergmann will play the winner of a match between Don Livingston and Fiedorek.

CAREY said the competition started with 96 entries, and only eight trophies will be awarded when it's all over in a couple of weeks. He reports that Thursday stag nights continue to remain popular this year, and he expects a big turnout for the mixed, two-bait foursome Sunday, Aug. 15 at 4 p.m. Entrance fee is $2, and refreshments will be served. He asks golfers to make their reservations early.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Both Paul-Reed and Edward posted wins to remain deadlocked for first place in the women's league. This set the stage for Friday's game when the two teams will meet head on. Edwards beat Texaco 1-0 in a near-perfect contest. Mary Loungalis won her own game with a double driving in the only run. Paul-Reed blasted Meggison-Erber Oil 22-1.

YOUTH LEAGUE

Green Sox 4 3
Red Sox 3 4
Blue Sox 2 5

Four teams will carry local colors in upcoming district softball tournament to be held in Petoskey week of August 16. Nearly 60 coaches and wives enjoyed themselves at Bill Cooper's Oleson appreciation party held at the Depot Beach.

"Take my hand"

"Take My Hand!" Thus has spoken our true Leader. As He Journeys in the service of God, He calls women and men and children to walk with Him. He has led youth and age to peace and victory. He has been the 'Christ of the Indian Road.' He is the Christ of every road where God's children must walk.

What a privilege! Ordinary people may have high company. What a blessed invitation. As they enter upon the serious tasks of life, they may have royal fellowship. Especially to those who leave the home fireside, to face a lonely way, He calls... "Take My Hand." Not one of us is equal to meeting the world in our own strength. But we can be conquerors, if divine strength and wisdom flows in upon our souls.

To every one of us, He is repeating the gracious invitation of the centuries, "Take My Hand." Wonderful things have been done by those who hearkened to the call! We do not need to walk alone. We must not walk alone. He will be our Teacher, our Friend, our Comforter, our Lord, our divine Comrade. Attend His Church! Take His Hand!

Baritone Sax Highlights Superb Band Concert

A small but appreciative crowd turned out for the third weekly concert in the park by the Charlevoix City Band Wednesday evening.

The program was directed by Clarence Odmark and the year-round city band was supplemented by college students home for vacation and visitors in the area.

The concert stepped off to a fast start with Donald Moore's "Marcho Poco" march, a light, airy, modern-sic concert band selection.

This was the first of many numbers of the evening in which the baritone saxophone played by Howard Bearss of Charlevoix came through with precision and authority.

Second selection was the "Hebrides Suite", the latest selection for the concert band by Clair Grundman. All four movements had a Scottish flavor, reminiscent of step-dancers and bagpipes. The individual movements were entitled "Peat Fire," "Love Song," "Milking Song" and "Road to the Isles."

The "Waltz for Band" by John Morrissey was a particularly appropriate selection for a summer band concert. It was melodious and gay, with passages which reminded one of "The Good Old Summertime".

Odmark correctly predicted that "March of the Steelman" would be a "crowd pleaser." The entire cornet and trombone sections stood up to play their parts, and the uproar could have been heard to Horton Bay.

"Viva" from Franz's Lehar's "Merry Widow" was a disappointment, perhaps because we missed the strings, but the band made up for it by coming through superbly with highlights from "Music Man," including "Wells Fargo Wagon," "Till There Was You" and "76 Trombones." And the big sax did a fine job with "Begin the Beguine."

Wrapping up the program were the "Teddy Bear's Picnic" with its "whee-e-e" sound effects, "Fandango" by Perkins, "Bolero for Band" by Glen Osner, and "Liberty Bell" by John Philip Sousa. Odmark has made it traditional for the Charlevoix City Band to bring concerts with the National Anthem and end with a Sousa march.

Clevenger Pushes Fishing Aid Bill

The Michigan Conservation Department's plea for funds to improve sport fishing in the Great Lakes will be answered by legislation now being pushed by Congressman Raymond F. Clevenger (D-11th District).

Clevenger is urging approval of a bill to appropriate $5 million annually to advance angling for fish that migrate from the Great Lakes and oceans into streams to spawn.

The Bill (H.R. 3927), Clevenger said, would authorize the Conservation Department to receive funds from the U.S. Department of Interior for its program to establish new species in the Great Lakes.

MICHIGAN'S fisheries experts went on record as being desperately in need of funds for research to improve Great Lakes sport fishing at a seminar of Great Lakes states fisheries officials held in Pontiac last week.

The Bill, Clevenger said, would make it possible for Michigan to receive, from the Federal Government, up to 75% of the cost for Great Lakes research programs on such species as salmon, striped bass, rainbow trout, smelt, and brown trout.

FEDERAL FUNDS would also be authorized for work to improve spawning streams and food conditions and to build hatcheries.

Sport fishing in the Great Lakes, Clevenger said, is virtually ignored, while many of Michigan's inland lakes are fast becoming crowded with fishermen and boats.

"If I can get the bill out of committee and passed by the Senate and House, it will be up to the Conservation Department to obtain Michigan's share of these funds by outlining programs in which they are needed," Clevenger said.

Insurance Firm Honors Agent

Tom Smith, State Farm Insurance agent for the Boyne City-Charlevoix areas, was top man in an intra-district sales competition recently.

Smith was crowned "king" as a steak picnic held July 23 at the Central Lake City park. Runners-up ate baked beans.

Ypsilanti Alumni Convene

Nineteen golfers participated in the third annual Arms of Honor fraternity and the first golf tourney sponsored by the Northern Chapter of Eastern Michigan University at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course Saturday.

Trophies were awarded winners in both events at a banquet Saturday evening at Grey Gables.

Top Arm of Honor awards were won by George Driggett of Milwaukee who posted a score of 90. Les Coatta of Eastport, who had a score of 75 under the Calloway system, placed second, and Lloyd Olds of Ypsilanti, the defending champion, Bud Brown of Detroit and Harold Osborn of Central Lake tied for third place.

Leo Spencer of Torch Lake took top honors with a 75 in the northern chapter EMU division. A guest trophy donated by Ralph Foster of Good Hart went to John Miller of Torch Lake. Dr. John Barker of Centerville received a special award for having the most shots in the tournament.

All the participants received lessor awards.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Walter Draper of Franklin hosted a luncheon for golfers wives at Brownwood.

Thirty-three members and guests attended the dinner at Grey Gables.

At a business meeting following the dinner, Aug. 6 was set as the date for the 1966 tournament. Dr. Barker, Draper and Coatta were named to the tournament committee.

Driggett was re-elected president of the group; Wayne Kinney of Luna Pier was elected vice president; Coatta, secretary, and Draper, treasurer.

Dr. Barker was host at a cocktail party for Arm of Honor members Saturday evening. Attending were:

Mr. and Mrs. Rip Van Winkle of Tecumseh; Mr. and Mrs. Les Coatta of Torch Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Draper of Franklin and Torch Lake; Mr. and Mrs. George Driggett of Milwaukee and Charlevoix; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Olds of Ypsilanti; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Houston of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Len Ogden of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Orin J. Robertson of Les Cheneaux Islands; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Brown of Ferndale; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ishister of Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mills; Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of Torch Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barker of Centerville and Torch Lake. Others were Mrs. Flynn of Detroit and Torch Lake, Mr. Leo Spencer and son, Tom, of Detroit and Torch Lake; Mr. Harold Osborn of Central Lake; and Mr. Harold "Ink" Oliver of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Heynolds from Glen Ellyn, Ill. are guests this Sunday at the home of Ole and Edna Nielsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kanoff and family returned home Tuesday from Detroit, having been called by the death of the latter's father, Mr. Myron Crane.

The Church Rummage Sale will be held on the 13th and 14th in the Snyder Store Building. Anyone having articles for sale is asked to call Mrs. Earl Kroll, the general chairman of the sale or some other church member.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dudd are enroute to their home in Chugatak, Alaska, after visiting at the home of Ed and Lorena Beene. Mrs. Dudd is a teacher in the Retarded School Center there, and has been taking a six weeks course at Wayne State University this summer. Mr. Dudd drives a school bus. They report that it was 42° below zero last winter. Mr. Beene and Mr. Dudd are cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Janoff from Hazel Park, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Kraska from Dearborn were guests Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kanoff. Our local postmaster Roy Meyers was to retire last day of July. But, he still hasn't heard from "Uncle Sam," so, Roy is working overtime.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Wright helped us host, in our yard, Friday evening the employees from Paul Reed Inc. in Charlevoix with a steak picnic dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Vince Olsheve and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Olsheve and family and Richard Olsheve from Detroit and several friends are vacationing in the Ole Olsheve cottage. Mrs. Olive Bird and daughter Cheryl and a friend from Flint, also Mrs. A. Gulman and daughter Mrs. Sophia Hall from Goodrich and her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Anderson from Newark, N.J. have returned to their home after a week's vacation in the Bird cottage. Mable and Elliot Bird from Flint are now enjoying a week's vacation in the cottage and visiting local friends.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Chak and family from East Jordan spent last weekend in Ann Arbor with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Shepherd and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Nasson have returned to their home in Clearwater, Fla., after spending a week at their local farm house. While here their daughter Mrs. Adelle Alverson and family from Buchanan, Mich., were their guests.

We finally had a nice rain Saturday night and most all day Sunday, which has been badly needed and is still raining this Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kemp had as dinner guests last Sunday, Zola's mother Mrs. Anna Johnstone and son Klau from Ellsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Howard and daughter from Chicago, Susie Hickox from Big Rapids, Mrs. Polly Sinclair from East Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Nachazel and five children from Lansing and Mrs. Robert Johnstone and family from Tarna, Ohio.

Don't forget the church picnic next Sunday Aug. 15th at Whiting Park. Bring a dish to pass, your own drink and table service. We will eat at two o'clock. Everyone will be welcome.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Phelps and daughter, Terry, have returned from a week's camping trip near Wawa, Ont.

Linda Southern of DeKalb, Ill., who has spent the summer with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Looze, will return home this week with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Southern and two sons who are visiting here for several days after spending the summer at Arizona State University, Tempe, Ariz., where he attended the summer session.

Michael and Bernie Foster have returned to Kalamazoo after spending several days with their grandfather, J. M. Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Haggerty and family have returned to Wilmington, Ohio, where he is stationed with the U.S. Army after visiting briefly with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Haggerty and Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Shores. CWO Vincent Olsh, accompanied by his wife and two children, arrived last weekend from the Seventh Army Training Center in Germany where he has been stationed with the U.S. Army for three years, to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Olsh, and other relatives. After a month here, he will report at Fort Monroe, Va., where he will serve as Post Personnel Officer.

Miss Frances Durance and her brother, Albin, have had as recent guests their niece, Mrs. Mary Grace Robinson of Detroit and her friends, Mrs. Betty Winters and son, Steve, and her mother, Mrs. Jeffries, of Warren.

William Kusina of Kusina Motors left recently to attend the 1966 American Motors Car show at Chicago before going on to Greenbrier, W. Va., to attend the annual M.A.D.A. convention. He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Kusina and son, Steve.

William Durance and son, John, of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Baumgartner of Romeo and his sister, Mrs. Stella Enbling of Detroit have returned to their respective homes following a visit with Mr. Durance's and Mrs. Baumgartner's brother, Albin Durance, and sister, Miss Frances Durance.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hamaty and family have returned to their home in Hastings after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cellner. While here they were at a Pine Point cottage.

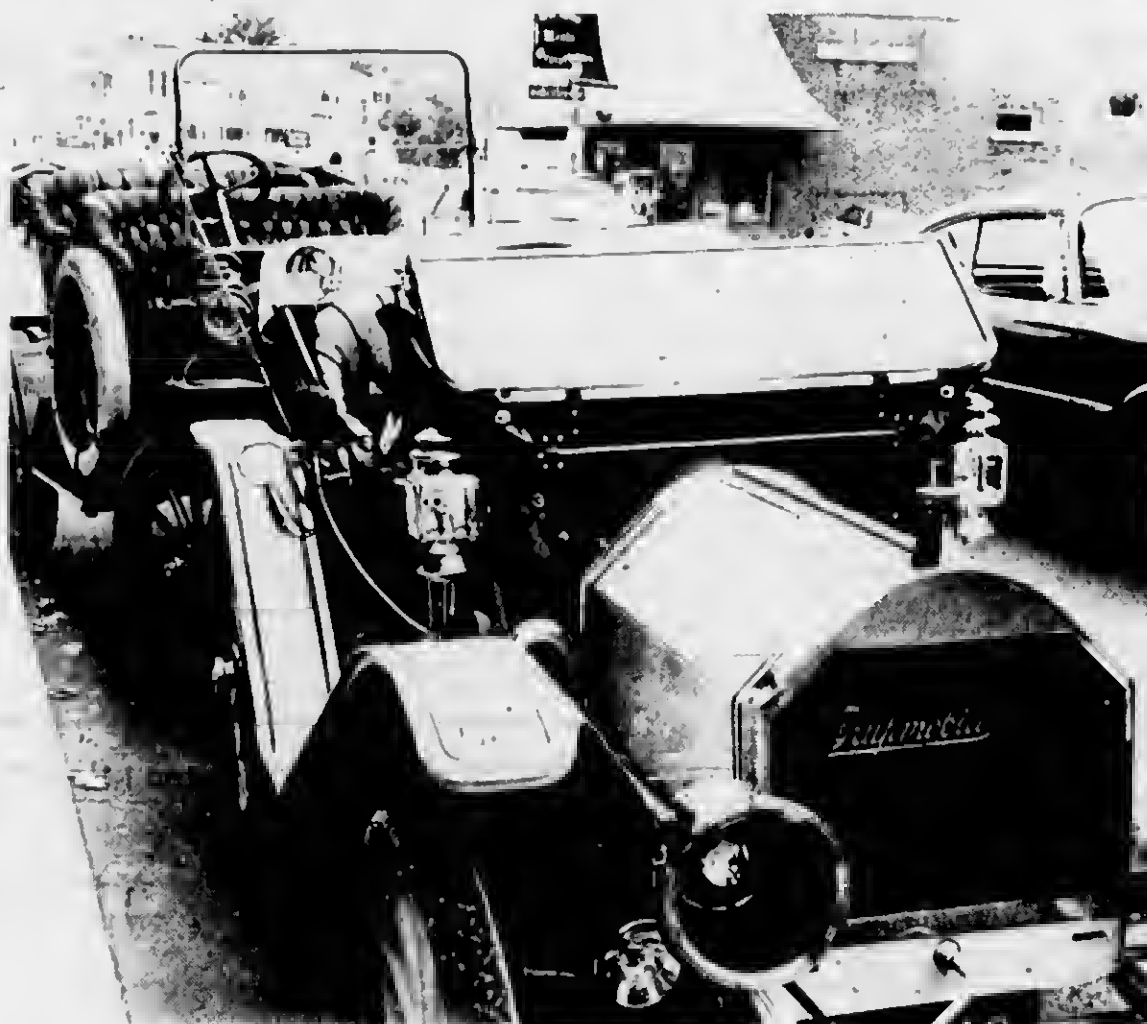

Mr. and Mrs. James Foster and son of Conway, Ark., are spending some time here as guests of his father, Harry Foster, and Mrs. Foster.

CWO and Mrs. James Seidl left last weekend for Albany, N.Y., to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Heilig.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williamson of Battle Creek visited recently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cook and other relatives.

THIS ANCIENT Paige - Detroit visited Charlevoix last week was piloted by Donald Mates of Chicago. The 1911 model was brought to the area by trailer in order to take part in the annual Michigan Tour sponsored by the Antique Car Club of America. The old car fanciers met at Shanty Creek, taking their vintage machines on daily outings into the surrounding countryside. Next year the group hopes to set up a dinner engagement in Charlevoix.

OWNERS OF this 1910 Buick and Hupmobile stopped for lunch in Charlevoix. The oldest car in the Michigan Tour was a two-cylinder, 1903 Ford Model "A" which developed ten horsepower. The vehicle was the 573rd car built by Henry Ford in the same year he started his company. It is owned by Dick Teague, vice president in charge of styling for American Motors. Second oldest of the 52 cars at the rally was a 1904 Cadillac, owned by B.C. Phillips, chief engineer for Tillotson Carburetor Co.

The fourth annual recreation department track and field day starts tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon with the girls division getting underway at 2:00 p.m. The boys division is slated to start at the same time on Friday.

Ribbons will be awarded for each of the first, second, and third place finishers in the 25 yard dash, 75 yard dash, 60 yard hurdles, board jump, high jump, softball throw, and the 440 yard relay. Each contestant will be allowed to enter two of the running events and two field events.

Both the girls and boys will be divided up into two divisions. The junior division is for youngsters eight through ten with the eleven through thirteen year olds competing in the senior division. The two day event will be held at the high school track.

The chart left shows some of the track and field records set in other years. Deano Davenport, recreation department manager, says he expects some of the old records will topple in this year's competition.

Don't Stow Tackle Yet, Anglers Told

The fisherman who puts his tackle away just because dog days have arrived may be missing some of the most exciting sport of the year. That's the message from Dick Kotis, fishing expert from Arbogast.

"The secret of success during dog days," Kotis reveals, "is to go out at night." This advice makes good sense. Many of America's best game fish - largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleyes, brown trout, channel catfish, tend to be nocturnal anyway. And through the heat of the summer, they do nearly all of their feeding after dark and after too many fishermen have gone home.

BUT HOW do you fish after dark? "For bass," replies Kotis, "use surface plugs in the same places you are likely to find bass early in the season."

Cast your topwater lures along shallow shorelines or beside weedbeds. And never neglect to toss your topwater lure around boat docks, piers and pilings. During the hours of darkness this is like playing with dynamite.

Fishing at night is also a pleasant way to "escape." Skiers and speedboaters have retreated to dry land and the waters belong exclusively to fishermen. An angler can relax and light up a pipe. Next thing he knows, a lunker bass will be exorting on the end of this line.

State Asks Bids on M-75 Work

Michigan State Highway Dept. will take bids Aug. 12 for four miles or relocation and surfacing of M75, from Homestead Corner to Old State Road, between Boyne City and Walloon Lake.

A highway department survey is under way and the work is expected to be completed about Oct. 31, 1966.

Highway M75 will be closed to through traffic when the project begins until late fall.

Walloon Lake

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley White, Walloon Lake, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob White Sr. of Hayes Township July 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul White and six children of Hayes Township have returned home from a week-long camping trip in the central part of the state.

Talk of the Town

Dr. William Ratigan of the Charlevoix High School Guidance and Counseling Department, presently serving as visiting lecturer at the School of Education, Florida State University, Tallahassee, will speak on the subject "Voices from Outer Space, including Mars: 'Goodnight David' Goodnight, Chet; Goodnight Walter'." After this month the lecture will deal with communications and this country's search for life on other planets including the famous night of 1938 when an Orson Wells broadcast sent the population into a panic over a supposed invasion by Martians.

Associated with Michigan State University and the Charlevoix high school, Dr. Ratigan was formerly director of News and Special Events for NBC network originating from Hollywood and San Francisco, chief of correspondents and commentators in the Pacific Theatre of Operation and scriptwriter for the first UN conference. He is co-author of "Theories of Counseling" and the author of 12 other books on Americana. His stories and articles have appeared in various magazines including the Saturday Evening Post. His lecture will be delivered Aug. 29 at the University's Education Lecture Hall. Dr. Ratigan will return here early next month prior to the opening of the local schools.

CD Study Planned at Houghton

Michigan Technological University, Houghton, will conduct a one-year Civil Defense training program under a $80,000 Federal contract, Congressman Raymond F. Cleveland (D-11th District) reports.

Dr. Raymond L. Smith, Tech president, has completed arrangements with the Michigan Office of Civil Defense for the university's continuing education division to hold a series of conferences and specialist training courses throughout Michigan.

EIGHT ONE-DAY conferences for local government officials and community leaders will present instruction on all aspects of Civil Defense, with emphasis on fall-out shelters and community shelter planning, Cleveland said.

The meeting will be held in communities in each of the Michigan State Police Civil Defense Districts.

One phase of the training will teach detection and evaluation of radiation.

Another major phase will prepare persons to act as community fall-out shelter managers.

Persons interested in receiving the training should contact their community civil defense director.

Job Counselor At East Jordan Attending U-M

James S. Shepard of East Jordan, vocational coordinator for East Jordan Public Schools, is among 20 counselors and administrators from Michigan high schools and community colleges attending a summer workshop at the University of Michigan.

The program is designed to train them for top administrative jobs in the field of vocational and technical education.

The session began June 28 and will end Aug. 18.

Workshop members were selected from nearly 400 nominations by Michigan high school principals and community college administrators.

Each student has received a Carnegie Corp. scholarship to finance his studies.

Mrs. Edward Westing has returned to Port Huron after spending several days with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sly.

Mrs. Jerry Knudson and children, Linda Lindsey and Louis, of Chicago are making an extended visit with her father, James Wasagshish.

WAITING their turn at bat are these members of the Peanut League, coached by Deano Davenport. By hitting the ball off a tee, the boys are almost guaranteed of instant success.

Kids Hit Ball Off Tee to Get Used to Winning

An experiment in teaching youngsters seven to nine years old the fundamentals of baseball --- and still giving them a measure of success every time they step up to the plate --- is under way at the athletic field every Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m.

Coached by recreation director Deano Davenport, more than 60 young ballplayers show up for every session dressed in Kiwanis Club athletic shirts.

THERE are no pitchers in these unusual ball games, since the batters slug the ball off a tee made of a rubber road marker sitting on a five-gallon pail.

The length of the game has been shortened to five innings, and the distance between bases has been reduced to 45 feet.

"These kids are almost guaranteed of instant success," Deano says. "There are no substitutes or bench warmers in this league."

Deano thinks the value of the tee-ball game is teaching youngsters a level swing and getting them used to success.

THE ONLY condition Deano has laid down is that the ball must pass an imaginary pitcher's mound to be fair. Deano says in this age bracket that kids usually strike out or walk in a regulation ball game, the repetition of which can get mighty boring for a seven year old.

The boys are divided into four teams, the black, green, red and blue Sox. There is a smattering of all ages on each team, just so one doesn't have an unfair advantage over another.

This is the first year for tee-ball in Charlevoix, but judging from the enthusiasm of Deano and the boys, it won't be the last.

"These boys are all going to be pretty good material for the peanut league in a year or two," Deano says.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD Dane Whitley topples the tee as he swings low at the ball. A five-gallon pail brings the make-shift tee right up to swinging level.

MIKE MOL reaches for the ball during his first time at bat. Nobody walks or strikes out in this game.

Ellsworth streets are starting to receive a face lifting. The motorists are only too happy to see the holes, bumps and cracks removed. Soon the streets will be illuminated with new lights. Places that have been dimly lit will have new lights installed and the change could make it seem like daylight.

I would like to warn motorists traveling on Essex Road after dark. Several young drivers are using the road for a race track late in the night. They have been seen dragging up and down the road, approaching motorists and startling them when they see four headlights coming at them. This community has been confronted with enough tragedy without deliberately causing more. The innocent driver and the occupants are the people who have to suffer. The dragsters not only use Essex road, but others as well.

We are happy to hear the voice of Selb VanHouten and his wife Gert once again. Selb has returned home after the operation on his arm. Stitches will be removed within three weeks. We should tell you that Selb is 78 years old and mastered the ordeal like a young pup.

Some time when you think of it ask Harm Sitzema about Beaver Island. He travels over there almost as often as the "Shamrock". Fishing must be the reason, but then there is also solitude.

Obituary

MRS. ROSE DAVIS

Funeral for Mrs. Rose Davis, 80, of Bay Shore, was held Aug. 6 at the Desnoyer Funeral Home, Petoskey. The Rev. Raymond J. McBratley of the Boyne City Methodist Church officiated, and interment was in Greenwood Cemetery, Petoskey.

Mrs. Davis died Aug. 3 at Charlevoix Hospital following a long illness.

Born near Horton Bay, she lived in the Horton Bay Hayes Township - Bay Shore area all her life. Her husband Edward died in October, 1958. She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Edna Neuman, Mrs. Mabel Phelps and Miss Pearl Davis, of Traverse City; Mrs. Mildred Davis of Detroit and Mrs. Marjorie Miller of Bay Shore.

Also surviving are three sons, Perry Davis of Boyne City, and Harvey Davis and Jack Davis of Bay Shore.

Mrs. Davis also leaves two brothers, Frank Leist of Muskegon and Thomas Leist of Horton Bay; one sister, Mrs. Aline (Mae) Dunlap

THE NEW Trimline wall phone, with its dial - in - the - handset feature fits out - of - the - way locations that would be awkward for the standard wall phone. Because the dial, dial - tone button, receiver and mouthpiece nestle in the palm of the user's hand, the new phone can be installed in convenient spots such as under kitchen cabinets and counters.

New Dial Telephone Comes to Charlevoix

of Boyne City, 15 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Michigan Bell Telephone Company customers are the first in the nation to be offered a completely new kind of telephone on which the dial is part of the handset.

The new telephone, called Trimline, was available in the Charlevoix area Aug. 2. It will be introduced gradually across the nation, according to Frederick B. Hunt, Michigan Bell vice president and general manager.

Hunt said the Trimline, designed to make use of the telephone handset rather than a separate base, is the result of eight years of research and testing by the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

ITS DIAL - in - the - handset feature eliminates the need to reach for the base when dialing, and it makes it possible to have the phone located in places where a standard model instrument cannot be installed.

"The Trimline not only introduced a new look in phones, but a new relaxing way to call. It is an easy and comfortable set to use, and its modern sculptured look makes it as decorative as it is functional," Hunt said.

The set will be offered on an optional basis at a monthly charge of $1.00.

ANOTHER feature of the sleek Trimline set is its dial tone button. A press of the button brings back dial tone without need to reach over to the base to hang up before making another call.

In order to build the dial into the handset, Bell Laboratories developed a smaller disc that is easier to see and operate. It is smaller than the standard size dial because the space between the numbers "1" and the zero is eliminated. Finger holes on the Trimline dial remain the same size although its diameter is three-fourths inches smaller than the standard.

On the new dial, the letters have been made more readable by straight-line arrangement over the numbers instead of the familiar semi-circle shape.

WHEN THE telephone is in use, the dial face is brightly lighted by a bulb that is designed to last for years. Improvements in the moving parts of the dial make its turning smoother and faster.

AMA Matches Infant's Age, Motor Skills

At what age should children learn to be able to do certain things.

Any such listing must always keep in mind the fact that no two children are alike and that development periods can and do vary widely in perfectly normal children, according to the American Medical Association.

There are certain things that most babies learn at approximately the same age in the early development period. Here are some of them--

One month--Can raise chin off bed.

Two months--Can raise chest off bed.

Three months--Reaches for objects, but without success.

Four months--Can sit with support.

Five months--Can sit on lap and can grasp small objects.

Six months--Can sit in high chair and grasp a dangling object.

Seven months--Can sit alone.

Eight months--Can stand with help.

Nine months--Can stand by holding to pieces of furniture.

Ten months--Can creep.

Eleven months--Can walk if led by one hand.

Twelve months--Can pull up and stand with the help of furniture.

Thirteen months--Can climb up a few stairs.

Fourteen months--Can stand alone.

Fifteen months--Can walk alone.

But, cautions the AMA, the parent has no real basis for either an unwarranted pride in the precociousness of the child or an unwarranted pessimism over his slowness if the child's development pattern should vary widely from the above table.

No two children are alike.

AHW - Phil Mann, Grand Rapids, 1st; Don Faltling, Charlevoix, 2nd; Ed Mann, Charlevoix, 3rd; Glen Cameron, Sault Ste. Marie, 4th.

The BLW consolation race was won by Amos Nickerson of Traverse City and the BHW consolation race by Joe Armstrong of Charlevoix.

Twenty-eight riders in all took part in the competition.

The volume of the set's bell can be turned up or down.

When not in use, the handset snugly fits into the base with dial, receiver, and transmitter out of sight, giving the set the trim lines of a piece of sculpture.

Both wall and desk models will be offered. The wall set is the answer to customer wishes to have telephones installed in out-of-the-way (but convenient) locations like under a kitchen shelf, behind a closet door, or in the space between counters.

Council Proceedings

July 26, 1965

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Hawley presiding, Aldermen present: Terrill, Whitley, Fochtman, Gill and Neff. Absent: Alderman Hoffmann.

The Minutes of the July 12, 1965 meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

The following Amendment No. 1, was offered by Alderman Gill, and supported by Alderman Whitley:

ELECTRIC PERMIT
City of Charlevoix to Consumers Power Company
July 2, 1962

Amendment No. 1
RESOLVED, that the grant by the City Council of the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Consumers Power Company, its successors and assigns, on July 2, 1962, of the right to use for a period of thirty years the specified highways, streets, alleys and public places of said City described in said grant for construction, operating and maintaining thereon the necessary poles, wires, supports, cables and other necessary appliances for two high-voltage electric transmission lines for the purpose of transmitting electricity into the City of Charlevoix for the sale of bulk power to the City of Charlevoix and transmitting electricity through the City of Charlevoix for distribution elsewhere, and not for other distribution within the City of Charlevoix, be amended by amending page 2, paragraph 2, so that it shall read as amended, to read as follows:

"2. To the highways, streets, alleys and other public places of the City of Charlevoix, commencing at Consumers Power Company's Charlevoix Substation, thence proceeding on property of the City of Charlevoix in a northwesterly direction to a point not more than 120 feet nor less than 80 feet west of the northwesterly right of way line of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad and not more than 300 feet nor less than 250 feet north of the center line of Stover Road, thence southwesterly to Stover Road at a point not more than 210 feet nor less than 190 feet west of the center line of said Railroad right of way, thence westerly on the north side of Stover Road to its intersection with May Street, thence northerly on the west side of May Street to its intersection with Garfield Avenue, thence west on the south side of Garfield Avenue to the corporate limits of the City of Charlevoix, as such now or may hereafter exist. A map of the route of this proposed line west of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad right of way and the detailed plans and specifications for such line shall be prepared and submitted to the Common Council for formal approval at a later date, and the same shall be formally approved by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix prior to construction thereof."

In all other respects the terms and conditions of the permit dated July 2, 1962, shall remain effective.

The adoption of said resolution being put to a vote, the same was carried by the following Yea and Nay vote: YEAS: Aldermen Gill, Terrill, Whitley, Fochtman and Neff. NAYS: None. ABSENT: Alderman Hoffmann.

Thereupon there was presented to the Council, a communication from the Consumers Power Company, accepting Amendment No. 1 to the permit granted July 2, 1962.

The following Agreement was offered by Alderman Terrill and supported by Alderman Neff:

POLE LICENSE AGREEMENT
AGREEMENT, Made as of this 26th day of July, 1965, between CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY, hereinafter called the Company, and the CITY OF CHARLEVOIX, a municipal corporation, Charlevoix County, Michigan, hereinafter called the Licensee:

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, which has a freight line to Charlevoix, plans to spend $10 million on expanding and improving its facilities. In the state, according to Buford Nash, regional manager at Detroit.

In addition, the C&O will spend $12 million for new freight cars, most of them to serve Michigan industry, and another $1 million on roadway maintenance equipment to be used in the state.

The improvement program will take place over the next five years. The work includes expansion of yards, installation of additional electric power for traffic control, new industrial tracks, extension of radio communications and construction of new piggyback loading facilities.

Cities where improvements will take place are Detroit, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Port Huron, Ludington and Midland.

The Licensee shall promptly remove all of the Licensee's facilities from the said poles.

The Company will endeavor, however, to give the Licensee at least ninety (90) days' notice in advance of such termination. The privilege and license hereby granted may be terminated by the Licensee at any time hereafter by removing the attached facilities from the said poles. The Licensee shall give the Company reasonable notice in advance of the removal of said facilities.

Agreement was adopted by the following Yea and Nay vote: YEAS: Aldermen Terrill, Whitley, Fochtman, Gill and Neff. NAYS: None. ABSENT: Alderman Hoffmann.

Alderman Terrill offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Neff:

RESOLUTION
BE IT RESOLVED, by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix that it approve of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission issuing to Great Northern Land Company of Charlevoix, a Class B Resort Hotel License, with Dance permit attached. This approval is good only until August 9, 1965.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Clerk be authorized to send a certified copy of this resolution to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

Resolution adopted by the following Yea and Nay vote: YEAS: Aldermen Terrill, Whitley and Neff. NAYS: Aldermen Fochtman and Gill. ABSENT: Alderman Hoffmann.

On motion, the Council adjourned.

Hugh Mayne, City Clerk

The Company hereby grants to the Licensee and the Licensee hereby accepts from the Company, subject to the provisions hereof, the revocable privilege and license of establishing certain facilities owned by the Licensee, constituting portions of its electric distribution system, to the certain poles of the Company as shown on the drawing which is attached hereto and made a part hereof. The grant of the privilege and license hereby made is gratuitous on the part of the Company and constitutes the consideration for all agreements on the part of the Licensee hereunder.

The Licensee shall comply with all rules and requirements of the Michigan Public Service Commission, and all future amendments and revisions thereof, which are applicable to the installation, maintenance, operation and use of the facilities to be attached by the Licensee to the poles of the Company. The Licensee shall install and properly maintain suitable protective appliances and devices as may be necessary to protect the facilities attached hereunder, and other property connected therewith, from damage which might be caused by a flow of electricity from the Company's facilities. Said poles shall be maintained by the Company and the attachments and other property of the Licensee shall be solely maintained by the Licensee.

The Company reserves the right to designate the particular locations at which the attachments of the Licensee shall be made and the manner in which same shall be supported and maintained. No pole shall be placed upon or attached to the poles by the Licensee nearer than eight (8) feet from the surface of the ground or nearer than eight (8) feet from any existing structure or object above the surface of the ground which might be used as an aid in climbing to reach the lowest of such pole steps.

It is recognized by the parties hereto that the primary use of the said poles of the Company is to support the electric wires and other facilities of the Company, and that the privilege and license hereby granted to the Licensee is subservient in all respects to such primary use by the Company. The Licensee hereby assumes all liability for and agrees to indemnify and save the Company harmless from any and all damages, losses, claims, demands, suits, recoveries, rights of action, or costs and expenses, for injury or death to any persons whatsoever or for any loss, destruction of or damage to any property of third persons, firms or corporations or other entities, including the employees and property of the Licensee, arising out of or resulting from either directly or indirectly, the installation, operation, maintenance, use or removal of the said facilities and associated protective appliances and devices of the Licensee.

In the event that the Company finds it necessary or desirable to relocate, remove or replace the said poles, or in the opinion of the Company the continued use of the poles by the Licensee is undesirable or inconvenient to the Company in the conduct of its business, the Company may terminate said privilege and license upon giving reasonable notice to the Licensee in advance of such termination, whereupon the Licensee shall promptly remove all of the Licensee's facilities from the said poles.

The Company will endeavor, however, to give the Licensee at least ninety (90) days' notice in advance of such termination. The privilege and license hereby granted may be terminated by the Licensee at any time hereafter by removing the attached facilities from the said poles. The Licensee shall give the Company reasonable notice in advance of the removal of said facilities.

Agreement was adopted by the following Yea and Nay vote: YEAS: Aldermen Terrill, Whitley, Fochtman, Gill and Neff. NAYS: None. ABSENT: Alderman Hoffmann.

Alderman Terrill offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Neff:

RESOLUTION

On motion, the Council adjourned.

Hugh Mayne, City Clerk

the following resolution and moved its adoption, seconded by Alderman Gill:

RESOLUTION
WHEREAS, the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix has found it advantageous to convey a parcel of land heretofore designated as a roadway, and

WHEREAS, it is mandatory that a parcel of property be acquired by the City to be used as a roadway and as a means of ingress and egress from and to Highway U.S. 31 in part of Government Lot 3, Section 24, Town 34 North, Range 8 West, and

WHEREAS, Carey Oil Company, a Michigan corporation, has offered to sell to the City of Charlevoix a parcel of land, hereinafter more fully described, for the purpose of establishing a new roadway in the aforescribed area, IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED, that the City of Charlevoix purchase from Carey Oil Company, a Michigan corporation, for the sum of seven Hundred Twenty ($720.00) Dollars the following described parcel situated in the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, to-wit:

Beginning at a point on the North line of Highway US 31 at a point 576 feet east of the West eighth line of Section 24, Town 34 North, Range 8 West; thence North parallel with said eighth line to the North eighth line of Section 24; thence East on said North eighth line 24 feet; thence South parallel with said West eighth line to the northerly line of said Highway U.S. 31; thence southeasterly along said highway to the point of beginning; being a part of Government Lot 3, Section 24, Town 34 North, Range 8 West;

Resolution adopted by the following Yea and Nay vote: YEAS: Aldermen Gill, Neff, Whitley, Terrill and Fochtman. NAYS: None. ABSENT: Alderman Hoffmann.

Alderman Terrill offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, seconded by Alderman Neff:

RESOLUTION
WHEREAS, on the second day of June, 1965, the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix resolved that a certain parcel of real estate owned by the City of Charlevoix, said parcel being fully described in said resolution, be conveyed to Robert and Helen Dyksterhouse for a specific purpose and under certain terms and conditions therein described, and

WHEREAS, it now appears that the parcel described in the resolution of the second day of June, 1965 is not of sufficient size to accomplish the purpose of the said Robert and Helen Dyksterhouse, and

WHEREAS, it is deemed advantageous by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix to have the manufacturing facility proposed by the Dyksterhouses erected in the area, IT IS HEREBY

RESOLVED by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix that a parcel of property hereinafter more fully described by conveyed to the said Robert and Helen Dyksterhouse upon the identical terms and conditions as were more fully set forth in the Council's resolution of the second day of June, 1965, upon payment of the sum of Two Thousand Six Hundred Eighty ($2,680.00) Dollars, the property to be so conveyed being situated in the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the North line of Highway U.S. 31 at a point 625 feet East of the West eighth line of Section 24, Town 34 North, Range 8 West; thence North, parallel with said eighth line, to the North eighth line of said Section 24; thence East on said North eighth line 208.57 feet, more or less, to a point 500 feet West of the North and South quarter line of said section; thence South parallel with said quarter line, to the northwesterly line of said highway; thence southwesterly along said Highway line to the point of beginning; being a part of Government Lot 3, Section 24, Town 34 North, Range 8 West.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Mayor and Clerk of the City of Charlevoix be and they are hereby authorized and directed to execute on behalf of the City of Charlevoix a conveyance of the described parcel to Robert and/or Helen E. Dyksterhouse.

Resolution adopted by the following Yea and Nay vote: YEAS: Aldermen Gill, Neff, Whitley, Terrill and Fochtman. NAYS: None. ABSENT: Alderman Hoffmann.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $18,839.90 find them correct and recommend they be allowed. Moved by Alderman Fochtman and supported by Alderman Gill that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. Motion adopted by the following Yea and Nay vote: YEAS: Aldermen Terrill, Whitley, Fochtman, Gill and Neff. NAYS: None. ABSENT: Alderman Hoffmann.

On motion, the Council adjourned.

A WORD TO THE WISE FROM MISTER OH

YOU SAVE WITH STABLE OIL PRICES

The economy record of oil is amazing. Right today, when other automatic fuels and everything else costs more, fuel oil prices are lower than in 1956! And they're likely to stay down for three good reasons: world supplies and reserves keep growing; refiners and your local fuel oil dealers compete for business; and as more gasoline is used more fuel oil is produced. Everything works to keep saving you money when you choose modern oil heat.

Have you noticed how many couples seem to enjoy walking hand-in-hand on Bridge Street evenings? They are simply-faced school kids, either. Chances are she has some gray in her hair, and what's left of his is tinged with silver. This hand-in-hand business is something you don't see very often in other cities. Makes you think maybe they're having a very good time in Charlevoix.

The Japanese are great ones for strolling up and down their beloved Ginza Street in Tokyo. In fact, they even have a word for walking on the Ginza. "Ginza-aru", they call it. Maybe we should have a word for walking on Bridge Street. "Bridgism" might do the trick. Or even "brambling."

AS OF Aug. 1, the Clocks are bonafide residents of E. Dixon Street. The move came in two separate episodes, both faintly reminiscent of "Grapes of Wrath." Friday night our local holly mover arrived with his Ford pickup truck, equipped with side stakes, a cab carrier and 12-foot trailer.

The caravan was six hours late. It seems one of the tires caught fire and the trailer almost lost a wheel when the lug nuts fell off. Waiting up here in Charlevoix I knew one of this, and could only picture our furniture reduced to kindling in one of those horrible freeway calamities you read about.

THEN, JUST before 9 o'clock, from the corner of Bridge and Clinton Streets, I saw what appeared to be a haywagon on the crest of South Hill. At closer range it turned out to be our furniture, the whole load hissing with dining room chairs and floor lamps.

You know, it is pretty awesome for a fellow to see everything he owns come barreling down Bridge Street on the back of a Ford truck.

THE REST of the weekend was spent saying goodbye to friends in Holly and pecking odds and ends (two carloads and another trailer full). Saturday night we went to Ann Arbor for a farewell prime rib dinner at the Old German, complete with Bavarian rye bread and dark beer. I didn't attend the University of Michigan and I've never lived in Ann Arbor, but Ann Arbor's the one town we're going to miss up here in northern Michigan. There's a flavor there, I feel, it's hard to explain. Just walking past the law quad can boost the average guy's IQ ten points. And an evening at Bob Marshall's bookstore is worth half a dozen college degrees.

The pups stood the trip north very well, thank you. No car sickness. No yelping for attention. Just dog-naps between rest stops, when they'd tumble out of the VW like an old-time circus act and do acrobatics for other travelers taking a roadbreak. They are now living in the tool shed, and mama has summer quarters on the back porch. It's now apparent she's ready to nip them goodbyes.

YOU CAN'T tell the tourists from the townspeople whenever a big lake freighter starts nosing down Pine River Channel. Seems everybody in town comes running when one of those hulking bullfrogs announces its arrival at Charlevoix.

Soup grows cold and ice cream melts at the Turkey Wing and Weatherlane when one of these goliaths of the lakes pays a call at supper-time, as the freighter Wyandotte did last Tuesday evening. Even the cooks step outside to watch -- both on land and aboard ship.

The interest and enthusiasm of Charlevoixians is matched only by that of the dockhands on the incoming boat. They all turn out to watch the girls waiting at the drawbridge.

It gives you sort of an odd feeling to watch several thousand tons of men, metal and machinery gliding down the narrow channel, almost close enough to touch. The only sound above the gentle thrum of the engines is an anguished rock 'n' roll chant coming from a tiny transistor radio credited the lap of a deckhand seated on a hatch cover.

On the faintest, a burly, bare-chested seaman eyes the crowd with amusement and curiosity. Through an open doorway people on shore can see his blue oil-stained shirt and pedicel, hanging on wall pegs, clothing curiously symbolic of life on the lakes.

A FEW PEOPLE on shore wave. Some exchange greetings with the men on deck. Effortlessly the boat slips between the unfinished arch of the drawbridge and into the broader waters of Round Lake. The bridge descends -- and life resumes on Bridge Street and on deck.

I wonder how many people watching from shore harbor secret longings for a life on the lakes. And what wouldn't one of those dockhands give for an evening in town, with all those pretty girls to look at...

WATCH FOR a baby-boom along about May Day, the consequence of a Selective Service order to local draft boards to take a long look at their childrens 18 to 26 year-old husbands. The object: Pre-induction physical examinations.

Sailor Advises Young Artists

George Korpenfelt, chief engineer aboard the Army dredge Hains, wishes his ship had had her rendezvous with Charlevoix a week later.

Korpenfelt also is an artist, and is sorry to miss the upcoming Waterfront Fair, Aug. 14.

Korpenfelt specializes in landscapes, seascapes, metaphysical paintings and portraits. Yet he admires all kinds of art, "so long as it comes from the heart."

AMONG abstract artists, the Army sailor prefers Jackson Pollock. He says Pollock's work has a depth of feeling often lacking in his imitators. "So many abstract painters just don't know how to paint any better," Korpenfelt claims. He says many of them never really master the fundamentals of their art.

"I would tell a young artist to learn the basics," Korpenfelt says. "I would tell him to paint an apple, or an orange or a bottle. I would tell him to paint a beautiful landscape. When he has mastered these, then he can turn to abstract art if he wishes."

KORPENFELT looks for experience and depth of feeling in an artist and his own life is perhaps typical of what he prefers.

He was born to Helsinki, Finland, in 1920. During the early days of World War II, Korpenfelt was an engineering student and elected to further his education in Japan. Finland was a neutral nation and still maintained amicable relations with Japan.

But as soon as Korpenfelt arrived in the Land of the Rising Sun he was clamped in jail on charges of being an American spy. He was released after about a year and went to work for the Swiss Embassy, as an agent in charge of American interests.

IT WASN'T until 1945 and the end of the war that the displaced Finn came in contact with his first bonafide Americans -- soldiers in General MacArthur's Army of Occupation. He worked for the Army as an interpreter, finally migrating to the United States.

Fourteen years ago he joined the Army Corps of Engineers and apparently intends to serve until retirement. "This is my country now," he says. "I took my two boys back to Europe last summer and showed them the things I consider best in European culture. But I wouldn't want to go back there to live. This is my country."

Korpenfelt works with oils,

Library Site

ARCHITECTS Begrow and Brown are to be congratulated for coming up with the attractive design for a new city library which appeared on Page 1 of last week's Courier.

Perhaps the highest compliment we heard was, "Why, it doesn't look at all like a library!" Several persons shown the design before publication took it to be a motel, cocktail lounge or fancy restaurant.

Of course, the people who said the proposed design "doesn't look at all like a library" simply meant that the Begrow and Brown building doesn't have the formal lines of a Greek temple. There is nothing formidable about the B & B building. It is warm and friendly looking, a place you might like to visit.

The Library Board and the Board of Education also should be given credit for coming up with a scheme whereby the city could acquire such an attractive building for next to nothing. When all gifts and grants are taken into account, the Board of Education has only $12,380 to raise before December.

The Federal government, of course would pay half the estimated $116,640 cost under its aid to libraries program. We don't ordinarily endorse willy-nilly spending programs by the federal government, but so long as the money already has been earmarked for library construction, Charlevoix might as well take advantage of it.

What does bother us about the proposed library is the site -- a beautiful location on the Pine River Channel at the end of State Street. It's a fine place, really, to put any kind of building, from a private home to a 20-story resort hotel.

Our objection to using the site for the library concerns not the present, or even the next decade. What we would like to know is what lies ahead for Pine River Channel. Will it remain largely residential, or, with the passing of time, will this become the heart of our business community, a busy waterfront area lined with resort hotels, motels, restaurants and shops.

Such a movement has already started with construction of the Weathervane and the Weathervane Terrace.

If the Channel area does develop along these lines, how will Charlevoix like having a large chunk of valuable tax property occupied by a city library?

Aside from aesthetics, there is no practical reason for locating a library on the Channel.

In fact, the site itself is almost detrimental to the serious perusal of books. Aside from the obvious distraction of the Channel and Lake Michigan, there is the continual plying back and forth of pleasure and commercial craft -- the hooting of whistles and clanging of bells, the awesome sight of the drawbridge opening and closing, to say nothing of the almost continual moan of the foghorn a good portion of the year.

It seems doubtful much serious study -- or even pleasure reading -- could be accomplished under such conditions. There are countless other sites in the city without such serious drawbacks.

Before steps are taken to acquire the site on Pine River Channel, we believe the Library Board, the Board of Education and the architects should sit down with city planners and decide if Pine River Channel is really the best place for a city library.

City Has a Pollution Law

After sparring with the problem of pollution of Round Lake both editorially and on the news pages for the past few weeks, it was encouraging to learn that Charlevoix has a weapon on hand which could deliver a knockout punch to the culprit -- if city fathers choose to use it.

We refer, of course, to the dusty city ordinance which former editor Glen Shepard unearthed in Detroit en route to his new job in Washington, D. C.

The current issue of the U. S. Lakes Survey, "Great Lakes Pilot," published by the Corps of Engineers, carried an ordinance by the city of Charlevoix, adopted May 9, 1938, regulating boating generally in Round Lake. In section 2, paragraph b, the ordinance reads:

"... It shall be unlawful... for any person to deposit or discharge or cause to be deposited or discharged in the waters of Charlevoix Harbor, or in any waters within the corporate limits of the city of Charlevoix, any rubbish, garbage, refuse, offal, sewerage, oil, or any other foreign material or substance upon any municipal pier or bathing pier therein, except as the same is deposited in a receptacle therefor provided by the city or its harbor master."

There it is in a nutshell. Virtually every vessel anchored in Round Lake, including the Sundew, is in violation of this 27-year-old ordinance.

The hitch, of course, is all those "receptacles" which are supposed to be provided by the city or harbor master. We haven't seen any. And how is the waste material to be transferred to the aforementioned receptacles? The 1938 ordinance makes this sound as easy as emptying the chamber pot in the outhouse.

Vastly complicating the problem today is the increased number of sailors on Round Lake, with many yachts accommodating six or more persons.

At best, the 1938 ordinance is a start. It is hard to believe that the residents of Charlevoix in 1965 are any less anxious to keep a clean harbor than those in 1938.

What Charlevoix needs is a city ordinance patterned after the Wisconsin state law which has been in effect on all the inland waters of the state since April 1 of this year. The law makes it illegal to discharge human waste from any boat operating on inland waters. If the boat has a head, it must be equipped with a pulverizing unit and a holding tank, with all waste material retained for disposal at sewerage pumping facilities on shore.

If the head is not equipped to pulverize and hold waste, wardens are authorized to "seal" it while the boat is operating in inland waters.

Harold D. Hettrick, Acting Assistant Chief Warden for Wisconsin, reports the law is proving highly effective. We think Charlevoix might give it a try and perhaps pave the way for similar state wide controls in Michigan.

The important thing is to act now. We know we have a problem. We have an anti-pollution ordinance already on the books as a starter. The interest of boaters and townspeople alike has been aroused. What better time for the City Council to act?

Congratulations, Mrs. Potter

The Charlevoix Courier extends warmest congratulations to Mrs. Anah Potter who has been named county treasurer, effective Sept. 1.

Mrs. Potter's appointment will continue through Dec. 31, 1968, although she may run for the office of treasurer in the general election in November of that year.

The new treasurer will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Miss Lillis M. Flanders, who also was appointed to the job to fill the unexpired portion of her father's term in 1934.

Miss Flanders has been elected to the office ever since, and was one of the first county officers elected under the four-year-term provision of the new Michigan Constitution last fall.

Mrs. Potter has worked eight years at the Charlevoix State Bank as a teller, five years as bookkeeper for the County Department of Social Welfare and one year as deputy county treasurer, bringing a wealth of experience to this important county position.

We wish her as successful a career in the County Building as her predecessor has enjoyed.

odds ends

How many of you caught the mention of Charlevoix in a recent story in Life magazine about the late Adlai Stevenson? Several saw it and called me about it but I had already seen it. . . Seems he came here, even as a child. . . And since his death I have found that his beloved sister who was always so close to him, Mrs. Ernest Ives, is still a summer resident on the Chicago Club.

Have you noticed the water level? I'm no authority on it but it seems to me it's on its way up. . . I should hope so for the low water certainly created a lot of headaches, especially last year. . . Is it my imagination or are there more big freighters going through Pine River enroute to off-loading areas along Lake Charlevoix? It doesn't seem as though they're having the trouble getting through the channel that they've experienced in the past. . .

Happened to meet Mrs. Charles Bleha on the street the other day and found her floating on Cloud Nine. . . Seems their son, Tom, who's been serving as Vice Consul at Sapporo, Japan, for the past two years is enroute to Charlevoix for a visit. . . Of course, the family's all excited about this. . . and they're equally as thrilled about his Marco Polo - In-reverse trip home. . . with stopovers in India, Egypt, Greece, Italy, Germany (where he'll visit a family he knew when he served there with the U.S. Army), Paris and London. . . In most of these places he'll spend time with old friends he's met here and there in his service with the U.S. State Department and in college. . . It will be great to see him for Tom's always so full of good stories about his experiences. . . and he loves to share them. . .

Speaking of sharing experiences, this reminds me of another Charlevoixian who stopped by the other day. . . Dr. Jim Roberts, dean of a small college in Clarksburg, Ark. . . Seems it's one of those small church colleges that struggles along on just a shoestring doing all sorts of fine things like getting kids who couldn't otherwise afford it an education. . . It's one of those colleges that has been integrated for some time and has suffered none of the usual experiences that some of the larger schools seem to have. . .

But it's a struggle to keep it going and the fact that they do get by is due mainly to the efforts of dedicated people like Jim who give so generously of themselves and their talents. . . It's an inspiring thing to hear him tell about the kids in the school who must work so hard and make such sacrifices to gain their goals. . . It makes you feel lucky to know such dedicated people. . .

And his stories about the political activities of the state. . . that's Fabius country, you'll remember. . . are something else. . . In fact, they make the tale Huey Long seem like a piker. . . It's hard to believe such things happen but they do. . .

How far back does your memory go? Can you remember when North Point was just a geographic location? I had occasion to spend some time out there the other day and was amazed at the building that's going on. . . There's a regular colony, and it's getting bigger all the time. . . And I can't blame anyone for wanting to live out there. . . That lake is so beautiful and the view across to the point near Big Rock and across Little Traverse Bay to the point that extends out past the little church at Good Hart is something to behold. . . Add to that the lake with its changing moods and you turn a little green with envy. . .

And those sunsets and afterglows we've been having over the lake recently. . . O-o-o-o-h-h-h-h. . . they've been beyond description. . . Maybe I'm a little simple. . . but these simple things of beauty I love with a passion. . .

Speaking of simple things. . . don't forget the Waterfront Fair this weekend. . . Now there's something else I love. . . I have no talents when it comes to the arts. . . but I certainly like to see them. . . And the Waterfront Fair is where you can see them. . .

One of the nice things about the Fair is the fact that you can amble through to your heart's content, taking all day if you like. . . When you consider that many of these people do things with their hands just for the joy of doing something creative, it's amazing. . . Though their works have reached a certain level where they can exhibit them, they weren't always this good. . . So if you've been looking for something to do, look about you and find something you think you'd like and then go about the business of learning how to do it. . . You'll be surprised what contentment and feeling of accomplishment you'll have. . .

One little sidelight on the Fair. . . Many of you who've been visiting the Fair since its inception are familiar with the works of Sally Franz. . . She's the one who does those colorful primitives. . .

Dredge Hains Downed Jap Planes in Pacific

DREDGE HAINS navigates the Pine River Channel, leaving it deeper with each swipe at its sandy bottom.

Watching the dredge Hains working her way up the narrow Pine River Channel or doing a pirouette in the calm waters of Round Lake, it's difficult to imagine that life hasn't always been this peaceful for the trim Army Corps of Engineers craft.

Built in 1942, the dredge operated briefly out of Philadelphia before being commissioned for overseas duty.

The ship was equipped with three-inch guns and sent to the South Pacific to dredge coral reefs and deepen harbor entrances for U. S. fighting ships.

THE HAINS itself tangled more than once with the enemy, and has at least two Japanese aircraft to her credit, thanks to anti-aircraft and naval gunners stationed aboard. Before war's end, she had seen service at Pearl Harbor, Eniwetok Atoll, Guam and Leyte.

Often she was involved in dredging operations complicated by heavy ground swells, shallow reefs, sunken ships loaded with explosives, tangled cables, and floating mines, not to mention frequent harassment by enemy aircraft.

Once, an enemy dive bomber narrowly missed the Hains with a bomb, damaging the ship and inflicting casualties to several crew members.

Today the Hains, under the command of Capt. Howard Reynolds, is assigned to the U. S. Army Engineer District at Detroit, with a winter berth at Grand Haven.

From March through December, the Hains plies the shipping channels of the Great Lakes from Toledo, Ohio, to the far reaches of Lake Superior removing sandbars which the ebb and flow of water deposit at harbor entrances.

THE SAND is removed by suction through two 18-inch pipes flanking the ship. Bottom muck is pumped into two 865-cubic-foot holding tanks in the center of the ship.

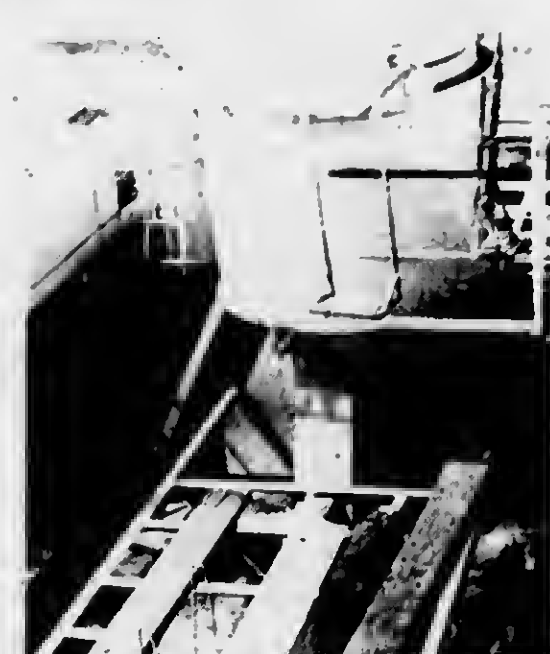

When the tanks are filled, the Hains moves into water at least 50-feet deep where four bottom ports are opened automatically and the sand released.

The 215-foot Hains can dredge to a depth of 35 feet, although the maximum depth reached at Charlevoix is 20 feet just outside the harbor entrance. The channel is dredged to 18 feet.

An unusual feature of the Hains is the use of radio - active cesium 137 to determine the volume and density of material being dredged.

Cesium packs are located in each suction pipe, and data is relayed to a control panel in the pilot-house.

After a week in Charlevoix, the Hains and her crew of 48 officers and men left Monday for dredging operations at Cheboygan.

HUGE holding tanks receive sand from bottom of Pine River Channel. Dredged material is later dumped in deep water.

DECEMBER often finds the Hains sheathed in ice.

Know Your Newspaper Better

You'd Be Surprised!

Yes, you'd be surprised if you knew how many persons have been taking The Courier for how many years. "I've been reading The Courier for 15 years," says one person. "I've taken The Courier for 30 years," says another. And we can probably find you others who have been subscribing to this newspaper for longer than that.

Why? Because They Want the Local News

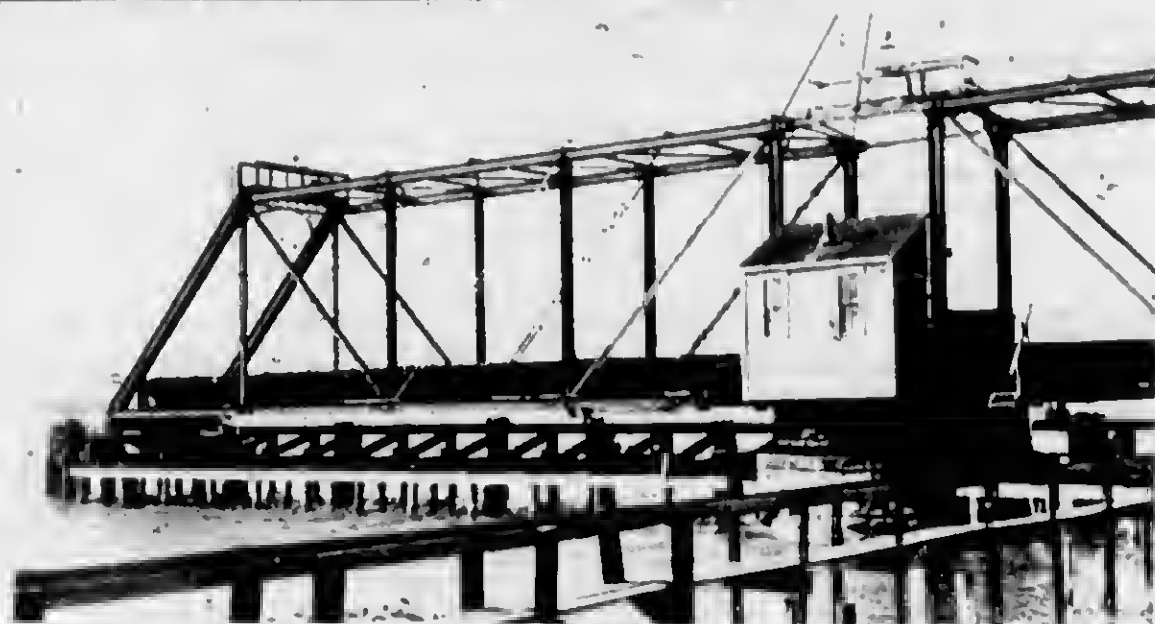

And this newspaper is the newspaper that does the best job of giving you the local news. The big city dailies that come into this community carry a little news about what happens here. . . but The Courier is devoted entirely to what happens in this area. No big city paper can give you the detail of the local news that our newspaper does.

Your Home Newspaper Is Important

It's the only paper that keeps you fully informed of what's going on in this area -- no other newspaper can do the job adequately. This local news coverage is why our subscribers stay with us for a long, long time. . . often a lifetime!

VISITORS to the fair are reminded to pick up their programs at the main entrance in order to better enjoy the exhibits. The location of every entrant, along with his name and art or craft is listed on this attractive program whose front cover bears a sketch of the Fair by a visiting artist, Kat Lindeman of Berlin, Germany.

Visitors are also urged to visit the Detroit Institute of Art's ARTmobile which will be at the fair for the second year, this year exhibiting "Three Centuries of French Art." Visitors will find among the art exhibited the originals of many works they have known most of their lives.

To add to the Fair, a piece of bronze sculpture entitled "Artist and Model" by the renowned modern-day Italian artist, Manzù, will be loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cummings.

As in the past, the fair will open at 10 a.m. and continue until 7:30 p.m. In the event of inclement weather, the event will be held at the new Charlevoix High School at Garfield and May streets.

Mrs. Holse once served as deputy city treasurer for Charlevoix.

A WIDOW, Mrs. Holse has one son, Don, 23.

She enjoys golfing, but admits that a new set of clubs purchased this summer have been out on the greens only once.

Mrs. Martin also is a native of Charlevoix, although she graduated from Ellsworth High School.

The mother of a five-month-old son, Michael, Mrs. Martin enjoys roller skating and horseback riding, neither of which she has time for either.

Medusa

Plans for the new cement plant should be completed by mid-September and construction contracts will be awarded in January, with work scheduled to begin as early as possible in 1966.

Medusa plans to have the plant in operation by July 4, 1967.

At present, the Paul Lambert Excavating Co. is clearing land for the plant.

Medusa owns more than 900 acres of land along the Lake Michigan shore from Boulder Park on the east to Bells Bay on the south.

Law

is then disposed of at shore-side pumping and treatment facilities.

BOATS WHICH do not have such facilities may be boarded and the heads "sealed" or "otherwise rendered inoperative" so that no human wastes can be discharged into inland waters.

Hettrick says the law is basically sound from a health standpoint and should be beneficial to Wisconsin in maintaining an abundance of clean water "required by recreational boaters and others seeking recreation in our state."

"This law is a sleep in maintaining this valuable resource," he adds.

HETTRICK says the main opposition to the law has come from the Lake Winnebago area, where there is a lack of facilities for pumping out tanks.

"However, the Wisconsin attorney general has advised that the law must be enforced in these areas within the jurisdiction of this state, Hettrick writes.

He says that a number of boaters on the St. Croix river intended to violate the law Aug. 3, in order to initiate a test.

case in the courts challenging its constitutionality.

Hettrick reports there has been some static from Minnesota boaters who travel in Wisconsin waters, but the Wisconsin attorney general has ruled that they also must comply with the law.

HE SAYS wardens have boarded boats on waters which have been under the law since 1959 and have found it being complied with.

"The major enforcement problem we have found is to properly inform the public of the law and the means to comply with it," Hettrick writes.

"This has been done by news releases and posters placed at marinas and public access areas as well as individual contacts at harbors where the largest number of potential offenders would be.

"A recreational boater has need for clean water to enjoy his sport. I feel this is a good law and puts the boaters in a good position so they in turn can seek to curb other water polluters."

Hettrick says the law also provides for incinerator-type toilets, provided the ashes are retained for disposal on shore.

Fair Sets Aside Area for Teens

The teen set will have its own special area at the Michigan State Fair this year.

Avenue A-Go-Go will be a 75,000-square-foot area featuring entertainment, fashion, sports, and career information beamed especially at today's youth.

The State Fair opens Friday evening, Aug. 27, and runs through Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 6.

ON THE A-Go-Go stage daily will be teen fashion shows, modern bands, folk-singing groups, teen band competition for honors, karat demonstrations, special acts, and career talks.

Exhibits in the area will feature fashions, sports cars, hot-rod shops, sporting goods displays, and others.

CONTESTS for pre-teen-agers this year include an old-fashioned dress competition among girls entered in the pony tail contest and a hot-dog eating contest.

The contest schedule: Saturday, Aug. 28 -- Pony tail and old-fashioned dress; Sunday -- Bubble gum blowing; Monday -- Hot dog eating; Tuesday -- Watermelon eating; Wednesday -- Cow milking; Thursday -- Shiny pole; Friday -- Blueberry pie eating; Saturday -- Sack race; Sunday -- Balloon blowing; Monday -- Egg toss.

BESIDES the contests, there'll be plenty for youngsters to do at the State Fair. The TV Fun Circus, for example, will feature children's television show personalities as emcees and performers. Afternoon and evening shows will be staged.

Sailors Love Charlevoix

THE SPARKLING waters of Round Lake extend a welcome to yachters from all the Great Lakes. Thirty-four berths are available, with rates ranging from $2 to $3.50 per day, depending on the length of the craft. The dock area is just across East Park from the main shopping section of Charlevoix, a convenience most yachters appreciate.

The Sundew In Pine River Channel

The Charlevoix Coast Guard Station

Always On Guard

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix--the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Millard, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions. Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating, and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and

Walloon Lake. Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix is Ye Olde Nynne Hall, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

Editorial:

Girlwatching

IF EVER WE HAVE the time, and are still young enough in spirit, we're going to set aside a whole week in July for nothing but Girl Watching in Charlevoix.

Really quite an innocent, discriminating and sophisticated sport, Girl Watching reaches its international summit in Charlevoix during July and August. Though we get but a sampling of the exceptional material available through the windows at the Courier, it is enough to convince us we can make the previous statement with no reservations.

(INCIDENTALLY, WOULD someone please tell us where the girls walking down Clinton St. in their wonderfully sparse bathing suits are going?)

Certainly, it seems to us, this activity needs more recognition and attention from the Chamber of Commerce's brochures. Publicizing it as one of our outstanding attractions is bound to attract even more girls to our beaches.

Just imagine the rush of young things to get to Charlevoix if they read in brochures and advertisements that this is the "Girl Watching Capital of the Nation." They wouldn't dare do their sunbathing anywhere else.

Here's Where & How to Fish

If there is a better cure than fishing for that hauntingly tense feeling that the mob is stalking you with its big city noises and impallence it must be fishing in the Charlevoix area.

Oh sure, there are places in North America with better fishing. But darn few. Some of the country's most incurable anglers rate Lake Charlevoix and the Beaver Island area among the finest small-mouth bass fishing grounds in the U.S.

YET THERE IS MORE than the promise that fish are available for the catching to recommend Charlevoix as a choice fishing area. You mustn't overlook the unsurpassed drama of our clean water, cool air, big hardwood and birch trees and quiet mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But where to go and how to do it? If you're after smallmouth bass or perch try Lake Charlevoix. The South Arm is generally good.

Your best choice of lures for Lake Charlevoix bass will be Jig-A-Do streamers in brown, white and yellow colors. Others this column can vouch for are small (quarter-ounce) dardevils in red-and-white and pearl colors, Jig-A-Do crawlers, number-two size spinners, Super Dupers, Flatfish and Heddon's Cobra. (Worms are also reputed to catch fish.) You can buy any, or all, of these lures at Staley's Hardware and other local stores.

BIG BASS SUCH as those on this stringer come from Lake Charlevoix.

FOR SPECIFIC TIPS on where the current Lake Charlevoix hotspots are ask Clare

Staley at his hardware, Irv Drost at Irv's Cocktail Lounge, Bernie Ward at Ward's Boat Livery, or Mearle Scott in Ironton.

You can fish Lake Charlevoix from a boat or with waders. There are many areas of the South Arm that can be waded. Sometimes they produce nice bass during mid-day, but evening or morning is usually best. If you're fishing from a boat try casting or trolling right off the edge of bullrushes or boulder-strewn areas.

Throw your lure into likely looking areas. When it hits the water let it sink and remain still for a few seconds; you will often get a strike the minute you finally move it. If there is no strike retrieve it a few feet and then let it sink and rest again before moving it.

If you want to do some exploring try the nearby shoreline of Lake Michigan. Once again, you can wade or use a boat. The same lures and techniques as used on Lake Charlevoix will stand you in good stead.

IF SMALLER lakes are your forte look at a map and pick one of the many directly south of town in Charlevoix County or Antrim County. Though few of them have public access sites, you can usually talk a property owner into letting you trespass... He may even have boats to rent.

You will probably be amazed to find you have to share these lightly fished lakes with only one or two other boats; and sometimes you'll be all alone.

Here's a list of ten smaller lakes worth trying.
--Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass and panfish.
--Nowland Lake, for pike, bass and panfish.
--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and musky.
--Susan Lake, for small pike.
--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.
--Walloon Lake, for trout, pike, bass, panfish.
--West Twin Lake for bass and pike.
--St. Clair Lake (in Ellsworth), for bass, panfish and even an occasional trout.
--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, pike, and maybe a musky.
--Toad Lake (south of Ellsworth) for pike, bass and panfish.

ALL OF THESE lakes have the fish in them that are mentioned... that's guaranteed by this writer. Catching them is up to you. Try using the same lures recommended for Lake Charlevoix. Arrogant's new weedless Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers and Hawaiian Wig-glers are also productive numbers.

You can find your way to these lakes by asking for maps of Charlevoix and Antrim County, which are available at most motels, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Courier.

If you taste runs more to stream fishing for trout, try the Jordan River south of East Jordan, or the Maple River near Pellston. The Bear River between Walloon Lake and Petoskey also has trout, but is hard to fish. The same holds true with the Boyne River. There are also any number of small, bushy streams with good populations of trout (and usually mosquitoes).

They Prefer Summer With a Deck Underfoot

VIRTUALLY every slip in the harbor was filled with yachts well in advance of the Venetian Festival weekend.

the encountered bad weather, hit a log and had to be towed into port for repairs.

Normally, Bommersheim makes the trip in three days at a leisurely pace, but this time it took eight.

Bommersheim, who works for an electroplating company in Kalamazoo, was accompanied by his wife, Marion, who says she "loves to visit Charlevoix." This is the family's fifth season as sailors.

While here, the Bommersheims took side trips to Boyne City and enjoyed swimming at Horton Bay.

Skipper of a 40-foot Chris Craft docked at Charlevoix last week was Keith Danhauser of East Detroit.

Danhauser's boat, the Rhea Ann V, is named for his wife and is the fifth Chris Craft the family has owned. The yacht has spacious living and dining quarters, two double cabins, two baths, and will sleep up to eight, using fold-away foam sofa beds in the living area.

The family, including daughters Karen, 16, and Diane, 14, had been in port ten days and intended to stay through the Venetian Festival. "This is one of the nicest harbors I've ever been in, and I've been all the Great Lakes harbors," Danhauser said. "Our girls particularly like all the shore activities taking place in Charlevoix."

Danhauser, who is in the insurance and finance business in Detroit, said it is unusual to find such a well-stocked business district so handy to the boat dock.

The Danhausers' home dockage is at the Jefferson Beach Marina in St. Clair Shores. He said they made the trip up in easy stages, taking part in a yacht club rendezvous at Sanilac and making stops at Presque Isle and Mackinac Island before coming to Charlevoix.

Like other boaters, the Danhausers expressed concern over the possibility of pollution in Round Lake and hoped that something will be done to correct the problem.

As skiers, the Danhausers are familiar with the Charlevoix area, having spent many ski holidays at nearby resorts. After their first summer visit, however, they are considering making Charlevoix their year-round vacation headquarters.

James and Dorothy Duggan of Dearborn docked in Charlevoix late Tuesday night, and were anxious to get out and have a look at the city when the Courier reporter paid a call.

The Duggans keep their 30-foot craft at Memorial Park Marina in Detroit and reached Charlevoix by a circuitous route which took them through the north channel of Georgian Bay. They made stops at Port Huron, Mich., Kincardine, Tobemory, Kilarney, and Little Current, Ont. At Mackinaw City they bid goodbye to their 20-year-old son, Mike, who had to return to Dearborn to report to his draft board. Still on board was son Richard, 17, who will be leaving shortly to return to his job as a guide at Greenfield Village.

The Duggans had a couple of unusual travelers along for the ride---a dog named Sam and a cat named Horace. Both animals are excellent travelers, the Duggans report. Duggan is employed by the Kelsey Hayes Co. of Romulus, Mich.

BUSINESS trips back to Lansing have interfered with the Warren Pruims' vacation in Charlevoix this summer. With them is son Chip, 17.

MR. AND MRS. Keith Danhauser and daughters Diane (left) and Karen of East Detroit fell in love with Charlevoix harbor.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the campground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets. Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the world is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay. For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of

Nature and the conveniences of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake. Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

WHEN THIS bell at the Tronton School first called citizens to meetings in the Township Hall James K. Polk was President of the United States and American soldiers were fighting in Mexico. That was in 1848. The bell has been serving Tronton ever since. In 1883 it was moved from the Tronton Iron Works to the then new school. When the present school was constructed in 1963 the community could not part with its bell. It still calls the kids in from recess and lunch.

Greensky Church Part of State's Indian History

GREENSKY HILL MISSION
Here in the 1840's the Chippewa Indian missionary, Peter Greensky, established a Protestant mission in an area where legend says Indian chiefs once held their councils. New trees have been planted in an arrangement similar to that of the trees that made up the original council circle. Mission services first were held in a rude building of boughs and bark. In the 1850's the Indians built the present church. It is a fine example of the old log style construction with hand-hewn timbers and notched corners. Windows, doors and much of the lumber were brought by canoe from Traverse City to Lake Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) and then carried two miles to this site. Methodist services for the Indian congregation have been held here regularly to the present.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable log boats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailblazers and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist

Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

LT. COMDR. Dale Foster is one of the many Coast Guard officers and men stationed in the area whose job it is to provide for the safety of commercial and pleasure craft plying northern Michigan waters. Foster is skipper of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew.

Water Safety Is Aim Of U.S. Coast Guard

Three Coast Guard units are stationed to Charlevoix. Their primary function is the safety of all those who travel the waters of northern Michigan. In addition to the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew whose home port is Charlevoix Harbor, the city also hosts to the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and the group headquarters for all Coast Guard operations in northern Michigan.

Commanding officer of the Sundew is Lt. Comdr. Dale Foster who assumed command of the ship in July. Group commander is Lt. Charles Millard, while the station is under the command of Harland Speer, En. C. Speer has filled his post only since Aug. 6.

The Coast Guard celebrated its 175th anniversary Aug. 4, making it one of the oldest U.S. military services.

Recently, Coast Guard fleet units were assigned to the troubled waters off Vietnam. The Guard was sent because of its long experience in search and rescue, law enforcement and boarding operations.

Adm. E. J. Roland, Commandant of the Coast Guard predicts the decade ahead will be one of the busiest and most exciting in the Coast Guard's history. As always, he said, the Coast Guard will dedicate all of its resources towards providing the American people with the most effective maritime safety service in the world.

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone-- the PETOSKEY STONE -- is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found no where else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Poison Ivy: Vacation Villain

Poison ivy, which is common in some of the wilderness areas around Charlevoix, can cause suffering in sensitive individuals, leading to expensive medical bills and sometimes a ruined vacation. Learn to recognize it. Then avoid it. The leaves of the plant are smooth, glossy and firm and the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. They grow in threes and are borne alternately on the stem. In early summer, whitish dull flowers grow from the axils of the leaves and are succeeded by round, dull white fruits the size of a field pea.

THE OFFENDING substance is an oil which is present throughout the entire plant and which, upon contact with the skin of a sensitive person, creates a toxic action. Even the handling of animals and auto mobile tires which have come in contact with the plant will transmit the oil to the handler.

The oil will stick for an indefinite period to clothing, boots and tools and from these it is easily transmitted to hands, face and any exposed part of the body. If you have been contaminated with the oil, act at once. In the susceptible individual, the irritant already will have begun to cause a sensitivity reaction.

WASH THE contaminated parts of the body with thorough latherings of soap and repeated rinsings with water. Yellow laundry soap is preferable to toilet soap. After thorough washing, a neutral talc, or corn starch may be applied.

Contaminated clothing should be washed thoroughly and repeatedly with soap and water. If the clothing has to be dry-cleaned and you are sending it out, wrap it carefully and label it "contaminated with poison ivy." Thoroughly cleanse contaminated tools and equipment with a safety solvent.

Should a rash develop after precautionary soap and water measures have been taken, and medical aid is not immediately available, apply a thick paste of soap; let it dry and leave on overnight; or use a calamine solution or other approved medication. Protect the inflamed skin from further irritants. Cool compresses of ice water or applications of corn starch will help relieve inflammation.

POISON IVY? Sometimes it's hard to tell. Vacationers are cautioned to look for a plant with smooth, firm, glossy leaves, with the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. Leaves grow in threes, and appear alternately on the stem. At this time of year, the plant may be identified by small white berries, the size of field peas.

TENNIS is one of the city-sponsored recreational activities available to residents and visitors alike in Charlevoix. Here, a tennis lesson is being given at one of the city courts.

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Don't Stow Tackle Yet, Anglers Told

The fisherman who puts his tackle away just because dog days have arrived may be missing some of the most exciting sport of the year. That's the message from Dick Kotis, fishing expert from Arbogast.

"The secret of success during dog days," Kotis reveals, "is to go out at night." This advice makes good sense. Many of America's best game fish - largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleyes, brown trout, channel catfish - tend to be nocturnal anyway. And through the heat of the summer, they do nearly all of their feeding after dark and after too many fishermen have gone home.

BUT HOW do you fish after dark? "For bass," replies Kotis, "use surface plugs in the same places you are likely to find bass early in the season."

Cast your topwater lures along shallow shorelines or beside weedbeds. And never neglect to toss your topwater lure around boat docks, piers and pilings. During the hours of darkness this is like playing with dynamite.

Fishing at night is also a pleasant way to "escape." Skiers and speedboaters have retreated to dry land and the waters belong exclusively to fishermen. An angler can relax and light up a pipe. Next thing he knows, aunker bass will be cavorting on the end of this line.

HUNDREDS of swimmers flocked to the Lake Michigan Beach August 5 when the temperature climbed into the 80's in Charlevoix. By the same token, downtown streets were virtually deserted as tourists and townspeople alike sought relief from the heat. Complementing the natural beauty of the Lake Michigan beach were quite a number of girls in bikinis.

Tips for Water Safety

Mid-summer is a good time to review safe swimming practices, particularly in an area like Charlevoix which abounds with excellent bathing facilities.

One of the cardinal rules of safe swimming is never to go into the water alone. Make sure you have a pal along to help--or run for help--if you need it.

Another old-time safety precaution which still makes sense is to wait an hour after eating before going into the water. Digesting a meal is strenuous activity, and the stomach demands and gets an increased blood supply after eating.

Exercising muscles also need more blood, and the swimmer who eats and then goes swimming is placing too great a burden on his circulatory system. Cramps are likely to result.

Another wise precaution is to swim only inside those areas marked off as a safe swimming area. This is the area that the guard on duty can effectively oversee. Don't complicate his job by swimming out-of-bounds.

Swimmers also should keep in mind that painful sunburn can result from over-exposure, particularly near water.

where bathers are exposed to the added reflection of the sun's rays. Many a promising vacation has been spoiled by a severe case of sunburn on the first day. Take the sun in easy stages, and you'll take home a suntan to be proud of.

Great fires from little embers grow; be careful with fire in the woods.

Carelessness by smokers triggered 268 fires and a loss of 7,561 acres in Michigan last year. Most of the damage--5,475 acres--centered in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Debris burning is the No. 1 cause of forest fires in Michigan. Last year, it erupted into 362 fires, about one-quarter of the state's total, to blacken 3,435 acres.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation. Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby is-

has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

HUGE WIPERASSES for drying and repairing fishing nets are a common sight near fishing docks in Charlevoix. One If by Land, Two If by Sea: But Some Come by Air VACATIONERS whose time is at a premium often arrive at Charlevoix city airport. Others simply prefer flying to land travel. These small craft can cut travel time from such metropolitan areas as Detroit and Chicago to less than half the time it would take to drive.

FOR YEARS, the old city airport (left above) has welcomed air travelers to Charlevoix. The new air port (right) is almost completed, however, and should be ready for business in the near future. The building will house air control facilities and a reception lounge.

Located just south of the city off U.S. 31, the Charlevoix Airport has five runways waiting to receive incoming planes.

The longest runway, a 3,500 foot east-west strip, is paved. It is paralleled by a 3,000 foot sod strip.

The airfield has three other sod runways to accommodate plans under all wind conditions.

A 2,900 - foot runway lies southwest and northeast; a 2,500-foot strip lies north and south; and a 2,400-foot strip lies northwest and southeast. The field can accommodate most medium size aircraft, as large as a DC-3 or a Gulfstream.

There are no accurate figures as to how many planes use the field in the course of a year. Some winter days, the field is practically deserted. Yet 30 or 40 planes may come in or out on a clear summer day.

Airport offices will move shortly to a new structure on the field with an Alpine motif.

City Track Meet Sets New Marks

The largest number of youngsters to ever enter the city track and field meet greeted Recreation Director Deano Davenport last week. Several records were set and many outstanding performances were evident.

Lieberman won four firsts, setting four records and anchored the winning relay team. In the junior boys Randy Gustafson and Denny Crain led the pack with outstanding performances.

Manistee Firm to Dredge Slip

Medusa Portland Cement Co. has awarded contracts for dredging a 425-foot slip at its South Point property to the Bultema Dock and Dredge Co. of Manistee, according to Worth Loomis, vice president in charge of administration.

Loomis says he expects dredging work will begin in about two weeks.

The company also has awarded a contract for construction of a single story, 18,800 - square - foot office building to the John W. Strahan Construction Co. of Riverdale, Mich. Loomis says the office building should be completed before Christmas.

will probably come to about $282,000, based on a cost of $15 per square foot.

Meanwhile, two lake vessels which will form the main section of the Medusa breakwater are presently being lowered to the Bultema dockyard at Manistee.

They are the Amasa Stone, being towed up from Toledo, and the Charles S. Hebard, coming from Duluth. The boats will be reconditioned at Manistee, towed to Charlevoix, filled with rocks and sunk outside the Medusa slip to act as a breakwater.

The contract letting came on the heels of the state Commission's unanimous approval last week of Medusa's revised slip and dock plan. The firm originally had planned to accommodate ships at a long, conveyor equipped dock stretching several hundred feet into Lake Michigan.

LAST WEEK the company announced it had changed its plans, pending state approval, because of pressure from local residents, a drop in dredging costs, and new data about the composition of the lake bottom in the area.

Loomis said the dredging operation will be unusual, with the Bultema's dipper dredge first creating its own small

City Baptists Plan Futuristic Church

The First Baptist Church of Charlevoix has plans for a futuristic $85,000 structure to be constructed on the new M-66 near the cemetery, according to the church pastor, Rev. Jack G. Harris.

Rev. Harris says the church already has raised more than $20,000 in its initial $27,000 building fund drive.

Dominate feature of the proposed structure will be a lens-shaped, conical shaped roof which fills like a huge cap over the sanctuary proper. The inverted funnel will be topped off by a huge cross.

HE SAYS the church has an option to buy six and one-half acres of land in the area owned by Vern Matthews.

No date has been set for completion of the structure. The plans, which were drawn up by architect Roger T. Stoppel of Okemos, allow for future expansion of facilities should the need arise.

The First Baptist Church is presently housed in a turn-of-the-century structure on State Street near Mason.

Grid Physicals Slated Monday

Charlevoix High School football coach Don Carey says that all boys interested in going out for football this year should report to the high school gymnasium at 8:30 a.m. Aug. 23 for their physical examinations.

Dr. A. F. Litzenburger of Boyne City will give the physicals.

Carey says this is the only time physicals are scheduled, and those who miss will have to schedule a medical check-up on their own.

If a boy passes the physical, he will be given a permission card to be signed by his parents. Practice for the fall season will start Aug. 30, Carey reports.

Results Of Poll Bared

Replies from more than 17,000 northern Michigan residents to questions on major issues of the current session of Congress have been released by Congressman Raymond F. Clevenger (D-11th District).

Clevenger said the replies may comprise the most comprehensive survey of its kind ever made to determine public interests and opinions in the 22-county Congressional District.

The questionnaires, asking for opinions on ten major issues, were mailed to 133,606 persons in the District. Replies came from more than 17,000, or almost 13% of those receiving the post-card questionnaire.

This, Clevenger pointed out, is a far higher percentage than national polls are based on in predicting the outcome of elections and measuring public opinion.

THE CONGRESSMAN said he was encouraged to find that 90% of those answering favor stronger Federal laws to prevent pollution of the north-land's air and water. This, he said, indicates the people of the District are aware that the area's natural beauty is one of its major economic and aesthetic assets and that it can be ruined if precautions are not taken now.

Of the more than 16,000 who answered the question asking if they favor elimination of the toll on the Mackinac Bridge, 77% favor making the bridge free and 19% are against removal of the $3.75 one-way fare. Others were undecided.

Robert Hoffman

New Attorney Bob Hoffman Opens Office

Meet Bob Hoffman, the newest attorney in town.

Hoffman, who hung up his shingle at 212 Bridge St., Aug. 9, is a native of Petoskey, but comes to Charlevoix by way of Detroit, Big Rapids and Reed City.

He was graduated by the Detroit College of Law in 1963 and is a member of the Michigan Bar Association and the American Bar Association.

After school, he went into the insurance business in Detroit, later starting a law practice in Big Rapids, with a branch office in Reed City, where he was school board attorney.

Hoffman says he is glad to be back up north. His family is living presently with his folks in Petoskey, but plans to move to Charlevoix in the near future.

He and his wife, Joan, have three children, Timothy, 4, Paul 2, and Lisa 1.

Circuit Docket Jammed

Judge Charles L. Brown handled a full docket of cases when the August term of the Charlevoix Circuit Court convened Aug. 16 at the courthouse.

Ralph Mitchell pleaded guilty to a third charge of being drunk and disorderly and was placed on a year's probation, the first six months to be served in the county jail, beginning March 29.

David Alan Sturgess and Edward Connor Jr. pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and were fined $75 plus costs.

Emmet Fair Runs August 23 to 29

A jam-packed schedule of events is planned for the Emmet County Fair at Petoskey which will run from Aug. 23 through 29.

The fair will be held at Emmet County fairground on Charlevoix-ave.

In addition to rides, contests, games of skill, and musical entertainment, the fair will feature speedy excitement in the form of Johnny King's Auto Death Dodge. The thrill show will appear Aug. 27 at 7 p.m., featuring all kinds of auto and motorcycle stunts.

One event is the roll-over of junker cars, in which each driver attempts to roll his car over the most times. Drivers wear safety belts, but otherwise the cars are stock models with no special bracing. They are purchased in each city where the show appears.

Often a cutting torch is needed to cut the drivers from the wreckage, according to the show's publicity men.

Taylor in Crash

City Superintendent James Taylor escaped serious injury Aug. 12 when the city car he was driving swerved into the left lane on Route 131 near Kalkaska and was struck by an oncoming car. Taylor was returning from a highway meeting at Cadillac.

Thousands Flock to Art Fair

Thousands of tourists and townspeople turned out Saturday for the day-long Waterfront Fair in East Park.

One hundred twenty-five exhibitors, some from as far away as Melbourne Beach, Fla., Gary, Ind., and Dekalb and Aurora, Ill., were on hand to display their wares and chat with prospective buyers.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the 7th annual Waterfront Fair was directed by Mrs. Jack Rader, chairman, and Mrs. Paul Olsen, co-chairman.

Mrs. Jean Anderson, Mrs. Eileen Edwards and Mrs. Edward McNamara served on a reception committee greeting visitors at the main entrance to the park.

THE WEATHER was perfect for the fair, with a hot sun and a cooling breeze. Sometimes the breeze toppled paintings, but most exhibitors had their displays pretty well anchored.

Art displays ranged from paintings in all media to ceramics, stoneware, wood carving and wrought metal sculpture.

Among the interesting local exhibitors was Mrs. Sall Frantz of Saginaw and the Belvedere Club. Mrs. Frantz set up shop under an awning on the band stand and brought a hard-cooked egg, a jar of milk and sackful of chocolate chip cookies to fortify herself anything turned out by the Flemish painter Hieronymus Bosch in his heyday.

"Down in Ann Arbor they call my stuff 'whimsical primitives,'" Mrs. Frantz said, "but I'm not sure what that means, I just paint what I like, and I'm too Scotch to waste any canvas on vacant space."

MRS. FRANTZ' work does

THOUSANDS OF visitors and townspeople jammed East Park Saturday for the Seventh Annual Waterfront Fair.

have a whimsical, "sampler" quality about it and it does sell at good prices.

She also had on display two paintings by her daughter, Mrs. Joan Meyer of Rochester, N.Y., and two by her sister, Mrs. Dean Acheson.

Another interesting contributor was Norman Brumm, 26, of Norwood who will be entering the Peace Corps in October.

Brumm maintains a studio on the Lake Michigan shore, and seems to have a penchant for painting birdlife and other flora and fauna he can see through his windows.

He graduated from Michigan State University with a master's degree in art in 1962, and had planned to spend next winter in Mexico, living off the proceeds of his art sales. But his paintings haven't been moving too fast, and Brumm is going into the Peace Corps instead.

"I hope to go to South America, preferably Bolivia or Ecuador," he said.

Lost Teachers Sought Shelter On Hog Island

Four men from the Central Michigan Summer School on Beaver Island spent the night of Aug. 11 on desolate Hog Island in Lake Michigan after their 16-foot outboard could no longer cope with rough weather.

The four were identified as Kenneth Kreike, 36, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, owner of the boat; Earl Freedman, 34, of Pontiac, Gary Mayala, 25, of Cable, Wisc., and John Zittich, 21, of Flint.

The teacher - students left Beaver Island Aug. 11 on a fishing expedition. When they did not return by nightfall, school officials became anxious.

A search was launched Aug. 12 by Coast Guard planes and boats. The men were located stranded on the northeast side of Hog Island by a cruiser, the Chippewa, sent to join the search by the school.

The men said they had grounded their craft on purpose when heavy weather set in.

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The eighth and final week of camp started off with so much activity that everyone was in a whirl and things were really booming. After Sunday's final Green-Grey Competition with the Greys winning by one point, everyone was talking about the Green-Grey banquet that was to be held on Tuesday night. Rodney Deyo, our Indian Dance Coach, was here from Detroit, and along with his wife, Mary, started to drill the boys in their steps and making arrangements for the final Indian Ceremony on Friday night. Regular activities were held and boys were busy passing stars of accomplishment in the various activities. Tuesday morning the losing Greens were busy decorating the club house for the banquet that night, and under the guidance of "Helen" Thompson and John Richardson the boys were busy gathering ferns and planning speeches. The riders were busy rehearsing for the Rodeo on Friday and the entire camp was a bee-hive of activity. The GREEN-GREY banquet was a great success with the Captains in each section giving fine talks. They all expressed their pleasure at the sportsmanship of the opposition and of the cooperation of their THANKS: The Green Speakers were: Van Martin, Skip Sales, Ken Mabbatt, and Jack Borden. The winning Grey Captains were: Bobby Moore, Chuck Gardella, David Washburn and Jim Kuehn. Jim Kuehn as Senior Captain was presented with the Mugwump by Bill Townsend, and Jim immediately switched plans and presented the Mugwump to the losing Senior Captain, Jack Borden who was both surprised and mighty pleased. The carving of the word "GREYS-65" on the wall (done by Jim Kuehn). The clubhouse never looked better, and the boys deserve a lot of credit for a job well done.

WEDNESDAY WAS a regular day at camp with the horsemen having a final run-through of the rodeo program and regular activities going full blast as it was the final day for stars for certificates which are given each boy at the close of camp. The Camp Charlevoix Certificate of Achievement is given each boy and has typed on it the stars for accomplishments he has made in each activity. Enrollments came in today for several boys and as of Wednesday night 42 boys are enrolled for 1966, and boys are striving to be among the first fifty enrolled to get the Mackinac Island trip. Wednesday evening, the cabins winning cabin inspection were taken into town to see the movie "Zebra in the Kitchen". The winning cabins this four week period were Cabin 1, our smallest boys in camp with counselors Dick Plank and Russell Washburn. Cabin 3, with Ernie Krug and Steve Wardrop. Cabin 7 with Larry Hathaway and Paul Phillips. Cabin 14 with John Deane as the Counselor. Cabin 17, and Cabin 18 also went in, these were John Richardson's and

Dick Wolterstrom's cabins. Thursday regular activities were held, followed by the final banquet in the evening. The committee spent the afternoon decorating the clubhouse and it really looked great. Dinner was at seven and the boys started to dress about six and it was hard to recognize some of the boys in their sport shirts, sport coats, dress trousers, ties, white shirts, colorful jackets, etc. Our cooks had prepared a great meal, fruit salad, turkey, dressing, peas, mashed potatoes, cranberries, cranberry salad, and topped it off with banana splits. Needless to say that the boys were thrilled. Tom Kennedy, Waterfront Director, was Toastmaster, and the speakers were: Jim Reibemer for the staff, David Oberhelman for the campers, Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, and Ken Smith summarized the season by recalling humorous incidents of the summer, such as John Deane's having his cabin group having a taffy pull only to have Ken ask when they were about through how many boys had braces on their teeth and to find that every boy but one did have. The look on

John's face was worth a million. The staff then sang a group of songs with all the lights out and only candlelight. It was most impressive and closed a very fine final banquet. As the season is closing here comes all the HOT weather we had been hoping for all summer. Friday was a hot day and just great for the RODEO. About a thousand people were in attendance and it was a very fine show. Two new events were introduced this year, a Senior and Junior Horsemanship Class in which the rider is judged on his ability to handle the horse through a walk, trot, canter, and to be able to mount and dismount correctly. It was a very fine event with Dave Oberhelman, Cincinnati, winning the Senior Event with Steve Armstrong, Willoughby, Ohio, second, and Jim Kuehn, Denver, Colo., third. In the Junior Horsemanship event, Dave Scherer, Grosse Pointe, was the winner, with Sautie Earle, Birmingham, second, and Rick Eccles, Southfield, third. The boys all rode very well and the cowboys deserve a great deal of credit for putting on an entertaining show. In the evening, Rodney Deyo, our Indian Dance Instructor, put on the final council fire and it was one of the finest we have ever had. It was held on the shore of the lake which was smooth as glass, and the sunset was one of the most beautiful of the year. About 800 people were here and everyone remarked on the night and the fine show the boys put on. Midway through the ceremony, the full moon came up, and it was a night to remember. What a night to close camp, and what a closing we had. It was a really great day, and both campers, parents, and friends were loud in their praise of the summer's activities.

One of the highlights of the Indian Ceremony was Ken making presentations to those who have been associated with the camp on the staff for ten years or more. Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, 10 years; Rodney Deyo, Indian dancing, 11 years; Joe Shaw, head cook, 16 years; Mrs. Harry Bingham, bookkeeper, 17 years; "Barney" Engel-hardt, camp supervisor, 21 years; and Harry Bingham, office manager, 32 years. It doesn't seem possible that I have been connected with the camp for 33 years, first as counselor, then head of the Senior Section, then Director of Activities, then Associate Director and for seventeen years as Owner-Director. Time really marches on, and on, and on. Another year, another season, the 40th, for the camp. We sincerely hope that the boys had a good time, learned much, and profited from the experience. More next year, ...

Jap Beetles Hitchhike to Dinner Table

A pesky little hitchhiker with the appetite of a starved billygoat has been the objective in a thirty-year guerrilla war carried only by the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division. The battle is being waged against the Japanese beetle, first found in Michigan in 1932. The Japanese beetle feeds voraciously on almost anything that grows, and causes more than $10 million in crop damage each year in the United States.

In Michigan, though, Jap beetle damage is scattered and hard to find, mainly due to the Department of Agriculture's unrelenting war.

"RIGHT NOW, we have more than 20,000 Japanese beetle traps spotted," said C. A. "Cy" Boyer, veteran department plant industry chief. "But the traps don't control the beetle, they only control possible trouble spots. Trapping studies guide our full control programs." Boyer calls the Jap beetle a hitchhiker because of its habit of clinging to anything and dropping off anywhere. Coast to coast, freight trains; for example, may unknowingly carry beetles which drop off at random and start new infestations. Seaway cargo arriving from foreign ports may carry beetles, even in such unlikely places as coils of barbed wire.

By late August, results from the 1965 trapping program will be tabulated and the Plant Industry Division will formulate plans for beetle control. Generally this is accomplished through careful application of a chemical pesticide called dieldrin.

U-M Scours Area For Health Team

"Talent scouts" from The University of Michigan School of Public Health combed 28 northern Michigan counties last week (Aug. 2-6) to seek responsible citizens interested in the future health of the region.

They hope to create a voluntary 40-man task force of area residents who will take a fresh look at the immediate and long-range needs of health programs in the northern counties of the Lower Peninsula. David Ballinger, James Green and David Steinicke, staff members of the Michigan Community Health Services Study at the U-M, visited each of the counties north of a line through Saginaw Bay.

DR. VLADO GETTING, professor of public health administration and project director, said rapid advances in health technology, along with changes in economic and social conditions, improved transportation and population shifts have apparently opened the door for major advances in health services. The volunteer citizens groups will be asked to explore the present health status of their respective regions, and to determine if the needs of the people are being met. The study project is being supported by grants from the U.S. Public Health Service and the W.K. Kellogg Foundation. Similar groups will be formed in five additional regions, covering the entire state.

WITH ROY

James VanLo and Judy McConnell became husband and wife Saturday afternoon Aug. 14. Nuptial vows were given at the Bible Baptist Church in Central Lake. Reception for approximately 200 guests was held at The American Legion Hall in Ellsworth.

The smiling faces of Bill and Jean Muha and children will be seen at the "Levin's" residence. Mr. Muha purchased the property and plans to move in this month. Be careful Bill when you roll out of bed. The lake is too close for comfort.

The Visser reunion was held Aug. 14 at Lake City. The Heeres and the VanHoutens were in attendance. Exactly 100 attended the affair.

A reunion of several relatives was held Thursday night Aug. 12 at the William Joliffe home. Mr. John Joliffe, a cousin of Mrs. Hazel Edson, and his wife of Painesville, Ohio, whom Mrs. Edson had not seen for 50 years were the reason for this happy occasion.

School to begin at Ellsworth Community School Sept. 2.

WARNING to all motorists: A three way stop light is now in operation at "Stranger's Corner" in Banks Township.

After six months, five minor accidents and numerous near misses, a flashing red and yellow light is erected. Excuses given for no stopping at the sign on the shoulder of the road were, "We couldn't see the sign." Excuses cannot be tolerated now, it is out in plain sight.

The real culprits are the people who live in the Township. These same motorists know the danger at this corner. Give some thought to the intersection. A person from your own family may be crossing. Besides there are farm implements that move slowly across the road. Then think about the fellow who is obeying the sign and is stopped, and you are traveling at an excessive speed over the knoll before the red light and there he is.

Families living near the intersection can tell some interesting tales about those who are continually failing to stop. Their names are often mentioned. Don't be sorry, be safe.

Enrollment At Ellsworth Down Again

Ellsworth Community High School enrollment is once again down. After last semester's largest graduating class and families moving out of the District the outlook is not very bright.

Several new families have settled in the District but the majority are senior citizens. With the reduction in numbers of students in school will lose several thousand dollars in revenue.

There are more disappointing facts to consider. Every year there are a few dropouts. At a larger school this is a minor detail, but for Ellsworth it makes the budget look weak.

When kindergarten begins this fall, the survey shows eleven pupils will occupy the classroom. Compared to last year's figures this is a decrease of ten pupils. The dollar sign is fading just as fast.

Do you as an individual see the serious part of this affair? or do you simply ignore the whole situation?

Ask School Board member if he has the answer. To make it more interesting, maybe he should ask you.

THESE TWO YOUNG fellows from Wyoming, Mich., passed through Charlevoix last week on their way home from a bicycle trip to the Mackinac Bridge. They travel about 100 miles a day, even loaded down with camp gear. They hit Charlevoix about 3 p.m., planned to make Traverse City by night-fall.

Kuebler Honored By State

Lloyd Kuebler of Charlevoix is one of 86 Michigan sewage treatment plant superintendents and operators to receive certificates of achievement from the Michigan Department of Health. Awards also went to three operators from Ohio and one from Indiana.

Kuebler passed a difficult written test and met other educational experience requirements.

The state health department classifies sewage treatment plants as A, B, C, or D, according to size, type, and location. The Charlevoix plant is Class C.

DIFFERENT examinations are given for each classification, and an operator may be certified to operate any or all of the four classes of plants. Don Pierce, chief of the wastewater section of the health department's Division of Engineering, who administered the examinations, said that the successful candidates deserve to be congratulated for the effort and time spent in acquiring the knowledge and skills needed to pass the test and win certification.

Under law, each sewage treatment plant in the state must be under the supervision of an operator certified by the State Health Commissioner.

Readers Laud Upkeep Of Brookside Cemetery

Dear Sirs:

In connection to the letter concerning our cemetery and its upkeep, I wish to complain to "name withheld" we have one of the cleanest, most up-kept and watched over "garden of memories" I know of. There have been times when we have been out to "Brookside" and have seen the men doing extra cleaning and clearing up on the graves, not just for Memorial Day, but every day, after a wind-storm or a heavy rain. Why doesn't "name withheld" take time out and visit not just once a year but at least once a week. We are not extensive travelers, but from California to Charlevoix. We are more than just satisfied to have as our final resting place "The Brookside."

Thanking you.

You May Cut Your Own Hair

.. But you can NOT save your soul!

Jesus fixed it that way. This man is a big man... a rugged business man... experienced in all the ways of life. He is reliable, self-confident and successful. Man is master over a few things but his success fades when God's help ends. So does yours. A man may cut his own hair but it is impossible for him to save his own soul. Whoever you are... whatever you have done... you have a life to live, soul to save, an eternity to spend. You need the help of one far more infinite and much wiser. He is a willing God. Try meeting Him halfway and your luck will change. He won't issue permits on many of the things you do but He welcomes you to His church.

Miss Nederhood Wed In Candlelight Rites

At a candlelight ceremony Aug. 6 at 8 p.m., Miss Joanne Nederhood became the bride of Kenneth Vander Silk. The wedding took place at the Lucas Christian Reformed Church before an altar decorated with baskets of white mums, yellow roses and palm fronds.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nederhood of Marlon, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vander Silk of Atwood.

Rev. Glibert Vander Lip, pastor of the Lucas Church, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends.

Mrs. William Westmaas of Lucas was organist and played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Donald Westmaas of Grand Rapids who sang "I Love Thee" as the bridal party entered the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a bell shaped floor length wedding gown of net over satin with a short train trimmed with seed pearls. The bodice was embellished and trimmed with seed pearls, and her elbow length veil was held in place with a crown of seed pearl hearts and she carried white feathered mums and yellow roses on white net in her bridal bouquet.

Miss Ruth Boes of Lucas, aunt of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a dark blue floor length taffeta gown bell shaped skirt of taffeta with a lace covered bodice and carried a bouquet of mums and yellow roses. Miss Jan Meekhof of Lucas, cousin of the bride and Miss Bonnie Nederhood of Marlon, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore powder blue floor length gowns and carried bouquets identical to the maid of honor.

Sam Vander Heide of Atwood was best man and groomsmen were brother, Percy Vander Silk of Grand Rapids and Richard Swanson of Grand Rapids. Ushers were Roger Nederhood, brother of the bride of Marlon, and Harold Griffioen of Grand Rapids.

Kendall and Joel Nederhood brothers of the bride were candle lighters. The men in the bridal party wore dark pants and white dinner jackets. The groom wore a black suit, and all wore a white boutonniere.

Mrs. Joe Nederhood, mother of the bride, wore a dark blue dress with white accessories and the groom's mother wore a light blue dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white mums and yellow roses.

A reception followed at Northern Christian High School, McBain. Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Meekhof, uncle and aunt of the bride, were Master and Mistress of Ceremony. Assisting at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Klooster of Atwood, Misses Jean Meyer, Miss Sheryl Meekhof, Jim Meekhof, Mike Nederhood and Misses Lavonne and Lynette Nederhood, sisters of the bride took care of the Guest Book.

Rev. Alvin Vander Griend, pastor of Atwood Christian Reformed Church, gave the opening prayer before refreshments were served to about 250 guests. Rev. G. Vander Lip closed with a prayer. The newlyweds left for a trip through the Upper Peninsula.

The bride was a 1963 graduate of McBain High School and the groom a 1963 graduate of Ellsworth High School. They are both employed at Keeler Brass factory in Grand Rapids and will be at home after Aug. 13 at 833-10th N.W., Grand Rapids, Mich. (49504)

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craig and family have returned to Ann Arbor after spending a week at a Lake Michigan cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bice had as their guests Sunday her aunt, Mrs. Bert LaRoss and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Konkle of Grand Rapids.

County, City Get Rebates

Charlevoix County, the city of Charlevoix and other incorporated units in the area will share in the state Highway Department's second quarter disbursement of Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections.

Howard E. Hill, State Highway Director, said net receipts of the Highway Fund during April, May and June, 1965, amounted to $52,548,373, an increase of $3,508,891, or 7.2 percent, compared to the same period of 1964.

Charlevoix County's share of the second quarter collections will be $86,564, while the city will receive $6,636. Other area communities receiving payments from the fund are Bellaire, $2,070; Boyne City, $8,406; Boyne Falls, $924; Central Lake, $2,173; East Jordan, $4,413; and Ellsworth, $1,865.

All state gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees go to the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund.

After deduction of collection costs and the Waterways Commission's share, the money is distributed under provisions of state law which provide that 47 percent goes to the State Highway Department for use on state highways, 35 percent to the State's 83 counties for use on county roads and 18 percent to incorporated cities and villages for their roads and streets.

Under this formula, the State Highway Department will receive $24,697,735 as its share of the second quarter collections, while the counties will receive $18,391,931 and the incorporated cities and villages will get $9,458,707.

destroilet AUTOMATIC COMBUSTION TOILET

A advanced technology has now resulted in the development of the new improved model Destroilet. The best, the only solution to a world wide problem! Uses but nothing in... no water, no chemicals. There is no flushing, no anything, no effluent liquids or solids, no plumbing of any kind. Still Destroilet completely solves away with human wastes! The only three basic electricity 110-115 volt A.C. household current or 12 volt D.C. battery gas in either LP or natural and is true to the outdoors. In simplest terms, Destroilet burns human wastes to harmless carbon dioxide and water vapors. This combustion, combined with Destroilet's unique design, assures a completely odorless bathroom. Destroilet's self-contained operation permits unlimited freedom of application—driveways, camping, boat conditions, water problems or other traditional restrictions. A toilet that works anywhere—the reason why Destroilet is already used throughout North America and many parts of the world.

Meteors Plentiful in August

Radant Perseid meteor showers will be conspicuous in the August skies over Charlevoix -- revealing one of the most dependable of the annual displays.

Four planets and interesting constellations are also to be seen, according to University of Michigan astronomer Dr. Hazel M. Losh.

At this time, shooting stars, most of them probably no larger than a grain of sand, may be seen flitting and darting across the night skies at a higher rate than at any other time of the year.

"These trails of light may be visible for two or three weeks. On an ordinary night, about one shooting star per hour is likely to be seen, but when this annual shower comes on, perhaps as many as one per minute may show up," Dr. Losh says.

THE NAME Perseids comes from the fact that, although they may appear in any part of the sky, their paths seem to intersect in the northeast where the constellation of Perseus is rising about 10 p.m.

"A meteor, which flashes into our view and appears as bright as the North Star, is probably no larger than the head of a pin. It's brilliancy lies in the speed at which it enters our Earth's atmosphere. These pieces of iron or stone, coming in at very high rates (probably around 40 miles per second) are checked; the resulting friction sets them burning with most of them being consumed and burning themselves out in the plunge."

THE BEST time to look for shooting stars, points out astronomer Losh, is after midnight, "when we are riding on the forward side of the globe in its revolution around the Sun. Then we are exposed to the meteor that we meet head on, as well as those that pass us.

The Perseids are sometimes called the "Tears of St. Lawrence," because his feast day falls on the 10th. Comets and meteors are believed to be related, the Perseid shower being associated with Comet 1862 III.

Stretching from Cassiopeia to the Pleiades, the constellation of Perseus (or The Chameleon) resembles a giant letter "K", says astronomer Losh.

"At the upper arm corner of the 'K' is the noted eclipsing binary, Algol, or The Demon, with two components revolving around each other. One is bright, the other much darker. For two-and-one-half days, Algol does not change in brightness, but when the dark star passes in front of the brighter one, it dims about one magnitude in five hours. In another five hours, it regains the lost light."

This spectacle can be observed with the unaided eye. The light variations are considered one of the most remarkable sights Nature presents to our view.

"ABOUT MIDWAY between Perseus and Cassiopeia (the large W) is one of the most beautiful telescopic objects in the whole heavens--the double star cluster. To the unaided eye, this double cluster appears as a pair of faint patches separated by about 0.4 degrees. However, slight optical aid will resolve them into hundreds of stars," Dr

Mock Mugging Nets Fines for Five Youths

Five youths from Charlevoix and Ellsworth who feigned a gang fight last Monday night in East Park pleaded guilty to causing a breach of the peace when they appeared before Justice John Connelly Aug. 10. Arrested were Richard D. Louiselle, 19; James E. Caignol, 18; Edward L. Holm, 18; and Cecil L. Drost Jr., 17, all of Charlevoix, and Kenneth D. Essenberg, 17, of Ellsworth.

They were given a choice of paying fines of $20 each, plus $5 court costs, or spending 30 days in jail. They paid the fines.

THEY WERE arrested about 9:30 Aug. 9 when a number of yachtsmen reported to police that a gang of youths had beaten another boy senseless and stuffed his body into the trunk of a Corvair.

In court, the boys told Judge Connelly they pulled the stunt just for fun, and they weren't mad at anybody.

"We just had to do something," Connelly quoted them as saying.

Seven From Area Win Scholarships

Seven students from the Charlevoix area are among 1,500 throughout Michigan to receive scholarships under an expanded state aid to education program.

The newest group brings to 4,350 the number of students who will attend school this fall on state scholarships.

Charlevoix winners are James G. Curtis, 1212 State St., David F. Norton, 313 Prospect St., and Sharon A. Sugden, 702 Park Ave.

Curtis and Norton will attend Central Michigan University, and Miss Sugden will enroll at Western Michigan University.

Other area winners are Janet C. Greenman and Marjorie Harter of Central Lake and Phyllis K. Hosler and Rebecca A. Kirby of Boyne City.

Miss Greenman will attend Northwestern Michigan, Miss Harter Central Michigan, Miss Hosler North Central Michigan and Miss Kirby the University of Michigan.

Dr. John Porter, head of the higher education assistance authority, said the state is spending $1½ million on new scholarships this year, and $500,000 on scholarship renewals.

Scholarships are based on the results of a competitive examination, with amounts determined by tuition costs at the various universities, where the student lives, and financial need. They may be renewed if the student takes classes full time, keeps a "C" average and continues to need financial assistance.

LAKE NEAR TITLE

Lake Construction needs only one win in its remaining three games to clinch at least a tie for the second round title. Two wins will give the Construction gang the title outright.

During the week the hard-hitting league leaders went two games. Against the USAF it was tight until the sixth when Lake Marne and Dwight Boss's one-run batters. Then in the seventh three more runs came home on base hits by Faculak, Davenport, Grunch, Klooster, and Marne. Sonny Wright drove in both loser runs in the 7-2 Construction win.

Against the Merchants, it wasn't as easy as the pesky boys in green made a game of it before falling 7-4. Davenport's double scored two in the second, and Faculak, Davenport, and McBride combined base hits for three in the fourth. Meanwhile Norm Helms singled home single Merchant tallies in the first and third innings. Larry Edwards sent two more Merchants home in the sixth, but two unearned runs had given the winners the cushion they needed in posting their fifth straight second round win.

Nate Boss got first round champ, American Meld, back in high gear with a fine one-hitter as he shut out the Merchants 7-0. Jack Ingalls matched Boss pitch for pitch until the fourth when Ken Balch and Don Kewbell tripped around a couple walks for three runs. Four more in the bottom of the sixth put the game on ice for Meld.

The Merchants bounced back to shut out Olesons 5-0 behind the near-perfect pitching of Bernie Kullik. Kullik had a perfect game going until Larry Baggett spoiled things in the sixth with a solid single to center field. He was cut down trying to steal and as a result Kullik still faced the minimum 21 batters and struck out 14 of them.

Mold's Boss and the Air Force's Wright pitched up in a real pitchers battle for five innings. Ken Wojan's single sent Mold in front 1-0 but in the sixth the Mold batted out five hits for six runs to break the contest, wide open. Dave Smith's bases-loaded triple was the big blow in the inning. Boss pitched his second one-hitter in the 7-0 shutout.

BATTING IN THE TIGHT

In the race for the football league batting trophy it appears to be all Lake Construction as the top four hitters all wear the maize and blue. Ted Potter continues to hold a narrow lead over team-mated Davenport, Grunch, and Faculak. Meanwhile a couple newcomers appeared in the top ten for the first time. The top ten hitters follow:

JUNIOR LEAGUE RESULTS

Jerry's Gulf continued to lead in the Junior circuit. They blasted Barnard 13-2 behind the two hit pitching of Terry Blissett. Steve Smith led the hitting assault with two hits, against A&W. It was the same story, only the score was 12-6. Steve Smith had three hits this time, one a bases-loaded triple.

Freedmans handled A & W easily, beating them 13-3. Seven fifth inning runs broke the contest wide open. Ted Weidman continued his fine hitting, collecting two for the winners while Brad Carey did likewise for A&W.

Freedmans scored five runs in the middle two innings to beat Barnard 8-3. Bob Heitzman had a triple to score two and Aaron Brock an important single. Gary Crain had two hits in a losing cause.

CARDS AND LIONS

LEAD PEANUT

The Lions blasted the Astros 20-7 with Kraag Lieberman and Vic Kantola each collecting 3 hits.

In one of the best contests in some time, the Braves scored the only run in the seventh inning on Rick Turner's single to edge the Cubs 1-0. Mike Straw ruined Jim Warner's bid for a no hitter with a seventh inning single.

The Dodgers scored one of the big upsets of the season in upending the Tigers 3-2. The loss just about ruined all hopes for a Tiger title.

Singles by Savaboda, Keie and Oleson scored three Dodger tallies in the bottom of the sixth inning.

CORRECT starting positions were required for boys entered in the City Track Meet, sponsored by the Recreation Department. These boys are about to run the 25-yard dash on the high school's cinder track.

SHOWING OFF their throwing arms are Ron Himbauch (left), 10, and Bruce Meggison, 12. Both boys took part in the city Track and Field Meet. The boys had three opportunities to throw the softball a measured distance.

Torch Field Day

Attracts 400

Upper Torch Lake Assn. held its 18th annual Fireman's Field Day at Barnes Park, Eastport, Aug. 12.

Some 400 people enjoyed the barbecue chicken dinner. Youngsters rode ponies and participated in various contests. Music throughout the day was furnished by Coddington Music Co. of Traverse City, with Leon Schaefer at the console organ.

Prize-winning youngsters in the children's parade included Jill, Tommy and Johnny Stepke, Christopher Suits, and Jim and Mary Tomlinson.

The day ended with 13 talent show acts and the awarding of grand prizes. First prize, a 12-foot aluminum boat, went to G.W. Gingell of Torch Lake Village; and second prize, a set of decorated cookware, was won by Fran Solfrid of Central Lake.

David Hoeff of Fenton won third prize, an electric blanket; and Fran Martin of Charlevoix won fourth prize; a thermos picnic kit.

Proceeds from the activities go to maintain fire fighting and resuscitating equipment used by the volunteer fire department.

Agent Offers Tips On Cotton Knits

Have you ever popped a new cotton knit garment into the washer and dryer and later taken out a garment of a completely different shape?

Clare Brown, Charlevoix County home agent, says a cotton knit garment's ability to hold its shape often depends on the process the manufacturer used in finishing it. You can learn to detect faulty finishing, she adds.

"The tiny knit loops in the knit are normally plump and round. But the manufacturer may stretch the fabric as it is finished. This makes the loops long and thin," she explains.

"THEN WHEN you wash the garment, the loops go back to their original shape, and this causes the garment to be distorted," Clare continues. "Usually the garment will be shorter and wider after you wash it."

How can you tell if a knit will lose its shape when you wash it?

"Check the back of the fabric," Clare suggests. "By looking there, you can see if the knit loops are round and relaxed or stretched."

"Look for close, even knitting and no thin places in the fabric," she notes.

"When you're buying back-to-school clothes, cotton knits are a natural choice. They stretch for comfort and are easy to care for. But they won't be much of a bargain if they don't stay looking nice," she notes.

OTHER POINTS she suggests you check are the neck band, seams and label.

Neck bands on t-shirts should have plenty of stretch but should be woven firmly enough to make them snap back to their original shape.

Shoulder seams, particularly should be reinforced for extra durability.

Check the garment label to find shrink resistant guarantees and percentage of shrinkage to expect. Clare warns that even a high quality knit t-shirt may shrink as much as five percent, but it should shrink evenly without losing its shape.

Some of the finishtnames that may appear on labels include "Pak-Nit," "Pak-Nit RX," and "Prestretch." They hold shrinkage in length to less than one percent.

Employment Up Across Country

Twenty-one cities had substantial unemployment. In June, the smallest number since May, 1957, the Department of Labor announces.

There were 37 areas with substantial unemployment in June, 1964, and 88 in June, 1961.

The improvement mainly reflects the expansion of manufacturing activity during the past year.

Nation-wide prosperity has had a favorable impact on the areas remaining on the list of substantial unemployment. Unemployment in 21 areas averaged 9.7 percent in May, 1961, 7.2 percent in May, 1964, and 6.4 percent in May, 1965. Any area with more than 6 percent unemployment is placed on the substantial unemployment list.

Wives to Make Dinner Plans

Case of Poison Ivy Can Ruin Holidays

Poison Ivy, which is common in some of the wilderness areas around Charlevoix, can cause suffering in sensitive individuals, leading to expensive medical bills and sometimes a ruined vacation. Learn to recognize it. Then avoid it.

The leaves of the plant are smooth, glossy and firm and the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. They grow in threes and are borne alternately on the stem. In early summer, whitish dull flowers grow from the axils of the leaves and are succeeded by round, dull white fruits the size of a field pea.

THE OFFENDING substance is an oil which is present throughout the entire plant and which, upon contact with the skin of a sensitive person, creates a toxic action. Even the handling of animals and automobile tires which have come in contact with the plant will transmit the oil to the handler.

The oil will stick for an indefinite period to clothing, boots and tools and from these it is easily transmitted to hands, face and any exposed part of the body. If you have been contaminated with the oil, act at once. In the susceptible individual, the irritant already will have begun to cause a sensitivity reaction.

WASH THE contaminated parts of the body with thorough latherings of soap and repeated rinsings with water. Yellow laundry soap is preferable to toilet soap. After thorough washing, a neutral talc, or corn starch may be applied.

Contaminated clothing should be washed thoroughly and repeatedly with soap and water. If the clothing has to be dry-cleaned and you are sending it out, wrap it carefully and label it "contaminated with poison ivy." Thoroughly cleanse contaminated tools and equipment with a safety solvent.

Should a rash develop after precautionary soap and water measures have been taken, and medical aid is not immediately available, apply a thick paste of soap; let it dry and leave on overnight; or use a calamine solution or other approved medication. Protect the inflamed skin from further irritants. Cool compresses of ice water or applications of corn starch will help relieve inflammation.

IF YOU are working in an area where the plant is growing, wear clothing to cover as much of the skin as possible. Tuck plant legs inside boot tops. Leather laces do not retain as much oil as cotton laces.

Better, wear rubber boots and gloves, washing them at the end of the day. Poison Ivy should be burned only in isolated areas. Avoid contact with the smoke; particularly avoid getting it in the eyes, or inhaling it. The oil in the plant may be vaporized, and the vapor, carried by the smoke, may cause the sensitive to break out some distance from the burning plant itself.

Talk of the Town

Our Camera Visits the Fair

ABSTRACT PAINTINGS were few and far between at the fair this year. Here, bearded David Laskish of Ann Arbor shows one of his works.

MARION JACKSON of Saginaw had ceramic birds for sale.

HAROLD DRISCOLL of Grand Rapids prefers fishing scenes.

MRS. BETTY BYROM of Park St. admires wrought-iron work.

CLAIR CAMPBELL of Fenton shows her "rustic barnboards."

JUDGE John Baker of Fenton specializes in wood sculpture.

ANN ARBOR calls Sali Frantz a "whimsical primitive."

BOB McCLELLAND of Grand Rapids peers at modern sculpture.

GLENNA FRANKLIN, 11, of Charlevoix does bronze sculpture.

Here are some of the scenes our roving cameraman captured Saturday at the Seventh Annual Waterfront Fair.

Scores of artists and craftsmen came from throughout Michigan and nearby states to take part in the event.

And the weatherman cooperated 100 per cent, by serving up the nicest day of the summer. (Although some exhibitors seemed to think we could have done with a little less sun and a breeze not quite so boisterous.)

All in all, the day was made for browsing through the myriads of artistic entries in the fair. With few exceptions, all of the items on display were for sale, and many were sold.

ARTMOBILE was dispatched to the fair by the Detroit Institute of Arts.

MOST ENVIED exhibitor in East Park was Mrs. H. J. Timmers (D.P.) of East Grand Rapids. Mrs. Timmers asked for a display area near a tree so she could show her ceramic and bells. The tree doubled as a parking lot for Mrs. Timmers when the blinding August sun began taking its toll on other exhibitors.

How did you spend your rainy Sunday afternoon?

When there are no kinkfolk within commuting distance, and the Michigan Bell people haven't gotten around to putting in a phone, and the TV stations are more like strangers than old friends, you might spend one the way we did a couple of weeks ago. We hoped in the VW and went up to see the Bridge.

We could have zipped up U.S. 31 and arrived there before you could say Michillimackinac. But that wouldn't have been very adventurous. Instead, we took scenic route 131 out of Bay View, passing near Nub's Noh and Boyne Highlands.

IT WAS FUN to travel roads that we had been only in winter before. How different the countryside appears, with leaves on the trees and without snow drifts level with the car windows! What we thought were scrub pines last winter were turned out to be good-sized evergreen trees now the snow is gone.

The area northwest of Harbor Springs -- through Good Hart and Cross Village -- was all new to us, and even in the rain it was beautiful. Vast stretches of Lake Michigan seen from a height that would make an astronaut dizzy, deep woods like something out of a Grimm's fairy tale, sand dunes that made your ears plug up if you went down them too fast.

All in all it was a lovely ride, and we made a mental note to do it again in October when the leaves are turning and the sun is out.

ALL OF A sudden the south tower of the Bridge loomed before us, the upper portion melting into regions of mist and rain and the main span ending abruptly in a fog bank. Judy, who had never seen the bridge before, had to use her imagination to appreciate the magnitude of D.B. Steinman's masterpiece. I made a second mental note this one to check with the weatherman before visiting the Straits again.

In Mackinaw City we stopped at a restaurant for coffee and I plunked Kathleen down on the chair beside me. The waitress took our order and the baby gave her one of her most engaging smiles. Then Katie promptly threw up. Too much roller-coastering through the woods, I guess.

How did you spend your rainy Sunday?

Sorry about a goof in last week's Courier. Ronald Crandall did not go to University Hospital in Ann Arbor to have the spear removed from his head. That was the story going around town and that was the story we ran. The operation was performed at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey, and the doctors there deserve all the credit, according to his dad, Officer Ron Crandall of the Charlevoix Police Dept. And a marvelous job the doctors did, too. Seems the spear entered Ron's head between the eye and the nose and penetrated about five inches, the barbed point lodging at the back of the boy's skull. Plenty of x-rays were taken, and doctors sent to Charlevoix for other spears Ron had fashioned to make sure just what kind of an object they were removing. His father says Ron is feeling better every day, although his cheek still feels a little funny where the nerves were damaged.

THANKS to the efficacy (that's a word, I looked it up) of Counterpoint ads, we have waved goodbye to all but one of Ginny's pups. The sole survivor, of course, is the "runt" -- a scrawny little gal with an unusually long neck, short black fur, and a splochy white bib. She doesn't have any of her siblings' wavy hair and winning ways, and I suppose that's why no one wants her.

Oddly enough, she has always been her mother's favorite. Gin has spent more time nuzzling her around than she has the rest of the pups together. Funny thing, Gin herself was the "runt" of her litter and maybe she remembers how lonely it was.

AN INTERESTING visitor stopped at the office the other day. She is Mrs. Hazel Pearl Phillips, a native of Charlevoix who is in town for a few days en route to all sorts of interesting places like Beirut and the Greek Islands.

Mrs. Phillips' home is in Yucapca, Calif., but she won't see it again for about eight months. She drove to Charlevoix from the West Coast, taking about three weeks and making several stops. After visiting her brother, Harold Pearl, of 109 Michigan, she intends to tour the state, cross on -- and, burn up the New England Turnpike and spend some time in New Bedford, bears landed from Europe in 1670.

Sept. 15 she begins a 61-day Mediterranean tour aboard the cruise ship Moritania, with dozens of stops in Europe, Africa, and the Near East. Most of it will be old stuff for Mrs. Phillips, who already has made two trips around the world, not to mention a journey to South America, a cruise of the South Pacific, and three visits to Mexico. Last summer she did Alaska and the Canadian northwest. And when this trip is over, she'll winter in Florida before returning home.

A TEACHER for 38 years before her retirement in 1961, Mrs. Phillips makes no bones about how glad she is to be out of the teaching profession. "Kids today are absolutely without discipline, and blame it all on the parents. Nobody makes youngsters behave, so they don't," she asserts. She says too many parents say that they had to work when they were kids, and they want their children to have an easier time of it. So they give them everything they want and cater to their every whim.

MOST of the trouble, she claims, is the bald indifference of adults when it comes to disciplining kids. She tells about an incident in California where a group of teenagers throttled a policeman to death while a group of adults looked on only mildly interested.

Mrs. Phillips spent her last 28 years as a teacher in the Junior High Schools of Los Angeles. "But I wouldn't want to go back, not even to substitute for a single day," she says flatly.

U.S. Booklet Offers Advice To Garagemen

It's dangerous work -- fueling autos, mounting tires, and servicing batteries. So warns a new publication "Service Station Safety" which prescribes safety rules for the nation's 300,000 gasoline service station workers. The publication was prepared by the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Standards in consultation with the American Petroleum Institute, Gasoline Merchants of Brooklyn, National Refiners Association, and the National Safety Council.

THE BOOKLET includes tips on proper clothing ("Bow tie or no tie -- long neckties can get caught in moving machinery"), fueling ("If the customer has not turned off the ignition, politely ask him to do so; and general housekeeping ("Return tools to rack"). Although aimed primarily at the young or new service station worker, the booklet can be helpful to all gasoline service station employees and employees.

Limited quantities of the booklet may be obtained from the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Standards, Washington, D.C. 20210.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Arnold of Birmingham visited friends over the weekend while in Charlevoix on vacation.

Jim Martin of Fremont visited his parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fiedler spent last week at Vicksburg. They were accompanied by Jenny and Greg Hilliker of Boyne City who attended the Youth Camp of the Michigan District of the Church of the Nazarene. Enroute home they attended the Fiedler family reunion in Lansing and the Huber reunion at Harrison. Pvi, Stuart VerWys arrived Monday from Fort Knox, Tenn., after completing basic training to spend 12 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abe VerWys. He will go to Fort Gordon, Ga., for advanced training upon completion of his leave.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ikens are spending several days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abe VerWys before going to Rogers City where he has accepted a teaching position. Both are recent graduates of Central Michigan University. They have spent the summer in Oak Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smeed and children, Cheryl Lynn and Brian, have returned to their home in Dearborn after spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kerl Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Trimble and family have returned from a trip to Lake Orion following a brief visit with her mother, Mrs. ...

THE FLAG DROPS, and the cycles are off in a whirlwind of dust. This scene will be re-enacted many times next Sunday, Aug. 22, at the second motorcycle scramble of the summer at the Pete Winnick farm in Hayes Township. Local riders will be joined by others from throughout northern Michigan and Canada. Starting time is 2 p.m.

Boats and Traffic

Some of the councilmen got to talking the other night about how frequently the drawbridge manages to tie-up traffic on Bridge Street. Particular reference was made to the week the dredge Hains was in town, sweeping up and down Pine River Channel 24 hours a day.

Councilman Del Terrell noted that one afternoon it took him 25 minutes to turn from Park Street onto Bridge Street.

Others reported traffic backed up all the way through town in both directions.

In legal parlance, we suppose you could call the drawbridge an "attractive nuisance." Certainly Charlevoix wouldn't be Charlevoix without it. It's something to see thousands of tons of steel and concrete lift almost effortless skyward to let a ship pass through.

And the bridge is a real "traffic stopper," literally and figuratively when the boat happens to be a gargantuan lake carrier en route to one of the Lake Charlevoix ports.

We grant that tourists on a short holiday or businessmen rushing to important appointments have a legitimate gripe if they are delayed unduly by the bridge. And there are several measures which could be taken to alleviate the situation.

First, the City Council could ask the Army Corps of Engineers if it could possibly schedule dredging of Pine River Channel a little earlier in the season--say April or May--before the tourists arrive. Most Great Lakes ports don't have a drawbridge problem. It seems those that do could be dredged when it would cause the least interruption in traffic.

Second, the city could ask small boat operators to cooperate by making only necessary trips through the channel. Perhaps several boaters could get together and arrange to leave at the same time, causing the bridge to be opened once rather than several times. They might even arrange to make their comings and goings coincide with the arrival and departure of the Beaver Islander.

Thirdly, operators of small craft should be asked to lower their antennas rather than whistle for the bridge to open every time they pass through. We don't think this would be too much of a hardship, providing boat operators are sufficiently skilled to do it without swamping their craft or getting turned around in mid-channel. A harried motorist hung up by the bridge can be excused a few choice epithets when he sees a boat's antenna no longer than a cat's whiskers sweep between the massive portals of the bridge.

Of course, there are other solutions to the problem, both expensive and unnecessary. A higher bridge could be built, with the southern approach wiping out most of the town. Or a tunnel could be built, with the same effect. Or U. S. 31 could be re-routed through Boyne City.

None of these alternatives is either feasible or desirable. The drawbridge may have its drawbacks, but they're sort of like the tilt to the Tower of Pisa. Without the bridge, Charlevoix wouldn't be Charlevoix, and without that crazy tower, Pisa would just be another Italian town.

City Shares Water Woes

If misery loves company, Charlevoix certainly has a host of communities to commiserate with over water problems.

In nearby Petoskey, City Manager Richard Gorman announced last week that residents must stop sprinkling their lawns because of a critical water shortage.

This may seem strange for a town nestled in the elbow of Little Traverse Bay, but that's the case. It's not a lack of water exactly. It's just that the city can't pump it as fast as the people would like to use it. And the reservoirs must remain filled in case of fire.

Even Petoskey isn't too badly off, when you consider the water problem faced by our central Michigan counties, which have been as dry as dog biscuits all summer. In Mount Pleasant, they've had only an inch of rain through June and July, about 20 per cent of normal. The situation would be as bad as the drought of 1936, only this year they've been spared the high temperatures.

Drought conditions extend from as far south as Oakland County and as far north as Kalkaska County. Many areas have applied to the federal government for assistance as disaster areas.

But even Michigan can't complain too loudly when you take a look at the East Coast, where water supplies have been dwindling for years. This summer's drought simply has been the last straw. Columnist Drew Pearson says that New York City will be completely without water by midwinter and that pipelines supplying some New Jersey towns will dry up well before then.

A heavy rain fell in New York's reservoir area Aug. 7 and 8, but that gave the city only a two-day's supply of water. Desperately needed right now are 90 days of continuous rain to bring reservoirs back to near normal. And 90 days of rain don't just happen, not in North America in August, September, and October. In November the ground freezes and no amount of precipitation will help.

New York City engineers are frantically trying to reactivate Hudson River pumps pressed into use during the drought of 1957. But the water is badly polluted, and you don't just clean up a river like the Hudson overnight.

Add to this the recent report that the Niagara River is so filthy that tourists on the cruise ship Maid-of-the-Mist have to hold their noses when they near the falls, and you have a pretty sad picture of what's happening to America's once abundant supply of fresh water.

By comparison, we in Charlevoix are fairly well off. You can still swim in Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan, and as far as the pollution in Round Lake goes, that's a problem that will pretty much take care of itself if the City Council continues to let things slide along the way they are.

The solution, of course, lies in the fact that Round Lake isn't a very big lake, or, for that matter, a very important lake. It's not going to take too many years of flushing toilets and dumping garbage before it's filled in solid from shore to shore. Then we can subdivide it and turn our attention to more important issues than water pollution.

ends

How about that weather we've been having? The weather reports keep mentioning the fact that Canada is being good to us ... It's sending us cold air (as though we needed it) That air I've been feeling came right off the North Pole, I'm sure.... Deano Davenport was telling me Tuesday night (Aug. 10) that it got down to 32 degrees at the softball park earlier that evening Combine this temperature with the dampness as the result of the recent rains and you've got a bone-chilling situation I'm sure if we had a U. S. Weather Bureau here we'd have rated the distinction of being the coldest spot in the nation

BUT I'M an optimist I'm sure we're going to have a lot of warm weather before that white stuff starts flying some few (altogether too few) miles from now Many times when we've had a cold summer, we have a beautiful Indian summer Let's hope that that will happen this year

I'm one of those people who likes to learn new things.... In fact, I like to say I learn something new every day... and most days that's true... at least it averages out that way I learned a real interesting "something new" this week... My name was given as a contact for a fellow who was touring the area in search of items for the Michigan State University Historical Museum I've always known there was such a thing but I never really knew what it did Seems they're interested in anything old.... old artifacts, old picture postcards, old letters, old pictures, especially those of places and events...he mentioned, for instance, pictures of the logging era, the sailing era as well as commercial fishing and anything else typical of this area...He also was interested in old newspapers, especially those that told of major events that happened in the area...if you have anything along this line that you think might be of interest, won't you write to Historical Collections Division of the Museum describing what you would like to give and they will give you the details for sending it to them....

FROM CLOUDCROFT, N. M., a card from Jim Luther who's been attending the summer session at the University there....And, like so many who have adopted Charlevoix, he writes: Have enjoyed my course but will be glad to see Charlevoix again....He and his family plan to spend a little time in California and then out across the country to Florida before returning here in time for school....

And the Retigans will be returning from Florida before too long... Dr. Retigan's been at Florida State University as a visiting lecturer, while Mrs. R. and son, Shan, have been enjoying the deep South.... Is it possible that school will soon be upon us? It is!.... Just checked the calendar and found that three weeks from next Monday will be THE day and that one we from Monday will be the opening day of football practice....Where, oh, where has the time gone?

WE MAY not have had much rain till recently but I notice that the sneezers are going to be in for a bad time despite the dry weather....That's right, we're in for a real good crop of regweed It's growing everywhere, especially along roadways the very edges, I mean Wish you'd learn what it looks like and pull the darned stuff before it blossoms and then goes to seed....It's one thing we can do without....

Other things are blossoming too...glads for instance...and they're lovely...I like all kinds of flowers but these particular ones are among my favorites...they're so stately and come in such lovely colors that every new bouquet is a beautiful new experience....

Have you noticed the sky recently? On clear nights there's the Milky Way with its billions and billions of whatever makes it the Milky Way....and the stars stand out so bright and beautiful that you can almost touch them.... Wish I was one of those people who could see what I'm supposed to see in the sky.... So when you're outside these nights, look up you'll be missing a lot of beauty if you don't....

WHO HAS the answer to this question? Where did the Petoskey stone get its name... now that it's been designated as the state's stone I've been wondering It isn't a stone found only in the Petoskey area it's found many places along the northern Great Lakes...I'm told there's scads of them along Lake Huron north of Alpena...and certainly we have our fair share, especially at Norwood...As the story goes they're a type of coral that was formed millions of years ago and crushed by the great glaciers as they inched their way down from the north to gouge out the Great Lakes

Bronze Beauty Guards Charlevoix Beaches

LIFE GUARD Kathy Seidl (left) keeps her eyes open for trouble on the Lake Michigan Beach. Above right she spells out the boundaries of the beach for a couple of fellows who had swum out of bounds.

For some generations now, the stereotyped lifeguard has been a fellow with bulging biceps, a deep tan and a way with girls. Sweet young things have been known to forget everything they knew about swimming once he dove in sight.

This summer, Charlevoix has turned the tables on stereotypes in the person of Kathy Seidl, 19, lifeguard at both the Lake Michigan beach and the Perry Avenue beach on Lake Charlevoix, wherever you're lucky enough to find her.

The daughter of Lt. James Seidl, executive officer of Coast Guard Group headquarters in Charlevoix, Kathy will be leaving after Labor Day for Bradley University, in Peoria, Ill., where she'll be a sophomore this year. Her majors are languages (Spanish now, Russian later) and psychology.

LIKE MOST offspring of Coast Guard personnel, Kathy has done considerably more traveling than the average 19-year-old. Born in Chicago ("That was just a stopover, we were never stationed there."), Kathy has lived in Seattle, Honolulu, Miami, Port Angeles, Wash., Boston, and Newfoundland.

Of all the Coast Guard towns Kathy has called home, she prefers Charlevoix. "It even compares favorably with Honolulu," she says. This is Kathy's second year as a lifeguard. She received her Senior Life Saving certificate last year from the King County Chapter of the American Red Cross in Seattle and was hired as a guard at the Samana Country Club pool. Kathy resigned when her father was transferred to Charlevoix last August.

Like most life guards, the statuesque brunette has acquired a deep bronze tan.

"I don't know how I did it," she confesses. "I spend most of my time at the Perry Avenue beach wrapped up in a sweat shirt and a blanket. There's an off-shore wind there that goes right through you."

(Here Kathy interrupted her interview to reprimand a boy for climbing up the slippery side of a slide. Then she blew the whistle on two young fellows who had paddled beyond the diving raft. She called them into shore, spelled out the beach boundaries, and let them go.)

"I prefer the Perry Avenue beach," she said. "There the supervised swimming area is marked off with floats, and swimmers know they aren't to go beyond them. Here, I tell them not to go beyond the raft, but I wish there were markers."

KATHY HAS a sister, Christine, 16, who is a senior counselor at Camp Daggett at Traverse City this summer, and a brother, Jim, 12, who is taking a course in Junior Life Saving.

"It doesn't look like I'll be the only lifeguard in the family very long," she noted.

She enjoys water skiing, but hasn't been able to do much of it this summer "because this job is rather restricting."

Kathy works at the beach from 12:30 to 6 p.m., then became a cocktail waitress at the Weather-vane. She says she enjoys her work as a lifeguard, because she likes to meet people. And judging from her following at the Lake Michigan beach, people like to meet Kathy.

requested the service and were included in the screening program.
In January, the Michigan Department of Health invited all hospitals to participate. All necessary supplies and materials are provided to collect specimens to be sent to the Michigan Department of Health Laboratories for analysis.
At present, nearly a hundred hospitals are participating in the program.

CHARLEVOIX Hospital began blood testing for PKU on Feb. 6, 1965. All blood samples are sent to the Science Laboratories in Los Angeles for evaluation, although the hospital will probably make use of state facilities once they are set up.

In June, a bill was passed by the Michigan Legislature making the testing of newborns for PKU mandatory. Although it is possible to perform the test in a hospital laboratory, the U.S. Children's Bureau recommends that all testing be done by a central laboratory where it can be accomplished on a mass basis. Since the incidence of the disease is rare (one in 15,000 births) it is not practical for individual hospitals to perform the test, the U.S. Children's Bureau says.

FOUR CASES of PKU have been discovered in newborn infants so far at the state health department laboratories out of more than 60,000 tests.

The test does not constitute a final diagnosis of PKU, the Commissioner explained, but is merely a test to screen out those newborn infants who probably do not have the condition, from those who might have it. Confirmation requires further testing and evaluation by a specialist in this disorder.

Treatment of infants with a confirmed diagnosis of PKU consists primarily of a special diet over the first few years of life which excludes a certain constituent of protein found in most foods including milk. This gives the child time to outgrow the defect in metabolism.

The special diet must be rigidly followed by parents and closely supervised by a physician, with frequent blood tests, in order that it may be adjusted to meet the changing nutritional needs as the infant develops.

The Michigan Department of Health has been providing the special formula required under certain specified conditions and in instances of financial need.

Survey

for the aged under Social Security was favored by 61% and opposed by 33%.

AMENDMENT of the immigration laws to base admission on skills, rather than country of birth, received support from 58%, compared to 29% who opposed the change. More than 14,000 (87%) persons responded to questions three in favor of mine safety legislation to apply to iron and copper mining. Opposition to making the mines safer for workers came from only 11%.

Creation of an Upper Great Lakes Authority to improve economic conditions in Upper Michigan through a many-pronged program similar to that being started in the Appalachia region was endorsed by 81% with 11% opposed. The majority of persons answering the questionnaire favor passage of a Federal law requiring registration and control of the sale of firearms. Fifty-six percent said they are for the gun controls. Forty percent were against such laws.

President Johnson's Voting Rights bill to insure the right of all citizens to register to vote received the support of 87%.

Earlier proposals that eleven of the nation's veterans hospitals be closed brought disapproval from 56% of those answering. (This program has since been killed and the hospitals will remain open.)

CONTINUING expansion of the Federal program, begun by the recently enacted Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, received endorsement from 66% of those answering.

Cleveland said that from 3% to 14% of the persons replying failed to pass an opinion on one or more questions. Responses to the questions, he said, varied little from county to county. Persons interested in the results from their county can receive them by writing Congressman Cleveland in Washington.

In Charlevoix, specifically, the proposal for expanded State - Federal program to control water and air pollution received the heartiest endorsement, with 89% coming out in favor of such a plan. Mine safety and voting rights also received thumping approval, with endorsement running 85 percent and 83 percent, respectively.

off shore harbor to maneuver about in.
Pontons will be sunk near the entrance to form a temporary breakwater, Loomis said. Then the dredge will move in, dredge a 12-foot deep harbor, and then begin dredging the 24-foot deep slip. On completion, the slip will measure 425 feet by 100 feet wide.

ALTHOUGH the office building will be built before the end of the year, it will not be used as such for at least 18 months, Loomis said. The building will not be partitioned immediately, leaving one large room which the various contractors can use for storage and field office headquarters during construction of the plant proper, eliminating shanties, trailers, and other temporary quarters.

Loomis said the Strahan Co. plans to begin work at the site this week. The building will be located about in the middle of Medusa property, handy to all other facilities.

The Medusa vice president said one problem still bothering company officials is what should be done about a shore road through the property. He expressed the belief that the company would come up with an acceptable solution before long.

Court

Fred LeVenture, Robert R. Burd and Howard Louis Butski pleaded guilty to drawing checks without any bank account. Their cases were referred to District Probation Officer William Lane.

Mary Lou John, 20, and Murley James Shanahan, 35, pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking and entering at the Belvedere Golf Club July 22. They asked for an attorney and the case was postponed.

Thomas Harry Dixon pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking into an automobile at Bell's Bay and taking articles worth more than $46. His case was referred to the district probation officer.

Tuesday, Judge Brown deliberated a suit filed by the Lake Louise Christian Community against the Township of Hudson over a tax assessment.

Baptists Plan Youth Rally

The Northern Michigan Youth Rally will be held at the Bible Baptist Church, 904 May St., Saturday, Aug. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker for the rally will be Rev. Don L. Green of Lansing.

The Rally consists of Bible Quiz teams from many churches, who will compete for the quiz championship. There will also be special musical numbers by the visiting churches groups.

There is also an attendance banner which will be given to the church with the most single young people from the ages of 11-25.

They—the newspapers—are as much a vital part of the community as the people themselves, to whom the newspapers are at once guardian and servant.

Door Wrecked, Drost Signs Damage Bill

Irv Drost, owner of Irv's Cocktail Lounge on Bridge St., signed a complaint Tuesday charging malicious destruction of property against James Finney, address unknown.

Drost told police he thought Finney had had enough to drink and assisted him out the rear door.

Finney decided he hadn't had enough to drink and ripped a hole in the screen door trying to get back in.

Drost stepped into the alley, scuffled with Finney and held him until police arrived.

The bar owner said he would like Finney to pay for damage to the door.

The Conservation Department's cost of fighting forest fires in 1964 totaled $80,828. This figured out to $4.46 per acre burned, or $65.87 for every fire brought under control.

There is no such thing as an off-season for forest fires in Michigan. Last year, these breakaway blazes occurred in every month, destroying 18,108 acres for the highest toll since 1949.

school, and John Van Haver who runs the Loeb Farm art shop cast it for her in bronze. Most of the exhibitors were enthusiastic about the beautiful setting Charlevoix has for its Waterfront Fair.

"There's nothing like it anywhere in Michigan," said Fenton Municipal Judge John Baker, who had some wood carving on display. "We're always anxious to get back to Charlevoix," he said, and Mrs. Baker nodded agreement.

CUSTOMER SERVICE

CARRY-OUT SERVICE

Did you ever watch a 95 pound house wife wrestle 50 pounds of groceries from the market to her car? If you have it wasn't at OLESON'S. It's OLESON'S policy that every customer's purchases are placed in their car, by one of OLESON'S--customer service attendants.

WIDE AISLES

With todays building prices climbing higher and higher, floor space in a super market is very expensive. We??? OLESON'S provided more space than was actually necessary for the adequate display of their wide selection of merchandise, in order that you, the homemaker, can enjoy the pleasure of leisureful shopping in wide spacious aisles.

FAST CHECK-OUT SERVICE

OLESON'S feature four ultra-modern check out lanes to accommodate their customers. Each check out lane is operated by a friendly cashier to speed your purchases through from your basket to your car. For shoppers in a hurry, OLESON'S will whisk you through their check-out lanes with a minimum of delay.

PLENTY OF FREE PARKING

Don't ever worry about a place to park when you shop at OLESON'S. Two acres of paved parking lot is available to put an end to your parking problems. You can enjoy the feeling of safety especially when shopping with children. Because OLESON'S big parking lot eliminates the hazard of crossing and parking on traffic congested street.

Let's Have a Picnic

PICNICKING is a favorite pastime in the many roadside parks around Charlevoix. Here a vacationing family stops at the G. Donald Kennedy park located five miles northeast of Charlevoix off U. S. 31. Picnickers can enjoy a panoramic view of Lake Michigan and Little Traverse Bay while they roast hot dogs in the open air. The shoreline is also a treasure trove of Petoskey stones.

The Sundew In Pine River Channel

The Charlevoix Coast Guard Station

Always On Guard

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix—the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

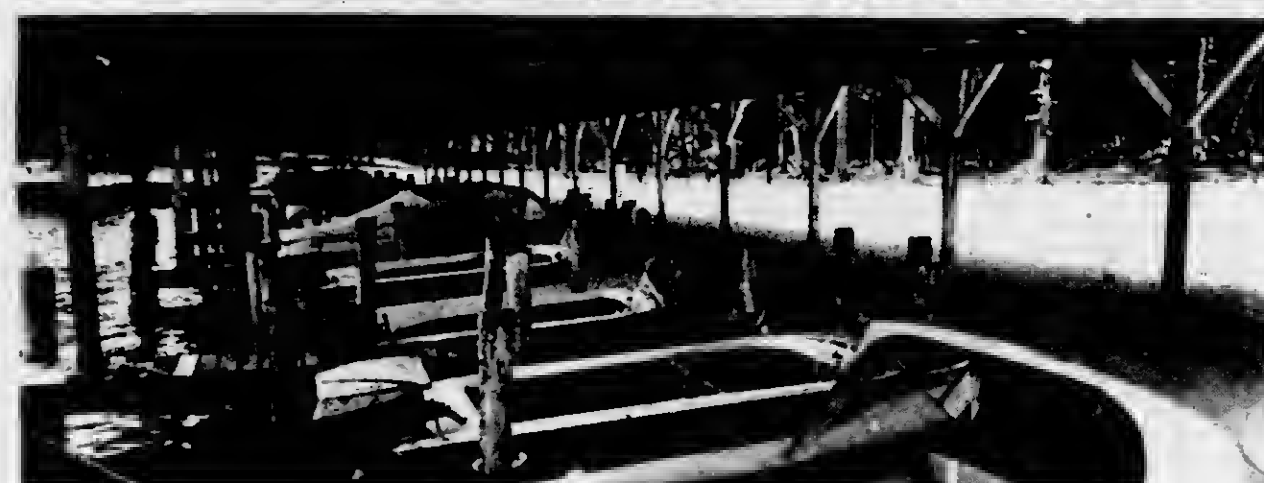

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Millard, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions.

Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating, and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and

Walloon Lake. Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smelt Lake, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ys Old Nye Halls, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

Editorial:

Girlwatching

IF EVER WE HAVE the time, and are still young enough in spirit, we're going to set aside a whole week in July for nothing but Girl Watching in Charlevoix.

Really quite an innocent, discriminating and sophisticated sport, Girl Watching reaches its international summit in Charlevoix during July and August. Though we get but a sampling of the exceptional material available through the windows at the Courier, it is enough to convince us we can make the previous statement with no reservations.

(INCIDENTALLY, WOULD someone please tell us where the girls walking down Clinton St. in their wonderfully sparse bathing suits are going?)

Certainly, it seems to us, this activity needs more recognition and attention from the Chamber of Commerce's brochures. Publicizing it as one of our outstanding attractions is bound to attract even more girls to our beaches.

Just imagine the rush of young things to get to Charlevoix if they read in brochures and advertisements that this is the "Girl Watching Capital of the Nation." They wouldn't dare do their sunbathing anywhere else.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Alba, is a pleasant, scenic afternoon drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. The hatchery's location reminds one of the Smokey Mountains. The hatchery is the newest and largest on the Great Lakes. It will produce about 6,000,000 lake trout a year for restocking the big lakes.

Short Escape

The Ironton Ferry takes its passengers for a short visit into a world where there can be no hurry. There's just no way to speed up the ferry in its short chug-chug across the neck of the South Arm. Even if you don't especially want to go where the ferry takes you it's worth the 35¢ fare just to briefly know you've escaped all the pressures that make people rush through life. The ferry crosses the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at scenic Ironton, about 7 miles southeast of Charlevoix on M-66.

Here's Where & How to Fish

If there is a better cure than fishing for that hauntingly tense feeling that the mob is stalking you with its big city noises and impatience it must be fishing in the Charlevoix area.

Oh sure, there are places in North America with better fishing. But darn few. Some of the country's most incurable anglers rate Lake Charlevoix and the Beaver Island area among the finest small-mouth bass fishing grounds in the U.S.

YET THERE IS MORE than the promise that fish are available for the catching to recommend Charlevoix as a choice fishing area. You mustn't overlook the unsurpassed drama of our clean water, cool air, big hardwood and birch trees and quiet mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But where to go and how to do it?

If you're after smallmouth bass or perch try Lake Charlevoix. The South Arm is generally good.

Your best choice of lures for Lake Charlevoix bass will be Jig - A - Do streamers in brown, white and yellow colors. Others this column can vouch for are small (quarter-ounce) dardevils in red-and-white and pearl colors, Jig-A-Do crawlers, number-two size spinners, Super Dupers, Flatfish and Heddon's Cobra. (Worms are also reputed to catch fish.) You can buy any, or all, of these lures at Staley's Hardware and other local stores.

BIG BASS SUCH as those on this stringer come from Lake Charlevoix.

FOR SPECIFIC TIPS on where the current Lake Charlevoix hotspots are ask Clarence Odmark.

Staley at his hardware, Irv Drost at Irv's Cocktail Lounge, Bernie Ward at Ward's Boat Livory, or Mearle Scott in Ironton.

You can fish Lake Charlevoix from a boat or with waders. There are many areas of the South Arm that can be waded. Sometimes they produce nice bass during mid-day, but evening or morning is usually best. If you're fishing from a boat try casting or trolling right off the edge of bullrushes or boulder-strewn areas.

Throw your lure into likely looking areas. When it hits the water let it sink and remain still for a few seconds; you will often get a strike the minute you finally move it. If there is no strike retrieve it a few feet and then let it sink and rest again before moving it.

If you want to do some exploring try the nearby shoreline of Lake Michigan. Once again, you can wade or use a boat. The same lures and techniques as used on Lake Charlevoix will stand you in good stead.

IF SMALLER lakes are your forte look at a map and pick one of the many directly south of town in Charlevoix County or Antrim County. Though few of them have public access sites, you can usually talk a property owner into letting you trespass. He may even have boats to rent.

You will probably be amazed to find you have to share these lightly fished lakes with only one or two other boats; and sometimes you'll be all alone.

Here's a list of ten smaller lakes worth trying.
--Lake 26 (Lake Marion), for pike, bass and panfish.
--Nowland Lake, for pike, bass and panfish.
--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and musky.
--Susan Lake, for small pike.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.
--Walloon Lake, for trout, pike, bass, panfish.
--West Twin Lake for bass and pike.
--St. Clair Lake (in Ellsworth), for bass, panfish and even an occasional trout.
--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, pike, and maybe a musky.
--Toad Lake (south of Ellsworth) for pike, bass and panfish.

ALL OF THESE lakes have the fish in them that are mentioned. . . that's guaranteed by this writer. Catching them is up to you. Try using the same lures recommended for Lake Charlevoix. Arborgast's new weedless Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers and Hawaiian Wig-glers are also productive numbers. You can find your way to these lakes by asking for maps of Charlevoix and Antrim County, which are available at most motels, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Courier.

If you taste runs more to stream fishing for trout, try the Jordan River south of East Jordan, or the Maple River near Pellston. The Bear River between Walloon Lake and Petoskey also has trout, but is hard to fish. The same holds true with the Boyne River. There are also any number of small, bushy streams with good populations of trout (and usually mosquitoes).

LIFEGUARD KATHY SEIDL

Kathy on the Job

Adding to the natural attractiveness of the Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix shorelines this summer is pretty Kathy Seidl, 19, daughter of Lt. James Seidl, executive officer of Coast Guard Group headquarters in Charlevoix.

Swimmers will find Kathy stationed either at the Ferry Ave. beach on Lake Charlevoix or the Lake Michigan beach at the foot of Park.

Kathy received her senior lifesaving certificate last year in Seattle and served as a lifeguard at a country club before coming to Charlevoix in August.

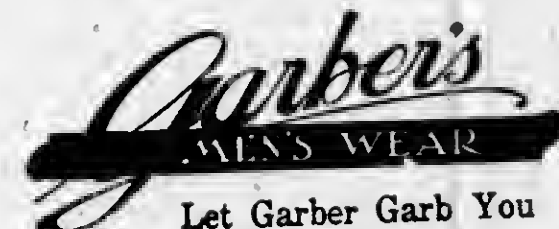

As a Coast Guard daughter Kathy has lived in waterfront towns across America. She puts Charlevoix right up near the top of her list of favorite cities, along with Honolulu.

When her lifesaving duties are done for the day, Kathy reports to the Weathervane where she is a cocktail hostess.

NATURE PUTS ON ever-changing drama for campers at Bell's Bay. Wide vistas of water, beach and rugged forests, seen here, are only part of the view. Deer are frequent visitors.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the camp ground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets. Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the World is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay. For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of

Nature and the conveniences of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

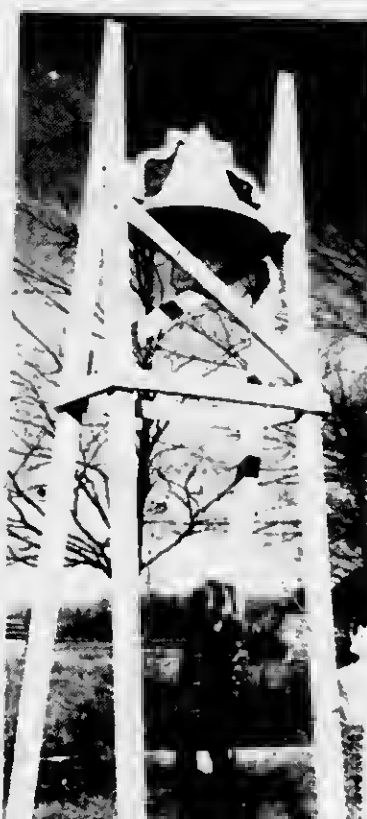

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake. Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

WHEN THIS bell or the Ironton School first called citizens to meetings in the Township Hall James K. Polk was President of the United States and American soldiers were fighting in Mexico. That was in 1848. The bell has been serving Ironton ever since. In 1883 it was moved from the Ironton Iron Works to the then new school. When the present school was constructed in 1963 the community could not part with its bell. It still calls the kids in from recess and lunch.

Greensky Church Part of State's Indian History

GREENSKY HILL MISSION
Here in the 1840's the Chippewa Indian missionary, Peter Greensky, established a Protestant mission in an area where legend says Indian chiefs once held their councils. New trees have been planted in an arrangement similar to that of the trees that made up the original council circle. Mission services first were held in a rude building of boughs and bark. In the 1850's the Indians built the present church. It is a fine example of the old log style construction with hand-hewn timbers and notched corners. Windows, doors and much of the lumber were brought by canoe from Traverse City to Lake Charlevoix and then carried two miles to this site. Methodist services for the Indian congregation have been held here regularly to the present.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable longboats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist

Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

LT. COMDR. Dale Foster is one of the many Coast Guard officers and men stationed in the area whose job it is to provide for the safety of commercial and pleasure craft plying northern Michigan waters. Foster is skipper of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew.

Water Safety Is Aim Of U.S. Coast Guard

Three Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix. Their primary function is the safety of all those who travel the waters of northern Michigan. In addition to the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew whose home port is Charlevoix Harbor, the city also hosts the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and the group headquarters for all Coast Guard operations in northern Michigan. Commanding officer of the Sundew is Lt. Comdr. Dale Foster who assumed command of the ship in July. Group commander is Lt. Charles Millrad, while the station is under the command of Harland Speer, En. C. Speer has filled his post only since Aug. 6.

The Coast Guard celebrated its 175th anniversary Aug. 4, making it one of the oldest U.S. military services.

Recently, Coast Guard fleet units were assigned to the troubled waters off Vietnam. The Guard was sent because of its long experience in search and rescue, law enforcement and boarding operations.

Adm. E. J. Roland, Commandant of the Coast Guard predicts the decade ahead will be one of the busiest and most exciting in the Coast Guard's history. As always, he said, the Coast Guard will dedicate all of its resources towards providing the American people with the most effective maritime safety service in the world.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found no where else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Poison Ivy: Vacation Villain

Poison ivy, which is common in some of the wilderness areas around Charlevoix, can cause suffering to sensitive individuals, leading to expensive medical bills and sometimes a ruined vacation. Learn to recognize it. Then avoid it.

The leaves of the plant are smooth, glossy and firm and the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. They grow in threes and are borne alternately on the stem. In early summer, whitish dull flowers grow from the axils of the leaves and are succeeded by round, dull white fruits the size of a field pea.

THE OFFENDING substance is an oil which is present throughout the entire plant and which, upon contact with the skin of a sensitive person, creates a toxic action. Even the handling of animals and automobile tires which have come in contact with the plant will transmit the oil to the handler.

The oil will stick for an indefinite period to clothing, boots and tools and from these it is easily transmitted to hands, face and any exposed part of the body. If you have been contaminated with the oil, act at once. In the susceptible individual, the irritant already will have begun to cause a sensitivity reaction.

WASH THE contaminated parts of the body with thorough latherings of soap and repeated rinsings with water. Yellow laundry soap is preferable to toilet soap. After thorough washing, a neutral talc, or corn starch may be applied.

Contaminated clothing should be washed thoroughly and repeatedly with soap and water. If the clothing has to be dry-cleaned and you are sending it out, wrap it carefully and label it "contaminated with poison ivy." Thoroughly cleanse contaminated tools and equipment with a safety solvent.

Should a rash develop after precautionary soap and water measures have been taken, and medical aid is not immediately available, apply a thick paste of soap; let it dry and leave on overnight; or use a calamine solution or other approved medication. Protect the inflamed skin from further irritants. Cool compresses of ice water or applications of corn starch will help relieve inflammation.

POISON IVY? Sometimes it's hard to tell. Vacationers are cautioned to look for a plant with smooth, firm, glossy leaves, with the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. Leaves grow in threes, and appear alternately on the stem. At this time of year, the plant may be identified by small white berries, the size of field peas.

IF YOU are working in an area where the plant is growing, wear clothing to cover as much of the skin as possible. Tuck plant legs inside boot tops. Leather laces do not retain as much oil as cotton laces.

Better, wear rubber boots and gloves, washing them at the end of the day.

Poison ivy should be burned only in isolated areas. Avoid contact with the smoke; particularly avoid getting it in the eyes, or inhaling it. The oil in the plant may be vaporized, and the vapor, carried by the smoke, may cause the sensitive to breakout some distance from the burning plant itself.

Consumers PowerCo.'s Big become a symbol of Charle-voix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty.

Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the lushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Don't Stow Tackle Yet, Anglers Told

The fisherman who puts his tackle away just because dog days have arrived may be missing some of the most exciting sport of the year. That's the message from Dick Kotis, fishing expert from Arbogast.

"The secret of success during dog days," Kotis reveals, "is to go out at night." This advice makes good sense. Many of America's best game fish - largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleyes, brook trout, channel catfish - tend to be nocturnal anyway. And through the heat of the summer, they do nearly all of their feeding after dark and after too many fishermen have gone home.

BUT HOW do you fish after dark? "For bass," replies Kotis, "use surface plugs in the same places you are likely to find bass early in the season."

Cast your topwater lures along shallow shorelines or beside weedbeds. And never neglect to toss your topwater lure around boat docks, piers and pilings. During the hours of darkness this is like playing with dynamite.

Fishing at night is also a pleasant way to "escape." Skiers and speedboaters have retreated to dry land and the waters belong exclusively to fishermen. An angler can relax and light up a pipe. Next thing he knows, a lunker bass will be caving on the end of this line.

HUNDREDS of swimmers flocked to the Lake Michigan Beach August 5 when the temperature climbed into the 80's in Charlevoix. By the same token, downtown streets were virtually deserted as tourists and townspeople alike sought relief from the heat. Complementing the natural beauty of the Lake Michigan beach were quite a number of girls in bikinis.

Tips for Water Safety

Mid-summer is a good time to review safe swimming practices, particularly in an area like Charlevoix which abounds with excellent bathing facilities.

One of the cardinal rules of safe swimming is never to go into the water alone. Make sure you have a pal along to help-or run for help-if you need it.

Another old-time safety precaution which still makes sense is to wait an hour after eating before going into the water. Digesting a meal is strenuous activity, and the stomach demands and gets an increased blood supply after eating.

Exercising muscles also need more blood, and the swimmer who eats and then goes swimming is placing too great a burden on his circulatory system. Cramps are likely to result.

Another wise precaution is to swim only inside those areas marked off as a safe swimming area. This is the area that the guard on duty can effectively oversee. Don't complicate his job by swimming out-of-bounds.

Swimmers also should keep in mind that painful sunburn can result from over-exposure, particularly near water.

where bathers are exposed to the added reflection of the sun's rays. Many a promising vacation has been spoiled by a severe case of sunburn on the first day. Take the sunbathing stages, and you'll take home a suntan to be proud of.

Great fires from little embers grow; be careful with fire in the woods.

Although a person could survive on only 6 pints of water per day, Americans are using at least 150 gallons per day in their homes, reports the National Wildlife Federation. During National Wildlife

Week, March 14-20, the Federation is calling on every citizen to help "FIGHT DIRTY WATER"—and keep America's supply of water clean and usable.

THE CHARLEVOIX Municipal Golf Course, on US-31 at the north city limits, welcomes summer vacationers to enjoy its fairways. For a mere $1.75 golfers can play the par 37, 3,100 yard nine-hole course.

More exports originate in Detroit than in New York City, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce Export Origins Study.

Shuffleboard courts and equipment are available for visitors at East Park—where the boats dock on Round Lake—and at the City's Lake Michigan beach. The East Park courts stay open as late as there are players. Kingspin at the East Park courts is King Sounders.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture estimates the value of Michigan's annual agricultural exports at $134 million.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan, off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation. Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Island, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings, the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James Bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes.

Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which lands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James Bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half-dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

Randy Davey of Muskegon is only 13 years old, but he has a fish story to tell that nobody will believe if Randy lives to be 100.

Randy and his sister, Pamela 15, are visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Valois A. Avery of Charlevoix. One day last week the Averages took them fishing to Thunder Bay River near Atlanta.

When Randy ran out of bait, he slipped at blackberry on his hook and cast it into shallow water near a reed bed. No sooner had the bait hit the water when a small mallard duck fluttered out of the weeds and gobbled the blackberry, hook and all.

Randy reeled in the duck and Avery removed the hook from the bottom of the duck's bill. They put the bird back in the water, and it paddled away apparently unharmed. It was soon joined by its mother and two other ducklings in the middle of the river.

Come to think of it, that duck is going to have quite a story to tell, too, about the time he tried blackberries for lunch...

Water is America's most valuable and used natural resource, claims the National Wildlife Federation. By 1980 the nation will need an estimated 600 billion gallons of water daily.

One If by Land, Two If by Sea: But Some Come by Air

VACATIONERS whose time is at a premium often arrive at Charlevoix city airport. Others simply prefer flying to land travel. These small craft can cut travel time from such metropolitan areas as Detroit and Chicago to less than half the time it would take to drive.

FOR YEARS, the old city airport (left above) has welcomed air travelers to Charlevoix. The new air port (right) is almost completed, however, and should be ready for business in the near future. The building will house air control facilities and a reception lounge.

Located just south of the city off U.S. 31, the Charlevoix Airport has five runways waiting to receive incoming planes.

The longest runway, a 3,500 foot east-west strip, is paved. It is paralleled by a 3,000 foot sod strip.

The airfield has three other sod runways to accommodate plans under all wind conditions.

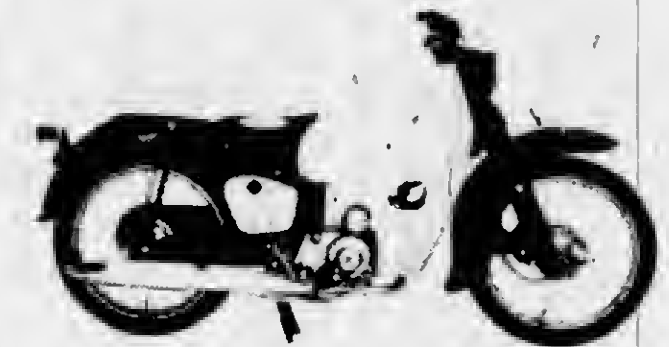

A 2,900 - foot runway lies southwest and northeast; a 2,500-foot strip lies north and south; and a 2,400-foot strip lies northwest and southeast. The field can accommodate most medium size aircraft, as large as a DC-3 or a Gulfstream.

There are no accurate figures as to how many planes use the field to the course of a year. Some winter days, the field is practically deserted. Yet 30 or 40 planes may come in or out on a clear summer day.

Airport offices will move shortly to a new structure on the field with an Alpine motif.

KENNETH HARRIS rolls up his shirt, while Dr. A. F. Litzemberger of Boyne City listens for signs of heart or lung trouble. The physical is a prerequisite for boys wishing to go out for football.

15 - YEAR - OLD Charles Paterka checks equipment for correct size in preparation for first scrimmage of season Aug. 30. The boys were outfitted at the same time they took their physicals.

It's Kickoff Time

Dozens of football hopefuls showed up at Charlevoix High School gym Aug. 23 to let Coach Don Carey know they'd like to be on the team.

But before scrimmaging on the field they had to tangle with permission forms and stethoscopes.

On hand to give the physicals was Dr. A. F. Litzemberger of Boyne City. Each boy was tested for heart and lung disease, upper respiratory infections, and rupture.

Those who passed must get signed permission from their parents before putting the ball around.

Coach Carey also had practice uniforms and protective clothing arranged by size on the stands in the gym so the boys could get themselves outfitted and be ready for the first practice of the season at 7:30 a.m. Aug. 30.

Swim Races Set Sunday at Depot

The City swimming championships and the issuing of Red Cross swimming certificates of merit will bring to a close the Recreation Department's swimming program.

A record 112 youngsters passed Red Cross requirements and will be issued awards for their achievements Sunday in a brief ceremony held at the Depot Beach at 1:30 just prior to the finals of the City swimming races. Those that fell short of meeting Red Cross swimming skill standards will be given certificates indicating they took part in the local program.

Hot Lunch Cost Up 2 to 5 Cents

Cost of hot lunches in Charlevoix schools will be increased two to five cents this year, according to Superintendent Rex E. Milligan.

He said the boost was necessitated by rising food costs and decreased state reimbursement.

The price hike at the elementary school will boost the cost of a lunch from 22 to 24 cents, bringing weekly meal tickets to $1.20.

Cost at the high school will go from 27 to 29 cents, or $1.45 a week.

On a daily basis, hot lunches will jump from 25 to 30 cents at the elementary school and from 30 to 35 cents at the High School.

Cafeteria workers rebired this year are Mrs. Marie Blissett, manager; Mrs. Rose Hill-ton; Mrs. Norma Cunningham; Mrs. Ellen Copeland and Mrs. Ruth Swanson.

Over 200 youngsters enjoyed instruction in the six-week school, instructors were Joel Arvillie and Kathy Seidl.

FRIDAY will be the preliminaries for both boys and girls 8-13 years of age. The boys will meet at 10 a.m., with the girls slated for 2 p.m. Again the groups will be divided with eight, nine, and ten in the junior division with eleven, twelve, and thirteen in the senior section. There will be two races for those over thirteen, the 50 yard freestyle and the 75 yard individual medley.

Races for the 6-13 age group include freestyle, breaststroke, and back stroke over various distances. Ribbons will be awarded for the first three finishers. The Public is invited.

Seven teenagers have nearly completed requirements for their Junior Life Saving certificates, having just recently completed a four mile swim. These are Nick Paolone, Judy Somerville, Ann Bergman, Tom Bergman, Eric Peterson, Jim Seidl, and Jim Aronovsky.

For the first time in the history of the program a class went beyond Jr. life saving. Erin Arvillie, Ellen Arvillie, Jerry Fochtman, and Georgia Lusk completed the course for advanced swimmers and will be eligible for Senior Life Saving, which may be offered for the first time next year.

THE FOLLOWING earned their swimmers certificate and badge: Judy Farkas, Dave Fochtman, Nancy Fochtman, Gary Forbrig, Mary Jo Goss, Randy Gustafson, Shelly Stuzic, Eric Hillman, CT.

'Deck' Ready to Roll

The Deck Cocktail Lounge, located in the doomed Holiday Beach Hotel, may be open for business this weekend, thanks to a resolution passed by City Council endorsing issuance of a new liquor license and dance hall permit by the state Liquor Control Commission.

The Deck is owned by Henry Hogan, Birmingham developer, who plans to build a nine-story hotel at the site within the next three years.

In the meantime, he would like to get his cocktail lounge back in operation. The lounge has not been open this summer, since the Liquor Commission declared the old license null and void because of non-use.

HOGAN SAID in July that he had a staff of four and a five man band ready to go once the commission approved a new license.

Late Monday afternoon, City Attorney John Michael received word that the commission, meeting in Gaylord, was ready to go ahead, contingent upon city approval.

The Council promptly passed a resolution endorsing the license.

In other Council business, Councilman Del Terrell said he had just received City Superintendent James Taylor's survey of the space available in Charlevoix Cemetery and had not had a chance to go over it with cemetery committee members.

Interpretations of the survey were conflicting. Taylor's figures show that there are an average of less than 70 burials a year in the city cemetery. With 6,910 graves unfilled, the present site will be good for another 127 years.

Councilmen were quick to point out that sometimes only one or two graves are used in an eight grave plot, and the present cemetery has a life expectancy of only about 20 years.

The problem came up when the state Highway Department announced that it would like about three acres of cemetery property to relocate Route 66. Leon Albers, a state highway representative attending the meeting, said two weeks ago that the state will take the property by right of eminent domain, unless the city acts. He complained Monday night that the matter has been hanging fire for six weeks.

The Council turned the problem over to committee, with the power to act.

The cemetery committee has investigated acquiring ad-

STACKED CHAIRS, mop buckets and push brooms will be replaced by students Sept. 13 when Charlevoix schools reopen for the school year. Superintendent Rex E. Milligan expects about 50 new students this year, pushing attendance to 1,200.

School Bell to Ring Sept. 13 in City

Charlevoix Public Schools will open for the new school year Sept. 13, according to Rex E. Milligan, Superintendent.

Milligan says he expects an increase of about 50 students, this year, based on increases in previous years. This would bring total enrollment to about 1,200 students.

First day of school for teachers will be Sept. 10 when they will report for room assignments and orientation.

Mrs. Joyce Rypkema, Mrs. Arlette Harris, Mrs. Carolyn Klooster and Mrs. Jeanne Seymour are joining the staff at the elementary school. Mrs. Rypkema will teach 5th grade, Mrs. Klooster 4th grade and Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Martin first and third.

IN ADDITION, Mrs. Jane Leither will handle special education assignments. Three elementary teachers, Mrs. Louise Kowbel, Mrs. Florence Moeller and Miss Artyle Roberts will not be returning this year.

Former librarian Laura Courtade will be succeeded by Mrs. Lucille Martin.

At the High School, Glen Taylor will replace Ray Kipke in the mathematics department.

School contracts let at the last board meeting included one to the Carey Oil Co. to supply gasoline at 14.2 cents a gallon; Standard Oil Co. for fuel oil at 13.25 cents a gallon; and Oscoda Oil Co. for No. 6 fuel oil used in the school furnace at 8.57 cents a gallon.

Farm Bureau was awarded an insurance contract for $656.42, covering 11 school buses, two cars and one tractor.

The board also allocated $200 to lengthen the bus garage to accommodate two new 66 passenger Dodge buses.

Members also agreed to administer the School for Retarded Children if a state qualified teacher can be found.

Motel Possible on Site

A development corporation with offices in Fort Wayne, Ind., plans to build either an exclusive apartment house or a combined apartment-motel on property it recently acquired on Michigan Avenue.

The move will mean destruction, probably this fall, of three palatial turn-of-the-century summer homes between Michigan Avenue and the lake shore.

The property, located at 307 311, and 313 Michigan, has been sold by George Houston to Ocean Lake Inc., a development corporation owned jointly by Scott L. Hunter of Charlevoix, Donald H. Perrey of Fort Wayne and Hugh McCandless of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

OCEAN LAKE was incorporated under Michigan law this summer to purchase the property and turn it to commercial use, according to Hunter.

He said no plans are de-

Judge Weighs Lake Louise Tax Levy Case

Charlevoix County Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown is still deliberating a lawsuit filed by the Lake Louise Christian Community against the Township of Hudson.

The religious group contends that it was assessed improperly for certain parcels of property it owns near Lake Louise.

In its bill of complaint, the organization says that it is not a church as such, but has for its object the teaching of religious principles and associating together for religious work, including educational, charitable and benevolent purposes.

CERTAIN of the group's property is tax exempt, but Hudson Township says the parcels on which a tax have been levied are not being used for any purpose, religious or otherwise.

The assessment has been upheld by the township Board of Review and the Michigan State Tax Commission.

The Lake Louise group paid the taxes, amounting to $1,479.97, "under protest" last year. It would like the money returned and no further taxes levied.

In a cross bill, the Township contends the property is taxable, and that the issue actually is a matter for the tax commission, not the circuit court, to decide.

Land Sale Ropes Tie City in Knots

How should a city handle the sale of property it owns to private individuals?

This was one of the problems city fathers wrestled with at Council meeting Monday night.

When an individual asks to buy city land which is no longer of any value to the community, should the sale be made outright to that individual?

Or should the property be put up for bids, so that everyone may have a crack at it?

BOTH SYSTEMS have been used in the past, and some councilmen seemed to hanker for a consistent way of doing (Continued on back page)

New AF Chief Takes Over

Lt. Col. Joseph King

Maj. Alvin J. Aronovsky will assume command tomorrow (Aug. 26) of the 10th Radar Bomb Scoring Detachment at Bay Shore, relieving Lt. Col. Joseph King who will take over a similar command in Watertown, N.Y., next month.

There will be no traditional change of command ceremony because Maj. Aronovsky is on temporary duty in Louisiana working with an RRS "express train," according to Col. King.

The new CO and his family have lived at 203 E. Dixon in Charlevoix for the past year while the major served as operations officer for the local RRS Detachment.

THE ARONOVSKYS have five children: Jim, 12; Linda, 11; Mike, 7; Sara 6; and Miriam, 1.

The Kings, who have been living in the Earl Young lakeside home adjacent to the hospital, plan to spend some time at their summer cottage in Tidoute, Pa., before going to Watertown.

The Kings have two sons, William, 13, and Charles, in the Navy, and one daughter, Mrs. Sally Ewing of Pennsylvania.

Nonfarm Jobs Climb in July, U.S. Reports

The July nonfarm payroll employment data showed a continuation of the favorable employment trend of recent months, the U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. After allowance for seasonal movements, total payroll employment rose by 170,000.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, factory employment moved up by 90,000, passing for the first time the previous record established during World War II. At a level of 60.7 million, payroll employment was up 2.3 million from July 1964.

THE JOB situation in manufacturing, which improved sharply during the past year, continued to be favorable in July. The over-the-month improvement was concentrated in the five major metals and metal-using industries.

Primary metals and machinery both registered seasonally adjusted increases in excess of 20,000; fabricated metals, transportation equipment, and electrical equipment were up by 10,000 to 15,000 each. Practically all of the manufacturing improvement occurred in the production worker category.

THE FACTORY workweek, at 41.1 hours, recorded its usual seasonal decline from June but was at the highest July level since 1945. Overtime, at 3.5 hours in July, was also a peak for the month since the series was started in 1956. With hourly earnings unchanged and the workweek down slightly.

RACERS AWAIT Instructions at foot of control tower at the second Fun N Sun motorcycle seramble at the Pete Winniek farm northeast of Charlevoix. Public reaction to the first seramble in July was so enthusiastic that the club scheduled a second meet. Now they're talking about a third in September.

ON YOUR MARK, get set, and these eyes are ready to go. Hundreds of spectators jammed the turf course Sunday to see lots of action, spills, thrills, but no injuries. Farmer Pete Winniek who leases the land to the club is talking about putting in a drag strip in the near future.

MICHIGAN STATE FAIR

AUG. 27-SEPT. 6

DETROIT

Sputnik, Show Tunes Spark Band Concert

The Charlevoix City Band concert Aug. 18 was super-califregilisticexpialidocious--to use a word from one of the most popular medleys of the evening.

Young people in particular almost turned the concert into a sing-along when the band broke into "A Little Bit of Sugar Makes the Medicine Go Down" and "Chim - Chim - Cher!" from "Mary Poppins."

THE CONCERT, under the direction of Clarence Odmark, was the last appearance of the summer for at least three musicians.

Charlesists Dwight and Judy Smith are leaving for Lansing where Dwight directs the Eastern High School Band. He is the son of Charlevoix Police Chief Joe Smith.

Another departing member is Bob Odmark who has left for the University of Michigan where is a sophomore in the school of music. Bob is a member of U. of M.'s famed marching band.

ONE NUMBER at the Wednesday concert which was particularly well received was "Orpheus in the Underworld" by Offenbach, a number which contains many passages familiar today as popular music. Dwight Smith and Erin Arvilla (oboe) both soloed in "Orpheus."

A man-made space phenomenon almost stole the thunder from Herbert Clarke's "Stars in a Velvety Sky." The number had no sooner ended than a man-made satellite hovered to view above the bandstand, travelling slowly across the sky and disappearing into the northeast.

The satellite appeared very similar to the American Echo I, but it could have been almost any one of more than 360

Talk of the Town

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rader were his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoffman son, Richard, and daughter, Barbara of Cincinnati. Mr. Hoffman and Barbara were here for the weekend. The others remained for a longer visit.

John E. Norton will receive a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering at graduation ceremonies at Michigan University of Technology at Houghton Wednesday evening. Planning to go to Houghton for his graduation are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Norton and son, David. Mrs. Floyd Ikens and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harwood of Flint. He will return here with them for a brief stay before accepting a position in the Detroit area with the Michigan State Highway Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Helise and two children have returned to Detroit after spending several days with his mother, Mrs. William Helise and his sister, Ruth Helise.

Louis Edwards and Tony Paolone returned Monday from a two-day visit in Marquette where they enjoyed a ride aboard the steam train of the Marquette and Huron Mountain Line.

American and Russian space missiles hurtling through space.

"SEMPER PARATUS" was cancelled from the program, and will be incorporated instead into the Aug. 25 program when a singing group from the Coast Guard units in Charlevoix will participate in the program.

Traverse Fair Set Aug. 30 to Sept. 4

The Northwestern Michigan Fair will be held Aug. 30 to Sept. 4 at the Traverse City Fair Grounds.

Heading the entertainment will be Tex Ritter, famous country music star, who will appear Saturday night, Sept. 4. There will also be short appearances in the afternoon show on Saturday of Tex Ritter and his company, including Johnnie Turner, the singing ventriloquist; The Del Moralas, jugglers and novelty hand-balancing act; and Connie Zimmerman, popular singer and dancer.

"DAPPER" Dan Fleenor and his Hurricane Hell Drives will be on hand for the tenth straight year with thrilling performances on Monday night, Aug. 30th, and Tuesday afternoon and evening, Aug. 31st.

Kids Day at the fair, always a big occasion with entertainment, contests, and prizes for the small fry will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 1 at 1:30 p.m., Farm Bureau Day is Sept. 2, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Fast harness racing, with purses up to $1,500 will be held at 8 p.m. on Sept. 1, 2, and 3. Horse pulling contests will be held at 2 p.m. on Sept. 2 and 3 and pony pulling contests will be at 2 p.m., Sept. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Jadwin and two sons have returned to Flint after visiting from Wednesday until Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Helise.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Giggand family and Susan Bacet are expected home this weekend from a two weeks trip through the Southwest that included several days at Colorado Springs, Colo.

You May Cut Your Own Hair

.. But you can NOT save your soul!

Jesus fixed it that way. This man is a big man... a rugged business man... experienced in all the ways of life. He is reliable, self-confident and successful. Man is master over a few things but his success fades when God's help ends. So does yours. A man may cut his own hair but it is impossible for him to save his own soul. Whoever you are... whatever you have done... you have a life to live, soul to save, an eternity to spend. You need the help of one far more infinite and much wiser. He is a willing God. Try meeting Him halfway and your luck will change. He won't issue permits on many of the things you do but He welcomes you to His church.

Drivers' TV Test Aug. 30

Charlevoix motorists will have a second chance Monday Aug. 30 to take the National Drivers' Test on television. The program will be rebroadcast over CBS TV (channels 9 and 10) at 10 p.m. Popular response to the May 24 program has prompted the network to present the show again preceding the Labor Day weekend.

MICHIGAN had one of the best participation records of any state in the televised test, according to Gerald W. Shipman, Executive Secretary of the Michigan State Safety Commission. Shipman added, "Perhaps the most thought provoking figure is that in the first test averages put 46% of all viewers in the 'poor' classification of drivers."

Local and area safety councils, labor groups and the State Safety Commission plan to distribute test forms used during the program. Viewers, projected into a "driver's seat" situation, will keep score as they face driving conditions demanding knowledge, judgment and skill.

Krchak Family Holds Reunion

The Krchak family reunion was held at Maple Grove Grange July 31.

Present were Lloyd Anderson and family from Walloon Lake; Eldred Ostrum and family of Charlevoix; Roy Kruse and family of Aurora, Ill.; James Townie and family of Boyne City; John Krchak Jr. and Emil Krchak and family of Crystal Lake, Ill.; Keith Brukle and family of Seattle, Wash.; and Harry Bobb and family of Charlottesville, Va.

Others attending were Murray Dodd and family of Janesville, Wis.; Ralph Townie and family of Boyne Falls; Albert Webster and family of Charlevoix; Rodney Ostrum and family of Indian River; Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Krchak of Elgin, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. John Elzinga of Boyne City; and Ronald Kruse and family of Aurora, Ill.

About 55 members of the family were present and 38 were missing.

Peace Corps Test Announced for Area

Charlevoix area residents will have an opportunity to take the Peace Corps Placement Test Saturday Sept. 11 at the Traverse City test center located in the main Post Office.

No one passes or fails the test and you can't study for it. It measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language. If, for example, test scores indicate limited language acquiring ability, the Peace Corps tries to place the applicant in an English-speaking area. The test is used by the Peace Corps only as a tool in the matching of Volunteers and jobs.

THE PEACE CORPS application is the most important indicator of suitability for Peace Corps service. It must be filled out and brought to the exam unless previously submitted.

Applicants should plan on about one and a half hours at the testing centers, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

Miss Barbara Faye Dyer

Plans Fall Wedding

Miss Barbara Faye Dyer is the bride-elect of Bruce Earl Kroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kroll of Ironton. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dyer of Boyne City, Miss Dyer is a graduate of Boyne City High School and of Bennett Hoyt Institute.

She works for Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company in Boyne City. Her fiancé is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and attended General Motors Institute in Flint. He presently is attending Foremanship School at the Oldsmobile plant in Lansing.

The wedding will take place Oct. 2 at the Ironton Congregational Church.

Top Shows Free At Michigan Fair

Shows by top stars of the entertainment world will be a big bargain at the Michigan State Fair this year.

They'll all be free to State Fair visitors.

Music and fun will be the keynotes in the music shell and on stage in front of the grandstand.

The first Music Shell show will be at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 27, the first evening of the fair, with the nationally known Serendipity Singers on stage.

That group also will present shows from Saturday, Aug. 28, through Wednesday, Sept. 1, at 3, 5:30, and 8:30 p.m. daily.

NBC TELEVISION'S Hullabaloo gang will be on hand for shows at 4, 7 and 9:30 p.m. each day from Saturday through Wednesday. Singing and dancing stars of the fast-moving show include Johnny Rivers, the Four Tops, Lesley Gore, Tony Clarke and the HulaBaloos Dancers. They'll feature all the latest and most popular dances such as the Watusi, Swim, Pony, and Frog.

On Thursday, Sept. 2, a new crew of entertainers will come into the music shell. The Supremes, Detroit's own singing group which has been an international hit, will take the stage at 2, 4:30, and 9 p.m. on Thursday; at 2:30, 5, and 9 Friday through Sunday; and at 3, 5:30, and 9 on Labor Day.

JACK JONES with the Jimmy Wilkins Orchestra will also be on hand those days. They'll go on at 3:30, 6, and 10 Thursday through Sunday, and at 4, 7 and 10 on Labor Day.

Other music shell entertainment will include Honors Band concerts and the Miss Michigan State Fair Contest.

In the coliseum grove, a long list of amateur, semi-professional and professional entertainers will be on hand.

Meanwhile, in front of the grandstand, the Barnes and Carruthers Circus, featuring 15 great acts, will be presented three times daily from Saturday, August 28, through Friday, Sept. 3. The circus, too, is free to State Fair visitors.

In the coliseum, 15 free horse shows will be staged during the fair's 11-day run. And throughout the fair grounds, live music will be provided by various instrumental and vocal groups.

And it's all a bargain. It's all free to State Fair-goers.

Talk of the Town

Farm Loan Confab Held At Standish

Ivan B. Hooper, County Supervisor and Pauline G. Rowe, County Office Clerk planned to attend a program meeting of the Farmers Home Administration at Standish Aug. 24 and 25.

It is one of two meetings held for 94 employees located in 38 county offices throughout Michigan.

Services of the agency are available in all 83 counties in the state. The local office for Charlevoix county is located at the Antrim County Courthouse in Bellaire.

THE PURPOSE of the meeting was to review operations during the past fiscal year and to make plans for an expanded program during the coming year.

A wide range of loan programs of the Farmers Home Administration now serve the adjustment and credit needs of family farmers and rural communities.

Supervised loans are extended to individual persons for family farming operations; farm purchase and development; rural housing; emergency credit needs and for purposes authorized under the Economic Opportunity Act.

Loans to individuals are accompanied by advice on sound farm and home management to help borrowers make profitable use of their land and other resources.

Supervised credit helps eligible applicants improve their farms and homes, increase their incomes, and make a full contribution to the economic growth of their communities.

As borrowers progress to a point of financial stability, they return to private sources of credit. A committee of three farmers certifies eligibility of applicants, the maximum amount of the loan, and reviews the progress of borrowers.

John Bleha, a recent high school graduate, plans to leave Wednesday for Ann Arbor where he will begin his studies as a freshman at the University of Michigan. His brother, Tom, who is visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bleha, will take him to southern Michigan.

DOZENS of boys from Charlevoix and the surrounding area signed up for football and took their pre-practice physicals at the High School Aug. 23. Boys filled out name cards before reporting to the doctor.

Bear Hunts Are Slated at Brimley

Lower Michigan will be closed to all bear hunting this fall, but sportsmen throughout the state can get in on some real brush-busting action in the Upper Peninsula where at least two public hunts have been scheduled during the region's Sept. 1-15 and Oct. 1-Nov. 5 early bear seasons.

Sounding its call to arms is the Michigan Bear Hunters Association which is lining up organized brush chases to take place in the Brimley area Sept. 4-6 and Oct. 1-3.

ANYONE interested in these outings should contact the M.B.H.A. at Central Lake, Mich. Hunters making preparations for the Upper Peninsula's fast - approaching Sept. 1 opener may now purchase their 1965 bear hunting licenses at Conservation Department district offices throughout the state and at a number of northern field offices, including the Cusno wildlife experiment station at Shingleton.

Blackberry Bait Hooks a Mallard

Randy Davey of Muskegon is only 13 years old, but he has a fish story to tell that nobody will believe if Randy lives to be 100.

Randy and his sister, Pamela, 15, are visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Valois A. Avery of Charlevoix. One day last week the Averages took them fishing in Thunder Bay River near Atlanta.

When Randy ran out of bait, he slipped a blackberry on his hook and cast it into shallow water near a reed bed. No sooner had the bait hit the water when a small mallard duck fluttered out of the weeds and gobbled the blackberry, hook and all.

Randy reeled in the duck and Avery removed the hook from the bottom of the duck's bill. They put the bird back in the water, and it paddled away apparently unharmed. It was soon joined by its mother and two other ducklings in the middle of the river.

Come to think of it, that duck is going to have quite a story to tell, too, about the time he tried blackberries for lunch.

Sixty Complete Summer School

Sixty youngsters, 45 from Charlevoix and 15 from Ellsworth, have successfully completed a month-long summer course in reading and mathematics, sponsored by Charlevoix Public Schools.

Superintendent Rex E. Milligan said the youngsters did not receive grades for the course, but worked at their own pace in areas in which they were having trouble during the regular school year.

Museum Is a Rainy Day Retreat

Ed Heise likes antiques, and he thinks many tourists visiting the city might share his fondness for relics of the past. That's why for the past three years Heise has maintained his own private museum at the back of his souvenir shop on Bridge Street.

"I think it's important to give these tourists something to do on a rainy afternoon — just so they'll stick around," Heise says. "There's bound to be rainy days, but as long as there's something for our visitors to do, they'll wait until the weather clears up."

Heise has noted that the museum does an extra — ordinarily good business on days when Lake Michigan is kicking up a fuss and rain clouds have blotted out the sun.

Attesting to the popularity of Heise's "Charlevoix Museum" is the fact that visitors from 38 states registered in his guest book last year.

Heise tries to limit the items on display to articles which actually were in use in the Charlevoix area at some time in the past.

ONE PRIZED item is an ancient buggy which stood unused in Chicago Club stable for decades. Heise has put a new cushion on the front seat, and visitors can climb into the drivers' place to see what it's like to sit behind a real old fashioned dashboard.

Another vehicle on display is a solid, squat sleigh Heise calls a Klondike cutter. It reportedly was used by early doctors in Michigan.

Other sizeable items on display are an ornate parlor pump organ, a gigantic tortoise shell, a spinning wheel, clothes wringers, and dozens of oil lamps of all sizes and shapes.

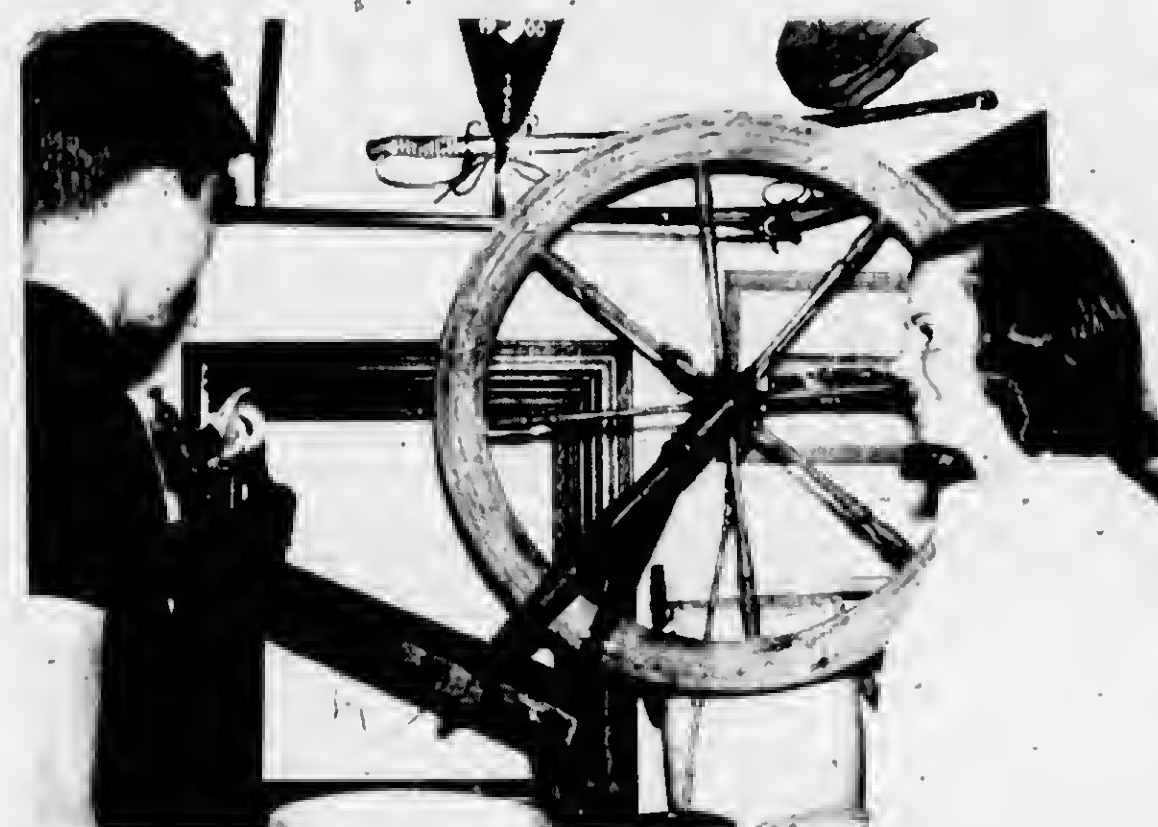

TO HELP maintain his museum, Heise keeps a glass jar near the main entrance. Visitors who find the museum worthwhile, can make a free-will offering.

A couple of recent visitors to the museum on a rainy afternoon were Lynn Christopher, 17, and her brother, Hearne, 14. Their home is in Kansas City, Mo., but their father's yacht, Mary Lynn III, was docked at Harbor Springs and the family was giving Michigan the once over.

Charlevoix was one familiar stop, since the yacht was purchased from D. D. Walker last year.

HEARNE Christopher, 14, of Kansas City, Mo., climbs into seat of antique horse-drawn rig at Charlevoix Museum as his sister Lynn, 17, looks on. The carriage is one of two ancient vehicles on display.

SPINNING WHEELS used to be found in the parlor, but this one wound up in Ed Heise's Bridge Street museum. Above the Christophers take a look at how their ancestors spun yarn to make clothing.

NOT QUITE so old as the spinning wheel is this hand-operated washer wringer, many of which were still in use into the 1920's and 30's. This model is a far cry from today's automatic washers that do everything but fold the wash and put it away.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. Charles Newberry has arrived from Otter Lake to spend some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Patterson. Mrs. Patterson is a patient at the Charlevoix Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Szczepanski have returned to their Detroit home after spending two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Dell Dutcher. Herbert Schofield Jr. returned to Detroit with them for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fiedler had as their recent guests their son and daughter-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Chester Fiedler of Clifton, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Welsford and five children of Itasca.

filters

out harmful impurities
(so they can't block your gas line!)

What does the American FINAL/FILTER really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasolines pick up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER filters out contaminants right at the pump nozzle. If you use your car on the job (and even if you don't) you stay out of trouble when you "fill 'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium. You expect more from Standard and you get it!

Trout Cutoff Oct. 1 In Lake Michigan

Commercial fishing for lake trout will be closed in Lake Michigan after Oct. 1 of this year in the latest move to boost the comeback of these fish in upper Great Lakes waters, the Conservation Department reports.

The shutdown, headlining a series of commercial fishing changes approved last week by the Conservation Commission, is timed to protect 1.2 million yearling fish which were planted last June to kick off efforts for rebuilding Lake Michigan's trout populations. The same restriction has been in effect for several years on Lake Superior where the massive lake trout restoration program has made its greatest gains since the one-two punch of lamprey control and fish plantings were launched in the late 1950's.

IN OTHER action taken by the Commission at its Aug. 12-13 meeting in Iron River, a Nov. 1-30 closed season on whitefish was set for lakes Michigan, Huron, and Superior to protect the fish from commercial fishermen during their peak spawning period in these big waters.

Closed seasons for taking whitefish by commercial netting have run from Oct. 15 time the chamber has shown a profit on Ellsworth Day.

Congratulations to a happy couple in Ellsworth. Mrs. June Boss gave birth to a daughter Aug. 16. Oh yes! Bernie is the father. They named their baby Brenda Sue.

I wonder if the public will know who the dragsters are who got caught Friday night? Notice this correction: Ellsworth Community School will start Sept. 1. A half-day of classes will be held Wednesday and a full day Thursday.

through Dec. 10 in lakes Michigan and Huron, and from Nov. 1 through Nov. 26 in Lake Superior.

ANOTHER measure approved by the Commission will lift the depth restriction on using trap and pound nets to take lake trout and whitefish in the three lakes. For years, commercial fishermen operating in these waters have not been allowed to set impounding nets in waters deeper than 80 feet for catching either kind of fish.

The final change adopted by the Commission will remove the minimum size limit on yellow perch in Lake Erie. All of these commercial fishing changes are scheduled to take effect Oct. 1 of this year.

By Mrs. Ross Alexander, L17-2037

The church picnic held at Whiting Park last Sunday was enjoyed by more than 50 persons. Much fun was had from the various games and contests played and the usual movies were taken by Rev. Harmon and will be shown sometime during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Russell from Bay City were weekend guests at the home of Mrs. Pauline Canfield.

Carolyn and James Vandervall from Ann Arbor spent the past weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Vandervall.

Roy Meyers made a business trip to Philadelphia and New York this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neilsen entertained a group of 30 friends and neighbors with a potluck picnic dinner this Sunday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Howe, who are leaving to make their home in Florida. The best wishes of our community go with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hubbell, former residents from Flint, spent several days this week in Scott's cabins and were guests of Roy and Minnie Meyers on Saturday.

From all reports the fishing has been very good this week.

Mrs. John Butcher of Detroit spent two days last week with Mrs. Lavern Hese. Mrs. Butcher is the former Helen French, a teacher in the Charlevoix elementary school.

Mother, Son Make Summer Wampum

Almost every day this summer, Mrs. Mary DeGuvara of Detroit has set up her Indian craftwork shop on the sidewalk in front of Ed Hesse's souvenir shop.

Mrs. DeGuvara, who specializes in fancy beadwork, operates independently of the souvenir shop, but there's no denying that Mrs. DeGuvara in her colorful costume and headpiece is a real traffic stopper.

The Community Church of God daily vacation Bible camp is to be held Aug. 31 to Sept. 3 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church camp grounds on Loeb Road at Veenstra Road.

The children will meet each morning at the church and be transported to and from the camp. Boys and girls five years of age and up are invited to attend.

They are asked to wear play clothes and bring a sack lunch each day. Milk will be furnished.

There will be Bible stories, songs, nature study, handwork, and recreation. A registration fee of 25 cents is being charged. Mrs. Marie Majors is serving as camp Director.

skilled as his mother in Indian crafts.

"Few people realize the many long hours that go into beadwork," Mrs. DeGuvara says. She pointed out that one pocketbook, which she carries herself, took about six months to complete.

Although mother and son are busy making bracelets, wampum, and change purses throughout the day on Bridge Street, their work won't end when winter comes. Then they'll move their shop back to 15th Street in Detroit where they'll prepare merchandise for next year's customers.

MRS. DEGUVARA is proud of Joseph's skill at beadwork. "You'd never believe it," she says, "but he made his first change purse when he was only four years old."

Mrs. DeGuvara's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Walker are residents of Charlevoix.

Convert to GAS heat now...and avoid the rush.

It happens every fall. Suddenly—right after the first cold snap—thousands of people decide they've had enough of roughing it. Heating contractors are besieged with phone calls. And the Gas conversion rush is on.

Now, actually, it's never too late to start enjoying the benefits that only natural Gas can give. Even, draft-free circulation of clean, warm air. Convenience. Reliability. Economy. Economy. Economy.

But why wait? Why shiver for even a day or two this fall? When, by converting now, you can enjoy the exact degree of comfort you want, when you want it—automatically. Simply by touching a dial.

Conversion takes only a few hours. More than pays for itself in reduced fuel bills. So? Plan ahead. Contact your heating contractor, or call us at 347-8701 in Petoskey, now.

There's never been a better time to start living modern...for less...with natural Gas.

WHAT'S UP with the cats of Charlevoix? They certainly seem to be the most fearless breed of animal extant, and poor Ginny will double that assertion in spades. Back in the day, Ginny could scatter a whole backyard full of cats simply by stepping outside the door and baring a few well-honed biceps.

In Charlevoix, the cats treat her with so much indifference it already has given her a pretty bad complex, particularly since she's trying to install some derring-do into the pup.

The cat next door is a good case in point. I don't know its name, but it probably has one.

Maybe even a title, the way it acts. It greets Ginny's most ferocious attack by stretching out placidly on the lawn and watching the leaves flutter between her paws. If the cat would just notice Gin barking her fool head off, it wouldn't be so bad. But the poor dog might just as well be a butterfly or a milkweed pod, so far as this cat's concerned.

To make matters worse, the pup is watching and time after time she has seen Mama play the role of thunderbolt without so much as creating a ripple on the cat's outward calm.

Complicating things even further, the cat has taken a liking to our front porch -- the very threshold of Ginny's once sacred domain. She sits on the porch rail for hours, dozing in the sun, while Ginny fusses and fumes at her feet, a million years of dog instincts seething inside her but thwarted by the bored indifference of this one inscrutable feline.

I tell you, it's no way to bring up a pup.

WAS THERE a frost? Seems there's an awful lot of dead leaves on the lawn for August. And the roadside shrubs between Ironton and Boyne City sure look as if they'd been bitten. Central Michigan had a frost a couple of weeks ago, but I didn't realize it had come so close to the Lake. Back in geography class, they told us that no matter what else the lakes did, they served to moderate the weather.

AND SPEAKING of the Lake, I heard an interesting viewpoint the other night on why our waters. My informant was an old timer from Manistique (he pronounced it Manis-stick) who said the conservation people are wrong heaping all the blame on the poor sea lamprey. It wasn't the lamprey at all, he said, just overfishing. He recalled that fishermen out of his hometown used to put down 20 or more miles of nets a day just for trout. He claimed the nets were dropped so deep they caught the old "brooder" trout which kept the lake supplied.

Just when Lake Michigan was about fished-out, along came the poor lamprey, a scapegoat if there ever was one. Interesting viewpoint, and it sounds like he may have something.

...

I WASN'T going to mention it, but since others made the same mistake I don't feel too badly about it. You know that ancient capstan to East Park? The silver one that has been there umpty-ump years? The first time I noticed it was during the Waterfront Fair. And, by George, if I didn't think it looked pretty nice, compared to all that other modernistic sculpture. Had sort of an Oriental look about it, it was just about to ask who did it, when I realized my mistake. Come to think of it, that drinking fountain down there has sort of a flair about it, too.

Advanced technology has now resulted in the development of the new improved model Destroilet -- the best, the only solution to a world-wide problem (lousy put rotting pits... no water, no chemicals. There is no flushing, no emptying, no effluent liquids or solids, no plumbing of any kind. Still Destroilet completely does away with human waste! The only three basic electricity 110-115 volt A.C. household current, or 12 volt D.C. battery gas (either LP or natural) and a flow to the outdoors in simplest terms. Destroilet burns human wastes to harmless carbon dioxide and water vapors. This combustion, combined with Destroilet's unique design, ensures a completely odorless bathroom. Destroilet's self-contained operation permits unlimited freedom of application--diverging climates, hot conditions, water problems or other traditional restrictions. A toilet that works anywhere--the reason why Destroilet is widely used throughout North America... and many parts of the world.

Paperwork Ready for State Hunters

Distribution of Michigan's 1965 hunting and trapping licenses and application forms for antlerless deer permits was started this week by the Conservation Department. First mailings were made to Upper Peninsula dealers who are expected to have licenses and permit applications available with shooting and trapping rules by next week. The same forms and licenses, covering the state's deer, small game and furbearer seasons, should be in the hands of Lower Michigan dealers by early September.

HUNTERS planning to apply for some 228,000 antlerless deer permits available for 56 special areas will then have until Oct. 1 to send completed entry forms to the Conservation Department's Lansing office.

As in the past, they must buy firearm deer hunting licenses in order to get permit applications.

As of Aug. 18, the Department had received turkey applications from 7,000 hunters. Through the same date, 9,000 sportsmen had submitted applications for elk licenses.

One Up on Lansing.

It's nice to live in a town where the hospital administration is on the ball. In June the Michigan Legislature passed a law making it mandatory for all hospitals in the state to test their newborns for a long-handled metabolic disorder called phenylketonuria (PKU for short). If untreated, PKU results in mental retardation.

This was old hat for Charlevoix Hospital which had been testing babies for the disease on its own since last Feb. 6. PKU is a relatively rare disease, occurring only once in every 15,000 births. The test for PKU is quite simple, involving analysis of three drops of blood taken from the baby's heel. Testing usually is done the day the baby leaves the hospital. Treatment consists of a special protein-restricted diet which allows the child's brain to develop normally.

Only four cases of the disease have been discovered thus far in Michigan out of the thousands of babies already tested. Yet from a humanitarian standpoint, just one child salvaged from the shadows of mental retardation is worth all the money, time and effort invested in tracking down the disease.

From a practical standpoint, each PKU baby discovered means one less in the state's growing caseload of mental health patients.

Charlevoix Has Done It Again

Charlevoix has done it again!

It's something for a community of less than 3,000 souls to summon up enough enthusiasm to sponsor a "sidewalk sale" every summer and a centennial shindig every 100 years.

Yet twice in less than a month Charlevoix has turned out civic extravaganzas worthy of communities many its size. We refer to the Venetian Festival in July and the Waterfront Fair this past weekend.

Perhaps it's because this was our first brush with each of these activities that we're so impressed. After the Festival, we thought we'd seen just about everything Charlevoix had to offer. We were somewhat surprised to learn that the people behind it weren't too happy with the way some of the events turned out and are determined to make next year's Festival even better.

Then came the Waterfront Fair—a masterpiece of organization and good taste. Most of the credit goes to chairman Mrs. Jack Rader, co-chairman Mrs. Paul Olsen and their able assistants.

The rest of the credit goes to the host of Michigan artists who brought their wares to Charlevoix for the Fair. We're certain we had a good representative sampling of the best Michigan has to offer in the way of painting, sculpture, ceramics and allied arts.

'We Had to Do Something'

Two items appeared in last week's Courier which were not related but which might have a bearing on one another.

One was an account of the justice court trial of five youths who pleaded guilty to staging a mock mugging in East Park, to the consternation of yachters and passersby.

The youths waylaid their stage victim, roughed him up, dumped his supposedly lifeless form into the trunk of a Corvair, and sped off. Alarmed spectators duly notified police who arrested the youths. Justice John Connelly fined them $20 each and $5 costs.

Asked why they did it, the boys told Connelly, "We just had to do something."

The second item was a picture and cutlines about two young fellows from Wyoming, Mich., on a bicycle trip to the Straits and back. They had already seen The Bridge and were on their way home when the Courier photographer spotted them pedaling south on U.S. 31 hell bent for election.

The boys had been away from home a week, traveling about 100 miles a day. They were well tanned and undoubtedly had acquired some new muscles along the way which will stand them in good stead this fall when football practice starts. They

We were particularly pleased with the enthusiasm of the participating artists, many of whom were attending their first Waterfront Fair. Almost to a man, they agreed that Charlevoix had the most attractive setting for such a fair in Michigan. Some of the artists indicated that they have done better financially in other cities (notably Ann Arbor) but no where have they found such an attractive location to display their wares.

It was interesting to note that the number of abstract paintings at the Fair was by far in the minority, with representational art making up an estimated 90 per cent or more of the oils, water colors, pastels, charcoals, and pen and ink drawings on display. This seems to be in keeping with a world-wide trend away from abstractions. At one fair in Brussels last winter, not a single abstract painting was shown.

We don't pretend to know why this changeabout in the art world, but it could mean that after the cataclysmic global upheavals of the 1930's, 40's and 50's, that we're learning to live with ourselves again.

A big hand for the weatherman also is in order. He served up the most perfect day of the summer for the Waterfront Fair. The nearest cloud was over Milwaukee, and a fair breeze kept the sun from raising too many blisters.

carried sleeping bags, a few changes of underwear, and enough groceries to keep them alive and kicking between grocery stores.

They were seeing an awful lot of Michigan, meeting new people, and picking up a measure of self reliance which they never would have acquired sitting at home in Wyoming.

Undoubtedly when they stopped for the night they were too road-weary to pick fights with each other for the sake of startling any adults who might be watching.

Yet these, too, were a couple of fellows who "just had to do something" and did it. Fortunately, they found out young enough that in order to have fun you don't have to always be at loggerheads with the law. Somewhere they discovered that in order to get your kicks, you don't have to fracture the law, or even bend it a little.

Psychologists say the teen years are a time for testing the limits of society and probing the far reaches of acceptable behavior. Maybe so. But it seems too many young Charlevoixians spend too much time testing, testing, testing, without ever coming to any conclusions about how much society will put up with. You'd think they'd get tired flirting with trouble and just take a bicycle trip or something to get away from it all.

IT'S amazing how some people get around without even leaving town. . . Just recently our senior brigadier, Ted Bergman, was showing me a clipping his son, Doug, who is in Vietnam with the U.S. Army, had sent home. . . He'd found it in the Stars and Stripes and just couldn't believe his eyes for it was one of Edith Gilbert's syndicated columns. . . I think it was Brendan LaBlance who had seen it in Korea where he is stationed with the Army. . . Mrs. Gilbert was as surprised as anyone to find that her articles were appearing in this service publication. . .

NOT LONG ago I happened to ask Harold Totten how he was doing with his garden this year. . . That simple question touched a sore spot for it seems that he has taken on all the wild life in the general area of the garden located along US 31 south of town. . . Between the porcupines and the raccoons he's fighting a losing battle. . . Not one to throw in the sponge without a battle, he conceived all sorts of ploys and spread them around the garden in order to keep out hungry intruders. . . They worked for a short time but then the rains came and that was washed away. . . Finally, in desperation, he admitted defeat. . . And the animals now feast on the succulent sweet corn and the other garden delicacies that might meet their tastes while the Tottens and their friends with whom they shared go hungry. . . Such is the life of the gardener!

THIS IS reminiscent of the battle that went on for years between Pete Burns and the raccoons. . . Like Harold, Pete gave up and now depends on someone else to battle the little monsters in order to supply him with sweet corn and other garden goodies. . .

ARRIVING in the mall recently was my first communication from the traveling Bennetts, R. G., that is. . . They left recently for the West where they planned to spend a little time in the Yellowstone Park area before departing via Missoula, Mont., for Vancouver, British Columbia, where they plan to take the ferry up the inland route to Alaska. . . Mrs. B. wrote that they'd caught lots of fish in Yellowstone Lake, were feeling fine and going strong. . . They'll have to get with it if they're to have any time in Alaska for the last ferry returns via the inland water route in September. . .

WHEN I was a kid we used to pick water lilies in Susan Lake. . . they were so big and colorful and smelled so sweet. . . I've often wondered if they still grow there. . . SUSAN lake reminds me, too, of the big birds that used to live in the shallows at the south end of the pretty little inland lake. . . We called them loons and used to get a big kick out of seeing them standing on one leg in the shallow water. . . When I remember most, however, is their weird cry that used to scare us half to death. . . Wonder if they still live there. . .

THIS IS an SOS Pm passing along to you from Lt. David Smith who heads the Local Sea Scout ship. . . He tells me they have a new meeting place that they can really call their own and they're looking for things nautical with which to decorate it. . . They're giving the place a new coat of paint and hope to make it a trim 'ship'. . . but it's a big place and needs something to make it more like 'home'. . . Something, for instance, like an old ship's wheel, or lanterns, or just about anything along that line to make it look like something other than a big, bare room. . . If you've anything you'd like to loan or give the boys, get in touch with one of the Scouts or Lt. Smith. . . They'll all appreciate your contribution to their cause. . .

LIKE ALL Scouts units they're also looking for some adult assistance. . . If you're interested in boys this age and want to do something worth while, why don't you get in touch. . . I kid you not when I tell you that you'll find this a most gratifying experience. . .

THOUGH OTHER Scout units, Boy Cub, girl and Brownie Scouts, won't be getting started until school opens, you might start right now thinking about the assistance you might offer any one of these programs. . . If your youngsters are grown up, think back to the time when others gave their time that they might reap the benefits of the various programs and offer your assistance. . . If you don't know who to call, I'll be happy to tell you. . . It would mean a lot to have someone volunteer as a Den Mother or Brownie leader or offer to give some time to the older groups. . . Why not consider it now and be prepared to help when you're needed and that won't be long. . .

UM Scientists Probe Lake Michigan Depths

HIGHLAND LASSIE heads across Round Lake for Pine River Channel and another day of underwater research off the Lake Michigan Islands.

Two boats with a common interest in Lake Michigan had a rendezvous in Round Lake Aug. 19.

They were the Inland Seas and the Highland Lassie II, both operated by the Great Lakes Research Division of the University of Michigan's Institute of Science and Technology.

The Highland Lassie, a 40-foot yacht, is docked at Hamilton's boatyard and has been here all summer. The Inland Seas has been working the waters of northern Lake Michigan and came into port to give the crew a night in town.

THE WORK of the Highland Lassie is largely geologic. A crew of three scientists headed by Bill French makes daily trips into Lake Michigan off Charlevoix to determine the exact composition of the lake bottom. They do the same thing under water that geologists do on land.

This is done mainly by diving to depths of up to 150 feet, using foam rubber suits and scuba equipment.

The Highland Lassie scientists also are experimenting this year with underwater television. A TV camera is mounted on a sled and dragged behind the boat. The crew sits on deck, watching a monitor.

WHENEVER an unusual bottom feature comes into view, they simply take a picture of the television screen in order to have a graphic record of what they have seen.

"Our work right now is mainly to learn how to use this new equipment," French commented. The craft was donated to the University of Michigan by Bruce L. Simpson of Chicago "to further the science of limnology" according to a bronze plaque in the cabin. (Webster says limnology is the science of life or living organisms found in fresh water.)

The Inland Seas, a much larger boat capable of carrying a crew of up to 15 scientists, does take research on a much larger scale.

IN ADDITION to take core samples from the lake bottom, the boat also has apparatus for testing water at various levels.

Dr. John Ayers, in charge of the scientific work on both boats, says the water sampling provides a lot of the groundwork necessary for the mounting battle against pollution of the Great Lakes. He says periodic sampling tells where changes are taking place and the rate of change.

Analysis of water samples enables pollution fighters to go to the source of the trouble.

LARGER THAN the Highland Lassie, the Inland Seas does research into the biological as well as the geological aspects of Lake Michigan.

JOHN OSTERHAGEN (left) shows some of the diving equipment used by Highland Lassie scientists as Lee Somers and Bill French look on.

Know Your Newspaper Better

A Better Newspaper Every Issue!

That's our policy . . . and our constant endeavor. It's a large order, and we don't always make it. But we try hard . . . and many times we do make it—a better newspaper for you than ever before.

How Do We Do It?

First, we plan the completest possible reporting of the news of this area. To you, the news is the most important thing in your paper . . . and therefore it has first place in our efforts. We also plan for better pictures every issue . . . and more pictures when space permits. And we look for interesting feature stories for each new issue. On the editorial page, we try to do a continually better job.

Then . . . What Else Can We Do?

That's next in our planning. Can we make the paper more attractive to look at, and easier to read . . . better type . . . larger type . . . different width columns? We can't change these things every issue, of course, but still we are always thinking of new ways to improve our product . . . to produce a better newspaper issue to issue . . . for better service to you, the reader.

Group Mapping Consolidation Of Area Schools

The Intermediate School District Reorganization Committee has begun to put together a tentative plan which will provide that all districts now operating less than a kindergarten through 12th grade program will become annexed to existing high school districts, according to Charles A. Robinson, chairman of the reorganization committee. Robinson said the guidelines for reorganization as established by the State Committee have challenged intermediate reorganization committees to establish high school units of a size that would provide the maximum program and efficiency within the limits of area and population.

UP UNTIL now, the local committee has been concerned only with elementary districts.

Robinson says the committee hopes to come up with a firm reorganization plan by Jan. 1 for submission to the state committee.

The issue could come before voters as early as next spring, he added.

Following are tentative changes recommended by the committee:

The Ironston District shall be annexed to the Charlevoix Public School District.

The Ocean Lake announcement marks the second time within a month developers have revealed plans for property development on Charlevoix's north side.

IN JULY, Henry Hogan, a Birmingham attorney, said he plans to build a nine-story hotel at the foot of Dixon Avenue, at the site of the present Holiday Beach Hotel.

He said the lower floors of the building will be devoted to convention rooms. The hotel also will have some indoor parking, because of a lack of parking space in the area.

Hogan's proposed hotel will cost $1.5 million and will give Charlevoix a 200-room hotel complex in the Dixon-Michigan Ave. area.

The new development further out Michigan may add substantially to the number of rooms available, depending on what shape Ocean Lake's plans take.

trict will be divided between three districts as follows: In Melrose Township that portion of the district lying south of the southerly line of sections 10, 11 and 12 be annexed to Boyne City. This proposed boundary represents a line running east and west beginning approximately where Bear River empties into Walloon Lake. That part lying north of the line shall be annexed to Petoskey Public School District. All of the Melrose District lying Chandler Township except the southeast quarter and sections 13 and 14 shall be annexed to Petoskey. The exception portion shall become part of the Boyne Falls District.

Cross Village will be assigned to Harbor Springs, Bliss No. 6 Fri. to Petoskey and Conway (Little Traverse No. 4F) to Petoskey. It was recommended that the Harbor Springs and Petoskey administration divisions determine by mutual agreement any portions of the western part of the Conway District that might logically be part of the Harbor Springs service area. Maple River No. 1 (Brutus) has asked for a delay of decision in their case until they can hold a community meeting to get an expression of preference from the residents.

The Committee has recommended that the Resort District be annexed to Petoskey.

Sylvia Putz Weds Dale C. Drost

Sylvia Putz of Douglas, Ariz., became the bride of Dale C. Drost of Charlevoix at an evening wedding at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix Aug. 20.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Putz of Douglas. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Drost of Charlevoix.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. F. Denay before 100 guests in a chapel decorated with pink gladioli.

The bride, who wore a taffeta floor length gown with chapel veil, was given in marriage by her brother, Robert Putz, also of Douglas, Ariz.

business. Del Terrell said he thought the city should continue to handle transactions both ways, depending on the importance of property and the use the prospective buyer wanted to make of it.

Mayor E. D. Hawley observed that "there are other considerations besides money."

CITY ATTORNEY John Michael tried to steer the councilmen away from setting a fixed pattern in the matter, saying each sale should be handled on its own merits. He said he knows of several cities which have tried to be consistent in handling such transactions and have lived to regret it.

At the end of the discussion, Council agreed to put up for bids a five-acre triangle of land adjacent to the Crescent Stone Co. and the golf course south of town.

Sheridan Root, who cuts down trees and demolishes houses, offered to buy the property from the city for $500 and costs. He wants to use the land to store lumber.

ditional property adjacent to the cemetery owned by Vern Matthews. But Matthews wants to sell from 15 to 18 acres at $1,000 an acre, considerably more land than the committee feels it needs. The state will pay $9,750 for the land it wants.

The council also accepted a bid of $2,541.53 for workman's compensation insurance submitted by the Max Novak Insurance Agency.

--Told Hans Wimer, a representative of Begrow and Brown, that it has no objection if demolition of the Btrn-krand Building at Park and Bridge Streets is not started until after Labor Day.

--Accepted a bid from Hodgkiss and Douma of $5,229 to proceed with blacktopping the driveway, parking lot and fueling ramp at the city airport.

--Voted to send James Taylor to a meeting of the Michigan Municipal League in Grand Rapids Sept. 15 to 17 as the city's voting delegate.

--Referred to the electoral committee a request from John Vanlaver of Loeb Farms that his winter electrical bills be paid from funds held in escrow by the city.

Council also voted to pay semi-monthly bills amounting to $20,305.77.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and

Walloon Lake. Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nye Hall's, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

Petoskey Stone Hunt

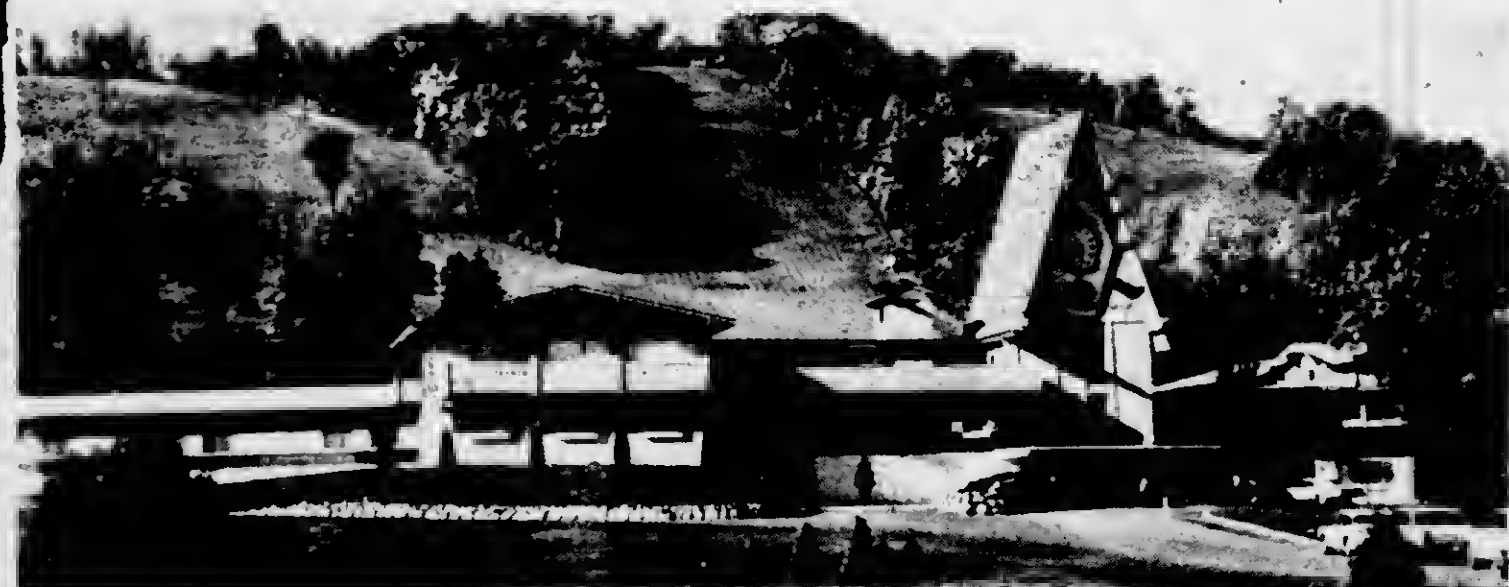

PETOSKEY STONES, the state stone of Michigan, are a plentiful commodity on the beaches around Charlevoix. And hunting for them furnished many a relaxing afternoon for visitors to the area. The stones actually are "colony corals" many millions of years old. Polished, they make attractive jewelry. For more about Michigan's new state stone, turn to Page 15.

Always On Guard

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix--the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Millrad, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions.

Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

Editorial:

Girlwatching

IF EVER WE HAVE the time, and are still young enough in spirit, we're going to set aside a whole week in July for nothing but Girl Watching in Charlevoix.

Really quite an innocent, discriminating and sophisticated sport, Girl Watching reaches its international summit in Charlevoix during July and August. Though we get but a sampling of the exceptional material available through the windows at the Courier, it is enough to convince us we can make the previous statement with no reservations.

(INCIDENTALLY, WOULD someone please tell us where the girls walking down Clinton St. in their wonderfully sparse bathing suits are going?)

Certainly, it seems to us, this activity needs more recognition and attention from the Chamber of Commerce's brochures. Publicizing it as one of our outstanding attractions is bound to attract even more girls to our beaches.

Just imagine the rush of young things to get to Charlevoix if they read in brochures and advertisements that this is the "Girl Watching Capital of the Nation." They wouldn't dare do their sunbathing anywhere else.

DUSK is falling as the lake freighter Wyandotte begins nosing down narrow Pine River Channel. A blast from the whistle is enough to bring crowds of tourists and townspeople alike hurrying to the drawbridge.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Alba, is a pleasant, scenic afternoon drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. The hatchery's location reminds one of the Smokey Mountains. The hatchery is the newest and largest on the Great Lakes. It will produce about 6,000,000 lake trout a year for restocking the big lakes.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the campground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets. Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the world is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay. For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of

Nature and the conveniences of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake. Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

Here's Where & How to Fish

If there is a better cure than fishing for that hauntingly tense feeling that the mob is stalking you with its big city noises and impatience it must be fishing in the Charlevoix area.

Oh sure, there are places in North America with better fishing. But dare few. Some of the country's most incurable anglers rate Lake Charlevoix and the Beaver Island area among the finest small-mouth bass fishing grounds in the U.S.

YET THERE IS MORE than the promise that fish are available for the catching to recommend Charlevoix as a choice fishing area. You mustn't overlook the unsurpassed drama of our clean water, cool air, big hardwood and birch trees and quiet mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But where to go and how to do it?

If you're after smallmouth bass or perch try Lake Charlevoix. The South Arm is generally good.

Your best choice of lures for Lake Charlevoix bass will be Jig-A-Do streamers in brown, white and yellow colors. Others this column can vouch for are small (quarter-ounce) dardevils in red-and-white and pearl colors, Jig-A-Do crawlers, number-two size spinners, Super Dupers, Flatfish and Heddon's Cobra. (Worms are also reputed to catch fish.) You can buy any, or all, of these lures at Staley's Hardware and other local stores.

BIG BASS SUCH as those on this stringer come from Lake Charlevoix.

FOR SPECIFIC TIPS on where the current Lake Charlevoix hotspots are ask Clare

Staley at his hardware, Irv Drost at Irv's Cocktail Lounge, Bernie Ward at Ward's Boat Livery, or Mearle Scott in Iroquois.

You can fish Lake Charlevoix from a boat or with waders. There are many areas of the South Arm that can be waded. Sometimes they produce nice bass during mid-day, but evening or morning is usually best. If you're fishing from a boat try casting or trolling right off the edge of bullrushes or boulder-strewn areas.

Throw your lure into likely looking areas. When it hits, the water let it sink and remain still for a few seconds; you will often get a strike the minute you finally move it. If there is no strike retrieve it a few feet and then let it sink and rest again before moving it.

If you want to do some exploring try the nearby shoreline of Lake Michigan. Once again, you can wade or use a boat. The same lures and techniques as used on Lake Charlevoix will stand you in good stead.

IF SMALLER lakes are your forte look at a map and pick one of the many directly south of town in Charlevoix County or Antrim County. Though few of them have public access sites, you can usually talk a property owner into letting you trespass... He may even have boats to rent.

You will probably be amazed to find you have to share these lightly fished lakes with only one or two other boats; and sometimes you'll be all alone.

Here's a list of ten smaller lakes worth trying.

- Lake 36 (Lake Maroon), for pike, bass and panfish.
- Nowland Lake, for pike, bass and panfish.
- Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and musky.
- Susan Lake, for small pike.
- Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.
- Walloon Lake, for trout, pike, bass, panfish.
- West Twin Lake for bass and pike.
- St. Clair Lake (in Ellsworth), for bass, panfish and even an occasional trout.
- Ellsworth Lake, for bass, pike, and maybe a musky.
- Toad Lake (south of Ellsworth) for pike, bass and panfish.

ALL OF THESE lakes have the fish in them that are mentioned... that's guaranteed by this writer. Catching them is up to you. Try using the same lures recommended for Lake Charlevoix. Arbogast's new weedless Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers and Hawaiian Wig-gters are also productive numbers.

You can find your way to these lakes by asking for maps of Charlevoix and Antrim County, which are available at most motels, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Courier.

If you taste runs more to stream fishing for trout, try the Jordan River south of East Jordan, or the Maple River near Peliston. The Bear River between Walloon Lake and Petoskey also has trout, but is hard to fish. The same holds true with the Boyne River. There are also any number of small, husky streams with good populations of trout (and usually mosquitoes).

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Poison Ivy: Vacation Villain

Poison ivy, which is common in some of the wilderness areas around Charlevoix, can cause suffering in sensitive individuals, leading to expensive medical bills and sometimes a ruined vacation. Learn to recognize it. Then avoid it.

The leaves of the plant are smooth, glossy and firm and the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. They grow in threes and are borne alternately on the stem. In early summer, whitish dull flowers grow from the axils of the leaves and are succeeded by round, dull white fruits the size of a field pea.

THE OFFENDING substance is an oil which is present throughout the entire plant and which, upon contact with the skin of a sensitive person, creates a toxic action. Even the handling of animals and automobile tires which have come in contact with the plant will transmit the oil to the handler.

Should a rash develop after precautionary soap and water measures have been taken, and medical aid is not immediately available, apply a thick paste of soap, let it dry and leave on overnight, or use a calamine solution or other approved medication. Protect the inflamed skin from further irritants. Cool compresses of ice water or applications of corn starch will help relieve inflammation.

Better, wear rubber boots and gloves, washing them at the end of the day. Poison ivy should be burned only in isolated areas. Avoid contact with the smoke; particularly avoid getting it in the eyes, or inhaling it. The oil in the plant may be vaporized, and the vapor, carried by the smoke, may cause the sensitive to break out some distance from the burning plant itself.

POISON IVY? Sometimes it's hard to tell. Vacationers are cautioned to look for a plant with smooth, firm, glossy leaves, with the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. Leaves grow in threes, and appear alternately on the stem. At this time of year, the plant may be identified by small white berries, the size of field peas.

TENNIS is one of the city-sponsored recreational activities available to residents and visitors alike in Charlevoix. Here, a tennis lesson is being given at one of the city courts.

Greensky Church Part of State's Indian History

GREENSKY HILL MISSION

Here in the 1840's the Chippewa Indian missionary, Peter Greensky, established a Protestant mission in an area where legend says Indian chiefs once held their councils. New trees have been planted in an arrangement similar to that of the trees that made up the original council circle.
Mission services first were held in a rude building of boughs and bark. In the 1850's the Indians built the present church. It is a fine example of the old log style construction with hand-hewn timbers and notched corners. Windows, doors and much of the lumber were brought by canoe from Traverse City to Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) and then carried two miles to this site. Methodist services for the Indian congregation have been held here regularly to the present.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable long boats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

All headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist

Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

LT. COMDR. Dale Foster is one of the many Coast Guard officers and men stationed in the area whose job it is to provide for the safety of commercial and pleasure craft plying northern Michigan waters. Foster is skipper of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew.

Water Safety Is Aim Of U.S. Coast Guard

Three Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix. Their primary function is the safety of all those who travel the waters of northern Michigan.

In addition to the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew whose home port is Charlevoix Harbor, the city also hosts to the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and the group headquarters for all Coast Guard operations in northern Michigan.

Commanding officer of the Sundew is Lt. Comdr. Dale Foster who assumed command of the ship in July. Group commander is Lt. Charles Millradl, while the station is under the command of Harland Speer, E.O. C. Speer has filled his post only since Aug. 6.

The Coast Guard celebrated its 175th anniversary Aug. 4, making it one of the oldest U.S. military services.

Recently, Coast Guard fleet units were assigned to the troubled waters off Vietnam. The Guard was sent because of its long experience in search and rescue, law enforcement and boarding operations.

Adm. E. J. Roland, Commandant of the Coast Guard predicts the decade ahead will be one of the busiest and most exciting in the Coast Guard's history. As always, he said, the Coast Guard will dedicate all of its resources towards providing the American people with the most effective maritime safety service in the world.

HUNDREDS of swimmers flocked to the Lake Michigan Beach August 5 when the temperature climbed into the 80's in Charlevoix. By the same token, downtown streets were virtually deserted as tourists and townspeople alike sought relief from the heat. Complementing the natural beauty of the Lake Michigan beach were quite a number of girls in bikinis.

Tips for Water Safety

Mid-summer is a good time to review safe swimming practices, particularly in an area like Charlevoix which abounds with excellent bathing facilities.

One of the cardinal rules of safe swimming is never to go into the water alone. Make sure you have a pal along to help—or run for help—if you need it.

Another old-time safety precaution which still makes sense is to wait an hour after eating before going into the water. Digesting a meal is strenuous activity, and the stomach demands and gets an increased blood supply after eating.

Exercising muscles also need more blood, and the swimmer who eats and then goes swimming is placing too great a burden on his circulatory system. Cramps are likely to result.

Another wise precaution is to swim only inside those areas marked off as a safe swimming area. This is the area that the guard on duty can effectively oversee. Don't complicate his job by swimming out-of-bounds.

Swimmers also should keep in mind that painful sunburn can result from over-exposure, particularly near water.

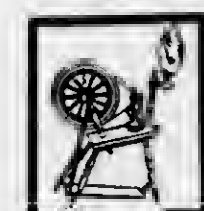

where bathers are exposed to the added reflection of the sun's rays. Many a promising vacation has been spoiled by a severe case of sunburn on the first day. Take the sunbath stages, and you'll take home a suntan to be proud of.

Great fires from little embers grow; be careful with fire in the woods.

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan's shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter-million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Sharon Wood, Mike Allen and Hy Heaton.

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushiest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business. There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Don't Stow Tackle Yet, Anglers Told

The fisherman who puts his tackle away just because dog days have arrived may be missing some of the most exciting sport of the year. That's the message from Dick Kotis, fishing expert from Arbogast.

"The secret of success during dog days," Kotis reveals, "is to go out at night."

This advice makes good sense. Many of America's best game fish - largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleyes, brown trout, channel catfish - tend to be nocturnal anyway. And through the heat of the summer, they do nearly all of their feeding after dark and after too many fishermen have gone home.

BUT HOW do you fish after dark? "For bass," replies Kotis, "use surface plugs in the same places you are likely to find bass early in the season."

Cast your topwater lures along shallow shorelines or beside weedbeds. And never neglect to toss your topwater lure around boat docks, piers and pilings. During the hours of darkness this is like playing with dynamite.

Fishing at night is also a pleasant way to "escape." Skiers and speedboaters have retreated to dry land and the waters belong exclusively to fishermen. An angler can relax and light up a pipe. Next thing he knows, a lunker bass will be coveting on the end of this line.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts, rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes.

Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Geneva has a public fishing site and boat launching area.

The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctorated the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

MAP SHOWS location of proposed buttress in relation to Coast Guard Station.

DETAILED DRAWING shows how buttress will complete mooring basin leaving a 70-foot entrance. Sheet pile bulkhead will keep sand from filling up harbor.

Channel Buttress Planned by Guard

The Ninth Coast Guard District has asked for a federal permit to build a steel buttress at the entrance to the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station mooring basin on the upper channel of Pine River.

The proposed buttress would be 130 feet long, extending into the channel from the sandy spit of land between Lake Charlevoix and the mooring basin.

Hartan Speer, En. C., chief of the Lifeboat Station, said the buttress is needed to keep sand from filling up the basin. It said it also will protect Coast Guard boats from being buffeted by waves coming down the channel off Lake Charlevoix.

THE U.S. ARMY Corps of Engineers District Office in Detroit would like anyone with objections to the proposed buttress to file complaints with their office not later than 4:30 p.m. Sept. 15.

"The determination as to whether a permit would be issued must rest primarily upon the effect of the proposed work on navigation, but other pertinent factors will also be considered in determining whether it would be in the best public interest to grant a permit for the proposed work," the Army said.

Chief Speer said he didn't see how the proposed buttress would interfere with navigation, since it will be on the north side of the railroad bridge, and that all boats pass on the south side.

HE SAID sealed bids for labor, materials and transportation for the project will be received by the 9th Coast Guard District Office in Cleveland until 10 a.m. (EST), Room 4354 Main Post Office.

Completion deadline for the project is July 30, 1966. Speer said the project involves dredging the mooring basin to a depth of eight feet, removing approximately 1,400 cubic yards of silt.

The depth will be sufficient for all boats moored at the station, since the largest draws only 4 1/2 feet.

Dan Geneit Named City Postmaster

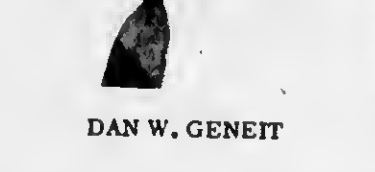

Dan W. Geneit, acting postmaster since Dec. 29, 1964, has received his commission as postmaster of Charlevoix. The commission became effective July 28, 1965, although he didn't receive it until Friday. It is signed by President Johnson and former Postmaster General John A. Gronouski (now ambassador to Poland).

Geneit succeeds the late Peter H. Timmer who asked to be relieved of his post as postmaster in July, 1964. However, a hassle within the Charlevoix Democratic county committee held up the appointment of his successor until December when he was informed that his retirement would become effective Dec. 29.

His untimely death on Dec. 22 resulted in Geneit taking over as acting postmaster on that date.

A NATIVE of Charlevoix, Geneit joined the U.S. Post Office Department in 1957, served as substitute and later a carrier before being named assistant postmaster in 1952 when Timmer became postmaster.

He is a member of the Charlevoix County draft board, a veteran of World War II, and a volunteer fireman. He is married to the former Beth Helse. They have one daughter, Mrs. Carl Rothenberger, who now lives in East Jordan, and one grand-daughter.

Recruiting Office Opens in City Hall

New recruiting sergeant for Charlevoix is Charles Campbell, a veteran of 16 years on the Army.

Sgt. Campbell will be at the Draft Board office in the City Hall every Monday morning beginning at 10 a.m.

At 2 p.m. each Monday he will be at his desk at the East Jordan Post Office.

THE SERGEANT said if a boy completes high school and enlists for three years, he practically is guaranteed of advanced training at an Army school.

The other services usually require a four-year enlistment if a recruit is to be sent to school, he said.

Sgt. Campbell urged all boys to finish school before even thinking about entering the Army.

"It's not as easy to get in now as it used to be," he said. "Two-thirds of all high school drop-outs can't even pass the Army intelligence test," he added.

HE SAID recruiting in the area is fairly slow at present, explaining that this partly due to the fact that Charlevoix hasn't had a recruiting office for about a year.

Sgt. Campbell said many of the boys he talks to are anxious about the situation in Vietnam and don't seem to understand why the United States is involved.

The Sergeant's home office is in Petoskey, although he and his family are renting a home on Walloon Lake. His most recent assignment took him to Anchorage, Alaska.

Chest Collects $2,345

Community Chest chairman Frank Bourgois reports $2,345 has been collected in the advance campaign, as of Aug. 28. The figure represents 18.45 percent of Charlevoix's goal of $12,709.

Included in the advance campaign are the Special Gifts Division, chaired by Archie Livingston, assisted by Charles Duerr, and the Summer Commercial Division, headed by Keith Carey, assisted by Mrs. Art Heilig, Mrs. Ed Loop and Jim Alger.

Letters to Special Gifts contributors were mailed Aug. 2. The response from Charlevoix's summer residents has been an important factor in successful Community Chest campaigns in recent years, Bourgois said.

WORKERS in the Summer Commercial Division began calling on summer business places Aug. 18. Many of the people who operate seasonal businesses, such as summer shops, restaurants, rooming houses and camps, share their total united giving with the Charlevoix Chest.

Organizations, such as service clubs, lodges and women's clubs will receive letters early in September and if desired, speakers will attend club meetings to discuss Community Chest goals and agency needs.

Chairman Bourgois plans to launch the fall campaign on Sept. 13 with a one week

HELMETED Arlo Nickerson of Vestaburg and Robert Kirk of St. Louis, Mich., use transit to make sure footings for Medusa office building are square.

New Students Asked to Enroll Sept. 7

Tuesday, Sept. 7 is pre-school registration day for those students who were not in attendance last spring in the Charlevoix Public Schools, Elementary School Principal Glenn B. Snider reports.

This will not include those kindergartners who pre-registered last spring, he said. The Elementary School office, entrance on Grant street will be open Tuesday, Sept. 7 from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. to pre-register any child from kindergarten through sixth grade.

The High School office on Garfield Avenue will be open the same hours to pre-register any student from seventh grade, entrance on Grant street will be open Tuesday, Sept. 7 from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. to pre-register any child from kindergarten through sixth grade.

Concrete Footings Started

The threatened strike of U.S. steelworkers will not affect construction now under way at the Medusa Cement Co. on Lake Michigan, according to construction foremen now at the site.

The strike had been called for midnight last night, but negotiators agreed to an eight-day postponement Monday night at the request of President Johnson.

Joe Fox, superintendent of construction for John W. Strahan company which is building the Medusa office building, said reinforcing steel for the footings has already arrived, and that Purvis Bros. Steel Fabricating Co. Inc., of Traverse City has guaranteed shipment of all structural steel.

FOX SAID that the first 14 units of the footings were poured Aug. 30. The work was held up by a delay in shipment of the reinforcing rods from Lansing, but the material is now on the site.

The 18,000 square-foot buildings is expected to be completed by the end of the year, with the exception of partitioning. The structure will house construction offices and serve as storage space while the rest of the mammoth cement-making plant is built.

Strahan Co. already has two carpenters and two laborers on the job, and expects to be hiring more men as the work progresses. Local workers already hired are Albert Russell of Charlevoix and Merle Karlskin of Boyne City.

Russ Leyman, superintendent for Bultema Dock and Dredge Co., says a steel strike would not affect Bultema's work in what will become Medusa's harbor.

Until winter sets in, Bultema's operations will be limited to harbor dredging.

Leyman said no steel work will begin until spring, when three 30-foot steel cells will be built near the harbor mouth, providing footings for a catwalk to the Medusa breakwater.

Leyman said two dredges are due in the area shortly. They are the dipper dredge Duluth, owned by the Zenith Dredge Co. of Duluth, Minn., and the "Big John", a derrick scow and clam shell owned by Bultema.

Holiday Patrols Are Beefed Up

Special holiday traffic patrols will be operated by Michigan State Police at Petoskey during the 78-hour Labor Day weekend, according to Trooper Philip Walker.

In addition to the regular staff of 10 troopers, one corporal and one sergeant, the post will have two national guardsmen assigned from Cheboygan.

All officers pass days also have been cancelled over the long Labor Day weekend.

SIMILAR beefed up patrols will be in effect throughout the state from noon Friday, Sept. 3, to midnight, Monday, Sept. 6.

Mystery Cloaks Lost Angler Case

What has become of Richard (Hardy) Mayer?

This is a question which has plagued Charlevoix City Police and local Coast Guardsmen since Aug. 25 when Mayer parked his 1964 Oldsmobile at the foot of Antrim Street and never returned.

A week later it is still a mystery what happened to Mayer, a 37-year-old native of Austria, former ski instructor, and owner of the burned-out Country Cousins Inn in Boyne City.

Bernie Ward Sr., who operates Ward Bros. Boats and Balt Co., notified police and the Coast Guard on Aug. 28 that a man answering Mayer's description had rented a 14-foot outboard from him the night before and never returned. Ward neglected to get the man's name, but there is every reason to believe he is the same man who parked his car near the dock and never returned.

WARD SAID the man came to his bait shop about 4:50 Wednesday and said he wanted to rent a boat for an hour, "perhaps longer." He gave Ward $3.50 and Ward showed him a 14-foot aluminum "Lone Star" model powered by an 18 horsepower Evinrude engine. Ward's grandson, Bernie Ward III, showed the man how to run the boat, "and he appeared very interested." Then the stranger climbed into the BUMPS AND BRUISES were the order of the day when more than 60 high school boys turned out for the first practice session of the fall season at 7 a.m. Monday morning. Coach Don Carey put them through callisthenics, then a series of falling and rolling exercises. First game of the season is at Rogers City Sept. 17.

STOP, MAN!

...where goest thou? Your struggle is for naught. One can't run away from duty nor from God. The strong arm of conscience, the love of a friend or the power of God won't let one go. Make no mistake: He is able to hold his children and bend their wills to His. This man is desperate because his aim is low. He is a timid coward whose church attendance record is now non-existent. But wait. God can still perform miracles and does touch us on the shoulder every time we would go astray. Business successes and friends in big numbers won't help much when the end of the way is nigh. It takes a touch on the shoulder from God to satisfy man in his last hour. Stop, right now! That may be God touching your shoulder

You to The Church
The Church is You — some combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

A NEW SUMMER house under construction? It could be, but it isn't. This is the office wing of the LexaLite Plant, now going up on the Lake Michigan shore adjacent to the Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant. Designed by Begrow and Brown, the stone-paneled front blends nicely with shore scenery.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

There are so many things for a newcomer to northern Michigan to look into that I don't think we'll ever see everything there is to see. Last Sunday we tried to "do" Mackinac Island, but it was apparent right from the start that it's going to take many more trips before we finally get our fill.

We decided in advance on a bicycle trip around the island and were lucky enough to get a tandem with a third seat over the rear wheel for Katie. When we pulled onto the main street, a boy coming from the opposite direction called to his father, "Hey, dad, look! A bicycle built for three!"

Fortunately, we have friends in the hotel business on the island, so we had a place to stow our binoculars, diaper bag, and all the excess paraphernalia we brought along. And a lucky thing it was, because we discovered the tandem with Katie behind us as hard to pump as a conventional bicycle.

None-the-less, we pedaled up the east side of the island to British Landing, then took off, uphill, to Ft. Holmes, the highest point on the island.

It's no secret that we did more pushing than pedaling on this particular section of road, lingering over every historical marker along the way. These depressing roadside sentinels probably slowed us up more than we realized, with their running account of defeats, surrenders and other military embarrassments at the hands of the British. We fully expected to see the Union Jack fluttering over Ft. Holmes when we finally reached it.

We were duly impressed with the Victorian elegance of the Grand Hotel and it's hard to believe that haughty old dowager of the island celebrated her 76th birthday this year.

But one afternoon on the island is not enough. I have a feeling we'll have to go back again and again before we get our fill of its narrow streets, and quaint buildings, and the yesteryear flavor of its horse-drawn conveyances.

Mackinac Island's purse-strings are inextricably tangled with those of its tourists, and certainly vacationers are as welcome in town as street-sweepers. But the local people have a pet name for the thousands of visitors who set foot on their island each summer. They call them "huddles." In recognition of the thousands of pounds of Mackinac Island fudge they tote home with them.

An interesting item just came in from the Michigan Farm Bureau. Someone has noticed that the outside rows of corn along busy rural roads seem to grow especially tall, and science has found the reason: Car headlights trigger the growing processes well beyond the normal summer day.

Armed with this information, it won't be long until some enterprising farmer comes up with a lighted cornfield and has a crop of sweet corn ready for market in late June.

Chicken raisers have known for some time now that hens will only lay eggs in daylight, so they keep their hen houses well lit 24 hours a day to fool the hens into increased production. Now artificial light may result in bigger, earlier corn crops.

Talk of the Town

Charlevoix service club members and residents of the community are invited to attend the first annual Chicken Barbecue sponsored by the East Jordan Rotary Club Sept. 4. It will be held all day Saturday in the Tourist Park at East Jordan.

Women Choose Andie Mathews Gun Team Chief

Andie Mathews has been elected first president of the Charlevoix Womens Pistol Team.

Other officers elected Aug. 24 were Joan Sonnenberg, secretary - treasurer; and Carla Spencer, range officer. Other members of the group are Pat Drost, Loretta Towse, Lorraine Telgenhof, and Marjean Genelt.

Mrs. Sonnenberg says other women interested in joining the team should report to the Rod and Gun Club on Petoskey Road any Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

SHE SAYS most of the women became interested in forming a team because their husbands are sports enthusiasts active in the Rod and Gun Club. "And this is something you can share."

Anyone interested in joining should apply at the Sheriff's office for a concealed weapons permit to allow them to transport firearms to and from the clubhouse.

Mrs. Sonnenberg said the group first met four weeks ago. So far the women have fired 22 caliber revolvers and automatics.

Kalamazoo Thursday and remained for a visit and his uncle, Maurice J. Foster and daughter, Susie, who went to southern Michigan Friday. Susie remained in Kalamazoo for a visit and will return with her grandfather.

Connie Saltonstall left Sunday to continue her studies at the University of Michigan after going to Ann Arbor to register on Friday. She had as her weekend guests Tom Pointner of Sidney, Ohio, Barbara Gendrich and Philip Grashoff, both of Detroit.

Thomas Young, who spent the summer with his grandmother, Mrs. Raymond Seymour, left Wednesday for Detroit where he visited his grandmother, Mrs. F. W. Young Sr., and other relatives before departing via jet Sept. 1 for his home in San Clemente, Calif.

Mrs. Larry Petersen and two children are spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Winnick, and Mr. Petersen's mother, Mrs. Floyd Brown and Mr. Brown.

Mrs. L. A. Rodriguez returned Sunday to her home in Findlay, Ohio, following a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gallant. Mr. Rodriguez came for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Cranich and son were overnight guests of her cousin, Miss Ada Greene, on Wednesday, Aug. 25. They left the following morning for their home in Dearborn. It was the first visit here for Mrs. Cranich, the former Harriet Dickinson, in 13 years.

LAKE WINS

Lake Construction won the first game of the three game playoff when Ted Potter singled in the bottom of the eighth inning to score teammate Steve Faculak with the winning run. Bill Marne had put Lake out in front 2-0 with a two-run single in the fourth. American Mold countered with two runs in the sixth on Ken Wojan's double around a couple errors. In the eighth the tie was broken as Faculak, Grunch, and Potter put base hits together for the winning marker.

MOLD EXPLODES
American Mold wasted little time in winning the second game as they scored three times in the first and third innings. Ken Boss, Ken Balch, Ken Wojan, and Don Kowbell all connected with solid basehits for three in the first. Then in the third it was Nate Boss, Bob Ritt, and Ken Boss doing the damage. Davenport's first inning triple and third inning single produced two of Lake's runs.

PEANUT LEAGUE

The Cardinals made an unbelievable comeback, scoring five times in their last atbats to wipe out a four run deficit and defeat the Lions 7-6. In the first of their playoffs for the Peanut League crown, The Lions had broken a 2-2 tie with four runs in the top of the seventh when Kraag Lieberman, Mark Merritt, Dave Plum, Bruce Welsik, and Bob Etienne all singled. The Cardinals came back with their five behind the bats of Carl and Charles Novak, Mike Bergman and two key Lion errors. Bob Reed had put the Cards in front in the fourth with a two run homer. Welsik had tied the game with his fifth inning base hit.

CHARLEVOIX SWIMMERS line up on the dock at Depot Beach to receive instructions at the preliminary boys' swim meet Aug. 27. Standing (left) is Deano Davenport, city recreation director, and Joe Arvilla, swimming coach. Competition lanes were marked off by bobber lines attached to the diving raft.

ADVANCED SWIMMERS receiving recognition at the ceremony Sunday were (from left) Ellen Arvilla, Jerry Fochtman, Georgia Lusk and Erin Arvilla. The four have completed a rugged schedule of water endurance exercises and will be ready for even more advanced work next year.

Swimmers Set Records

The City Recreation Department closed its summer season on a high note with its annual swimming races and award day.

Five new records were established in the two day event that was blessed with calm water and sunny skies.

In the junior girls division, where all five of the new records were posted, Amy Leeper, Brenda Forbrig, and Candy Klooster paced the pack. Miss Leeper broke two records, coping first in the 50 yard freestyle and 50 yard breast stroke. Candy Klooster broke the 50 yard backstroke record and also won the 25 yard backstroke. Miss Forbrig captured the 25 yard breast stroke and the 25 yard free-style.

IN THE SENIOR girls division Mary Hayes dominated the races. Miss Hayes won the 25 yard freestyle and backstroke as well as the 50 yard freestyle and backstroke. Lynn Fiedorek was just a step behind as she posted three first with blue ribbons in the 25 and 50 yard breast strokes and the individual medley.

Farewell Tea Honors Wives

A farewell tea was given by the Military Wives Club in honor of Mrs. Joseph C. King, Aug. 15, at the Retarded Children's Center.

Mrs. King is the wife of Lt. Col. Joseph C. King, commanding officer of the Air Force Radar Detachment at Say shore.

Lt. Col. King is being transferred to Watertown, N. Y., where he will assume command of another detachment similar to the Say Shore installation.

The Kings live at 713 Park Ave.

Honor also was given Mrs. Alvin J. Aronovsky, wife of the new commander of the Say Shore detachment, and Mrs. Dale Foster, wife of the new commander of the Sundew. The Aronovskys have been living at 203 E. Dixon for the past year. The Fosters recently moved to 504 E. Dixon from Cincinnati, O.

both Dale Foster and Allan Bergman turned in brilliant performances. Foster took the 25 yard backstroke, 50 yard freestyle, and the 50 yard breast stroke. Bergman won the 25 yard freestyle and the 25 yard breast stroke.

In the senior boys division

Bruce Meggison was clearly the outstanding swimmer as he won the 25 yard backstroke, breaststroke, and 50 yard freestyle.

Prior to the races awards were given to the 213 swimmers who took part in the summer six week swim school.

Smoked Fish Rules Adopted by State

Gov. George Romney recently signed a set of regulations drawn up by the Michigan Department of Agriculture governing the processing, storage and shipment of smoked fish. The regulations had immediate effect.

The action came after at least two deaths in recent years were directly attributed to food poisoning from smoked fish which had been improperly processed.

The regulations are the result of industry hearings and months of study by a committee of experts appointed by the governor. The new rules cover all phases of preparation, processing and distribution of smoked fish, with emphasis on temperature controls and other consumer protections.

AFTER cleaning, the internal temperature of the raw fish must be maintained at no higher than 38 degrees. The fish must be smoked at the coldest part remains at not less than 180 degrees for at least 30 minutes. This is done by time and temperature recording devices, records of which must be available to inspectors of the Department's Food Inspection Division.

Following smoking, fish must be cooled to 36 degrees or below with this temperature maintained through all channels of trade. If the fish are to be frozen, 28 degrees or below must be maintained through all channels of trade. In the case of vacuum packed smoked fish, the product must be sterilized after it is in its container.

LABELLING requirements for the consumer are also written into the regulation. They point out how the consumer should handle the product after purchase.

All packaging materials used to hold unfrozen smoked fish are restricted to one-time use only. Labels must contain a statement of the perishability of the product, the temperature of home storage, and that the product should be eaten within 14 days after the date of smoking. This regulation is for protection of the consumer, said Food Inspection Division Chief J. L. Littlefield of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Obituary

JAMES O'DONNELL

Funeral for James O'Donnell, a lifetime resident of Beaver Island, will be at 10 a.m. Sept. 3 from the family home on the island. Burial will be in Holy Cross cemetery.

Mr. O'Donnell, 80, died Aug. 31 at Charlevoix Hospital after a month's illness.

He was born July 25, 1885, and married Elsie Schmidt on the island in 1912.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Bernard and Raymond of Chicago; five daughters, Mrs. Clifford White of Muskegon, Mrs. Jack Soyle of Chicago; Mrs. Charles Archer of Temple City, Calif.; and Miss Elizabeth O'Donnell of Newberry.

Also surviving are two brothers, Bernard and Frank of Beaver Island; three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Roddy of Chicago, Mrs. Frank Hall of Dearborn, and Mrs. Frank Neer of Detroit; 31 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

LIKE A WHALE swallowing minnows, the steamer Beaver Islander carries boats as well as cars and campers between Charlevoix and the Emerald Isle. Here an outboard waits to be loaded into the maw of the larger ship.

Nothing can take the press out of Lee-Prest slacks

Not that it's on his mind right now. And it needn't be. Those Lee-Prest Leasures can't help but stay crisp and neat. No matter what you put them through. They have a new permanent press. So the crease stays in. The wrinkles stay out. Permanently. And that's without ironing. No touch-ups, either. They're made from Lee's special blend of 50% polyester and 50% combed cotton. For wash and wear... with conviction.

Incidentally, that permanent press is the only change we've made in Leasures. They still have that lean, honest look... smart, tailored fit. New Lee-Prest Leasures. Test their permanent press yourself. It isn't necessary, but it's a great way to spend an evening.

Hospital Awards Two Scholarships

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Hospital has awarded scholarships to two area students who plan to continue their studies in the field of hospital training.

They are Ardith Bolhuis, of Ellsworth, winner of the nursing scholarship, and Jean Renkle of Boyne Falls, winner of the hospital training scholarship.

Miss Bolhuis, a 1965 graduate of the Ellsworth high school and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bolhuis, will start nurses' training at Northwestern Michigan College School of Nursing in Traverse City this month. Her scholarship was for $300 and is given at the rate of $100 annually.

MISS RENKIE, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Renkle and the third member of her family to head her graduating class, will study at Mt. Carmel Hospital in Detroit. She plans to become an x-ray technician. The hospital training scholarship is also for $300 and is given at the rate of $100 for each year of study for a maximum of three years.

This is the tenth annual scholarship awarded for nursing and the second for hospital training other than in the field of nursing by the Hospital Guild, presently headed by Mrs. Donald DeMoor.

In addition to awarding annual scholarships, the Guild purchases equipment for the hospital, operates a library and sundries cart at the hospital, supplies trays for the all holidays, makes and gives puppets to children entering the hospital and layettes to indigent mothers and performs other services.

Legion Ladies

Mark Birthdays

The American Legion Auxiliary met at the Legion Hall Aug. 16 with 13 members present.

A large birthday cake was made by Mrs. George Shearer to celebrate the August birthdays of Mrs. Frank Poole, Mrs. Harry Walsted, Mrs. Charles Martin, Mrs. Lydia Johnson and Mrs. Eva Smith. Plans were made for the district meeting to be held Sunday, Sept. 12, at Charlevoix.

The next Auxiliary meeting will be Sept. 20 at the home of Mrs. Jessie Knudson at 208 Allee St., at 8 p.m.

Violent and green ice is found in Antarctica. The coldest temperature officially recorded on earth was minus 126.9 degrees, Fahrenheit, at a Russian base there. The mean annual temperature at the South Pole is 56.7 degrees below zero.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Howe left Wednesday, for their new home near St. Petersburg, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson and family and several guests from Hudson, Ohio, are vacationing for two weeks in Sunny-slope cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Andrews and children Virginia and Richard from Lansing are spending two weeks with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted England, in their summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Sprague Gardner from Indianapolis, Ind., are spending two weeks preparing for construction of their new summer home, which will be on the hill back of "Sunny-slope", owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, and where their cottage burned, earlier this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Alexander and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Green, from Belding are spending this weekend in Wawa, Ont.

Mrs. William LaValley returned home Wednesday after being a patient in the Charlevoix Hospital the past week.

We surely were proud of our junior choir, at the morning service, this Sunday. They sang "Jesus Loves Me," and were accompanied by Becky Williams, on the Conn organ and Don Kanoff on the piano. It made a most unusual and surprising choir anthem for all of us to enjoy, and we will look forward to having them repeat it sometime soon.

Another vacation is nearly over, school will start, Tuesday, Sept. 7 with Mrs. Lula Brock, again as our teacher. Roy and Minnie Meyers were near Alba this Sunday, looking for blackberries and came home with one quart. Due to all our dry weather, they all dried on the bushes and the new growth for next year is very small.

County 4-H Fair Slated Labor Day

Charlevoix County's annual 4-H Fall Fair will be Labor Day, Sept. 6 in Boyne City's Whiting Park, according to Ed Rehman, county extension director.

About 100 exhibits will be set up by the time judging starts at 10:30 a.m. The judges hope to have all ribbons affixed by noon.

Exhibits include dairy, beef, gun safety, vegetable garden, flower garden, entomology, wildflowers, clothing, outdoor meals, cooking, freezing, canning, home design and other projects.

The exhibits represent the work of county 4-H club members during the past summer.

THE AMERICAN Legion Post from Boyne City with the cooperation of Boyne City merchants will sponsor games and contests in the afternoon, and all youngsters will be invited to take part.

Exhibitors will be allowed to pick up their exhibits after 3 p.m., Rehman said.

Auto-Bed Assists Fracture Cases

One of the most recently acquired pieces of special equipment at Charlevoix Hospital is this Stryker Circlelectric bed which provides maximum nursing care for patients with multiple fractures, extensive burns, acute arthritis, spinal fusion and similar illnesses according to Miss Anne Baumgartner, hospital administrator.

Miss Baumgartner explained that the bed allows the very ill patient to do many things for himself such as changing his position frequently. Also simplifies getting out of bed and enables a nurse, unassisted, to care for the patient and his evacuation needs when lifting or moving are not recommended.

SHE WENT ON to say that it offers complete immobilization when it is necessary or frequent changes of position, beneficial in preventing complication of bed rest. The bed also permits the patient to maintain normal posture and position not obtainable in a standard bed.

"A nurse's time can be better utilized because of the advantages supplied by such a mechanized device which also offers traction bars and suspension and exercise apparatus. A canvas hammock, for instance, makes it possible to rotate the bed to place the patient on his abdomen," Miss Baumgartner continued.

She said the nursing staff now wonders how it cared for seriously injured or critically ill patients without the bed. The circlelectric bed was purchased with funds donated as a memorial to the late Robert Rae Ware, a summer resident at the Belvedere Club for many years.

August 13, 1965

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met in Special Session on the above date for the purpose of reconsidering a resolution to convey to Crescent Stone Company, a 50 ft. strip of land to be used as Railroad Right-of-Way.

Aldermen present: Hoffmann, Neff, Terrill, Fochtman and Gill. Absent: Alderman Whitley.

All Aldermen present, signed waiver of written notice of Special Meeting.

Alderman Hoffmann offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Fochtman:

RESOLUTION The City of Charlevoix has the fee record title of the following described land, consisting of a 50 foot strip of land extending Northerly from the Northernly line of the Medusa Portland Cement Company - Crescent Stone Company private railroad line, and a small parcel in the center of a "Y" in said railroad line through the conveyance by the Deed dated 12-18-1916, recorded in Liber 70 of Deeds on Page 496, some of which has been occupied by said railroad line, and

WHEREAS, Crescent Stone Company desires to obtain a conveyance of said land from the City by a Quit-Claim Deed to clear the title to the railroad line and also to shift part of said Northward from the Belvedere Golf Course; and

WHEREAS, The said strip of land is of no value to the City and the City desires to cooperate with Medusa and Crescent Stone Company in exchange of land as per its previous agreement with said companies and the City deems it to be in the public interest to enable said company to shift part of its line North from said Golf Course, and the City deems the sum of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars plus other considerations and benefits obtained from said previous agreements to be adequate consideration therefor;

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the City of Charlevoix grant and convey by Quit-Claim Deed to Crescent Stone Company, an Ohio Corporation of 3000 Montecello Blvd., Cleveland, Ohio, for the sum of $100.00 and Other Good and Valuable Considerations, as above recited, the following described parcel of land situate and being in the Township of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan:

"The North and Easterly 50 feet of a strip of land 100 feet in width extending South and Easterly from the East and West quarter line through the Southeast quarter (SE 1/4) of Section 34, Town 34 North, Range 8 West, to the East section line thereof, the center line of which said 100 foot strip may be located as follows: Commencing at a point on the East and West quarter line of said Section 34, 50 feet East from the north and South quarter line of said Section; thence South and at a distance of 50 feet East from the North and South quarter line aforesaid to a point 4 chains South of the East and West quarter line of said Section 34, 50 feet East from the north and South quarter line of said Section; thence South 88 1/2° East 370 feet to West tangent point of 3° curve; thence on periphery of said 3° curve 80 links more or less to the East boundary line of the West one-half of the Northwest Quarter of the Southeast Quarter (NW 1/4 of the NW 1/4 of the SE 1/4) of said Section 34; and at a point 10 chains East of the of said Section 34; thence North and South quarter line of said Section 34; thence Southeasterly on the periphery of 3° curve and across the South eighth line of said Section 34 to Easterly tangent of said curve, 460 feet; thence South 83 1/4° East across East eighth line 700 feet; thence Easterly on periphery of 8° curve 885 feet; thence North 89 1/2° East 325 feet to East Section line of said Section 34."

"Also, a parcel of land East of and contiguous to the last described 100 foot strip which may be located as follows: Commencing at a point in the West Section line of Section 35, Township 34 North, Range 8 West, as per the United States Survey thereof, 432 feet South of the intersection thereof with the South eighth line of said Section; thence North 89 1/2° East 80 rods more or less to the West eighth line of said Section 35; thence South on said eighth line 248 feet to the intersection thereof with the Southerly boundary of the "Y" of the right of way of private railroad as formerly laid out, worked and existing, thence North 84 1/2° West along the Southerly boundary of said "Y" to a point 138 feet East of the West along Section line of said Section 35; thence South 89 1/2° West along the Southerly boundary of right of way of private railroad as formerly laid out, worked and existing, 138 feet more or less to the intersection thereof with the West Section line of said Section 35; thence North 100 feet on said Section line to the place of beginning, and being a part of the Southwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter (SW 1/4 or SW 1/4) of Section 35, Township 34 North, Range 8 West."

"The above and foregoing descriptions constituting a part of the right of way of private railroad, including a part of the "Y" thereof at its junction with the Pere Marquette Railroad, and extending from the West eighth line of said Section 35 Westerly and

City Sends Taylor to League Meeting

Charlevoix Superintendent James Taylor will be among more than 1,000 municipal officials from 200 Michigan cities and villages who will gather in Grand Rapids for the 87th Annual Convention of the Michigan Municipal League, Sept. 15 to 17.

The meeting will be one of the largest delegations of Michigan municipal officials ever assembled in the state. Mayor Jerome P. Covanagh of Detroit and newly-elected President of the National League of Cities will be the keynote speaker on Wednesday morning, Sept. 15.

His remarks will kick-off a three-day series of general sessions, workshops and affiliated organizations' meetings built around the theme: "Progress Through Cooperative Action."

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY will appear at the opening Luncheon on Wednesday. The Governor first spoke before the Convention at its 1960 session in Grand Rapids when he was head of the Citizens for Michigan committee.

Mayor Arthur H. Hand of Trenton, New Jersey, and

James E. Fain, Executive Editor, The Dayton (Ohio) Daily News, will appear on the Wednesday morning general session on "Mobilizing Citizen Effort," a discussion on how to get citizens to take a more active interest in local government.

A SERIES of workshop sessions will take up all of Thursday morning, Sept. 16. These sessions will encourage municipal officials to exchange ideas and information on current local problems including cooperative programs between municipalities, new Federal programs, county re-apportionment, urban renewal, municipal employee relations, and property tax exemptions.

The Friday morning session, Sept. 17, will be devoted to individual meetings for mayors and councilmen, attorneys, assessors, clerks, finance officers, and engineers and public works officials. They will hear a variety of speakers and discuss items of common interest.

The Michigan Municipal League, organized in 1899, is made up of 427 cities and villages in Michigan and is dedicated to the advancement of home rule and to the improvement of municipal government through cooperative effort.

Talk of the Town

Miss Margaret Milner left Sunday for Detroit to return to her teaching duties in the schools there.

Noreen Wojan left Sunday for Kalamazoo where she has enrolled as a freshman at Western Michigan University. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wojan, took her to Kalamazoo.

Northwesterly across the Southwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter (SW 1/4 of SW 1/4) of Section 35 and across Section 34, Township 34 North, Range 8 West, the Westerly terminus of which right of way is at the North and South quarter line of Section 34 at the East and West quarter line thereof.

"Also another parcel described as follows: Commencing at a point in the West eighth line of Section 35, Township 34 North, Range 8 West, 400 feet South of the South eighth post, the same being the point of intersection of said West eighth line with the Northerly boundary line of the right of way of the private railroad as formerly surveyed, worked and existing; thence South 89 1/2° East on the Northerly boundary line of said right of way 782 feet more or less to the intersection thereof with the West boundary line of the right of way of the Pere Marquette Railroad; thence in a Southerly direction and along the West boundary line of the Pere Marquette Railroad right of way to a point 100 feet South of the last described line; thence North 89 1/2° West along the Southerly boundary of said private railroad, and parallel to the east to the last described line, to the intersection thereof with the West eighth line of said Section; thence North along said eighth line to the starting point aforesaid."

Resolution adopted by the following yea and nay vote: YEAS: Aldermen Hoffmann, Neff, Terrill, Fochtman, Gill. NAYS: None. ABSENT: Alderman Whitley.

On motion, the Council adjourned.

on my last car!

How? Through my State Farm Mutual agent. He helped me get financing through a local cooperating bank. And that low cost bank financing really saves you money! That I insured the car with State Farm too, and with their low rates I saved even on the insurance! Guess a lot of car owners save like this with State Farm. Say... why don't you call your State Farm agent?

FIVE-YEAR OLD Kelly Ann Bundy of Tucson, Ariz., finds the abundance of fresh water around Charlevoix much to her liking, particularly since her father, Jay Bundy, built her a dinghy all her own. With Kathy aboard, dad tows the dinghy around Lake Charlevoix with a 30-foot rope tied to his own outboard. The Bundys are staying for a month at the family home on Hemingway Point near Ironton. They are members of the Hemingway family which settled in the area many years ago.

Army Praises Capt. Gibbons as Instructor

Capt. Gerald G. Gibbons, who recently joined the 355th M.P. Battalion in Germany, has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for his exceptionally meritorious service while serving as instructor, General Subjects Committee, Department of Resident Instruction, U.S. Army Military Police School at Fort Gordon, Ga., from 1962 to 1965.

In making the presentation, Col. Henry W. Gibson, Seventh Army Provost Marshall, said that "upon assuming responsibility for instruction in First Aid, Capt. Gibbons introduced new teaching techniques which emphasized the use of realistic teaching aids and included 35 mm slides which he developed himself. For the benefit of students unable to acquire the required proficiency in the map reading class during normal class time, Capt. Gibbons voluntarily taught additional classes at night and on weekends. An outstanding programmed map reading text, prepared during his free time, clearly demonstrated his command of the subject matter and his ability to reduce this knowledge to readily comprehensible written form."

"In addition, Capt. Gibbons was instrumental in the planning and development of a Special Action course designed to train civilian police not only from the United States but from allied nations as well. "Capt. Gibbons' service and achievements are a tribute to himself, the Military Police Corps, and the United States Army," Col. Gibson said in conclusion.

Commander of Co. B, Capt. Gibbons is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald C. Gibbons. He left recently with his wife, Carol, and four children for Germany after three years at Camp Gordon.

American Gypsies

The National Safety Council is bracing for another long weekend of carnage on the nation's highways.

This year, thanks to our booming economy, there are more people with cars and more places to go.

The NSC statisticians have run the figures through their computers and come up with a staggering prediction of dead and injured over the coming Labor Day weekend.

Yet everyone of those statistics-to-be is firmly convinced at this point that it can't happen to him. Accidents always involve the other guy. Up until now.

Perhaps the best highway safety suggestion ever offered is the blunt injunction: Stay home.

But that's not much fun when you've got the car, the time, and the money, and the gypsy in you keeps saying, "C'mon let's go!"

If the gypsy wins, make sure your car is in good enough running order to make the trip you plan. Check those tires, too. If the tread's wearing thin, hot expressways may prove their undoing.

Second, don't plan too long a trip. Three days is not forever, so leave plenty of time at your destination for relaxing.

Third, make frequent rest stops. Freeway driving can be deadly monotonous, and it'll keep you on your toes to get out and stretch every 100 miles or so.

Lastly, keep the rules of common courtesy in mind. It only takes a second to dim your lights for an oncoming car, but that second may be worth all eternity to you with the National Safety Council talloos up its grisly Labor Day statistics next Tuesday.

Teens Take Us to Task

WE GOT TO TALKING to a couple of young fellows the other day, and they were pretty outspoken in their criticism of the Charlevoix Courier.

"Do you know what the kids in town call that paper?" one of them asked. We pleaded ignorance.

"The Charlevoix Discourager," the other one said. "That's what they call it. 'The Charlevoix Discourager.'"

They went on to explain that from their standpoint, the paper is continually playing up the things Charlevoix's young people do wrong, with nary a mention when one of them does something praiseworthy or even downright heroic.

They cited a case early this summer when several teenagers were found guilty of littering the beach and were instructed by justice court to clean it up. The story, with pictures, was duly carried by the Courier.

At the same time, they said, one of their number happened to be on hand when a gasoline explosion occurred aboard a freshly-fueled powerboat in Round Lake. After the two women passengers aboard jumped in the water, a quick-thinking teenager on a nearby dock doused the fire with a hand extinguishers and then scrambled aboard to pull out smoldering wiring which could have set off a real holocaust.

No mention of his derring-do appeared in the Courier.

The problem, we suppose, is one that has been around as long as there have been newspapers. In the first place, we can't print news unless we know about it. In the second place, it is the wrongdoers whose names show up on the police blotters and court dockets, legitimate fare for a responsible press. So far as we know, none of the law enforcement units serving Charlevoix keeps records on the good guys in town. There's no need to.

Progress and Our State Parks

WE received a press release from the Conservation Department the other day complaining that not enough campers are stopping at Aloha State Park located on Mullett Lake about 10 miles south of Cheboygan.

"While other state parks in the area are filled to overflowing, only about half of Aloha's 300 campsites are being used by vacationers," the release said.

The PR men went on to extol the boating, swimming and fishing facilities available, concluding: "It's campsites, all equipped with electricity, are served by modern toilet, shower and laundry facilities."

Something certainly has gone haywire at Aloha and we suspect the germ of the trouble may be found in that last sentence. It's our opinion that few campers want all the trappings of civilization which are becoming part and parcel of our state parks. It seems that if campers really are looking for all the comforts of home, they wouldn't go to the trouble of piling the family in the car and driving hundreds of miles to find them. They'd stay put.

Once a campground goes electric, it somehow loses some of its magic. No sooner are the wires strung, when campers, in spite of themselves, start totting along every possible appliance that can be plugged into an electrical outlet. Just ask any park ranger. First comes the toaster, then the electric fry pan, then dad's electric razor (which he had hoped to leave at home), and electric fans, and (believe it or not) air conditioners, hi-fi's, record players, electric blankets, and last, but scarcely least, the television set. Ah, wilderness!

Before the Conservation Department got the alternating current bug, an evening at a campground was something to behold. As daylight fell, one by one the Coleman lanterns would sputter on throughout the camp, casting tall shadows on the fir trees and jack pines. The only sound was the gentle murmur of families settling down for the night, the ripple of laughter somewhere, the plunk of a guitar or a ukelele down on the shore, the boys kidding each other about getting their feet wet in the dew walking barefoot to the outdoor john. Then darkness and stars.

Many of today's campgrounds are a cross between a circus midway and honky-tonk saloon. Radios blare rock 'n' roll music until all hours. The kids wage their regular evening warfare over what television program to watch next. And nobody gets his feet wet walking over paved drives to institutional toilets gleaming with stainless steel fixtures, ceramic tile, porcelain bowls and terrazzo floors. They're more sanitary than the old ones, but some of the charm has gone with the aroma.

Aloha might do well to steal a page from Belle Bay, the wilderness campground south of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan which doesn't seem to have any trouble keeping its pioneer campsites filled all summer. There are no lights and only one water spigot.

ends

It's not a flying saucer, it's not Gemini V and it's not a shooting star. . . It's our old friend Echo II which hasn't been seen for some time. . . It will be seen during the early evening. . . crossing from south to north, first toward the east, then overhead and then to the west as it makes three trips over this part of the world. . . It will be visible well into September so take a look beginning shortly after 8 p.m. It is visible from five to eight minutes and is said to be the brightest object in the evening sky. . .

Mrs. Frank Novotny Jr. who lives on East Lincoln spotted it one evening recently and gave me a quick call. I'd read someplace a day or two before that it was again visible and told her what it was. . . For a while she thought she was seeing things. . . So if you're outside, look up and maybe you'll see it. . . haven't seen it this time but I'll be looking for it. . . It's been up since Jan. 25, 1964, and seems to be going strong. . .

I HAD a call early Wednesday from my good friend, Rowley Williams, out Marion Center way. . . He was rather upset, and rightfully so, by a couple things that had happened in this area. . . A real nice little dog that was apparently lost, had come to his house. . . It was well-mannered and apparently a family pet. . . Whether lost or abandoned he didn't know but he hadn't been able to find the owner. . . But the thing that bothered him even more was something that he knows was deliberate. . . The abandonment of a cat or one kitten but a mother cat and her entire litter of five kittens. . . Luckily Mrs. Russ Dohm saw some one set the box along the road and investigated or the entire family might have been wiped out. . . People who do things like this are nothing short of cruel and heartless. . . I feel that if you don't plan to care for a pet you shouldn't have one. . . but to toss out a faithful pet because she happens to have kittens is comparable to beating your own children or starving them. . . If you get the idea that I don't think much of it, you're right. . .

Very shortly other kittens and puppies will be abandoned by people who are returning home and don't want to be bothered toting the pets back to the city. . . How do I know? It happens every year. . . usually they're found near the schools where people figure children will find them and take them home. . . Wouldn't it be kinder to find a home for the animal instead of tossing them from a car? There are plenty of people who'll take them if you'll take the time to ask. . .

WHAT'S YOUR opinion on the subject. . . I'm asking because the water tower is to be repainted and I'm all for having it a color that can be seen for miles from the air or water. . . Our City Superintendent, James Taylor, and I agree that it should be some bright color and not aluminum or black as it's been in the past. . . I'm all for making it a landmark. . . If you've any ideas, relay them to Mr. T. at 2510. . . he's taking an informal poll to get your reactions. . .

THIS WILL be my last column before Labor Day. . . So, I'd like to take this opportunity to say goodbye to all my summer friends for this season, to wish them a safe trip home and a fine winter. . . I'd like, also, to thank you for all the kind things you've said about "Odds and Ends." It's a joy to have this weekly visit with you and it's good to know this feeling is shared. . . So take care and hurry back. . . You're missed more than you know by all of us during the months you're gone. . .

Labor Day means one other thing. . . a day of traffic. . . As the last major holiday of the summer, it brings out people for one last fling while the weather's good. . . And all too often it is their last fling. . . You not only have to be careful for yourself but all your passengers and for all other motorists. . . It takes but a split second for an accident to happen. . . That life of yours is pretty precious even though you haven't given the matter much thought. . . It's the only one you've ever going to have so please, please be careful. . . You deserve more than to be a statistic. . . and I'm sure others, especially your families, feel very deeply about this. . . So how about taking it easy and making a point of being among those present down here, come Sept. 7. . .

And one last thing. . . If your recent high school's graduate's going away to school, how about telling me so I can relay the good news via the Courier. . . Or, if they're going on to another school, we'd like that too. . . as well as news of your comings and goings. . . like trip at the end of the summer, or holiday guests. . . just anything at all that's interesting. . . and everything about all of you is interesting to someone. . . My number's listed in the book. . .

Lake Trout Diet Tests Slated at Charlevoix

THE U.S. National Fish Hatchery is located on the nicest lot in town -- Lake Michigan at the Pine River Channel.

E. D. Mason, Floyd A. Chamberlain and 4,000 lake trout are the sole occupants of the U.S. National Fish Hatchery on Lake Michigan at Pine River Channel.

Mason is in charge of the station and Chamberlain is his assistant. The 4,000 trout are guinea pigs in a diet test, but they are just a drop in the bucket, so to speak, for what's in store for the hatchery come Jan. 1.

Then, 100,000 young trout will be shipped in from the Jordan River Hatchery for 18 months of extensive feeding tests. Mason said the details aren't complete yet, but the fish will probably be fed four experimental diets, to see which yields the hardest crop of trout.

MASON SAID he hoped news of the prolonged feeding trials would scotch some of the rumors he had heard that the Charlevoix Hatchery is ready to fold up.

Although it is located on Lake Michigan, the Charlevoix Hatchery has a water problem, Mason said.

"Lake Michigan water is too warm in summer and too cold in winter for trout," he pointed out. "With all that water at our doorstep, we have to rely on a well which supplies us with a maximum of only 450 gallons a minute."

IDEALLY, he said, trout water should be no cooler than 44 degrees or warmer than 48. The site of the new East Jordan Hatchery was selected expressly because a fresh water spring supplies 6,600 gallons of water each minute at the proper temperature. There isn't even any need to pump it, because of gravity flow.

Mason said the second phase of the government's re-stocking of Lake Michigan with lake trout will take place Sept. 4 to 13. About 1 1/2 million trout from four to seven inches long from the Jordan River Hatchery will be released at Epaullette and Naulinway in the Upper Peninsula.

The trout will be taken to the area in especially equipped tank trucks, each carrying 1,600 pounds of fish. They will be released into the lake through six-inch hoses.

THIS SPRING extensive trout plantings were made in the waters around Beaver Island, once famous for their trout fishing.

All trout released at various times may be identified by the way their fins have been clipped, Mason said.

fin clipped off, indicating the fish had been raised at the Charlevoix Hatchery and released on the Milwaukee reef in 1961. It weighed 5 1/2 pounds.

MASON SAID the Michigan Conservation Department deserves a pat on the back for its foresightedness in assembling a brood stock of lake trout at its Marquette Hatchery 10 years ago. "Without young trout from Marquette, we wouldn't have any to put back in the lake," he said.

Mason said control of the lamprey with tarvacides is further along in Lake Superior than it is in Michigan. "In Superior, checks by electric weirs indicate the trout population has dropped off about 96 per cent in five years."

He added that the number of scars and wounds on lake trout in Superior caused by the lamprey have shown a similar reduction over the past few years.

Know Your Newspaper Better

A Better Newspaper Every Issue!

That's our policy . . . and our constant endeavor. It's a large order, and we don't always make it. But we try hard . . . and many times we do make it—a better newspaper for you than ever before.

How Do We Do It?

First, we plan the completest possible reporting of the news of this area. To you, the news is the most important thing in your paper . . . and therefore it has first place in our efforts. We also plan for better pictures every issue . . . and more pictures when space permits. And we look for interesting feature stories for each new issue. On the editorial page, we try to do a continually better job.

Then . . . What Else Can We Do?

That's next in our planning. Can we make the paper more attractive to look at, and easier to read . . . better type . . . larger type . . . different width columns? We can't change these things every issue, of course, but still we are always thinking of new ways to improve our product . . . to produce a better newspaper issue to issue . . . for better service to you, the reader.

The opening day of school will be Monday, Sept. 13. Since school will close that day than usual, at 2:30 p.m., the kindergarten will not meet. The first day of school for the kindergarten will be Tuesday, Sept. 14.

Sept. 14 will be the first day the cafeteria will operate so students should bring their lunches on the 13th.

Parents of kindergartners should bring their child's birth certificate. There is no need to register if a child was registered last spring, Snider said.

Talk of the Town

Mary Ann Klooster and Lora Foley, who were graduated last week from St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing in Marquette, have accepted positions on the nursing staff at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey and have arrived here to accept them.

Barry Hilligan left last week to begin his studies at the University of Michigan. His father, Dr. James Hilligan, took him to Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Campbell and two children arrived from Great Lakes, Ill., where he is stationed with the U. S. Navy to spend ten days with his mother, Mrs. Herbert Campbell.

Thomas Bleha left Monday enroute to Japan where he will attend the University of Yokohama under the U. S. State Department program of training personnel. He has spent the past 2 1/2 weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bleha.

Student Earns Language Grant

Miss Marilyn Novak, who has been spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Novak, left Thursday to return to her graduate studies at the University of Michigan.

She has been awarded $2,600 National Defense Language Fellowship in the Indonesian language for the academic year. The fellowship may be renewed.

In addition to her language studies, Miss Novak will do other work in the Southeastern Asia program and work on her master's thesis in geography.

boat with his cane fishing pole, straw hat and sun glasses. He was last seen heading toward Lake Charlevoix.

When the boat didn't return, Ward said he made a trip out into Lake Charlevoix looking for it shortly before dark. He went out again Thursday morning, and when he found no trace of the lost craft, he notified the Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard immediately started an intensive air and water search in Lake Charlevoix.

SHORTLY BEFORE noon Thursday, Jack and Bob Bergmann notified the Guard that a boat answering the description of the missing craft was beached near North Point on Lake Michigan.

In the boat were a battered straw hat, part of a cane fishing pole, a pair of sunglasses and a bobber. Half a tank of gasoline remained and the propeller shear pin had been broken.

The Bergmann boys say they definitely can place the boat at North Point about 8 p.m. Wednesday evening, three hours and 10 minutes after Mayer pulled out of Ward's boat slip.

Chief Harlan Speer of the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station says what bothers him is the way the craft was beached.

"IT DIDN'T look as if it had just washed ashore. Then it would have been parallel to the beach. Instead it looked as if it had been pulled or pushed up on shore. Another puzzling thing is that there were no footprints around it," Speer said.

Near positive identification of Mayer was made Aug. 31 by employees of the Ward boat livery who were shown a picture of the missing man supplied by his wife, Mrs. Mayer was to come to Charlevoix yesterday from Toledo where she has been staying with her parents.

Mrs. Grace Davis of Boyne City said Mayer was in the area to supervise demolition of the Country Cousins Inn on Water Street. The inn burned in June and the building had been condemned. Mayer planned to build a new restaurant on the site.

MRS. DAVIS, who leased the restaurant from Mayer, said she understood he was staying in the burned out building.

Walter Meyer who operates the sporting goods store next door, said he had seen Mayer Tuesday nailing boards over the front of the gutted building. "Then he put a ladder up and just went away and left it," Meyer said. The two men are not related.

Mrs. Davis described Mayer as an avid sportsman and fisherman.

"Just last Tuesday he wanted to take my son fishing with him, and then the weather turned bad and they didn't go," she said.

Actually, Mayer did go fishing Tuesday, according to the check-out sheet at Margaret's Marina in Advance. He rented a boat in the afternoon, returning before dark.

Another acquaintance in the area is Charles Moll, manager of Boyne Mountain Lodge. Moll said Mayer was a former ski instructor at the lodge, but that he left three or four years ago.

ALL OF THE people who knew Mayer expressed doubt that the missing man might have taken his own life.

Bernie Ward III called him "sort of happy-go-lucky" and Mrs. Davis said he "just wouldn't do a thing like that."

In the meantime, police and Coast Guardsmen continue to look for clues to his disappearance. The latest is a section of the cane fishing pole found Aug. 30 between North Coast Guardsmen Ron Sixberry became the first member of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club to shoot a perfect 25 since reopening of the skeet and trap range.

Other scorers Sunday were Bill Peters, 24; Andy Peters, 23; Bob Reed, 20; D. D. Walker, 20; and Norm Empey, 19. Other shooters were Ralph, Mike and Jim Shaheen, Adolph and Ron Komer, Ron Buckner, Bill Bergman, Gary Plum, John Kilgore, Harold Lang, and Peter and Art Klingpell.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating, and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and

Walloon Lake. Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nyne Holes, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

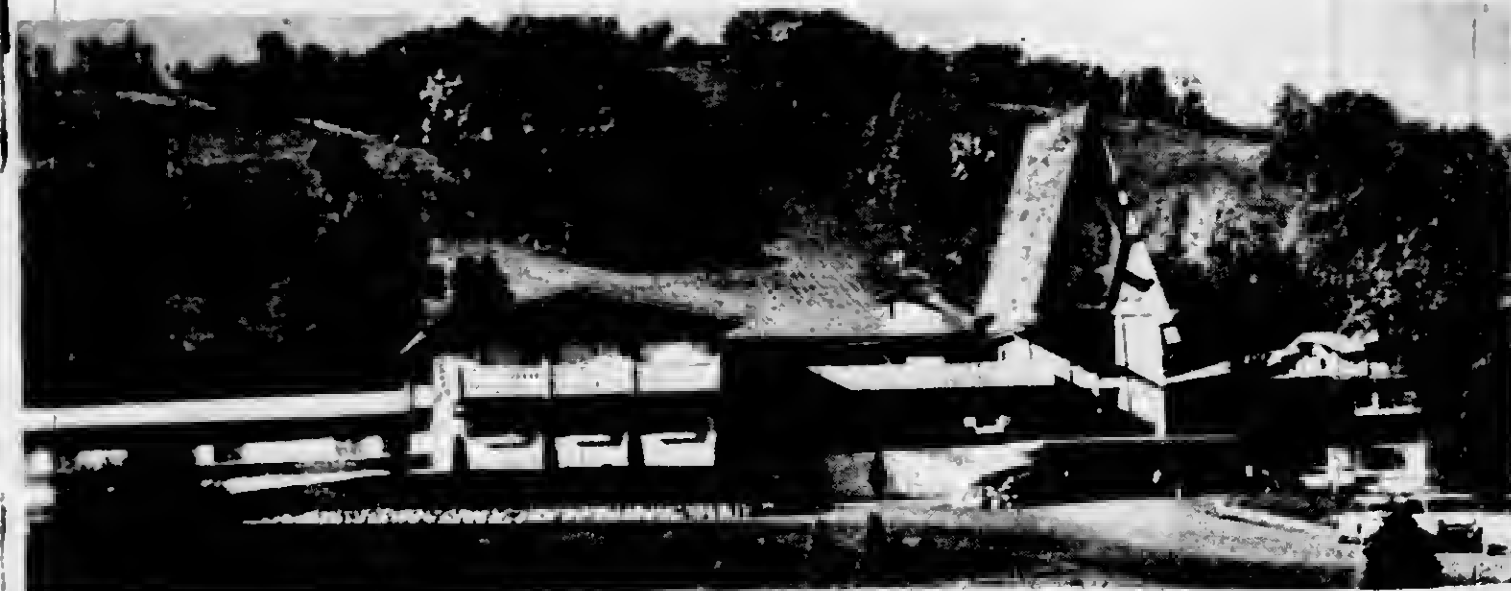

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan, resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

The Party's Over

THE END OF SUMMER is a busy time -- and a nostalgic one -- for Charlevoix visitors. There is the boat to be pulled from the water. The cottage must be sealed tight against the coming winter. Water pipes need to be drained, and the lawn furniture must be put away for another year. Packing the car is the last step before waving goodbye to Bridge Street until next summer.

Always On Guard

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix--the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel. directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Miltradt, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions.

Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

E.D. Masoo, Floyd A. Chamberlain and 4,000 lake trout are the sole occupants of the U. S. National Fish Hatchery on Lake Michigan at Pine River Channel.

Masoo is in charge of the station and Chamberlain is his assistant. The 4,000 trout are guinea pigs in a diet test, but they are just a drop in the bucket, so to speak, for what's in store for the hatchery come Jan. 1.

Theo, 100,000 young trout will be shipped in from the Jordan River Hatchery for 18 months of extensive feeding tests. Mason said the details aren't complete yet, but the fish will probably be fed four experimental diets, to see which yields the hardest crop of trout.

MASON SAID he hoped news of the prolonged feeding trials would scotch some of the rumors he had heard that the Charlevoix Hatchery is ready to fold up.

Although it is located on Lake Michigan, the Charlevoix Hatchery has a water problem, Mason said.

Here's Where & How to Fish

If there is a better cure than fishing for that hauntingly tense feeling that the mob is stalking you with its big city noises and impatience it must be fishing in the Charlevoix area.

Oh sure, there are places in North America with better fishing. But darn few. Some of the country's most incurable anglers rate Lake Charlevoix and the Beaver Island area among the finest small-mouth bass fishing grounds in the U.S.

YET THERE IS MORE than the promise that fish are available for the catching to recommend Charlevoix as a choice fishing area. You mustn't overlook the unsurpassed drama of our clean water, cool air, big hardwood and hick trees and quiet mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But where to go and how to do it?

If you're after smallmouth bass or perch try Lake Charlevoix. The South Arm is generally good.

Your best choice of lures for Lake Charlevoix bass will be Jig - A - Do streamers in brown, white and yellow colors. Others this column can vouch for are small (quarter-ounce) dardevils in red-and-white and pearl colors, Jig-A-Do crawlers, number-two size spinners, Super Dupers, Flatfish and Heddon's Cobra. (Worms are also reputed to catch fish.) You can buy any, or all, of these lures at Staley's Hardware and other local stores.

BIG BASS SUCH as those on this stringer come from Lake Charlevoix.

FOR SPECIFIC TIPS on where the current Lake Charlevoix hotspots are ask Clare

Staley at his hardware, Irv Drost at Irv's Cocktail Lounge, Bernie Ward at Ward's Boat Livery, or Mearle Scott in Ironston.

You can fish Lake Charlevoix from a boat or with waders. There are many areas of the South Arm that can be waded. Sometimes they produce nice bass during mid-day, but evening or morning is usually best. If you're fishing from a boat try casting or trolling right off the edge of bullrushes or boulder-strewn areas.

Throw your lure into likely looking areas. When it hits the water let it sink and remain still for a few seconds; you will often get a strike the minute you finally move it. If there is no strike retrieve it a few feet and then let it sink and rest again before moving it.

If you want to do some exploring try the nearby shoreline of Lake Michigan. Once again, you can wade or use a boat. The same lures and techniques as used on Lake Charlevoix will stand you in good stead.

IF SMALLER lakes are your forte look at a map and pick one of the many directly south of town in Charlevoix County or Antrim County. Though few of them have public access sites, you can usually talk a property owner into letting you trespass. He may even have boats to rent.

You will probably be amazed to find you have to share these lightly fished lakes with only one or two other boats; and sometimes you'll be all alone.

Here's a list of ten smaller lakes worth trying.

- Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass and panfish.
- Nowland Lake, for pike, bass and panfish.
- Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and musky.
- Susan Lake, for small pike.
- Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.
- Walloon Lake, for trout, pike, bass, panfish.
- West Twin Lake for bass and pike.
- St. Clair Lake (in Ellsworth), for bass, panfish and even an occasional trout.
- Ellsworth Lake, for bass, pike, and maybe a musky.
- Toad Lake (south of Ellsworth) for pike, bass and panfish.

ALL OF THESE lakes have the fish in them that are mentioned. . . that's guaranteed by this writer. Catching them is up to you. Try using the same lures recommended for Lake Charlevoix. Arrogant's new weedless jittersbugs, Bulla Poppers and Hawaiian Wig-glers are also productive numbers.

You can find your way to these lakes by asking for maps of Charlevoix and Antrim County, which are available at most motels, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Courier.

If you taste runs more to stream fishing for trout, try the Jordan River south of East Jordan, or the Maple River near Pellston. The Bear River between Walloon Lake and Petoskey also has trout, but is hard to fish. The same holds true with the Boyne River.

There are also any number of small, bushy streams with good populations of trout (and usually mosquitoes).

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Poison Ivy: Vacation Villain

Poison ivy, which is common in some of the wilderness areas around Charlevoix, can cause suffering in sensitive individuals, leading to expensive medical bills and sometimes a ruined vacation. Learn to recognize it. Then avoid it.

The leaves of the plant are smooth, glossy and firm and the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. They grow in threes and are borne alternately on the stem. In early summer, whitish dull flowers grow from the axils of the leaves and are succeeded by round, dull white fruits the size of a field pea.

THE OFFENDING substance is an oil which is present throughout the entire plant and which, upon contact with the skin of a sensitive person, creates a toxic action. Even the handling of animals and automobile tires which have come in contact with the plant will transmit the oil to the handler.

The oil will stick for an indefinite period to clothing, boots and tools and from there it is easily transmitted to hands, face and any exposed part of the body. If you have been contaminated with the oil, act at once. In the susceptible individual, the irritant already will have begun to cause a sensitivity reaction.

WASH THE contaminated parts of the body with thorough latherings of soap and repeated rinsings with water. Yellow laundry soap is preferable to toilet soap. After thorough washing, a neutral talc, or corn starch may be applied.

Contaminated clothing should be washed thoroughly and repeatedly with soap and water. If the clothing has to be dry-cleaned and you are sending it out, wrap it carefully and label it "contaminated with poison ivy." Thoroughly cleanse contaminated tools and equipment with a safety solvent.

Should a rash develop after precautionary soap and water measures have been taken, and medical aid is not immediately available, apply a thick paste of soap; let it dry and leave on overnight; or use a calamine solution or other approved medication. Protect the inflamed skin from further irritants. Cool compresses of ice water or applications of corn starch will help relieve inflammation.

POISON IVY? Sometimes it's hard to tell. Vacationers are cautioned to look for a plant with smooth, firm, glossy leaves, with the edges entirely or partially coarse-toothed. Leaves grow in threes, and appear alternately on the stem. At this time of year, the plant may be identified by small white berries, the size of field peas.

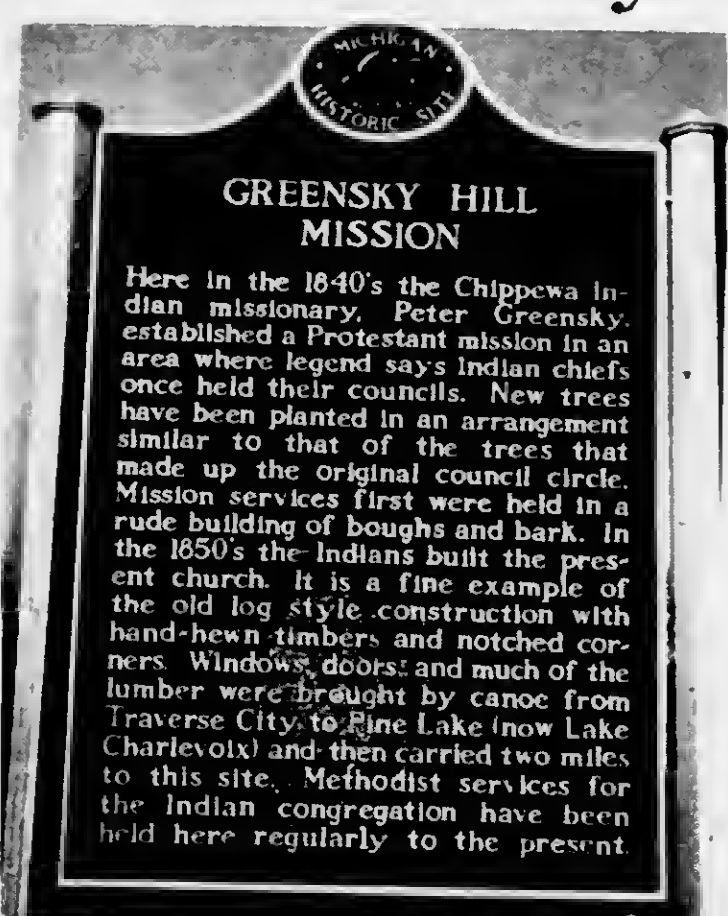

IF YOU are working in an area where the plant is growing, wear clothing to cover as much of the skin as possible. Tuck plant legs inside boot tops. Leather laces do not retain as much oil as cotton laces.

Better, wear rubber boots and gloves, washing them at the end of the day.

Poison ivy should be burned only in isolated areas. Avoid contact with the smoke; particularly avoid getting it in the eyes, or inhaling it. The oil in the plant may be vaporized, and the vapor, carried by the smoke, may cause the sensitive to break out some distance from the burning plant itself.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and A/Sable long boats. The fishermen find satisfaction in reels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist

Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

LT. COMDR. Dale Foster is one of the many Coast Guard officers and men stationed in the area whose job it is to provide for the safety of commercial and pleasure craft plying northern Michigan waters. Foster is skipper of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew.

Water Safety Is Aim Of U.S. Coast Guard

Three Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix. Their primary function is the safety of all those who travel the waters of northern Michigan. In addition to the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew whose home port is Charlevoix Harbor, the city also hosts the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and the group headquarters for all Coast Guard operations in northern Michigan. Commanding officer of the Sundew is Lt. Comdr. Dale Foster who assumed command of the ship in July. Group commander is Lt. Charles Millard, while the station is under the command of Harland Speer, En. C. Speer has filled his post only since Aug. 6.

Autumn Coaxes Hunters to Area

Although summer is still dawdling on the doorstep, state Conservation Department employees are busily preparing for the coming bird and deer hunting seasons which will witness a new influx of visitors to the area.

The woods and fields around Charlevoix are still sufficiently unpeopled to leave lots of room for wildlife, and the area is fast becoming the destination of a growing coterie of nimrods from all corners of the state. In Lansing, distribution of Michigan's 1965 hunting and trapping licenses and application forms for antlerless deer permits was started last week by the Conservation Department.

First mailings were made to Upper Peninsula dealers who are expected to have licenses and permit applications available with shooting and trapping rules by next week. The same forms and licenses, covering the state's deer, small game and furbearer seasons, should be in the hands of Lower Michigan dealers by early September.

HUNTERS planning to apply for some 228,000 antlerless deer permits available for 56 special areas will then have until Oct. 1 to send completed entry forms to the Conservation Department's Lansing office.

As in the past, they must buy firearm deer hunting licenses in order to get permit applications.

As of Aug. 18, the Department had received turkey applications from 7,000 hunters. Through the same date, 9,000 sportsmen had submitted applications for elk licenses.

HUNDREDS of swimmers flocked to the Lake Michigan Beach August 5 when the temperature climbed into the 80's in Charlevoix. By the same token, downtown streets were virtually deserted as tourists and townspeople alike sought relief from the heat. Complementing the natural beauty of the Lake Michigan beach were quite a number of girls in bikinis.

Tips for Water Safety

Mid-summer is a good time to review safe swimming practices, particularly in an area like Charlevoix which abounds with excellent bathing facilities.

One of the cardinal rules of safe swimming is never to go into the water alone. Make sure you have a pal along to help—or run for help—if you need it.

Another old-time safety precaution which still makes sense is to wait an hour after eating before going into the water. Digesting a meal is strenuous activity, and the stomach demands and gets an increased blood supply after eating.

Exercising muscles also need more blood, and the swimmer who eats and then goes swimming is placing too great a burden on his circulatory system. Cramps are likely to result.

Another wise precaution is to swim only inside those areas marked off as a safe swimming area. This is the area that the guard on duty can effectively oversee. Don't complicate his job by swimming out-of-bounds.

Swimmers also should keep in mind that painful sunburn can result from over-exposure, particularly near water.

where bathers are exposed to the added reflection of the sun's rays. Many a promising vacation has been spoiled by a severe case of sunburn on the first day. Take the sun easy stages, and you'll take home a suntan to be proud of.

Great fires from little embers grow: be careful with fire in the woods.

Worldly Audience

Consumers PowerCo.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

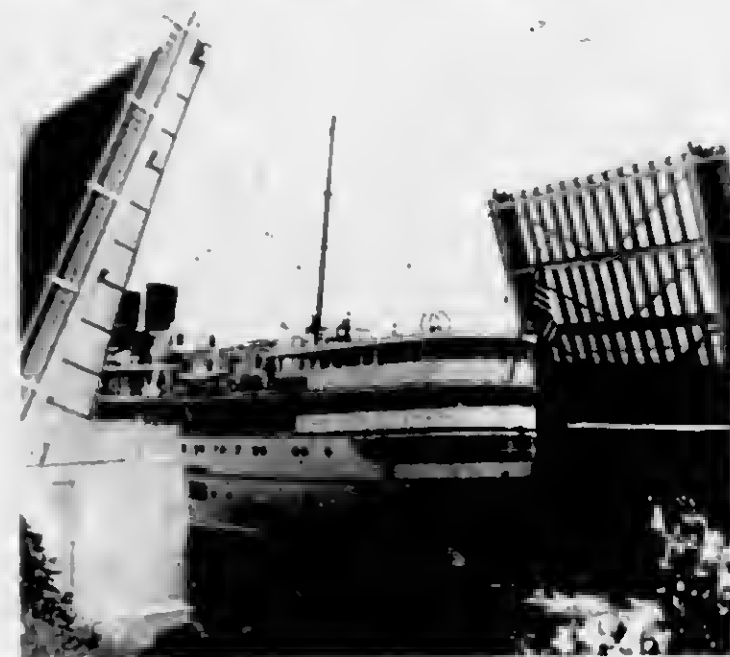

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Sharon Wood, Mike Allen and Hy Heaton.

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business. There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Don't Stow Tackle Yet, Anglers Told

The fisherman who puts his tackle away just because dog days have arrived may be missing some of the most exciting sport of the year. That's the message from Dick Kotis, fishing expert from Arbogast.

"The secret of success during dog days," Kotis reveals, "is to go out at night." This advice makes good sense. Many of America's best game fish - largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleyes, brown trout, channel catfish - tend to be nocturnal anyway. And through the heat of the summer, they do nearly all of their feeding after dark and after too many fishermen have gone home.

BUT HOW do you fish after dark? "For bass," replies Kotis, "use surface plugs in the same places you are likely to find bass early in the season."

Cast your topwater lures along shallow shorelines or beside weedbeds. And never neglect to toss your topwater lure around boat docks, piers and pilings. During the hours of darkness this is like playing with dynamite.

Fishing at night is also a pleasant way to "escape." Skiers and speedboaters have retreated to dry land and the waters belong exclusively to fishermen. An angler can relax and light up a pipe. Next thing he knows, a lunker bass will be cavorting on the end of this line.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts, rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good smallmouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever suffers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

City Rings Up Good Season

A spot check of Charlevoix merchants and innkeepers indicates the season just ended was a highly profitable one for all concerned.

None of the merchants was able to come up with a dollar and cents figure on how well they did, but the consensus was that the season generally was better than 1964.

They attributed their increased profits to better weather in August, and most expressed the opinion that 1965 would have been even better without so much chilly weather the last of July.

Some thought the influx of visitors and climbing cash register receipts simply reflect the high level of business activity generally around the country. ...

ONLY ONE businessman, Oscar Stroud, owner of Stroud's Wayside Motel and Cabins on Petoskey Road, labeled the season "only average."

Stroud said his "off-season" business up to July 1 was down some from last year, but that August was about as good as last year.

He added that the disappearance of perch and smelt from waters around Charlevoix have cut deeply into his spring and fall business.

Stroud, who has provided housing for Charlevoix tourists for the past 30 years, will close for the season about the first week in November.

ALSO IN the tourist accommodation business is Mrs. William Garten, 202N, Michigan, who has rooms for rent. Mrs. Garten reports a very good year, "although it could have been better if the weather had been more obliging."

Mrs. Garten says she and her husband have been in business only two years here, so it's difficult to make comparisons. She said last winter they provided rooms for a good many skiers, and she and her husband are waiting to see what inroads, if any, competition of the Weatherman Terrace will make on their business this year.

She said she tried advertising her room for rent in a Detroit newspaper, but so far none of her customers has mentioned seeing the ad.

GEORGE LABLANCE, proprietor of the Hitching Post cafe, is well satisfied after his first year in the restaurant business.

"I'd say we had a very good summer, but the bottom sure dropped out this past week, with cold weather moving in."

He, too, thinks cool weather this summer tended to hold things back a bit.

LaBlance plans extensive remodeling of his cafeteria this fall, enlarging the dining room area so that next year he will have table service as well as cafeteria style meals.

But for the traveler, LaBlance is sold on cafeteria meals.

Charlevoix football coach Dan Carey seems well pleased with the progress his boys have made during their first week of practice.

"I'm not picking any all-stars yet, but we've got a number of boys who look particularly good," Carey said. More than 80 boys turned out daily last week, morning and evening, to exercise muscles they haven't used all summer in calisthenics and body contact plays.

Medusa Asks OK on Dock

The Crescent Stone Co. (Medusa) of Cleveland has applied to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers office in Detroit for permission to construct temporary mooring facilities in Lake Michigan just offshore from Medusa property on South Point.

The project includes dredging the temporary harbor, constructing a temporary roadway out into the lake and sinking two pontoons, 10 feet wide and from 130 to 150 feet long.

The Corps of Engineers says anyone having any objection to such work should file a written protest with the Detroit office not later than 4:30 p.m. (EST) Sept. 9.

Charities Stand to Benefit

Community Chest Chairman Frank Bourgoyn has erected a thermometer in the middle of East Park to record the progress of the 1965 campaign which begins next Monday. Collection goal is $12,709.

The "mercury" currently is pegged at 21 per cent, representing gifts from summer residents and summer businesses.

Judging from the enthusiasm of his division chairman, Bourgoyn expects the thermometer to hit the 75 per cent mark or higher by the end of the first week of campaigning.

BEGINNING Sept. 13, Commercial Division Chairman Ted Ager will have approximately 20 volunteers calling on 150 business places.

Ager believes that most businessmen are aware that a number of separate charitable drives not only can be a nuisance, but are inefficient as a means of raising money.

Guard Wrecks Cottage

A drinking party Sept. 2 ended in jail sentences for two Coast Guardsmen and extensive damage to a cottage owned by Mrs. Mary Bradley on Prospect Street, near Michigan Avenue.

Arrested as a result of the incident were Ralph Fosnot, 22, who pleaded guilty before Justice John Connolly Sept. 3 to a charge of supplying alcoholic beverages to a minor. Judge Connolly fined Fosnot $100 and $10 costs and sentenced him to 30 days in the County Jail. Fosnot will be allowed to serve out his jail term aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew.

ALSO ARRESTED was Michael Paul Weaver, 19, charged with malicious destruction of property. Weaver was fined $10, plus $10 costs and ordered to spend 10 days in the County Jail.

The sentence will be served in jail, since Weaver already was on probation from Judge Connolly's court for disturbing the peace Aug. 5.

Weaver also was ordered by the court to make restitution.

Jackson Team Dashes Hope of IGA Women

Edward's IGA, Charlevoix's representative in the women's State Softball Tournament, was eliminated by Jackson 11-8. The local entry had battled through the district and regional tournaments to find itself among the elite playing for the state championship.

In the double elimination tournament held at Manistee, they ran smack into the defending champions from Owosso and were beaten 10-0 in their first contest.

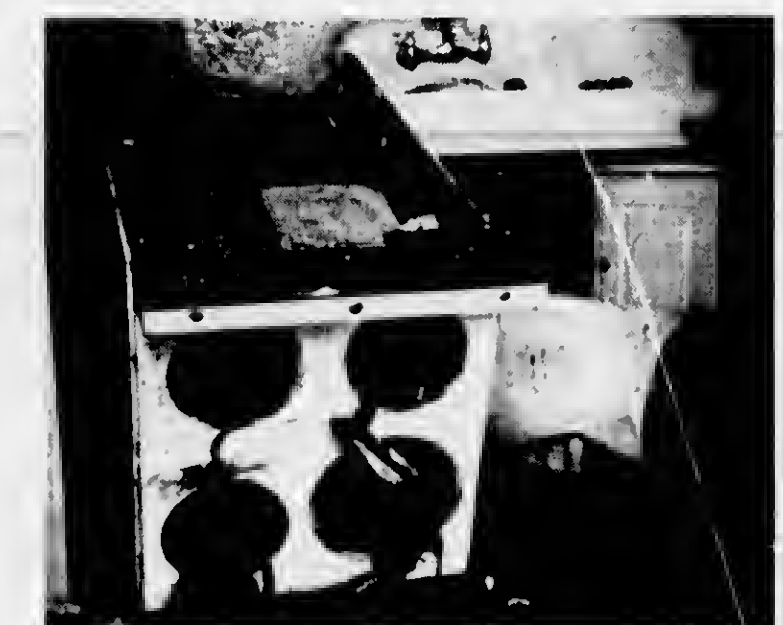

THE NEXT day they edged a good Ludington team 5-4 to get back into the winner's bracket. Sheryl Holborn doubled and singled to lead the attack while Mary Lou Ingalls pitched a four hitter.

Jackson sent the girls home posting a narrow 11-8 win. Charlevoix had the runners on base in the late innings but couldn't come up with the key hit to tie the score. Linda Supina and Sue Crain had a double and triple respectively to pace Edwards.

Manager Max Novak remarked, "The girls learned quite a bit from the trip and they played hard and were a good representative for our fine softball program. We were one of the youngest teams there and, for our first real effort in the state tournament, we were very pleased."

ONLY ONE window in this single story cottage was left intact following a drinking party by tenants last Thursday night.

INTERIOR of cottage was jammed with broken furniture and toppled appliances. Above, stove and water heater are tipped over in middle of kitchen floor.

U.S. Earmarks $83,846 for County

Broad new opportunities have been made possible by Congress for raising the educational standards of Charlevoix County's 371 children from homes with less than $2,000 annual income.

The "Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965" allocates $83,846 to Charlevoix County.

The entire 11th Congressional District, which includes all of the Upper Peninsula and seven northernmost counties in the Lower Peninsula, is authorized to receive $2,337,518 in assistance to education from the new law.

According to studies by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, there are 10,451 children aged 5-17 in the 11th Congressional District whose parents make less than $2,000 a year.

Lakers Capture Title

Lake Construction won its first city softball championship.

ship, the Cardinals took the Peanut League crown, and Paul Reed ended up repeating as the women's champs after final night of softball was completed.

Lake won in thrilling style, edging American Mold 2-1 in 10 long tense innings. Each team had won in the first two games of the series. Game details will be found on page 2.

THE CARDINALS swept their two games with the Lions, ending up undefeated and winning twelve straight on the season. Larry Potter hurled a heat one hitter against the battling Lions and when the Cards came up with four fourth inning runs it was all over.

The Cards combined base hits by Bob Deyoung, Norm Ostrum, Bob Reed, and Eric Hillman for the rally. Archie Dayton, Chamber of Commerce manager, presented them with the Chamber Cup for their victory.

PAUL REED defeated Edwards 10-7. Three runs in the top of the final inning proved to be the margin of victory. Edwards fought gamely despite being weakened by the loss of two of their regulars who had to return to school. They rallied for five runs in their last turn at bat and a snappy double play by Paul Reed perhaps saved them the ball game. Bez Sladek's third inning triple was a key blow in their big inning.

LAKE CON.

Circlin' the Bases

with DEANO

Well, the season is now officially over and many people are still talking about the final games of the season between Lake Construction and American Mold. The game went 10 innings and provided local fans with some of the finest softball ever seen in the long history of the sport here. Both teams deserved to win, yet it can never end that way. Lake Construction emerged the winner 2-1, but softball was the real winner because of the way the two teams played the game.

The three game series was full of thrills and sparkling plays. Lake won the first in eight innings 3-2. Mold came back strongly to win the second 9-3, thus setting the stage for the final game. The championship game in full inning by inning details went as follows:

FIRST INNING - American Mold... Shortstop Deyoung threw out Ken Boss. Harry Cole bounced back to the pitcher, and Deyoung threw out Ken Balch on a hot smash. Lake Construction... McBride popped to first baseman Cole. Davenport grounded a single through the middle. Grunch popped to third, and Potter filed high to Kowbell in left.

SECOND INNING - Mold... Ken Wogan's shot smash went as an infield hit. Kowbell forced Wogan at second. Des Milligan grounded to Kloooster at first. Pete Brock walked, and Nate Boss struck out to end the threat.

Lake Construction... Kloooster filed hard to Ritt in center. Marmé bounced back to the pitcher. Chuck Coleman lined a triple down the left field line and when Ken Boss banged a similar shot for a thres bagger, Lake had their first run. Deyoung bounced out to Boss at second. One run, two hits.

THIRD INNING... Ritt struck out. Boss rolled to Potter. Davenport threw Cole out on a hard smash to end the inning. Lake Construction... Third baseman Milligan made two fine plays on McBride and Grunch, and Boss took Davenport's liner to end the inning.

FOURTH INNING... Mold-Balch singled sharply to left. Wogan lined hard to McBride in center. Potter threw Kowbell's hopper into center field in an attempt to double up Balch and Balch scored and Kowbell was nailed at third for the second out. Milligan popped out to end the inning. One run, one hit.

Lake Con... Wogan made a fine catch of Potter's sky-high pop. Hank Kloooster doubled on this right field foul line. Marmé filed to third, and Balch made a tremendous play behind second to throw out Coleman and stop the Lake threat.

FIFTH INNING... Mold... Brock and Boss struck out. Ritt worked a walk, and Ken Boss filed high to Marmé in left.

Lake-Boss popped to Balch. Milligan just got Deyoung at first on a good play, and McBride filed to Boss at second.

SIXTH INNING... Mold-Cole went down swinging. Balch's long drive was halted in by Marmé in left. Wogan reached first on a hard hit ball that the shortstop didn't handle. Coleman threw out Kowbell for the third out.

Lake - Davenport reached first on an infield error. Grunch popped to Wogan. Potter ter went down swinging, and Kloooster was thrown out by Milligan.

SEVENTH INNING - Mold - Milligan struck out. Brock bounced to Potter, and Ken Boss flew out deep to center.

Lake - Marmé lined a lead off single into right center. Coleman struck out, Ike Boss went down swinging. Then Boss fired a third strike past Deyoung to get out of a jam and send the game into extra innings.

EIGHTH INNING... Mold - Ritt popped to Coleman. Ken Boss beat out a perfect bunt. Kloooster made a beautiful one-hand grab of Cole's fly for the second out. Balch lined his second single into left. Potter got Wogan on a vicious third swing to end the inning.

Lake... McBride struck out. Davenport dropped a double into left. Grunch popped to Milligan at third. Ted Potter sent the fans to their feet with a long blast into left which Kowbell caught with his back against the fence to end the inning.

NINTH INNING... Mold - Kowbell struck out. Milligan and Jim Alger bounced back to Potter who threw them out at first.

Lake - Nate Boss struck out Kloooster and Marmé, and Coleman flew high to Ritt in center.

TENTH INNING - Mold - Coleman threw out Boss on a close play at first. Ritt struck out. Ken Boss ended the inning swinging at a third strike.

Lake - Ike Boss, after fouling off several pitches, finally struck out. Deyoung worked Boss for a walk. Larry McBride stroked a two-strike pitch up the alley in right center for a double, sending Deyoung to third. Davenport's slow bouncer to Cole was thrown home but was too late to catch the sliding Deyoung with the winning run. One run, one hit.

The season came to an official close with the awarding of trophies to the winning team, their manager, John Boss, and Hal Forbrig, sponsor of Lake Construction.

LINEDRIVES... City softball is getting tougher and this season saw an outstanding brand of ball played at the fastball level. One definite reason is that boys start playing softball in our program at eight and continue to play through the peanut and junior leagues up into the fastball circuit. Outstanding players who have come up through the system include several members of the champion Lake Construction: Rick Grunch, Nick Deyoung, Chuck Coleman, Bill Marmé, Larry McBride, and Ike Boss. American Mold has Dave Smith. The Merchants, John Duerr, Gary Stutzman and Larry Edwards. Olesons includes several - Dennis Warner, John Ferguson, Ed Holm, Rich Heeris, Doug Winnell. The leagues couldn't have been closer. Cards and Lions played off in the Peanut, Mold and Lake in fastball. Paul Reed and Edwards ended in a tie for the women's and the Black Sox won the Kiwanis Youth League in their final game against the Green Sox.

...Potter family produces excellent pitchers. Ted Potter pitched for Lake Construction, sister Dolly pitched for champion Paul Reed, nephew Larry pitched the Cards to city title, and brother Eldie pitched for Ken's Dodge in the bloop league. A Tip of the Hat to - Max Novak for his devoted efforts in coaching three teams, Edwards of the women's league, Cards in the peanut league, and Novak's insurance in the bloop. Two of his teams won titles and the third Edwards lost by an eyelash. Umpires Jack and Roxy Geer, Pete Ance, and Norm Helms for jobs well done. It's a rather sad sight at season's end to look at the empty bleachers and quiet dugouts. A season's passing is like the passing of a long time friend. You know how you're going to miss him and other friends don't fill the void. It's the same at each season's end, aspecially after such an enjoyable season as this year has been. However, next year will bring new teams together, new thrills, new experiences and there will still be many many faces of old friends. Till next year...

Xmas Trees Need Right Fertilizer

The proper use of fertilizer and weed control measures can improve Christmas tree quality or grade and bring the trees to maturity sooner. Ed Rehman, County Extension Director reports. Proper weed control and fertilization will result in shorter rotations, better quality trees and higher returns.

Choice and application of fertilizers may be toxic to evergreens. High concentrations of liquid fertilizers may be toxic to evergreens. High concentrations of liquid fertilizers may also be used but only at certain growth stages.

"FERTILIZATION and Weed Control on Christmas Tree Farms" is the title of a booklet prepared by Donald P. White, Michigan State University forestry specialist. The publication of the MSU Extension Service describes the newest methods for controlling weeds without costly soil preparation. Amounts and types of fertilizers used to improve appearance, hardness and grade are also covered.

GOV. GEORGE Romney discusses state government with the Charlevoix and Emmet County Delegation to the First Annual Teen-Age Republican Camp held Sept. 2 to 5 on St. Mary's Lake near Bottle Creek. With Romney are (from left) Poulette Hansen of Charlevoix and William Jewitt of Petoskey.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dean of Venice, Fla., arrived to spend an indefinite time with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bergmann, Mrs. Dean suffered a heart attack in June. Mrs. Vorne M. Norton has returned to Detroit after spending the summer with friends and relatives in the Charlevoix area.

In the newspaper business, you never can tell what stories you will hear in the course of a day or where they'll come from. When you come up against a really good reporter, it can make your whole day worthwhile.

An instance in point is a visit Mrs. Ellen Douglas Williamson paid to the Courier office last week to discuss her new book, "Wall Street Made Easy," which was off the press Friday. A review of the book and an interview with Mrs. Williamson appears elsewhere in this week's Courier.

In this corner we'd like to pass on a couple of stories about the late Albert Einstein which Mrs. Williamson recalled when our conversation turned to the famous German physicist.

In addition to diggings on Oyster Bay, the Williamsons have an apartment in New York City and a home in Princeton, N. J. And around the corner from the Princeton home lived Albert Einstein until his death in 1955.

"I didn't know him well," Mrs. Williamson said, "but my dog did. We had a little dachshund named Pretzel and every time Dr. Einstein walked past the house Pretzel would run out to bark at him. He seemed very fond of the dog, and often stopped to talk to her—in their native German."

Mrs. Williamson once told Einstein she was sorry the dog barked at him so much, but that the dog seemed to enjoy it.

"Yah," Einstein agreed, "she enjoys it."

Another time, shortly after having Pretzel bred, Mrs. Williamson told Einstein the dog was going to have pups. "No she's not," Einstein answered without explanation.

"And you know, he was right," Mrs. Williamson said. The Charlevoix authoress remembers Einstein as a man so punctual in his habits that you could almost set your watch by him. For years, he walked past the Williamson house at 12:40 p.m. on his way to the Princeton Institute for Advanced Studies.

She said she often overheard the famed mathematician and his colleagues talking in his garden, which was just over the hedge from hers. "But they always spoke Latin," she recalls, "so nobody knew what they were talking about."

Mrs. Williamson relayed one story which happened right after the Einsteins moved to the United States from Germany.

"It was—and still is—the fashionable thing in Princeton to call on newcomers in town to make them welcome. When the Einsteins arrived, the town's foremost society matron—a diabetic—announced her intention to call on the new arrivals. Knowing the hearty appetites of the Germans, her friends urged her to make her call in the middle of the afternoon, when she wouldn't be pressured into having anything to eat.

So the society matron—"she really was the chateleine of Princeton"—paid her call at 2:30 one afternoon. After the usual amenities, Mrs. Einstein excused herself, saying she would let the doctor entertain his guest while she fixed a little something to eat.

The matron protested vigorously that she had just eaten lunch, but the cordial Mrs. Einstein brushed aside her objections. "Nobody visits the Einsteins without eating," she insisted stoutly in her heavy German accent and disappeared into the kitchen. As time passed, the visitor grew more and more alarmed as she heard the whir of an eggbeater and the solid clunk of a refrigerator door being opened and closed.

In due time, Mrs. Einstein reappeared with three dessert plates piled high with a frothy Bavarian cream concoction garnished with maraschino cherries. "Eat," Mrs. Einstein instructed.

The chateleine made a mental computation of her insulinsugar balance and decided she could safely risk two or three mouthfuls. So doing, she put down her dish, blotted her lips on a napkin, and announced that she had never tasted such a delicious Bavarian cream.

"But you're not finished," Mrs. Einstein cried, pushing the dish back at her.

"While thousands of children are starving in Germany, we don't waste food in America!"

Resignedly the visitor finished her dessert down to the last calorie, thanked her hosts, and bid them auf Wiedersehen. As the chauffeur handed her into the waiting limousine, the grim faced dowager gave one command: "Princeton Hospital...on the double."

"And would you believe it," Mrs. Williamson said, "she went right down to the hospital and had her stomach pumped."

NEVER THOUGHT I had fresh water in my veins, but I've been in Charlevoix a little more than a month and already I'm yearning for some sea legs. Everytime I have a couple of minutes to call my own, I find myself heading for the yacht basin. And all high-tail it for the drawbridge even to see a kayak come through. When a ship like the Inland Seas ties up, why I'd chuck everything if they'd just let me swab the decks or fasten the hatches or whatever it is they do aboard ship. You'd never know I spent 12 days aboard the General Meigs in the Pacific, stretched out on the steel floor of the head, sick as a dog and hoping that the next wave would swamp the whole bloody ship.

Yet now I find myself making flimsy excuses to go downtown every evening just before 6 p.m. to watch the car ferry Beaver Island pull away from her Charlevoix berth and slide out the channel to the never-ending land lost in the eternal mists of northern Lake Michigan. I always re-enact mentally the scene that will ensue two hours and 15 minutes later when that sturdy little ship puffs up the dock at St. James and the brave little band of passengers steps jauntily ashore just as though nothing had happened.

People who have been to Beaver Island tell me I'm full of wet hay and canal water, but some day before the snow flies on my last car!

How? Through my State Farm Mutual agent. He helped me get financing through a local cooperating bank. And that low cost bank financing really saves you money! Then I insured the car with State Farm too, and with their low rates I saved even on the insurance! Guess a lot of car owners save like this with State Farm. Say why don't you call your State Farm agent?

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy had as their guests last week their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Hurlbert and family of Muskegon and Mr. Murphy's aunt, Mrs. Albert Bosma of Muskegon Heights. The Hurlberts also visited relatives in East Jordan.

Charlevoix will be best Sunday to the quarterly meeting of the Lower 11th District meeting of the American Legion, Harry Pearsall, post commander of the Leslie T. Shapton Post, has announced. Legionnaires will meet at the county building at 2 p.m. while Auxiliary members meet at the post home at the same time. A dinner for the combined groups will be held at the post home at 5 p.m.

Mrs. Gene Gibelyou spent a few days with Mrs. Annie Evans of Southfield and Mrs.

I've got to get over there and find out what it's like for myself.

In the meantime, Judy and I carefully scrutinize every dingley that comes along, speculating on the price and wondering how long it will take before we can own something like that. We both sort of lean toward an old fishing tug, something seaworthy enough to carry us to the headwaters of Georgian Bay in Ontario where the distaff side of the family has lived since pioneer days.

Levi Gibelyou and family of Wayne. While there she attended the State Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Carey and two daughters, Amy and Nancy, left Labor Day for home at Midland after spending the summer at the Charlevoix Golf Club.

Mr. Walt Maner who has

been advertising salesman for the Charlevoix Courier Playtime left for home at Okemos. He will return to Michigan State University later this fall. Jerry Boss has returned to Western Michigan University for his third year of study.

Mrs. L. E. Block has returned to Chicago after the summer at her Michigan Avenue home.

Gordon Himebauch, Gary Loder and Gary Parsel plan to leave this weekend for Lansing where they will be employed at the Oldsmobile plant and where they will participate in a training program sponsored by the company.

Thank You

We wish to express our deep appreciation to all of our customers and friends who contributed to a very successful first season at the Hitchin' Post.

man's work

Christ made the laboring man a great promise. The proclaiming of Labor Day as a national holiday might not be a coincidence after all. In St. Matthew, the Lord promised rest to all those who labor and are heavy laden. Thus the National Holiday was set aside in respect to all those who work together to make our nation strong and free. God is on the side of the working man, but He has no use for the nonproducers—the drones—the sluggards—the usurers. In Corinthians, He makes it very plain that every man shall receive his own reward, according to his own labor. Then, let us not gloat over past accomplishments. Let us put our shoulders to the wheel for greater achievements. As we honor our working women and men, let us reflect on all the good fortunes of every American laborer. And may we reverently think on God as we celebrate, as we pay our respects, for we know, a man's work is born with him.

August Crashes Kill 197

August traffic deaths in Michigan totaled 197, one more than 196 in the same month a year ago, State Police provisional figures show.

The total includes one killed in Charlevoix County. The victim was Charles Myers who was killed when his Honda failed to make a turn at M-75 and Dear Lake Road on Aug. 25.

It was the second month in eight so far this year with an increase over the corresponding month in 1964. The other month was June whose toll of 184 was up by 17.

The August total, which will rise somewhat because of delayed death reports, was 23 higher than the average of 174 for the month in the five years of 1960-64.

AUGUST deaths bring the provisional toll for the first eight months to 1,277 which is 100 or seven percent under 1,377 for the same period last year.

Final figures for the first seven months of the year show 1,072 killed and 82,045 injured in 171,003 accidents. Compared with the same period in 1964, deaths were down nine percent from 1,181 but injuries were up nine percent from 75,581 and accidents increased 13 percent from 151,727.

Estimated vehicle mileage for the first six months, the latest information available, was 19.2 billions, a gain of five percent, while the death rate of 4.6 per 100 million vehicle miles was decreased 13 percent.

Mary Ann Gibbons

Mary Ann Gibbons Is Wed at St. Marys

Mary Ann Gibbons of Charlevoix became the bride of William F. Ploch III of Birmingham in a single-ring ceremony at St. Mary's Church at 11 a.m. Sept. 4.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Gibbons of 1402 S. Bridge St., Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ploch Jr., 2753 Broadway, Birmingham, Mich.

Approximately 250 guests witnessed the ceremony performed by the Rev. Francis Denay in a setting of white gladiolus and white asters.

THE BRIDE wore a white tulle de sole gown, with hand-beaded bodice, empire style, with a round train. Completing the costume was a lace cap with veil from her paternal grandmother. She carried a bouquet of white anthurium and orchids.

She was given in marriage by her father.

Wedding music, including "Our Father" and "Ave Maria" was provided by Mrs. G. Gelken and Mrs. F. Oleksy.

Maid of honor was Susan Battiste, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Judy Gibbons, Patricia Au Claire, Geraldine Stewart and Margaret Ploch.

They wore yellow empire-style floor length dresses with matching veils and accessories. They carried birds of paradise in ivy clusters.

MARGARET Gibbons was flower girl. She was dressed identically to the bridesmaids. Robert Woodrow Jr. was ring-bearer.

Best man was John B. Brown and ushers were Nicholas Bodor, Dennis Gorman, George Harris and Peter Gibbons.

Mrs. Gibbons wore a green lace dress with matching accessories and Mrs. Ploch wore a blue lace dress with matching accessories.

A reception followed the ceremony at This Ole House near Petoskey.

AFTER A ten-day wedding trip to Murray Bay, Quebec, the Ploches will return Sept. 15 to make their home in Detroit.

For traveling, the bride wore a mustard colored suit with matching suede coat and matching suede accessories.

The bride attended St. Francis High School in Petoskey and the University of Detroit. The groom attended Berwick Academy and North Central Michigan College at Petoskey.

Miss Roberts Wed In Church Rites

Miss Arlyle Roberts of Charlevoix became the bride of William Koehler of Detroit in a double ring ceremony at the First Methodist Church in Charlevoix Aug. 23.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bertha Roberts of Charlevoix and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Koehler of Detroit.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Leona Winegard before an altar decorated with white gladioli. Two hundred guests attended.

The bride wore a white sculptured brocade floor length gown, with wattleau chapel train, and a crystal crown, shoulder length illusion veil. She carried one white rose.

MISS ROBERTS was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. James Roberts of Clarksville, Ark.

Matron of honor was Mrs. James Schrandt, sister of the bride, from Lansing. She wore an A-line, aqua blue street length dress, a matching bow headpiece and a corsage of pink pom-pom mums.

Bridesmaid was Mrs. Fred Joliffe, a sister of the bride, from Grand Rapids. Her costume matched that worn by Mrs. Schrandt.

Best man was Kenneth Garner of Detroit, the groom's brother-in-law, and the groom's nephew, Harold Smith, of Detroit was groomsman. Ushers were Charles Lehman, brother-in-law of the groom, from Detroit and Carlyle Roberts, brother of the bride, from Ottsville, Mich.

Mrs. Roberts wore a pink suit and a corsage of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue brocade dress and a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

MRS. JASPER Warner, Mrs. Charles Lehman, Mrs. Kenneth Garner, Mrs. Carlyle Roberts and Mrs. Jack Roberts assisted at a reception immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors.

Organist for the ceremony was Mrs. Leonard Burns and Del Terrell was soloist.

The New Mrs. Koehler is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and Central Michigan College. She will teach 5th grade in St. Clair Shores this year.

The bridegroom is a Detroit city fireman. After a short wedding trip, he couple will live at 15675 Manning St., Detroit.

VFW Auxiliary Launches Drive for 1966 Dues

Charlevoix VFW Auxiliary Post 1153 held its regular meeting, with Mrs. Louis Skel, senior vice president, conducting.

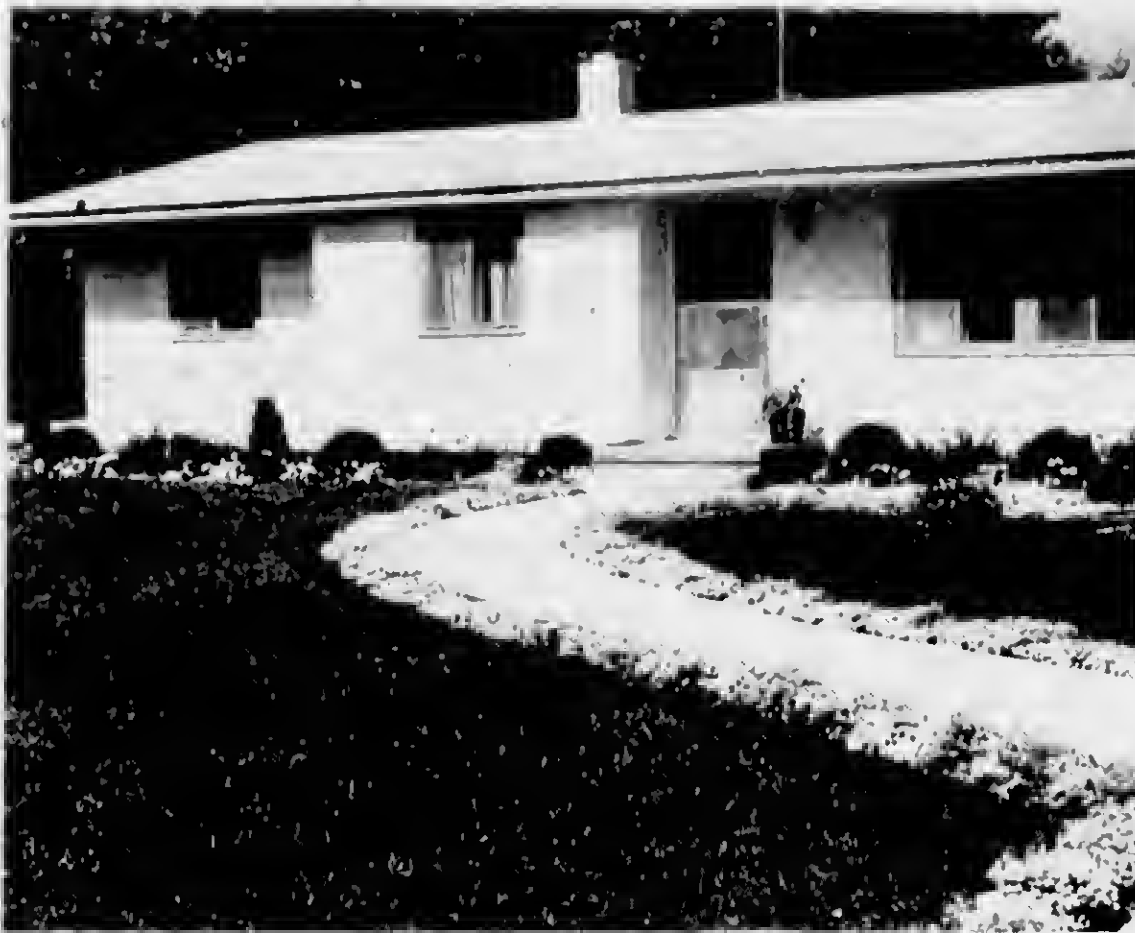

Membership drive motto: Blast off for the 66 Membership Race—Make it 100 per cent for a walk into space.

Mrs. Mary Howe was the first member to pay her 1966 dues. Mrs. Harley Warner volunteered to be chairman of a White Elephant sale at the Post Home Friday and Saturday, Sept. 17 and 18 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Anyone having articles to donate may call her at LI 7-2530 for pickup or call Mrs. Kenneth Staley, LI-7-2985.

The social meeting will be Sept. 16 and members will prepare for the sale.

Two books were put in the library in memory of Mrs. Mollie Dixon and Mrs. Myrtle Zilka. They are, "Haunt of High Island" and "The Black Phamper", both by Mrs. Arthur Weststaff of Charlevoix.

A membership social will be held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Colbert, 209 Antrim St., on Friday, Oct. 1. This gives every one a chance to visit, have a cup of tea, and pay their dues.

"BALANCED" is the way the Charlevoix Garden Club describes the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Martin who live at the corner of Cherry and Central Avenue. The Martins received the club's rotating garden plaque for two weeks. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Miller of 105 W. Carpenter St. and to St. Mary's Church and School.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Palmer arrived last week from Benton Harbor to spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Paolone.

Mr. and Mrs. Claire C. Martin and sons, C. T. and Kevin, left Saturday on a week's trip to the Thosston district of Ontario.

Paulette Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Hansen, was at St. Mary's lake

Vanderwall Gets AF Scholarship

James M. Vanderwall of Ironton has received word that he has been awarded one of the first Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) scholarships offered under the ROTC vitalization Act of 1964. The scholarship will pay for Vanderwall's books, tuition, and lab fees at the University of Michigan.

A 1963 graduate of Charlevoix High School, Vanderwall is a junior majoring in bio-chemistry.

He plans to spend sometime in the Air Force after graduation.

His sister, Carolyn, a graduate nurse, recently starting doing research into the disease phenylketonuria (PKU) at U. of M. The disease results in mental retardation unless discovered in infancy.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall of Ironton.

New Services Ready for Local Schools

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District will have several new services to offer local schools when classes start this month, Superintendent Charles A. Robinson reports.

Wes Fleet will serve as a full-time vocational education consultant. Fleet served last year on a part-time basis to help coordinate and promote the establishment of better vocational education programs. He has both a bachelor's degree and a masters' degree from Michigan State University.

FLEET was one of 20 persons selected to attend a leadership development project at the University of Michigan during the summer of 1964, giving him background for assisting in developing improved vocational programs. He comes to the Intermediate District from the East Jordan School where he has served as instructor for the past several years.

Charles E. Crosser, who has taught in Petoskey Schools but more recently served as teacher-principal at Walloon Lake, has joined the staff of the Intermediate District. Crosser will be general education consultant and will work on improving mathematics programs.

HE HAS a bachelor's degree from Ohio State University and a master's of education from Bowling Green State University in Columbus, Ohio. He holds both elementary and secondary permanent Michigan certificates and has had considerable experience as a teacher and administrator.

Don Fuller, a graduate of Michigan State University with a masters degree, will head up the diagnostician program.

Fuller has completed most of his work toward a doctor's degree, and is a fully qualified school psychologist. He served in the Shiawassee Intermediate School District last year and taught during the 1965 summer session at Northern Michigan University at Marquette.

He will teach a credit course for Central Michigan University beginning Sept. 20 at North Central Michigan College entitled, "Adjustment of the Mentally Handicapped."

MRS. DON Fuller is a native of Australia where she completed her undergraduate work at the University of Queensland. She earned her masters degree at Michigan State University. She also taught at Northern Michigan University this summer and will serve the intermediate school district as a school diagnostician.

Miss Mary Scovill, who has been associated with the Petoskey Area Child Guidance Clinic for the past several years, will also be employed part-time as diagnostician serving the local schools.

Miss Scovill is a graduate of the University of Michigan and received her masters degree from Ohio State University.

Before and during her years at the clinic she worked with children who are mentally handicapped.

MISS SCOVILL has been a strong supporter of privately operated schools for trainable children in the Petoskey and Charlevoix centers. In fact, most of the students have been examined by her.

Lee H. Janesen will continue his work as Type "C" consultant and Coordinator of special services.

Margaret Laseter and Doris Lundtgen will continue as speech correctionists serving the Boyne City, Charlevoix and Antrim areas respectively.

FLOWER BASKETS along Bridge Street have kept blossoming all summer, thanks to the efforts of Don Potter. Using a hand pump with a long hose, Don waters the flower baskets every other day, "unless it rains." He says it takes him about an hour and a half to care for all the baskets on Bridge Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Blair arrived last Wednesday from Charlotte to spend several days with Mrs. George Gladis.

Elaine Martin Leaves Sept. 16 to Study Abroad

Elaine Martin of Charlevoix is among 180 juniors participating in Kalamazoo College's foreign study program.

Scheduled to sail Sept. 16 from Montreal on the ship "Franconie," she plans to spend six months at the University of Bonn, Germany, and to return to Kalamazoo College next spring. She is taking courses on campus this summer and getting ready to study abroad by attending special orientation sessions.

Miss Martin's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, 304 E. Dixon.

The foreign study program is part of Kalamazoo's plan for year-around education. A junior may spend from one to three quarters studying for credit in one of the College's 15 overseas university centers.

This fall, Kalamazoo students will be enrolled for classes in five European countries; South America; Lebanon and Turkey in the Near East; Asia; East and West Africa.

The Kalamazoo College program also includes a career-service quarter for sophomores and an independent research project for seniors.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKenzie and family returned Saturday from a week's vacation trip through the Upper Peninsula.

Convert your home or business to economical Natural Gas heat today and pay nothing until July 1, 1966.

Convert now to Gas heat and Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will buy your unused oil or coal—even remove your oil tank—all at no cost to you. What's more, whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we'll pay the bill. And all you pay us, between now and next July, is for the Gas you'll use to make this your most comfortable winter ever. Here's how this special limited-time offer works:

1. If you're now heating with oil, we'll buy what's left in your storage tank—at the price you paid for it. What's more, we'll remove your tank from your home or business and even haul it away if you want. All at no cost to you.
2. If you're now heating with coal, we'll take what coal you have on hand, off your hands. And pay you whatever it cost you originally.
3. Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we'll pay for it and its installation by a qualified heating contractor, and it won't cost you a penny until next July. You can pay for the unit and its installation on July 1, 1966 with no carrying charge whatsoever. Or if you prefer you can make equal monthly payments including carrying charges on your Gas bill over a period of up to three years after July 1, 1966. Either way, there are no carrying charges between now and next July, and you need make no payments between now and next July. If you live in the areas we serve in the counties listed below, you're entitled to take advantage of this special limited-time offer. So act now. Autumn Will Bow Officially Sept. 23

The sun will arrive at the annual equinox at 1:06 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 23, marking the opening of the fall season, reports University of Michigan astronomer Dr. Hazel M. Losh.

This is the day the sun rises and sets at the east and west points of the horizon, and the day and night are said to be of equal length.

Actually, however, the atmosphere causes the sunlight to be bent, so that it appears "lifted," and visible before coming over the horizon, and after setting. Not until Sept. 26 will the decrease in the length of the sun's being above the horizon balance this atmospheric effect, and day and night appear equal. From then on, the day will steadily grow shorter, Dr. Losh says.

THE SHINING Harvest Moon will be a highlight of September. The full moon is scheduled to occur at 6:32 p.m. Sept. 10.

What causes this beautiful traditional moon to appear larger than usual and take on a reddish appearance near the horizon? "This is due to the condition of the Earth's atmosphere, and not to the moon itself," explains Dr. Losh.

The molecules of the air and the suspended dust particles scatter the light--the blue considerably more than the red. When the Moon is at low altitude, its light rays, passing through more atmosphere than when near the zenith, are stripped of most blue rays, leaving the red to predominate. Hence, the reddish appearance.

ALSO, at this time of year, a "greater dustiness prevails in the air." The apparently large size of the full moon near the horizon is considered an optical illusion, says Astronomer Losh.

Four bright planets may be seen between sunset and midnight; Venus, outstanding after sunset; rising in the east as the sun sets is Saturn; Red Mars, located halfway between Spica and Antares; and Jupiter, quite bright, rising toward the northeast about 11 p.m.

Three autumn constellations, linked by Greek mythology, will rise in the east and northeast: Perseus, the hero; Pegasus, the winged horse; and Andromeda, the daughter of King Cepheus and Queen Cassiopeia of Ethiopia.

This is the number to call today to save money on fuel oil all winter!

Look at it this way. If you have not been using golden Superheat, you've probably been spending too much to heat your home. Superheat, alone among all the fuel oils you can buy, is "electrofined" to burn cleaner and hotter than any fuel oil ever has before. And that means you get more heat, better heat, with lower heating bills for the season. Switch to Superheat today...and you'll save money all winter!

Ironton Group Presents Last Puppet Show

Forty persons attended a puppet show at the Harold Miller home in Ironton Aug. 25 put on by the Ironton Players.

Three skits were presented. The first was called "A Ghostly Teenage Dance," inspired by the cometary-prowling antics of some Ironton teenagers this summer.

The second skit was a contemporary "Red Riding Hood," and the third was called "Black Ralsin."

Herb Tedder, spokesman of the Players, said show was the last performance of the year for the group.

The organization has 10 members and has been putting on two or three shows a summer for the past six years. Scripts are written by members, usually satirizing happenings in the area.

Tedder says the puppeteers prefer to use a bar for a stage, because it is just the right height for viewing.

Sharing the Season's Bounty

There comes a time half way between the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving when the sun slips from sight even before the supper dishes are done and a chill in the air tells you that fall is at hand.

For the most part it is a pleasant time of year in Charlevoix, this interlude between summer and winter. In the gently rolling country outside the city, the Norway maples are a riot of reds and yellows as the harvest of another year is gathered in and farm kitchens from Norwood to Hayes Township breathe their own particular essence of chili sauce and tomato catsup.

IT'S ALSO A pleasant, exciting time of year in the towns and villages clustered in this corner of Michigan.

It's a time for getting the kids outfitted for a new school year, whipping the old bowling team into shape, having a look-see at the new cars, and launching a new season of civic and social activities.

It's also a good time for leisurely after supper strolls, visiting old friends, showing the youngsters how football was played when you were a boy and having the whole family over for Sunday dinner.

AND THERE never was a better time

Politics and Rubber Stamps

POLITICS is a funny business, and politicians are sometimes funnier than a crutch -- or a rubber stamp.

Take for example a press release received the other day from Paul A. Thels, Public Relations Director for the National Republican Congressional Committee.

The release came on heavy bond stationery with an impressive red, white and blue letterhead that made us want to stand up and salute somebody.

"FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE" was printed urgently in capital letters across the top of the page. Then the handout proceeded to light into 11th District Congressman Raymond Clevenger, Michigan Democrat.

"The Republican Congressional Committee pointed out to 11th Mich. District voters today that ratings by an independent, highly-respected research service showed that their freshman Democratic Congressman is a 100 percent rubber stamp for Lyndon Johnson.

"The Committee referred to a study just published by Congressional Quarterly, a research service for newspapers and libraries, and scholars, which shows that Congressman Raymond Clevenger voted 100 percent for key White House bills.

"The Committee stated: 'We expect that many Democrats would show some loyalty to the man upon whose coattails they rode into office. But the United States Congress has a long and important history of asking probing questions, dissecting bills from the White House and exercising oversight of the executive branch. Democratic Congressmen such as Clevenger have voted time and time again to have Congress abdicate its responsibilities to the White

A Record Worth Noting

The 1964 Traffic Accident Facts booklet prepared by the Michigan State Police puts Charlevoix County in a unique category.

Charlevoix was the only one of Michigan's 83 counties which did not have a single traffic fatality last year--an enviable record when one considers that such relatively unpeopled areas as Gogebic, Iron, Baraga, Montmorency, Kalkaska and Misisaukee counties had one fatality each. Deadliest county from the standpoint of traffic fatalities was Wayne which chalked up 465. Runners up were Oakland with 200 and Genesee with 90.

UNFORTUNATELY, Charlevoix's spotless record last year will not be repeated in 1965. Sheriff Glenn Rose says four highway deaths already have occurred in the county this year, with almost four months to go.

The 47-page State Police booklet is jam-packed with information about accidents and how and when they happen. Last year, 2,120 persons were killed and 144,623 injured in 284,444 reported to open your heart---and your pocket-book---to help the Community Chest help those who otherwise would not share in the bounty of the season.

They are the crippled children who rely on your assistance just as surely as they do a crutch or a brace.

They are the friendless elderly people who have nowhere to turn in time of need.

They are the underprivileged boys who might never know what it feels like to make a touchdown or emerge victorious in a touch-and-go softball game.

They are the strangers to our shores who need a helping hand until they become established in their adopted country.

THEY ARE the blind who never again will thrill to the reds and yellows of a Norway maple in the fall.

There are just a few of the hundreds of people in the Charlevoix area who are leading more healthy, enjoyable and worthwhile lives because you cared enough to contribute to the Community Chest last year.

The need this year is greater than ever before.

Think it over, and be ready to do your share when a Charlevoix Community Chest solicitor knocks on your door this month.

House.

"The Committee statement continued: 'We do not believe that people in any district in the Country want a 100 percent rubber stamp. Democrats and Republicans alike want a Congressman who will think for himself. Unfortunately, Congressman Clevenger has shown little evidence that he will ever vote against the White House.'

THE FUNNY PART of the whole GOP attack is that the press release itself was mimeographed, with appropriate blanks for the congressman's name and home district. In other words, Clevenger wasn't the only Democratic congressman chastized by this particular GOP broadside.

And look who's accusing who of being so free and easy with the rubber stamps!

It's such clumsy propaganda attempts as this that make editors take a dark view of politics generally. What low opinion must politicians have of newspapers to try to pawn off such balderdash as news, or even as editorial opinion?

IF ANYTHING, GOP publicists are doing their party a positive disservice by disseminating such drivel. If the GOP finds it necessary to attack the voting records of its opponents, we suggest they do it on an individual basis and deal with specific issues, rather than paint the entire opposition with one brush.

Better still, the GOP should come up with some constructive criticism on running this government of ours instead of wasting its time with political nit-picking.

No wonder bonafide Republicans are becoming harder to find on these shores than solid gold Petoskey stones.

motor vehicle accidents in Michigan. Deaths were up 12 percent over 1963, injuries 14 percent and reported accidents nine percent.

MOTOR VEHICLE registrations and licensed drivers also showed sizeable increases over the previous year. Registrations were up six percent to 3,860,791 and licensed drivers up two percent to 4,369,477.

Accident costs climbed to an estimated $380 million, well over $1 million a day--a 12 percent increase over 1963.

As grim as these figures appear, they aren't as bad as they might be. In fact, the police booklet says they actually show a reduction in traffic deaths over the years, when the number of miles driven is taken into account. In Michigan last year, the death rate per 100 million vehicle miles was 5.5. This compares with a whopping 16.8 in 1935.

State Police point out that if the 1935 death rate prevailed with the increased traffic today, Michigan could expect to count 6,430 fatalities on its highways each year, instead of 2,120.

odds

This summer I've had occasion to talk with a number of people who have been to Charlevoix for several years. One of the first things they mention are the changes. For those of us who live here the changes are gradual and we don't pay too much attention but for those who are gone they add up to quite a few when they return. One of the big changes they're noticing another year, if plans are followed, will be the houses on Michigan ave. that are to be razed to make way for a new motel.

I swear those houses were there when the early settlers came here. Almost, that is. The white house that I call the Hartmann house was, at one time, the Hampton house and was owned by the late Will Hampton, and early editor of the Courier, then known as the Republican. and he lived here in the 1890's. Then the middle house of the three, where all the traffic ends up in the yard when it fails to make the curve at Petoskey and Michigao, was once the Congregational parsonage. I'm told. The third one no one seems to remember. The others, tho', were among the first houses built north of Pine River. Since they're practically landmarks, Michigan ave. just won't seem the same without them.

Mrs. Henry Partridge who once lived at 304 Michigan ave. tells me that the Chapel house which was located between the Hartmann house and the parsonage and which was razed a number of years ago, was one of the early show places in the city. These changing times!

IT SEEMS as though more and more people are camping these days. Most of these hardy souls started out with the old tent and have now 'graduated' to campers or trailers. One of these families is the Bob Hooper family who once utilized their station wagon and a tent. which resulted in a very amusing story. amusing, that is, to everyone but Mrs. Hooper. Seems the family had arrived early in an upper peninsula park, pitched their tent and prepared supper. Came bedtime and it was decided that Mr. H. and Bob would sleep in the station wagon and Mrs. H. and young Peter would share the tent since it would be more comfortable. Everything was fine until the middle of the night when Mrs. H. was awakened. Looking out through the screen in the side of the tent she saw a black bear trying to pry its way in to their food chest. To say she was frightened would be the understatement of the year. She was almost afraid to breathe for fear the bear would hear her and try to make its way into the tent. Finally she decided that her husband must have been awakened for the bear was making more and more noise. and if the bear did try to enter the tent, her husband would immediately come to her assistance. Finally the black visitor gave up and ambled away. and when she thought the coast was clear she called to Bob only to find he'd slept through the whole incident.

AFTER THIS experience, she swore she'd never go camping again. But recently the family purchased a small trailer and this card from them while they were on a trip around Lake Superior brought the following message: 'We are staying at a Provincial Park a few miles from Silver Islet, Ont. We saw two black bear cubs dumping over trash cans before we were even settled last night. But I felt safe in our trailer! So if you're going camping in the wilds, be prepared for the friendly little visitors. LAST WEEK was postcard week. with my traveling friends remembering me. From New York a card from Mrs. C. D. Gelken and son, Gelk who were enjoying the sights of New York. and from the traveling John Dutchers who were enjoying a trip to Jamaica and Puerto Rico. where they'd visited Kingston, St. Thomas and San Juan and found them all picturesque, especially the latter two.

These lucky people. but it's nice to know I'm being thought of. even when they're traveling. Had a call the other night from a former resident, Mrs. Delbert Wales, the former Germaine Atchison, who called to tell me that her brother, Bradley, was ill and would love to hear from some of his old friends here. He'd been employed at Harper Hospital for 13 years before he became ill earlier this year and before that had spent a lot of time in the U.S. Army. He's now with her at 28225 Greening st., in Farmington where friends may write. So how's about dropping a card. It would mean a lot to him. The zip code, by the way, is 48024.

AND TO YOU football fans, don't forget that The University of Houston and Tulsa will clash on TV this Saturday (Sept. 11). You'll have a chance to see a team coached by a former Charlevoixan, Charlie Fairbanks in action.

The Courier Camera Goes to an Auction

THE CROWD started forming early in front of the former Houston home on Michigan Avenue. The sale started at 9:30 a.m. sharp and lasted until about 11 p.m.

There's something about an auction sale that gets people up and going on a Saturday morning. And the sale of the contents of three houses formerly owned by the G. B. Houstons on Michigan Avenue was no exception.

The houses have been sold to Ocean Lake, Inc., a development corporation owned jointly by Scott L. Hunter of Charlevoix, Donald H. Porrey of Fort Wayne and Hugh McCandless of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

BUYERS began showing up early for the auction, and by the time auctioneer David Matchett arrived in his traditional widebrimmed hat, hundreds of people were crowding the front lawns of the three houses, curiously examining items to be sold.

Pots and pans went first, then books and miscellaneous items before Matchett moved on to drygoods and larger household furniture.

By dusk, Matchett was still at it, and the crowd, although faces changed many times, was still with him. Bronzed summer people and year-round residents elbowed closer to look at each item up for bids, with lots of good-natured banter as offering after offering went home under somebody's arm or in the back of the station wagon.

"The end of an era," one elderly woman kept muttering as she pored through stacks of freshly laundered bedsheets and fluffy bath towels. But if eras must end, she seemed satisfied that they should bow out with an auction sale.

AUCTIONEER David Matchett holds forth on porch of Houston home while buyers bid from lawn below.

A PORCH FULL of floor lamps captured the attention of many shoppers.

A COUPLE of customers test dining room suite and take a break at the same time.

That's what studies have shown about the Classified page! Yes, the number of readers who read the "want ads" on the Classified page is equal to the number of readers of the front page. Don't you yourself look at the classified ads every issue? If you are one of the few who doesn't, you are missing both news and opportunity.

Service and News

The classified page provides both. The service of who has what for sale, rent or trade, for how much and where. The news that all advertising carries. . . about products, services, bargains. again in 15 or 20 minutes," LaBianca says. "If they had to find a table, then wait for a waitress, then wait to be served, it may take them an hour or longer."

WILLIAM WEST, proprietor of the Parkside Restaurant, also rang up a very good summer.

"We've got no complaints. In fact, we did much better financially than we did last year."

West says he believes he would have done even better if all the yachts which visited Charlevoix harbor had been able to find a place to dock.

"Several were turned away many nights in July, and a few even tied up in mid-stream," he said.

West plans to close Sept. 12 and reopen the third Sunday in June next summer.

MRS. FLORENCE DUNDAS, owner of Grey Gables, says she has had a good summer, but not exceptional because the weather has been too cold. Financially, 1965 wasn't as good as 1964, she says.

Mrs. Dundas says she has some redecorating ideas in mind for the lobby and dining rooms. The work will probably be done for three or four days in November. The Grey Gables bar will be closed November and March.

SPORTING GOODS and hardware merchant Clare Staley says 1965 has been one of the best years on record, although he still hasn't gone over his books.

Paint and sporting goods were the big sellers, although all lines were booming.

"As you can say this," he said, "fifty per cent of my summer business came off those yachts in the boat basin."

BOB LIEBERMAN, owner of Lieberman's clothing store at 215 Bridge St., says he had a "pretty good year, better than 1964." He said more transactions passed through town this summer, and thinks a good many of them were one-day visitors from mid-Michigan cities.

Lieberman also has added new fixtures and display tables this summer to better display merchandise, "but nobody knows how much good they've done."

BILL FOCHTMAN of Charlevoix Oil Co. likewise reports an increase in business over 1964. He said gasoline sales are definitely up, "and we have as much auto repair as we can handle."

Fochtmann attributes continued high new car sales through July to the generally brightening economic picture throughout the area.

All in all, Charlevoix's merchants are well satisfied with the season just ended.

Mrs. Bradley says plumbing was ripped from the walls, the stove and hot water heater overturned, 19 window panes were broken and six window shades were damaged.

Also damaged or missing were two chairs, a table, two floor lamps, one table lamp, part of a storm door, and two mirrors.

"IT LOOKS like the ironing board went right through one window," Mrs. Bradley said demially. The single bedroom also had been "cap-considered," the office said.

RUSS LEYMAN, superintendent of Butternut Dock and Dredge Co., said the roadway and pontoons would be used to fuel derricks and other dredging equipment.

"Without the roadway we would have to take our dredge into docking facilities in Charlevoix for re-fueling," Leyman said.

The roadway would be about 12 feet wide and extend about 480 feet into the lake. The pontoon breakwater would add another 320 feet to the temporary mooring facility, for a total of 800 feet.

Leyman said the temporary facilities would be destroyed when the dredging is completed.

Chest

"By giving once-for-all," Ager said, "the giver is assured that the money he gives buys services and isn't consumed in costly campaign expenses."

DONORS also have the assurance that their contributions will be split fairly among 50 participating community health and welfare agencies.

Ager is hoping this year that more businessmen will make a fair-share quarterly pledge, rather than one out-of-the-pocket contribution.

Industrial chairman James Richey is planning to call on all industrial plants in the area to explain the fair-share giving plan to employees.

Many larger companies make it possible for employees to give simply by signing a pledge card and having their contribution deducted regularly from their paychecks.

Richey said 25 cents a week may not sound like much of a contribution, but he pointed out that if all industrial employees in the Charlevoix area made such a contribution it would amount to four or five thousand dollars a year for the chest.

JOHN MICHAEL, professional division chairman, also will have his workers making calls the week of Sept. 13 to 18. In addition to professional offices, his staff will contact employees of schools, the hospital, post office, county building and city hall, and service personnel attached to the three Coast Guard units in town.

The following week, the women's division will make home calls to make sure that no one is missed. The success of the campaign depends on every family being contacted.

Funds for County

Education Act of 1965 is directed toward satisfying needs community Boards of Education are not able to meet with local and State resources.

The Act is aimed at making it possible for children from below average home environments to overcome this handicap.

Sometimes overlooked is the fact that children from relatively well-off families are also deprived of education advantages because the number of low-income families in the District dilutes the tax base, making it impossible for the school board to raise adequate funds.

PAROCHIAL schools are, also, often unable to provide such equipment and programs as are needed to prepare students for today's society.

However, the Act answers both of these problems by providing that programs it makes possible for school districts with low-income families will be shared by students from all income levels as well as parochial school students.

Commenting on the act, Congressman Raymond Clevenger said:

"Nearly 200 years ago we declared to the world not merely our independence but, also, our resolve to govern ourselves so as to guarantee all Americans equality of opportunity to pursue happiness and self-fulfillment. Today, through local, State and Federal activity in education, we are constantly re-affirming our dedication to this goal. History will record the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 as one of our noblest examples of this dedication.

"Title Two of the Act allocates funds for establishing a school library, improving an existing library, purchasing textbooks and other instructional materials.

"Educational specialists have pointed up the growing importance of well-stocked libraries, audio-visual materials and up-to-date textbooks and materials.

"For instance, where there are central libraries in elementary schools, research has found children not only read more but show significant educational gains between the fourth and sixth grades. Despite this evidence, many of our schools have been financially unable to provide libraries for elementary students.

"Due to financial hardships of the school board and parents some school districts also find it impossible to provide the best in contemporary textbooks for their children."

"The growing need for specialists and technicians in the labor force will be aided by Title Three of the Act. This section makes funds available for such things as special instruction in science, remedial reading, languages, music, the arts and guidance counseling.

"Educators have found these programs are often the difference between a poor school and one that prepares students to take their place in society as responsible citizens."

"There are other phases to the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. But these are the ones that will primarily benefit my Congressional District."

SUPERINTENDENT Russ Leyman of Bultema Dock and Dredge Co. donned bathing suit help position pontoon. Here he adjusts huge target which acted as guide for tug North Shore.

1st Pontoon Sunk Off Medusa Site

The first gigantic steel-pontoon which will serve as a dredge refueling platform during construction of the Medusa Cement Co. plant at South Point was sunk Sept. 13.

The huge wedge shaped pontoon, more than 100 feet long, was towed to location early Monday by Forest Montgomery's tug North Shore.

On shore to assist in positioning the pontoon were Russ Leyman, superintendent of Bultema Dock and Dredge Co. operations in the area, and John Damvelt, owner of Marine Specialties of Muskegon.

LEYMAN constructed two huge "targets" along shore to help guide the pontoon into place. When it was close enough to shore, Damvelt ran out a steel cable from his truck winch to maneuver it into shallow water.

When Leyman was satisfied with positioning, the floating pontoon was held stationary by the winch and tug, while a pump on board began filling its water-tight chambers.

The pontoon is one of two which were brought up from Muskegon this summer and stored near Ferry Beach. Construction workers say they were last used to raise the stern of the cruise ship Aquarama for repair work at its Muskegon berth.

WEATHER conditions were perfect early in the day for positioning the floating tank. There was bright sunlight and a slight off-shore wind.

Montgomery attempted to bring out the second pontoon Monday evening, but a rainstorm and brisk wind off the lake forced him to turn around and take the pontoon back to its mooring place in Lake Charlevoix.

When the two pontoons are in place, Leyman said the area will be ready for the dredges to move in. Waste material will be deposited on the west side of the sunken pontoons until a ten-foot wide roadway is built out into the lake. Fuel tanks will service the dredges from the roadway and dock, eliminating the necessity of frequent trips into Charlevoix Harbor for fuel.

ELSEWHERE at the Medusa site, the John Strahan Company is making progress in the construction of the Medusa office building, although work was delayed last week by wet weather. Footings are just about poured, according to superintendent Joe Fox, and surface walls are going up.

Curtain walls will be of stacked concrete blocks and pre-cast concrete, he said.

Chest Reaches 21 Pct.

As of Sept. 11, $2,720.75 had been reported in the 1965 Community Chest campaign, according to Frank Bourgojn, chairman.

Bourgojn said this represents only 21.4 per cent of Charlevoix's goal of $12,709. He hopes to have the drive all wrapped up by the end of the month.

Final phase of the campaign will begin next Monday at 10 a.m. with a "coffee" in the Conference Room at the Weather-vane Terrace for all workers in the Residential and Outlying Areas divisions.

MRS. DAIRELL Dinwiddie, Residential chairman, reports that her area captains each will have a crew of volunteers making calls in their respective neighborhoods.

Captains are Mrs. Robert Cook, Mrs. Jack Grubbs, Mrs. James A. Novotny, Mrs. Bud Left, Mrs. Roger Pischner, Mrs. Ira Olney, Mrs.

Six Are Nominated as C. of C. Directors

SIX local businessmen have been nominated for openings on the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

They are Charles Carey, Carey Shoe Store; Bill Cooper, Manager of Oleeson's Super Market; Don Kowbel, Harbor Hardware; Al Smith, Texaco dealer; Larry Wallace, Shop of the Gulls; and Tom McDaniels, advertising manager of the Charlevoix Courier.

Three directors from this state will be elected to replace Robert Lieberman, Jack Erber and Thomas Loeb whose terms are expiring.

MEMBERS of the nominating committee were William Fochman, Fay Davis and Jack Erber. Further nominations may be made in writing signed by not less than ten members of the Chamber and filed at the Chamber office not later than Oct. 10, according to Archie Dayton, Chamber director.

Dayton said after Oct. 10, a full slate of candidates will be mailed to Chamber of Commerce members, to be followed by ballots which are to be marked, signed and returned to the Chamber office.

Dayton noted that the minimum membership investment allowing voting privileges was set at $30 at the beginning of the fiscal year. Membership investment must also have been paid in full for 1965 for voting privileges, he said.

AT A MEETING of the board of directors Sept. 7, an invitation was received from Muskegon Seaway Festival officials to send two members to a meeting in Muskegon to discuss the feasibility of co-operatively promoting a West Michigan "Chain of Festivals". The organization would promote an idea exchange on such subjects as future festival workshops, consolidated purchase of office works, unified publicity programs, joint use of parade TUG NORTH SHORE maneuvers huge pontoon into position off South Point. The sunken pontoon will be used as a refueling station during dredging of Medusa Harbor.

JOHN DAMVELT uses truck-mounted winch to help guide pontoon into place. Heavy steel cables were run out to the pontoon as it neared shore. Damvelt's specialty is laying submarine cable.

Courier Football Contest Starts With This Issue

The Charlevoix Courier kicks off the 1965 edition of its annual football contest with this issue. The prize is $10 a week.

Each week during the football season a page of display ads will list 18 college and high school football contests taking place across the country.

Clark Station Run by Larry Kaynor

The 992nd Clark Super 100 station has opened in Charlevoix.

The station is of the latest multi-pump architectural design, with wide driveways for customer convenience. It is located on U. S. 31, near south city limits.

Larry Kaynor, a native of Adrian is the new Clark dealer. Kaynor and his wife Lucille have two children, Lynette, 3, and Larry Lynn, 2.

They came to Charlevoix from Atwood in May, where Kaynor had been farming. Prior to opening the station.

Ad in Courier Finds Buyers for Fruit Jars

Mrs. Percy Woodcock of Route 3 Charlevoix had some surplus fruit jars for sale, so she ran an advertisement on the classified page of the Charlevoix Courier.

She reports that the paper was no sooner on the streets when all of her extra sealers were snapped up.

"I could have sold four times as many," she said. Why don't you give Courier classifieds a try the next time you want to sell or trade - or find homes for a basket of puppies.

To place your ad, simply telephone Liberty 7-8558, or drop it off at the Courier office, 101 Clinton St.

Hospital Will Be Rebuilt

The former Charlevoix Hospital on Huribut Street is being converted into apartments which should be ready for occupancy by the first of the year, depending on availability of labor.

George Banta and Tom Darnton of Lansing have purchased the property from Art Osborne of Charlevoix, who acquired it from the city about five years ago. Banta said he received word of F. H. A. approval of their purchase loan last Thursday.

He did not disclose the purchase price, but said the entire project, including remodeling, would cost in excess of $100,000.

THE BUILDING, which has not been occupied since the new hospital on Park Ave. was built 11 years ago, will house 11 apartments in all. A landlord's apartment and laundry room will be located in the basement. The first and second floors will have five apartments each.

Banta, who is in the real estate business in Lansing, said the apartments will have one bedroom each, wall-to-wall carpeting and will be equipped with stoves, refrigerators, disposals and freezers.

Major renovation of the property will take place before the apartments open, including a new heating plant and new plumbing and electrical wiring. Walls will either be replastered or paneled, Banta said.

Outside work will include application of new siding.

ALTHOUGH a target date of Jan. 1 has been set for completion of the project, Banta said the renovation work hinges solely on availability of labor. He said help of any kind has been hard to find. Banta said Pierson Spalding of Lovell's has been hired as superintendent of the project and that renovation should begin this Friday.

Darnton, co-owner of the new Hillcrest Apartments, works for Oldsmobile in Lansing and has a summer home on Lake Charlevoix.

Banta and Darnton have been negotiating the sale of the property for two years.

MAURICE FOSTER

Hawley Is Elected President of Bank

Charlevoix Mayor E. D. Hawley was elected president of the Charlevoix County State Bank at a meeting of the board of directors Sept. 7.

Hawley succeeds Robert Bridge who died July 28 after serving as president of the bank for 30 years.

In other action by the board of directors, Maurice J. Foster was promoted cashier, the position formerly held by Hawley.

Hawley has been associated with the Charlevoix County State Bank since moving from Central Lake to Charlevoix as a teller in April 1936.

HE WAS promoted to assistant cashier in January, 1937, cashier in January, 1938, and was elected a director in January, 1939.

A native of Aiden, in Antrim County, Hawley is a graduate of Aiden High School and attended Ferris Institute one year.

He married in 1938 and has two children: a daughter, Mrs. Ann Genia and a son, Tom, a sophomore at Ferris Institute.

FOSTER was graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1936 and attended Western Michigan University one year and Mahers Business College in Kalamazoo one year.

He worked as a ships clerk on lake boats and for a meat packer in Chicago before joining the Navy during World War II. He served his enlistment in Chicago, Detroit, Sault Ste. Marie, and Panama.

After the war he worked for a plumbing and heating concern in Kalamazoo for two years before joining the Charlevoix County State Bank in 1948 as a bookkeeper. He later became teller and assistant cashier.

Foster has four children. Bob is a senior at Charlevoix High School. Sue attends St. Francis High School in Traverse City and May and Linda are students at Immaculate Conception grade school in Traverse City.

To Host Autumn Boaters

The Grand Rapids Power Squadron will sponsor a motorboat cavalcade along the shores of Lake Charlevoix Oct. 1, 2 and 3 -- the first water-borne color tour in the area.

Don Seelye who is handling arrangements at this end, said as many as 140 boats, carrying upwards of 500 persons, will probably take part in the outing.

PURPOSE of the color cruise is to give boaters an opportunity to see the panorama of fall colors along the shores of Lake Charlevoix, Seelye said. The Squadron has held color tours on other lakes, but never before on Lake Charlevoix, he added.

Boaters may launch their craft beginning at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Ferry Avenue ramp. Registration begins at 9 p.m. in the squadron's host room at the Weather-vane Terrace.

School, Football Bow In

This is a busy week for Charlevoix students.

Monday a record 1,215 attended public school classes for the first day of the new school year.

Friday the Charlevoix football squad will tangle with the Rogers City team for the first game of the season.

Superintendent Rex E. Milligan says that first-day registration figures show 554 students are enrolled in the Junior - Senior High School, and 661 in the elementary school.

Milligan said enrollments in all three schools were higher than last year, when 536 were enrolled in the Junior Senior high school and 616 in the elementary school.

At St. Marys Parochial School enrollment is 142, down nine from the 151 enrolled last year, according to Sister Martin Porres, principal.

Charlevoix has 1,357 youngsters in all enrolled in public and parochial schools this year.

The first day at the Junior-Senior High school started with an assembly.

As for Friday's non-conference game, Coach Don Carey says he has not yet picked a starting line-up, but indicates they will come from the following players:

Ends: Jack Bergmann, Steve Ager, Gary Kanoff or Stuart Cunningham; tackles: Neil Cross, Bob Holtzman, Joe Thorp, Terry Ormsby and Roger Grunch; guards: Orlin Cunningham, Aaron Brock, Bernie Ward and Floyd Parsons; and centers, Jerry Meggison, Tom Peters and Paul Martin.

HUNDREDS of Junior-Senior High School students assembled in gymnasium for opening-day assembly on Monday.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

Have you ever noticed that the water level in Lake Charlevoix changes from day to day? Some days this summer I have walked out to the diving raft and the water has only been just over my shoulders. Other times I have had to start swimming a good five feet from the raft, because the water was over my head.

The other day I asked Lt. Cmdr. Dale Foster, skipper of the Sundew, if it was possible we have a moon tide hereabouts. He scoffed that notion in a hurry and said there are two reasons for varying water levels on Lake Charlevoix.

"The first is wind. A stiff wind from the west will push Lake Michigan water up the Pine River channels and into Lake Charlevoix," he said.

"The water builds up while the wind is blowing. Then when the wind eases off, the water finds its own level again."

THE SECOND phenomena which could cause a water build-up is known technically as a "seiche" (pronounced saysh) which is believed to be caused by atmospheric pressure. "When there is a high pressure center over one part of a body of water, the water will rise elsewhere," Foster said.

Webster's dictionary lists the word, calling it "an oscillation of the surface of a lake or land-locked sea that varies in period from a few minutes to several hours."

Foster seems to think the wind is probably mostly responsible for changes of water level in Lake Charlevoix. He said that when a west wind hits Lake Erie, for example, it can lower the water level at Toledo as much as eight feet.

He added that Coast Guard boats docked at Toledo often are forced to move further out the pier when a west wind rises just to keep enough water under the boat.

"Sometimes when it really gets bad, they weigh anchor and move out into the lake until the wind dies down and the water comes back."

ANOTHER PHENOMENA which has been bothering us also was explained away by the skipper.

"Why," we asked, "can we see Beaver Island and the Fox Islands on some days and not on others, even when the weather appears to be about the same?"

Foster said that on particularly clear days, light rays are refracted and the image of the islands seems to be lifted into the air. He said on Lake Superior he has actually seen a lake freighter looming in the distance like a ten-story building, when he knew for a fact that the boat was 50 miles away and he shouldn't be able to see it at all.

Weather conditions must have been just right for this particular phenomena on Labor Day. South Fox, North Fox and Beaver Island sat on the horizon—or slightly above it—like pieces of stage scenery brought out for the next act. They were never there before. They looked so close that if a moratorium on physical exercise hadn't been called in celebration of Labor Day, I might have tried to swim out and have a look around.

Here is a cryptic little message which arrived in the mail last week in a brown Internal Revenue Service envelope. It is only four lines long and printed on a scrap of paper so small it shows someone in government is interested in conserving stationery. It reads in its entirety:

STILL MISSING after three weeks is Richard Mayer, owner of "Your Country Cousin's Inn" in Boyne City. On Aug. 25 Mayer parked his car at the foot of Antrim Street in Charlevoix, rented an out-board motorboat from Ward's boat livery and never returned. The boat, containing his hat, sun glasses fishing pole and a bobber, was found the next day about noon beached at North Point in Lake Michigan.

Flu May Increase in U.S. This Year

There may be an increase in influenza in the United States next winter, although proper immunization would protect many, according to the American Medical Assn.

The forecast for the coming season is based on the two to three-year periodicity of the disease, the AMA says. The last major outbreaks were in 1962-63, and, on the West Coast, in 1963-64.

Immunization is particularly recommended for certain high risk groups. These groups include:

--Persons at all ages suffering from chronic disease, such as rheumatic heart disease, other heart and circulatory problems, respiratory ailments such as asthma and emphysema, and diabetes.

--Persons in older age groups. Influenza deaths are higher in those past 45, and much higher in those beyond 65 years.

--Pregnant women.

--Patients in nursing homes and chronic disease hospitals.

VACCINATION should begin in September and ideally should be completed by mid-December. There should be two doses, about two months apart, to provide full protection. However, the interval can be reduced if an epidemic threatens.

Maximum immunity comes about two weeks after the second dose. Those vaccinated within the past two years will need only one booster dose this fall.

The vaccine in common use this season offers protection against five different types of virus, all capable of causing influenza.

The vaccine will not insure complete protection against influenza, but it has shown for some years a marked degree of protection for a large majority of those who receive it.

Seems the water saturated husks keep the corn from burning, while it steams all the way through. The charcoal fire gives it the kernels a caramel flavor missing in bottled ears. Try some, but better plan on cooking twice as much as you ordinarily do because it goes so fast.

Wonder if this would apply to a cousin of mine in Trenon, Mich., who set out to make jelly every fall, but ended up with a cellarful of wine. Long about December the jelly would start "working" so he'd bottle it.

Came across a fine recipe for corn roasted in the husks. If you've a beach party in the offing. The secret is to soak the ears, husks, silk and all in water for several hours before roasting. Then place the unhusked ears over a bed of charcoal for 15 or 20 minutes, turning occasionally until the husks are nicely brown. Then husk it (being careful not to burn your fingers), slather it with butter, sprinkle it with salt and settle down to a corn feast like to nothing you've ever tasted before.

the Academic and God

The Great Teacher once said, when the fig tree buds it is spring. We might add, when the youngsters go back to school, it is fall. What a challenge back-to-school brings. It is time to learn more about math, and science, and citizenship, and God. How necessary to our American way of life are these basic requirements in our educational system. Our curriculum must include some precepts of Jesus if we are to have sufficient moral and spiritual stamina to endure. It has been said, education without a knowledge of God is dangerous. Our teachers, our preachers, and all loyal Americans should see to it that our basic education be broad enough to include both the academic and God. Of course our youngsters should be loyal to their colors, to their school, but they should also be faithful subjects of the Great God. They should worship in church every week.

Jon Stewart Claims Bride in Quiet Rite

In a quiet ceremony solemnized Wednesday morning, Gloria Lanoo of Holland became the bride of Jon A. Stewart.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Lingers of Sunset Beach Road, Amherstburg, Ont., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Stewart of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Leona Winegarden officiated at the ceremony in the presence of the immediate family. Arrangements of seasonal flowers and lighted tapers formed a setting for the early morning service.

THE BRIDE selected a light blue linen sheath, matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and sweet-peas for her wedding.

Mrs. Lyla Arvilla, aunt of the bridegroom, was her only attendant.

F. James Stewart assisted his brother as best man.

After a wedding trip to southern Michigan and Ontario, the couple left Monday for Marquette where both will attend Northern Michigan University.

Cheri Taylor Wed in Candlelight Rite

Cheri Marlene Taylor of Ellsworth exchanged marriage vows with Jerry Dwayne Holley of Boyne City Sept. 3 at 8 p.m. at the Atwood Reformed Church.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ronald Vander Werf amid a setting of lilies, pompoms and gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Taylor of Ellsworth and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Holley of Boyne City.

ABOUT 300 guests witnessed the double ring ceremony. Miss Sharon Drenth of Ellsworth was organist and Mrs. Robert Klooster of Norwood sang "This Is the Day" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess styled gown of peau de sole satin with bracelet length rosepoint lace sleeves, rosepoint lace inset and applique at the scoop neckline, and appliques on the full skirt, which ended in a modified train. A matching lace finger tip mantilla completed her costume. She carried a bouquet of white cataya orchids, stephanotis and lily.

MAID OF HONOR Marybeth Wallick of Ellsworth wore an empire formal of petal pink peau de sole satin with burgundy velvet bodice and a headpiece of matching pink. She carried chrysanthemums, pink to burgundy in color. Bridesmaid were Miss Andrea Wiggers of Arlington, Va., and Miss Amy Kramer of Greenwich, Conn. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Barbara Small of Pontiac. All three were dressed like the maid of honor. Flower girl, Jacqueline Taylor of Saginaw, wore a white organza party dress with white accessories.

Donald Jergens of Petoskey was best man and groomsmen were Morry Taylor, Fred Taylor, and Arthur Miller of Ellsworth, and Harold Holley and Dan Coutant of Boyne City. Larry Taylor of Ellsworth was ring bearer.

ALL THE men in the wedding party wore continental tuxedos. Mrs. Taylor wore a street length modified sheath dress of magenta lace over taffeta with magenta and beige accessories. Mrs. Holley wore a light blue street length dress with navy accessories. They wore corsages of cataya orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Shanty Creek Lodge, Bellaire, the Leonard Stanley Trio of Detroit providing entertainment. After a wedding trip to Wisconsin, the couple will live in East Jordan.

The new Mrs. Holley is a 1965 graduate of Ellsworth High School. The bridegroom, a 1963 graduate of Boyne City High School, works for Morwell Steel Products Corp., Ellsworth.

Linda Nowland returned to her studies at Central Michigan University Sunday after spending the summer here. Her brother, Don Nowland, took her to Mt. Pleasant after they had visited friends in Lansing. He plans to fly East for a visit before returning here.

License Plates

Net $75 Million

Revenue from license plates has already hit the $75-million mark for the year with four months left in the current licensing year.

According to reports issued by Secretary of State James M. Hare, the first eight months revenue from last Nov. 1 have already resulted in a hike of $3.1-million over last year's fees.

Licenses issued numbered 4130,081, an increase of about 200,000, Hare said. He expects that nearly 4 1/2 million vehicles will be licensed before the close of the licensing year if "our current rate of growth keeps up and the auto industry continues its peak sales."

Talk of the Town

Patti Penn left Sunday for Mt. Pleasant where she will begin her freshman studies at Central Michigan University. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Penn took her to Mt. Pleasant.

Yacht Is Donated to Sea Scout Ship

Charlevoix Sea Scouts now have a usable boat to call their own, thanks to the generosity of Clark C. Coulter of Charlevoix.

Coulter donated a 23 foot, 110 horsepower Chris-Craft, powered by a Chrysler engine, to Sea Scout Ship 211. The boat will replace "Our Son," which is docked at the Coast Guard station but hasn't been too useful to Ship 211 because of a balky engine.

Attending the presentation ceremony recently were Coulter, District Scout Commissioner Don Anders, Lt. Dave Smith of the Sundew, Skipper of Sea Scout Ship 211; Tom Loeb, commander of the Coast Guard auxiliary Flotilla; and Sea Scouts Roger Sharrow and George Loomis.

A change in the International "Rules of the Road" has been announced by the Charlevoix Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 16-2. Effective 1 Sept. 1965, "... in a narrow channel a power driven vessel of less than 65 feet in length shall not hamper the safe passage of a vessel which can navigate only inside such channels", and "due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstance, including the limitations of the craft involved, ... to avoid immediate danger."

Although this change does not technically apply, as yet, to the Great Lakes, a "General Prudential Rule" supports the common sense procedure of a small maneuverable craft not harassing a large or encumbered vessel.

What this means, according to Commander Tom Loeb, is simply to keep out of the way of freighters, tankers and tugs without regard to such concepts as right of way and danger zones.

Insurance Agent Issued Camera

Tom Smith, State Farm insurance agent for the Charlevoix area, reports that his company has equipped him with a polaroid camera to help speed claims processing.

Smith said he will use the camera to get on-the-spot pictures at the scene of fires and accidents.

He also will take his own pictures of all property on which he writes insurance, speeding up the issuance of policies.

Bridge Tourney

The annual Round Robin Bridge Tournament sponsored by Christ Episcopal Church will begin Oct. 1. There will be flights for husband and wife teams and for women. Interested bridge players are asked to contact Mrs. Edward McNamara, 547-9763.

Michigan Ranks 37 in Traffic Deaths

Secretary of State James M. Hare said he was encouraged by Michigan's six-month traffic safety mark in fatalities, "which placed the state 37th in the country for deaths per miles driven."

"I'm happy with this phase of our safety program," Hare said. But he dimmed his optimism somewhat by citing some less encouraging aspect of the program.

"WE ARE prone to judge the success or failure of any traffic program by the number of people killed on our highways. But this is only one side of the coin. Accidents, personal injuries, and property damage are also very important. And they continue to rise."

Hare, who is chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, said the National Safety Council reported Michigan's more than 4 - million drivers had compiled a record of 4.2 deaths for every 100-million vehicles miles driven during the first six months of 1965, a "pretty good record and a decline of six percent."

"Although this is still much too high, it is an improvement over last year's horrible record which had us consistently around a mark of five deaths per 100 - million vehicle miles."

HARE SAID the rosy picture "pales even more when considered in the light of accidents, personal injuries, and accident cost."

"What we can't seem to get through is that $1 - million a day is being frittered away because of our carelessness on Michigan's roads," Hare charged.

During the first half of 1965, Michigan enforcement officials reported 68,880 personal injuries as a result of traffic accidents, an increase of nine percent over last year's total of 63,348.

Talk Town

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cummings and family and their son, Herbert, who is spending a month's leave from his duties at Columbus, Ohio, spent the Labor Day weekend at Seult Ste. Marie, Ont., where the latter participated in a motorcycle hill climb.

Nancy Snider has started her studies at Central Michigan University. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn B. Snider, took her to Mt. Pleasant Sunday.

"THIS IS rather tragic when considered in the light of the number of persons who are permanently disabled or badly hurt in Michigan accidents."

Death rate of 21.0 per 100,000 population also showed Michigan in a good light, 32nd in the country. Neighboring Great Lakes states had varying records. Indiana was 20 percent over last year and Ohio was 17 percent increased. On the other hand, Wisconsin had a nine percent drop and Illinois was one percent under 1964 totals.

What's more, whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we'll pay the bill. And all you pay us, between now and next July, is for the Gas you'll use to make this your most comfortable winter ever. Here's how this special limited-time offer works:

1. If you're now heating with oil, we'll buy what's left in your storage tank—at the price you paid for it. What's more, we'll remove your tank from your home or business and even haul it away if you want. All at no cost to you.
2. If you're now heating with coal, we'll take what coal you have on hand, off your hands. And pay you whatever it cost you originally.
3. Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we'll pay for it and its installation by a qualified heating contractor, and it won't cost you a penny until next July. You can pay for the unit and its installation on July 1, 1966 with no carrying charge whatsoever. Or if you prefer you can make equal monthly payments including carrying charges on your Gas bill over a period of up to three years after July 1, 1966. Either way, there are no carrying charges between now and next July, and you need make no payments between now and next July. If you live in the areas we serve in the counties listed below, you're entitled to take advantage of this special limited-time offer. So act now. Call your heating contractor or Michigan Consolidated Gas Company office today for details. Your local Michigan Consolidated office number is 347-8701 in Petoskey.

Hatchery Frees More Trout

A good many more lake trout passed over the Mackinac Bridge last week than swam under it, according to Galen Buterbaugh, officer in charge of the federally operated Jordan River Fish Hatchery at Alba.

Buterbaugh and his workers are completing the final 1965 phase of a gigantic effort to restock the waters of northern Lake Michigan with lake trout. The restocking program, which started to earnest last spring, is hopefully aimed at bringing back the lake trout as a sport and commercial fish.

THE ROAD back for the trout has been a difficult one. It disappeared from Lake Michigan waters in the 1950's due to the ravages of the lamprey and—this point is debatable—over-fishing by commercial fishermen.

Thanks to larvicides, the lamprey problem is almost under control Buterbaugh says. That's why the Department of the Interior, for whom he works, has gone ahead with a project to restock the lake with 1,300,000 lake trout this year.

THE LATEST batch has gone to the Upper Peninsula for release near the towns of Nautawaway and Epoufette, bringing to 850,000 the number of fish released in the extreme northern waters of the lake. Lesser numbers have gone to the Beaver Islands, Grand Traverse Bay and the waters off Keweenaw and the Door Peninsula in Wisconsin.

The trout measure about six inches long and are expected to grow about one-half inch a month on a diet of lake shrimp Buterbaugh said.

"This means they'll be 11 inches long in about two years and just about right for the sport fisherman," he added.

Trout planted from the Upper Peninsula shore all have had their left ventral (belly) fin removed surgically so the they can be readily identified when caught. The huge fin removal project was done with bone forceps by 16 local women, who handled from 70 to 800 fish a day.

Buterbaugh said the amputation is made close to the body and the fin will not grow back. An anesthetic quiets the fish during the operation.

THE FISH are transported to restocking areas in large tank-equipped trucks, capable of carrying 1,500 pounds of fish each. Because of the large number of fish, the water must be recirculated constantly with liberal amounts of oxygen added. The water is also splashed against baffles to rid it of harmful carbon dioxide gases.

In order to have the water in the tanks approximately as cold as the water in the lake, huge chunks of ice are carried in each tank.

GALEN BUTERBAUGH

Buterbaugh said without such precautions, an entire tankload of trout would die within minutes.

He said consideration also must be given to the time of day fish are discharged into the lake. Just before dark is the best, because that is when seagulls pose the least threat to the young fish. If seagulls spot the school of freshly-released trout, workers may fire a shot in the air but not at the fish, since they are protected by law.

THE JORDAN RIVER Fish Hatchery was opened a year and a half ago, after conservationists decided that Charlevoix was unsuited to the needs of the area. Chief drawback to the Charlevoix site was and is a supply of fresh water. Lake Michigan water is either too warm or too cold for trout, and an exposed water source is subject to contamination which could wreak havoc with a fish breeding operation.

The site at Alba was chosen chiefly because two fresh water springs gushing from a hillside supply the raceways with 6,000 gallons of water a minute, every drop of it in the proper mid-forties temperature range.

Trout spawn comes from the state-operated Marquette Hatchery which had the foresight to start a trout brood stock some years ago. Air is pumped into the body cavity of a female and the eggs are squeezed out into shallow pans and mixed with a drop or two of sperm from a brood male. The spawn is then shipped immediately to the various hatcheries because any jarring or bumping after the first two or three days can be disastrous to the eggs.

At the hatchery the eggs are placed in stacks of shallow trays and subjected to a constant flow of spring water. Dead eggs are removed from time to time, and after seven weeks the trout's eyes are visible through the transparent egg membrane. After two weeks they hatch, and the young trout survive for the next ten weeks on the yoke sack which remains attached to the body.

After 20 weeks, the trout are placed in inside raceways and are fed a carefully prepared diet of whitefish meal, vitamins and minerals. The size of the food pellets increases as the fish grow.

UNLIKE mammals which have a built-in mechanism which stops growth at maturity, trout keep growing as long as they live, although at a decreasing rate. Buterbaugh says the largest trout he ever heard of was at least 50 years old and weighed 100 pounds. It was caught in Great Slave Lake in northern Canada.

Buterbaugh says the Jordan River Hatchery is now developing its own brood stock, which should be ready to start reproducing in about four years. In order to assure a continuance of as many different strains of lake trout as possible, the federal government has assigned different strains to each of the various government hatcheries in the Great Lakes area.

THE STRAIN being developed locally comes from the Apostle Islands in Lake Superior, off the Wisconsin shore. Buterbaugh says there is no physical difference between trout, but that certain strains always tend to stay together.

"For example," he said, "you'd never find a strain from Traverse Bay ever mingling with a strain from around the Beavers."

He added that so far as anyone knows, all the former Lake Michigan strains are now extinct, and the government is hoping that foreign strains will thrive out of their natural habitat.

Buterbaugh says there is one sub-species of Lake Superior trout which has been hard hit by the lamprey, but no effort is being made to save it so far as he knows. It's called the Sticowet, a very fat fish which lives in deep water. He says he is so fat it doesn't even look like a trout and it's not very good eating.

Boys State Work Earns Recognition

Harry Pearsall, post commander of the Leslie T. Shapton Post of the American Legion, recently received a plaque in recognition of his efforts in behalf of Wolverine Boys State, Inc.

The presentation was made by Charles Taylor of East Jordan, Commander of the Lower 11th District of the Michigan Department, at a meeting of the local post.

Mr. Pearsall, who served as chairman of the Wolverine Boys State Committee of the Lower 11th District for the first time last year, was instrumental in recruiting a record number of high school age boys to attend the annual Boys State held under the sponsorship of the American Legion as part of its Citizenship program.

TWENTY-ONE boys, including three from Charlevoix, attended the week long Boys State session in Lansing in June. The quota for the six-county area was 15.

Representing Charlevoix at the event were Ted Weldman, Bruce Livingston and Paul Martin. Their trip was made possible through the support of the local Legion post, the Kiwanis and Lions Club and local businessmen.

Who Says the Season's Over?

ANOTHER Labor Day has gone by the board and frankly we're a little puzzled by all the activity in town. After all, this is a northern resort community where the season is supposedly as brief and predictable as the life span of a June bug. It arrives on the tail of a Fourth of July firecracker and bows out amid a burst of Labor Day oratory.

Yet somehow the word hasn't gotten around to the tourists. All week long they've milled up and down Bridge Street as though they didn't have a calendar to their name. Your life wasn't worth a nickel if you tried to jay-walk anywhere from South Hill to the drawbridge. And most days there wasn't a vacant parking spot in the first block of Clinton Street.

COULD IT BE that the old days of an eight-week season are over? Let's take a look at what's been happening around Michigan.

In the good old days (anything before World War II is good and old), the trip to Charlevoix from such metropolitan areas as Detroit and Chicago was a long and fatiguing one for the average motorist. Sometimes the trip took more than a day, traveling on gravel roads in vehicles which would break a spring or blow a tire at every fifth chuckhole. We recall one trip from Detroit to Roscommon during which we had to change four tires.

WINTER AUTO travel into the north woods in those days was unthinkable. So far as the people down below were concerned, nothing existed north of Bay City from December to May. It was a vast no-man's land, marked off with varying shades of forest green on the highway maps.

The only regular visitors to the north were those hardy winter sports enthusiasts who piled aboard "snow trains" before daybreak every Saturday morning to be whisked away to the land of evergreens. The picture postcard villages en route, waist deep in snow, were as remote from work-a-day Detroit as the Siberian hinterland.

IT IS NEEDLESS to point out that Michigan has shrunk several sizes since the good old days. Even a careful driver can make it from Detroit to Charlevoix in less than five hours on the state's fine network of super highways. And the automobile has come a long way from the horseless carriages of yesteryear.

As Bob Lieberman noted in last week's Courier, roads and automobiles are such that a good many visitors from southern Michigan cities seem to be finding their way to Charlevoix for one-day visits, returning home by nightfall.

Coupled with the fact that we have better roads and better cars is the equally important fact that we have more people. As the population of Michigan and the nation expands, it stands to reason that there will be more tourists among them. And as the economy keeps expanding, these additional people will have more money and more leisure to spend -- and what better place is there to spend either one than Charlevoix?

OF COURSE, not every one wants to take a vacation in the heat of summer. Too many offices, homes and automobiles are air conditioned. It's just too dang uncomfortable to leave the city in summer and risk sizzling to death in a stuffy motel room. Why not wait until September or October when the weather cools off?

There also seems to be a growing coterie of Americans whose vacations are not predicated upon sun and sand. They prefer listening to the crash of Lake Michigan breakers on a stormy autumn night, while they snuggle close to a roaring chimney with a hot toddy in one hand and a good book in the other. They are the people who find just as much beauty in the silhouette of a leafless maple as others do in the dappled shade of a beach umbrella.

ADD TO THESE the fact that northern Michigan in the fall is a kaleidoscope of color unmatched throughout the country; that our bird, small game and deer hunting are superb; that we have some of the finest skiing facilities and the best snow conditions in the world, and you've got a pretty good idea of what's in store for Charlevoix in the years ahead. Who knows? The day may soon come when our season will just be getting under way on Labor Day.

Our Hat's Off to Deano

WE HAD to wait until he left town, because we don't like to see grown men blush. The grown man we're referring to, of course, is Deano Davenport, the city's summer recreation director who left last week for his coaching job in California.

We don't intend here to dissect his excellent recreation program. Suffice it to say that it's one of the finest in the state, and other cities much larger than Charlevoix are still sending friendly spies around to see how Deano does it.

Perhaps the best known facets of the program are baseball and swimming which keep the young people of the city all lathered up from June until Labor Day.

ALTHOUGH they didn't receive quite as much publicity, Deano's tennis and track programs are entered into with the same boundless enthusiasm by youngsters who are interested in such things.

If any one thread runs through Deano's work, it is organization. Weather permitting, games start when they are supposed to and if a team is told to show up for a publicity picture at a certain time, everyone will be there, uniforms and all.

Deano also keeps records. Charlevoix's city recreation program is not just a one-shot deal. Deano's files on regularly occurring events such as the swimming and track meets go back to the early days of the program. Such continuity gives substance and stature to a program that in other cities is aimed chiefly at keeping the kids off the streets and out of Ma's hair.

A CHARLEVOIX youngster competing in one of Deano's events knows within seconds how he stacks up with other city athletes, past and present. It gives competitors something to shoot for, and it certainly must be gratifying to be city champ in some event, if only for one season.

On top of directing the athletic program, Deano also has been reporting recreation activities for the Courier. His column, "Circle the Bases," which concluded last week, was a succinct, easy-to-read chronicle of Charlevoix summer sports. With his knowledge and flair for writing, Deano would be an asset to any newspaper sports staff.

Deano had one regret when he left last week.

"We don't have anything for the senior citizens yet," Deano said on his last visit to the office. (How like Deano to call them "senior citizens" instead of "Old People").

What he has in mind is a senior citizens club which will provide social, recreational and educational experiences for Charlevoixians too old to swing bats or do the flutter kick. He'd like to get something started next summer, which will carry on of its own momentum throughout the year after he leaves.

And knowing Deano, you can be pretty sure that by this time next year, a Charlevoix Senior Citizens Club will be a going concern.

OF COURSE, the real secret of Deano's success doesn't lie in organization, or dedication or any of those qualities you could list or point to. Deano's a he-man through and through, yet there's a gentleness in his manner that can make the shyest, most awkward kid step up to the plate and do his darnedest. And it's surprising how well some real stumblebums do, with his kindly reassurance.

But, as we said, we had to wait until he left town, because we don't like to see grown men blush.

ends

A couple weeks ago I mentioned Echo II. . . Since then I've had more people tell me they've seen it and certainly wouldn't have known what it was if they hadn't read about it in this column. . . Others have looked for it and been elated when they found it. . .

Me? I've been looking and, thus far, have failed to see it. . . But since it's going to be visible for most of this month, I'm hoping. . .

Only one area resident has mentioned seeing the meteorite that many Northern Michiganders saw recently. . . Mrs. Carl Johnson was at the drive-in with her husband and some friends when she saw it.

Her first reaction was to say "What's that?" and by the time the others turned to look all that was visible was a fiery trail, for the ball of fire had already disappeared behind the trees. . . She said it looked almost like something that was "white hot" and seemed about as large as a basketball. . . It apparently wasn't too high for it seemed to disappear so quickly. . . It was later seen along Lake Superior where people reported that it seemed to drop into the lake. . . Mrs. Johnson said it was quite an experience but she wished the others had seen it. . .

I HAD the darndest thing happen to me last week. . . I received a folded card from a friend who was visiting the New York World's Fair. . . It was the type that folded over but was not sealed where the two edges came together. . . As I picked it up from the bundle of mail that happened to come that day, a picture postcard fell out. . . I turned it over to look at it and found that it was addressed to someone in Cincinnati and had been mailed at the Fair by a friend who was visiting New York. . . I bet the person on the receiving end is still trying to figure out how come she received the card postmarked Charlevoix, Michigan. . . One must admit strange things happen with the mail. . .

I THINK congratulations are due our softball team. Several of them went into the district tourney and made a fine showing. . . and one of the girls' teams went to the regional tournament at Manistee and they lost, they are to be commended for the team's made up of a group who play just for fun. . . I'm sure that when the season started the team members had no idea they'd end up in state competition. . .

Before he left, Deano Davenport, who does such a terrific job with the recreation program, and I were talking about the various phases of the program and how many people participate. . . Probably no other thing touches as many families as the various sports included in the program. . . The city's certainly to be commended for its efforts in making this available. . . And it's organized! . . .
